A Popular Roadway.

The streets that were recently oiled by the new steam process, are now as hard as cement and the general impression seems to be that in adopting modern methods the Council made a wise move.

Board Meets To-night.

The regular meeting of the Board of Educattion will be held to-night at 8 p.m. in the Public Library.

Houses Still Scarce.

Houses are still scarce in town and one family in search of a new residence has been obliged to rent a home situated two miles beyond the town limits.

Sale of Pulpwood.

Gordon Jones of Bancroft, has purchased from John Leffler and J. D. Dewey, whose farms are near Stanwood, about 200 acres of timber and which, it is estimated, will cut over 2,000 cords of pulpwood. The timber consists of popular, balm of gilead, basswood and some hemlock and eevrything that will not make obards is to be cut.

Operations have already started and over thirty men are employed cutting the pulpwood into four-foot lengths and peeling it. When the snow comes it will be moved by teams to Blairton station, a short distance from the bush, and from there will be shipped to a paper-making concern in Pennsylvania. There is no home market for this class of pulpwood and there never has been an embargo on its exportation, even when cut on Crown lands, as in the case of spruce, as no factory for its manufacture into paper is operated in Canada, although there is a prospect of such a plant being operated in Toronto.

There is considerable of this class of pulpwood in the vicinity of Stanwood and owners are watching with interest the bill now before the Dominion Parliament providing for an embargo on the export of pulp wood cut on the property of private owners, just as there has been for some years on spruce taken from land owned by the various Provincial governments.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. I am very much better and feel justified in praising the Vegetable Compound to my friends and neighbors who suffer from anything of the kind."—Mrs. WM. H. ADKINS, 311 Erin Road, Medina, N. Y.
Feels Like Girl Sixteen
Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me and I kept on taking it. I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking it, and I have gained in weight and feel like a girl of sixteen. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NELLIE DOREY, 16 Skuse Park, Rochester, N.Y.

Which Paint Stick Are You Using?
1 You can use the yard stick, and buy a paint because it covers so many square yards.
2 You can use the job stick, that tells you what the job will cost, but nothing about how long the paint will last.
3 Or you can use the paint-year-stick that measures a paint's wearing qualities and tells you how many years your building will be properly protected.
As for us, we use the paint-year-stick, because we have found out that length of service is the real measure of paint value.
Drop in and let's do a little measuring with this stick of ours and do a little figuring with that pencil of yours. Have a notion there's a surprise ahead for you.

From lips yet sealed: do they not speak?
And dost thou hear no voice to sing
My joy, my sadness, doth they keep?

ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION SHOWS A FALLING OFF

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—United States consumers of alcohol have had 250,000,000 gallons less during last three years of national prohibition, Commissioner Haynes said in statement issued to-day, that they had in previous three pre-volstead years. He reported that total withdrawals of alcohol whiskey and other spirits during these years of prohibition aggregated only 82,503,164 gallons compared with 338,060,418 gallons during three preceding years.

GOOD RED BLOOD A REAL NERVE TONIC

Weak, Watery Blood the Source of All Nervousness.

"If people would attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing the specialist spoke of is the nervous, rundown condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills enrich the blood, which tones the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SECOND AMERICAN PLEASURE CRAFT

The "Lunetta," with a party of twelve on board, negotiated the Lift Lock at eight o'clock this morning, and proceeded up to Stoney Lake. The advertising campaign of the Trent Waterways, and the exhibit made at the New York Motor Show, attracted to this region the owner, Colonel Slocoum, who professes himself much pleased with his trip so far.

FLOWING GOLD
RAX BEACH

COPYRIGHT 1923 BY REX BEACH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray, staying in Dallas at the most expensive hotel, is the avowed enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker. Gray is in love with Barbara Parker, daughter of Tom Parker. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Ma Briskow and daughter, Allegheny, to the mountains. Allie has a tutor, Mrs. Ring, also a professor to teach her dancing. The dancing master kisses Allie, who becomes enraged and throws him from a window. The hotel manager orders the Briskows from the hotel, but Calvin Gray arrives in time to arrange for the family to remain.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

CHAPTER XVI
Plots and Counter Plots

FROM the day of their first meeting, Henry Nelson and Calvin Gray had clashed. No two people could be more different in disposition and temper, hence it was only natural that every characteristic, every action of the one should have aroused the other's antagonism.

Following the departure of his two callers on that day of the meeting in the bank, Nelson closed his desk and went home. He could work no more. For several days thereafter he was an unpleasant person to do business with.

After cautious deliberation Henry sent word to one of his men in the Ranger field that he wished to see him.

The man came promptly, and when he left Henry Nelson's house after a conference he carried with him a perfectly clear idea why he had been sent for. This despite the fact that he had not been told in so many words.

So much accomplished, Nelson went to Dallas and there undertook to learn something about the size of Calvin Gray's profits, who was behind him and the extent of their backing, and what his prospects were.

When he returned home Gray was gone, whither he could not learn. As the days passed without further developments, Nelson began to believe that he had had a bad dream and that Gray had merely been talking to hear his own voice. He devoutly hoped that such would prove to be the case.

A time came, however, when his apprehensions were roused afresh, and it was Barbara Parker who rekindled them. She had come to the bank with an excellent proposition and was doing her best to sell it; in the course of her conversation she referred to Gray in a manner that gave Nelson cause for thought.

"I've looked this lease over," "Bob" was saying, "and I've seen the books. It has been producing a hundred and fifty barrels a day steadily. Production like that is cheap at a thousand dollars a barrel. It is worth a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, Henry."

"Why is it offered for seventy-five?"

"Bob" shrugged. "How did a 'boll weevil' like this Jackson ever make even a hundred-and-fifty-barrel well, in the first place? Where did he get the money to drill? He is sick of the game, I suppose, and would be satisfied to get his money back with a reasonable profit. It is a find, really."

"Looks so, for a fact. How did you get on to it, 'Bob'?"

"Purely by chance. Through a man named Mallow, a 'scientist' of some sort with a magic tester." The girl laughed.

"Don't know him."

"Mallow is as queer as the rest of his kind, and I put no faith in his story until I investigated. But the well is there and doing a hundred and fifty barrels as regular as clockwork."

"You'll have no trouble in selling it."

"Then you're not interested?"

"Interested? Yes, indeed." Nelson nodded. "I'm quite excited, as a matter of fact, but—I can't handle it at this particular time."

"Frankly, I'm glad you can't," Barbara told him, "for now I can sell it to Mr. Gray."

"He's buying and selling, is he? He said something about entering this field in a big way—"

"He's in." "Bob's" eyes were sparkling. "Oh, things are looking up for dad and me. Mr. Gray is a real miracle man, isn't he?" When this question evoked no response, the girl inquired, curiously, "Tell me, are you and he such good friends as he says you are?"

"Does he say we are good friends?"

"Um-m—well, he speaks admiringly of you, and if people admire me I love them. He thinks you are a remarkably capable person. 'A determined fighter,' I think he called you. That should be high praise, coming from a fellow officer. He probably outlined his plans to you."

"He did." Nelson spoke dryly.

"I assumed that he was relying on your judgment and taking your tips."

"Why? How so?"

"Because he has bought so much land alongside of yours."

"Where?"

Barbara was surprised. "I—why, I supposed you knew!" After a moment of hesitation she said: "I think I'd better keep my mouth closed. Just the same, he couldn't have done better than to follow your lead. That is the first compliment I ever paid you, Henry."

"I've paid you enough. And I do believe in you, 'Bob,' but I'm not the flattering kind. He's a great ladies' man. I wonder if he is going to make me jealous."

"You? Jealous? Coming from Wichita's most emotionless banker, from the cold county Croesus, that speech is almost a—a declaration." Miss Parker laughed frankly. "Why, Henry! My haughty little nose is turning up—I can feel it. But, alas! it proves your insincerity. If you had faith in my judgment you'd pick up this snap."

With some hesitation the man said: "We're in deep, 'Bob.' Awfully deep! That's the worst of this oil game, it takes so much money to protect your holdings. It doesn't pay to prospect land for the benefit of your neighbor; the risks are too great. Gray has been pretty attentive to you, hasn't he?"

"That's a part of the man; he is attentive to everybody. I have received more candy and flowers and delightful little surprises than in all my short, neglected life."

"I didn't know you liked candy."

"I don't. But I adore getting it. The thought counts. I don't care much for canaries, either—I have such bad luck with them—but he sent me the dearest thing from New York. A tiny mechanical bird with actual feathers. And it sings! It is a really truly yellow canary in a beautiful gold cage, and when you press a spring it perks its head, opens its beak, flirts its tail, and utters the most angelic song. It must have cost a fortune. Couldn't you love a man who would think of a present like that?"

When she had gone Nelson sat in a frowning study for some time. So, it was not all a bad dream. What could be Gray's object in buying acreage adjoining his? Was it faith in his, Nelson's, judgment, a desire to ride to success on the tail of his enemey's kite, or did it mean a war of offsets, drilling operations the instant a well came in?

In and around the office of Mo-Wade & Stoner these were busy days, what with a couple of new wildcat promotions and a well going down on semiproven ground—that lease which cornered into the Nelson holdings, and to which Stoner had called attention. It had been easy to sell stock in the latter enterprise, and now the deeper went the hole, the higher rose the hopes of the promoters. Stoner himself was directing operations, and he had named the well "Avenger Number One."

"WE'RE IN DEEP, 'BOB,' AWFULLY DEEP!"

CHAPTER XVII
Buddy Breaks the Traces

TO learn that her mountain retreat had been invaded and that she had been spied upon filled Ma Briskow with dismay, but when Allie found fault with her behavior the elder woman burned with resentment.

"We're queer enough," the girl said, "without you cutting up crazy and making folks talk. If you want to dance, for goodness' sake hire somebody to lear—to teach you, same as I did. What was you up to the other day? That Delamater man said you was acting plumb nutty."

"Mind your own business!" the old woman snapped. She flounced out of the room, leaving Allie amazed and indignant at this burst of temper.

That day Ma Briskow abandoned her mountain fastness. She took her faithful retainers with her and led them farther up the ravine to a retreat that was truly inaccessible.

The next day, when she stealthily slipped out of her French window, she found Calvin Gray idly rocking on the veranda. He welcomed her appearance and pretended not to see her embarrassment at the meeting; he was glad of this chance for a visit with her alone. Perhaps she was going for a walk and would take him along?

But Ma flushed faintly, and for some time longer she refused her confidence. It didn't matter; it was all an old woman's foolishness; nobody would understand. Gray was not insistent; nevertheless, before long they were on their way toward the glen. In a reckless burst of confidence Ma told him all about her hidden band of mountaineers.

He insisted upon making the personal acquaintance of those bold followers of hers and upon hearing the whole sad story of the Princess Pensacola. The history of her struggle against the wicked Duke of Dallas moved him; he wove new details of his own into it, and before Ma knew it he was actually playing the part of the duke.

The duke, it appeared, was a hard and haughty man, but at heart he was not all bad; when he had listened to the story of his victim's wrongs and more fully appreciated the courage, the devotion of her doughty followers, he was touched. He was a handsome man and no wickeder than the general run of dukes; he would make a becoming husband to the beauteous princess, and if she set her mind to it she could probably make a better person of him. Thus would the warring factions be united, thus would the blessings of peace descend—

DEBATE OVER LIQUOR.

LONDON, June 28. Canadian Press—The British Foreign Secretary, Marquis Curzon, stated in the House of Lords to-day, that there was no chance of Great Britain's agreeing in any circumstance whatever to the proposal that the United States authorities be given the right to vessels for liquor within 12 miles off the United States coast.

HUSBAND DIDN'T DARE LEAVE HER ALONE HER HEART WAS SO BAD

Those feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells, the all-gone sinking sensations which come on from time to time indicate a weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

MILBURN'S

have no equal as a remedy to strengthen the heart, invigorate the nerves and build up the run-down system.

Mrs. C. Vanhorn, Eckville, Alta., writes:—"About a year ago I had heart trouble. My husband didn't dare leave me alone, and often I would just feel kind of faint and my heart would seem to stop beating. I would just faint away, and it would sometimes be an hour before they could bring me back to life. Someone told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got three boxes I took them and felt much better, so continued all Winter, and now I ever feel any such faintness. I surely do appreciate the good they have done for me."

FRANCE THROUGH AIRFLEET CONTROLS TRADE ROUTES

Eight Centuries of Struggle Is Neutralized By New Force — Britain Fears France Plans Great Empire.

By LYLE C. WILSON.

LONDON, June 28. — (United Press). — After eight centuries of costly and difficult endeavor to obtain possession of the natural citadels commanding trade routes by sea England finds herself stripped of the command of those routes.

The formerly strategically unrivalled Gibraltar and Suez are to be had for the taking by any nation capable of attacking from the air.

"France could transform the Mediterranean Sea into a French lake within the space of 24 hours," an authority closely connected with the British Air Ministry told the United Press.

"There is no doubt of French superiority in the Mediterranean," the authority continued. "We are unable to determine the exact French air strength in North Africa, Algiers and Syria, but we know it to be large. Gibraltar and Suez would be at a serious disadvantage against air attack."

If Gibraltar and Suez lose their potency as impregnable bottlenecks from which England has been accustomed to exert her will, then the greatest seafaring nation in the world must look to some other element for supremacy, it is pointed out.

Looking to the Air.

That other element is the air.

Nominally friends; late Allies in the war; both unable to afford the spending of vast sums on armament; England and France are girding their loins to determine the ownership of the air.

Despite the cementing effect of the war and a feeling that a common enemy exists, the fact remains that England and France are naturally opposing forces and have been actively opposing each other on more than half the pages of recorded history.

Any nation capable of interfering with English intercourse with her colonies in Africa and the East is regarded as a serious menace to the British Empire.

France, by means of her air force in the Mediterranean, could interfere now and under present air construction plans she will remain in the lead and therefore continue to be a potential threat to the Empire.

By January 1, 1924, France will have in commission 2,180 fighting planes, according to figures supplied in London. Some of these will go to reinforce the Syrian and Algerian squadrons. Others will be concentrated at home.

On January 1, 1924, England will possess six hundred fighting planes, less than one-third of the French total.

French Force Mobilized.

These six hundred English planes will be scattered over the face of the globe. The French planes, in comparison, will be mobilized.

The 410 planes at present comprising the Royal Air Force are based in eight widely separated districts.

Seventy-two planes are in India.
Ninety-six are in Iraq.
Sixteen are in Palestine.
Twenty-eight are in Egypt.
Forty are in Constantinople.
Sixty are with the Navy.
Eighteen are in the Mediterranean
Eighty are in England.

Within the next twelve months the Air Ministry is authorized to bring the total up to six hundred.

England is Disturbed.

With the completion of the six hundredth ship England will find herself a minor air power with her ambitious neighbor the only major force in the air. The situation is disturbing to all Englishmen, warmongers and pacifists alike.

At Malta, England has carved out an air base from solid rock. If Gibraltar, once the symbol of stolid impregnability, is to be worth keeping, the same must be accomplished there, air authorities agree.

Lloyd George and the others who fought under the banner of "No More War," are admitting that their cherished aim has not been realized.

There is a growing suspicion that on the continent of Europe there is a great power convinced that the time for seizing an empire is not yet past.

Italy is unofficially protesting that France is subsidizing a Jugo-Slavian fleet for no other purpose than the domination of the Adriatic.

Russia charges that France is subsidizing Poland and Roumania for eventual use of their arm against the Soviets.

England unofficially interprets the French air power in the Mediterranean as a threat against English-controlled trade routes.

The French air fleet, according to reliable authority, is greater than the other combined fleets of the world.

Popular Commercial Traveller Strongly Recommends Dreco, the Ideal Tonic and Regulator His Story is Particularly Interesting at this Season of the Year.

Mr. Samuel Topies, of 340 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ontario, the well known traveller for B. F. Ackerman, Son, Ltd., discovered in Dreco an ideal corrective for internal ailments. Mr. Topies says:

"For years, my stomach, kidneys and liver have troubled me. My food would sour, causing indigestion, gas and heartburn. Had a sharp pain in the small of my back from my kidneys and suffered terrible dizzy spells which at times got the best of me so that I could hardly keep up with my work. Had pains in my stomach and chest from the gas and my bowels seemed locked as I had always to be taking medicine to keep them open. I was very nervous and could not sleep and my appetite was poor I hardly knew what it was to eat a square meal.

"I suffered with these ailments for several years and tried almost every kind of medicine without result. Then fortunately I heard about Dreco and gave it a trial. One bottle has done more good for me than anything I have ever used. Most of my troubles have vanished and I can carry on my work with great comfort. I intend to finish the full treatment and have my wife, whose health has been poorly take it also."

All of Mr. Topies' troubles were traceable to the stomach. Dreco prepared especially for the stomach from medicinal herbs and roots, quickly restores it to health, functions and builds up the whole system. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being especially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E H. Northey and by a good druggist everywhere.

DROWNED TREES

A few miles north of Mt. Lassen, in Nortern California, is a cinder cone. Traditions among the Indians of the neighborhood tell of a time believed to have been 200 or 300 years ago when smoke and cinders belched forth from this peak, darkening the sky for days and scattering ashes over a large area.

The age of trees growing in the crater of this cone indicates, by one eruption about 80 years ago, but the America of that day, without telegraph wires and news service, was ignorant of an eruption, if one actually took place. Material from one of the eruptions of this vent dammed a small valley, creating a lake in which the standing stumps of drowned trees still are to be found.

England once had a statute against kissing, but it wasn't intended as a blue law, having been passed in 1439 when the plague was raging, in the hope of preventing the disease from spreading.

NEWS OF BURNBRAE AND THE DISTRICT

Lindsay Watson Held Very Successful Barn Raising —Distinguished Visitor —Personals.

BURNBRAE, June 28. — Professor James Hutcheon of Meadsville Theological Seminary, Penn., U.S.A., preached in St. Andrew's church, Burnbrae, last Sunday, and gave a very forceful and scholarly sermon on the text, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Proverbs.

Professor Hutcheon was born in this district. He received his early educatin in the old Burnbrae school house, ½ a mile west from the present school between the sixth and the seventh lines Seymour East A remnant of the wall still stands to mark the place where he and many others of the older members of the community were introduced to the rudiments of education.

On the completion of his public school career he attended the High School at Campbellford and later graduated with distinction from Queens University, Kingston, receiving the degree of Master of Arts. He now turned his attention to the Chistian ministry and took the regular theological course in Queen's Theological College, and on his graduation was called to be minister at St. Andrew's, Almonte, Ont.

His chief interest however lay in teaching and so finally he felt himself called to relinquish the pastorate for the professor's chair. After post graduate work at Harvard and other leading institutions of higher learning, he was appointed to his present position in the Meadsville Divinity School, as Professor of the History and Psychology of Religion, a position which he has filled with great distinction for many years. Harvard University has recently honored him with the degree of L.L.D.

Bad Storm.

A terrific thunderstorm swept this district last Sunday afternoon, accompanied by a very high wind. Fortunately no very serious damage resulted. Telephone service was interrupted, as many trees were uprooted by the wind, some of them falling on the wires.

Personals.

William and Elsie Hume spent Friday in Cobourg visiting their brother, Mr. Thomas H.....

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Twigg motored here from Toronto on Sunday to spend the day with Mrs. Twigg's father, Mr. Norman Masson. Miss Gertrude Nelson returned with them from her holiday in the city.

Mr. Jack Rannie took in the baseball match at Trenton last week.

Do not forget the lawn social at the school grounds, Burnbrae on Friday evening. A special feature of the evening will be a radio concert if the weather is suitable. The Northumberland Regiment Band from Campbellford will also be in attendance.

Barn Raising.

Mr. Lindsay Watson, one of the progressive young farmers of Seymour East erected a large new barn on his farm last week. It is a valuable addition to a farm that has always been a beauty spot in the community.

The raising took place on Friday, when practically all the men in the neighborhood turned out to assist in the project. The l...s too had their part to play in the preparation of the meals for the 60 men who came to assist. In spite of the arduous nature of the work, barn raising is a very significant social event and furnishes an opportunity for cooperative effort, which always reacts helpfully on the life of the community.

HAND BOOK BY THE ROYAL BANK

A new and interesting feature in the annals of Canadian Immigration is the public spirited offer made by The Royal Bank of Canada, in a recently published hand book entitled "Canada—The Land of Opportunity." Distribution of 100,000 copies of this book is now being made in the British Isles to those who contemplate coming to Canada.

The bank offers a very tanglible service of prospective settlers who seek fuller particulars as to conditions in specified localities in the Dominion, than can be found in official literature, when it invites communcation direct with any of its 600 Managers in Canada. No one more than the immigrant himself, will appreciate what it will mean to have some one with an intimate knowledge of local condition in or near the locality to which he has decided to go in Canada to whom he may write and obtain first hand information.

The preface of the book points out that by availing themselves of this service, immigrants, both men and women, will be enabled to avoid many initial and costly mistakes and to improve their prospects of success in Canada.

The booklet embraces a brief historical sketch of Canada, a synopsis of the system of government, short descriptive chapters on the provinces and chapter on Lands and Opportunities, Employment Service, Passports, General Information and Travelling Helps. There are a number of excellent illustrations depicting both urban and rural scenes, and a map of the Dominion showing the provinces, principal cities, towns and many railway lines.

The book is one of the most useful that has yet been issued for the purpose of assiting immigration.

In the last century fresh discoveries of jade have been made in Siberia and Central Europe.

SWEDISH HERO IN A NEW ROLE

Ekman's First Picture Was Banned by Censors —May Star in "Ben Hur."

(By Jack Jungmeyer.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—Eosta Ekman, blonde young idol of the Swedish stage and screen—as "Ben Hur" in Goldwyn's forthcoming super special!

That's a guess rather than a prophecy. But a guess not without some foundation. He is at least a good bet as a dark horse among the many American screen contenders for this coveted role.

Ekman, though not yet 30, is regarded as quite capable of handling an assignment of this calibre. He is the most popular actor in Sweden, comparable in his rise to Valentino's in this country. Protege of the Swedish "Belasco," Albert Banit, he was also a close associate of Victor Seastrom, the actor and director who was recently brought here by Goldwyn Pictures.

Now Ekman will arrive at the Goldwyn studio the latter part of June, under contract to do one picture. What picture, has been kept as dark as the identity of "Ben Hur." It will not be "The Master of Man," being produced by Seastrom, as has definitely been announced.

Posing Ekman as a good policy selection for the title role in "Ben Hur" is the fact that the public vote for an American screen favourite for the part showed wide divergence. The poll, ranging into thousands of letters was solicited by Goldwyns. In view of the indecisive result, it is suggested, selection of any native favourite might definitely offend the champions of the others. Hence the good chance for Ekman to nose out the field.

Ekman, I am informed by Victor Seastrom, has been a dominating figure in the Swedish theatre in Stockholm for twelve years. During the summer he has been in pictures for the Swedish Film Industry, the largest in that country. He is just concluding the stage season as leading man opposite Edith Erastoff, wife of Seastrom, who, with her two daughters, will also come to Hollywood to make their home here with the distinguished director.

"Ekman is a real hero in Sweden," says Seastrom. "Although as popular there as Valentino is here, he is of different type. He is very fair, having blonde hair and blue eyes. He is a handsome fellow, almost too good looking, I think, but a great actor. He does not hesitate to conceal his good looks, however, in character parts. Insane kings, he has been playing lately.

"Ekman played in the first picture I ever directed—a picture never shown," wryly, "because it was forbidden by the censors Oh, it was quite bad, I'm afraid," he laughed.

"On the stage he has done 'Romeo,' and appeared in plays of Ibsen and other continental dramatists. On the screen he has portrayed both comic and tragic roles."

So far as any inkling has come from the Goldwyn lot, the identity of "Ben Hur" is still an unclipped fate. No such hint is to be read into Seastrom's encomiums of his handsome young friend. But casting for the big picture will probably begin about the time Eosta Ekman arrives. And I have made my guess as to its hero.

POISON MYSTERY OLD AS HISTORY

Women Especially Have Been Involved in Weird Slayings—Motive Money

By MAURICE HENLE

LANSING, Mich., June 28.—Two unusual crime stories at present, are holding the country's attention. One is in New Jersey. The other in Michigan. Both are alike in that the accused is alleged to have poisoned the victim for insurance money.

And these two cases recall, not alone the famous Bluebeard fable, which in itselw must have been founded on fact, but other mysteries of real life, as well.

The actions of modern pioson suspects recall the historic reference to the strange family named Borgia, which lived in Italy in the 15th and 16th centuries. Nothing definite is known of actual crimes committed by this uncanny group of alleged murderers, but history hands us down a colorful page in the annals of crime referring to their activities.

The history of crime in America is replete with tragedies of the Bluebeard hue. Poisoning of the victims for money apparently is as old as insurance companies themselves.

The two current crimes, which have not yet been solved, are:

Here in Lansing, Mich., where Mrs. Emma Kopple, 59, is accused of killing by slow poison Harry Brill Kopple, her foster-son, 12. An insurance policy of $1300 in Mrs. Kopple's favor had been taken on the life of the boy shortly before his death.

Other Cases Recalled.

In Newark, N.J., John Creighton and his wife, Mary, are alleged by police to have poisoned Mrs. Creighton's brother, Charles R. Avery. Police say a $1000 life insurance policy on Avery was made out to his sister, one of the accused.

And these two parallel mysteries recall other sensational cases:

CHICAGO— Mrs. Tillie Kilmek and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Sturmer Koulik, were charged with poisoning 12 persons. Mrs. Kilmek was given a life sentence, and Mrs. Koulik is awaiting a second trial, the first jury having disagreed.

TWIN FALLS, IDA.—Mrs. Lyda Southard was sentenced to a term of from 10 years to life imprisonment for poisoning her fourth husband, Edward F. Meyer.

WHITE CLOUD, MICH.—Mrs. Meda Hodell, 20, was given a life sentence for the poisoning of her invalid father-inlaw-, David Hodell. Others in the family were involved.

NEW YORK—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, dentist, who was executed at Sing Sing prison in May, 1917, the posoning of his parents-in-law, John E. Peck and wife.

The other mysterious poison case is that involving the famous Indiana "murder farm." A series of murders were said to have been committed on a farm occupied by Mrs. Belle Gunness, who was thought to have been homesteading in Neville. No one has been convicted as yet, nor has Mrs. Gunness been apprehended.

Delve Into Past.

But none has so startled the country as the Kopple case.

Police, to strengthen their prosecution against her as she awaits trial, delved into her past, and claim to have uncovered eight other mysterious deaths in her home in the past 15 years.

The story runs that Mrs. Kopple came to Lansing from Deckerville, Mich., about 10 years ago. She became acquainted with the boy's parents, and eventually took him in payment for a debt which the parents owed her.

Huddled in a cell at Mason, Mich., county seat, Mrs. Kopple denies her guilt and fastens the burden of the crime on a former boarder, who has been jointly charged with murder also.

The other deaths police claim to have unearthed were all of small children which to criminologists brings up the question:

Why will people poison others for money? What is there lacking in the make-up of a human being who would so recklessly diregard human life?

Psychologists believe if they can determine the underlying mental disease—for that is what they call it—much suffering in this world can be avoided in the future, and sensational Bluebeard cases will be relegated into the limbo of lost crimes.

Perhaps you can define a reason for this sordid atavistic cutback which curdles the human heart into a base scavenger sunk to the utter depths of depravity.

MELTED ICE CREAM.

The next time there is melted ice cream left set it with gelatin for blanc mange or thicken it with cornstarch or tapioca for pudding. Two eggs to a pint of liquid stirred in and cooked makes it a good custard. Left-over cocoa or chocolate may be utilized in the same way, or you may use the chocolate for the liquid in place of milk or water.

CAIRNS FANNED 3 IN EACH INNINGS

Bankers Defeated the Examiner in a Weird Mercantile League Game.

The Bankers won their first game in the second half of the Mercantile League schedule last evening by defeating the Examiner nine by a score of 11 to 6. The Examiner started off strong and at one time had an excellent chance to win out but two hits followed by five errors in a row sent six runs across the pan in the fourth inning and put the game on ice for the Bankers.

Cairns went the whole way on the rubber for the Bankers and turned in a remarkable game in that he fanned three men in every inning. Between strikeouts he was touched for nine hits, four of them including a two bagger coming in the fourth frame and netting three runs for the Printers.

Scates went the first four innings for the Examiner and while he was touched for hits some snappier fielding would have cut several of them off. His support fell down badly in the fourth and was none too good at any stage of the game. Baker did the hurling for the final inning and was faced by but three men.

The players were:

C. P. C. WEAKENED IN FOURTH FRAME

Lock Works Won Easily in Second Section of Mercantile Double Bill.

The Packers weakened in the fourth frame of the Mercantile League double header at Riverside Park last evening, allowing the Lock Works to break a 2 to 2 tie by scoring four runs. Once in the lead the Lock Makers stayed there adding two more tallies in the next sesion for good measure. The final score was 8 to 2.

Larmar and Cunningham did the hurling for the loosers and the bad support they received lost the game for them. Errors came thick and fast at the critical moments and they threw in some bone head base running just for good measure. Connors and Moore shared the pitching honors for the Lock Works and both did good work. Connors allowed two hits in four innings and Moore one safey in two frames.

PETES STAMPEDED AT BELLEVILLE IN BIG FOUR FIXTURE

Heckman is Hit Hard and Petes' Misplays Are Costly With Result That Grand Trunks Win By 15 to 0.

EASY FOR WILLIAMS.

In their Central Ontario League fixture at Belleville yesterday, the Petes were the victims of a worse landslide than the one that hit the Farmers' government on Monday, being slaughtered by the Grand Trunks to the tune of 15 runs to nothing. It was one of those games in which the winners could do nothing wrong. Belleville hammered Heckman's offerings hard and often, getting seventeen hits, of which seven were good for two bases and another for three sacks, several of the extra base drives coming with the bases loaded, and they were helped in their run-getting by misplays at critical times by the Petes. They got five runs for example, in the sixth, after the side should have been retired, and they hit waste balls as often as they connected with balls in the groove.

On the other hand, Willams had the Petes tied up completely, only two of the visitors getting as far as second and not one of them touching third during the engagement. Comolli and Collins, with two singles each and Legon with a double, were the only three to hit safely, and the fine hits were divided among as many innings.

There could only be one result under the conditions, and the Petes suffered the worst beating they have received since the Central League opened. With Belleville minus both the Mills brothers, it looked like a royal chance for the Solomon crew to take the lead in the Big Four race, but they were never in the hunt The defeat puts Belleville in the lead again and makes it necessary for the Petes to win here Saturday over the Grand Trunks to tie up the race.

Belleville played great ball yesterday, Casey, Ross and Brownscombe all had beautiful catches in the outfield, disposing of six of the Petes between them, and Weir made a sensational grab of a fly to short centre that he did not appear to have a chance to get. For the Petes, the fielding feature was furnished by Swanston, who tore back to the screen and corralled a foul from Ross's bat in circus fashion. The two errors marked up against Belleville did no harm, but all four Peterborough misplays were costly.

In the first, Ansaldo was tossed out by J. H. Williams, Johnston fanned and Swanston popped to Meagher.

Belleville started the scoring in this frame. Ross fanned and Meagher was thrown out by Helson. Brownscombe got a life when Johnston fumbled his roller and scored on Weir's long double to left. Casey grounded to Johnston.

In the Petes' second, Comolli was thrown out by Meagher. Casey made a nice catch of Heckman's long fly to right and Ross was under Wolfe's smash to centre.

J. K. Williams grounded to Helson Gerow doubled to centre, but Hagerman struck out and J. H. Williams popped to Ansaldo

In the third Helson rolled to Meagher. Legon went out on strikes. Collins singled past first, but was forced out at second on Ansaldo's roller to Weir.

Swanston made a great catch of Ross's foul fly near the screen. Meagher singled to centre Brownscombe struck out and Ansaldo threw out Weir.

Johnston, first up for the Petes in the fourth, lined one to Casey. Comolli got a hit off Gerow's glove on a high bounder to first Hekman was tossed out by J. K. Williams.

Belleville batted around in their half and bagged four runs. Casey started by singling to right and J. K. Williams doubled to left. Casey scored on Gerow's out to Comolli. Hagerman singled through the box, scoring J. K. Williams. J. H. Williams singled to right. Ross walked, filling the bases .Meagher struck out. Brownscombe singled to centre, sending Hagerman in. J. H. Williams scored on a passed ball. Weir walked, again filling the bases. Casey up for the second time, fanned.

Wolfe, first up for the Petes in the fifth, was out bunting foul on the third strike .Helson's long fly was snared by Casey Legon doubled over Ross's head in centre, but Collins rolled to Meagher.

For the winners, J. K. Williams was thrown out by Ansaldo and Helson threw out Gerow. Hagerman doubled to left. J. H. Williams fouled out to Helson.

In the sixth, for Peterborough, Ansaldo fanned, Johnston lined into Gerow's hands and Swanston grounded to Weir.

The Belleville end of the frame was disastrous for the Petes. Ross struck out, but Meagher walked and Helson lost Brownscombe's roller. Weir bunted safely, filling the bases. Casey's roller bounced over Heckman's head and was fumbled by Johnston, Meagher and Brownscombe scoring. J. K. Williams hit to Heckman and Weir was forced at third. Gerow walked, filling the bases and Hagerman promptly unloaded them with a long double over Wolfe's head, scoring Casey, J. K. Williams and Gerow. J. H. Williams rolled to Johnston for the third out.

Comolli led off for the Petes in the seventh with a single past third, but Heckman struck out, Wolfe hunted a fly to Gerow and Helson rolled to the box.

Belleville got three more. Ross started with a double to left and Meagher singled back of third. Brownscombe's triple to deep right scored the pair and Brownscombe registered on a passed ball. Weir struck out. Casey rolled to Heckman and J. K. Williams popped to Ansaldo.

In the eighth for the Petes, Legon fanned. Collins singled to left. Ansaldo was robbed of a hit by a beautiful catch by Weir. Johnston walked. Swanston struck out.

The Grand Trunks ran in two more. Gerow opened with a single to left and Hagerman got a life on Ansaldo's fumble. J. H. Williams doubled between Legon and Wolfe, scoring Gerow and Hagerman. Ross cracked a single off Helson's glove. Meagher hoisted to Heckman and Brownscombe to Johnston. Weir made the third out on a tap to Helson

The Petes were easy in the ninth. Brownscombe made a fine catch of Comolli's fly to left. Solomon batted for Heckman and fanned. Wolfe got a life on Meagher's fumble, but was out stealing second.

SUZANNE SCORED AN EASY VICTORY

Mlle. Lenglen Has Started After Her Fifth Successive World's Title.

WIMBLEDON, June 28 (Canadian Press). — There were no surprises in the play for the world's tennis championships at Wimbledon yesterday, and only one big thrill; this was when Suzanne Lenglen appeared in the stadium, which was crowded almost to capacity, to start after her fifth successive world's title.

She began in characteristic manner, winning every game of the two-set match from young Peggy Ingram, the daughter of one of England's old international players.

Mlle. Lenglen played superbly, keeping her opponent at the baseline and snuffing out whatever hope the little English girl had by placing shots of amazing accuracy within a few inches of the side and back court lines. Occasionally she worked up to the net to finish off a rally with a neat cut volley.

When she had finished, many of the spectators went to the outside courts to look over the other candidates for the woman's championship; there was none, however, whose play seemed even to approach Suzanne's in vigour accuracy or strategic soundness.

PETES HAVE TO WIN ON SATURDAY

Must Beat Belleville Here to Tie Up Big Four Race.

Yesterday's massacre of the Petes at Belleville makes it necessary for the Solomn crew to beat Belleville when they come to Riverside Park on Saturday to sew up the race in which case the championship of the Big Four section so far as the first half is concerned will depend on Monday's game In which Cobourg and the Petes stack up against each other in a postponer game. Saturday's game in spite of the one-sided score yesterday should be a great battle. Belleville will fight from the drop of the hat for the verdict, knowing that if they win the first half is within their grasp, while the Petes have to win to ensure a tie. Oulette is slated to pitch for Belleville while Heckman will be sent back at Belleville.

The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp.

Havelock Lacrosse Team Was Defeated.

HAVELOCK, June 28.—The juvenile lacrosse team of Havelock went down to defeat at the hands of the Hastings teams to the tune of 12 to 2. Although the score would indicate the game to be a one-sided affair, it was not, as the game was anybody's until the last period when the superior weight and age of the Hastings team wore down the smaller Havelock lads. For Hastings, Cowell and Saunders, two Campbellford boys playing with Hastings, were the stars. Wright and Sexsmith were the best for Havelock. Davidson in goal for Havelock put up a good game, but the defence did not give him the proper support.

Referee Len Smith of Toronto, handled the game to the satisfaction of everybody.

St. Paul Makes Offer For the Dempsey Bout.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28 (Canadian Press).—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, has been offered a $200,000 flat guarantee, with the privilege of 50 per cent. of the gate receipts, for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in St. Paul, if the promoters of the Shlby fight are unable to make good their contract.

SOCCER NOTES

Monday, June 25, was the final date set by the Football Association for entry in the Ontario Cup competition. The War Vets have complied with the rule and have been entered. It was unofficially rumored that the Thistles would enter but they were too dilatory in the matter of entrance.

The Quaker Oats team will have the Canadian Packing as guests on Thursday evening at the Oval. Jack Clark will handle the whistle. Kick off at 6.30.

Quaker Oats team deserve credit for turning out to play the schedule games, in spite of the fact, that a great number of their players have been transferred to night work.

The Hamilton and District Association is of the opinion that there are too many penalty kicks nowadays. Several of the members contend that some referees cannot distinguish between intentional and unintentional fouls in the 18-yard area and the consequence is that many teams are unfairly penalized. They propose to keep a close tab on the whistle blowers.

MONEY SHORTAGE FELT IN SHELBY

Shelby Promoters May Not Be Able to Shell Out When the Proper Time Comes.

SHELBY, Mont., June 28 (Canadian Press-. — Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, was in conference yesterday with fight officials in connection with motion picture rights for the title bout to be held here on 4th July.

Kearns declared later no agreement had been reached.

Questioned as to whether his visit here concerned in any way the payment of the third $100,000 guaranteed Dempsey, Kearns declared that he could not say.

The financial status of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby on 4th July, remained unchanged yesterday, George H. Stanton, a Great Falls banker, whose $50,000 helped make the payment of the second $100,000 instalment to Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, possible, eoprehsed himself as being hopeful that the third $100,000 due Dempsey on 2nd July would be raised in advance of that time. He had nothing definite to announce, however, nor could he say where the money was coming from.

DREAM TIPS HAVE LET PEOPLE DOWN OFTEN AND BADLY.

Though there are many authentic instances of people getting a lucky tip through seeing in a dream the winning horse in a coming race, all such dreamers are not fortunate, and the instances of visions proving false far outnumber dreams which have revealed the winners.

Several years ago a vast number of superistitious people were badly let down through backing a dream tip. A Mr. Langley—that, I fancy, was his name—dreamt he had seen a great autumn race run, and gave the name of the winning horse. The dreamland winner was heavily backed, but it figured among the "also rans."

Tipsters for the most part are much influenced by superstition, and, notwithstanding experiences which should teach them wisdom, they are ever ready to back a "lucky tip."

Sometimes they get the winner, as in the case of two well-known men who prior to the 1875 Derby sought the assistance of a clairvoyant.

What the Seer Saw.

The prohphetess looked into her crystal, told them she could see the race, crowds of people, and the horses—there was one leading which galloped and galloped, and at last galloped in past the post.

They asked its name, but there she was nonplussed; she could not, or would not say more—probably the former.

But the seekers into the future had received their tip; they backed at good odds Galopin, Prince Bathyany's horse, which won.

A dreamland tip that failed was one Lady Westmoreland gave her friends for the Derby some 40 years ago.

She dreamt she saw a horse ridden by a jockey in a pink jacket win, and that number on the board was 13. The horse numbered 13 on the card was Palmbearer, and his jockey had a pink jacket.

This was enough and Palmbearer was heavily backed, some obtaining 66 to 1, until the price shortened. But George Fordham on Sir Bevys upset the dream tip, which was a double disappointment to Palmbearer's backers.

The race was run in a storm, and through the wind and rain they noticed that pink was leading and rejoiced accordingly, but, unfortunately the pink they saw was born by Sir Bevys's jockey.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

OTTAWA, June 28.— (Canadian Press.)— While playing along the shores of Chats Lake near Arnprior with several companions yesterday morning, Earl Pell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pell, was accidentally shot and killed The boy, who was camping with his parents near the scene of the accident, was passing in front of another youth, when a .22 calibre rifle in the hands of the latter suddenly went off. It was the first day of the boy's summer vacation.

ALL FOUR TEAMS ARE STILL IN THE RUNNING

Cobourg's Chance In Big Four Race is Outside One, But Other Three Clubs Are Very Much in the Hunt.

With the first section of the Big Four race within a few days of completion, not one team out of the four is definitely out of the running. Cobourg's defeat at Kingston yesterday makes it improbable that the Lake Shore team, even if they were to win their two remaining games should win out, but there is a mathematical possibility of them doing so.

Belleville, Peterboro and Kingston are, however, very much in the race yet, with the first named leading by a game over the Ponies and Petes, who are tied for second. Belleville, however, has to play the last two games of its schedule away from home, meeting Peterboro here Saturday and Kingston in the Limestone City, while Kingston has one game away from home with Cobourg and the other on their own ground with Belleville. The odds, therefore, are with the Petes, who are the only team to win a game on a foreign lot and whose last two fixtures are played on their own stamping ground, Belleville coming here Saturday and Cobourg on Monday, Dominion Day.

The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	To play
Belleville	6	4	2
Peterboro	5	5	2
Kingston	5	5	2
Cobourg	4	6	2

The Petes, by winning here from Belleville and Cobourg, would be sure of a tie for first place, no matter what the other teams do, or the two wins might give them the championship. There are many "if's" in the situation.

If the Petes beat Belleville and Cobourg and Kingston loses in Cobourg on Saturday, and wins the game in Kingston from Belleville, the logical development, according to the manner in which the teams have all been winning at home and losing on the road, the standing would be:

	Won	Lost
Peterboro	7	5
Belleville	6	6
Kingston	6	6
Cobourg	5	7

On the contrary, if the Petes win their two home games and Kingston wins from both Cobourg and Belleville, the result would be:

	Won	Lost
Peterboro	7	5
Kingston	7	5
Belleville	6	6
Cobourg	4	8

Again, if the Petes win both and Kingston loses both its next games, the first section would wind up thus:

	Won	Lost
Peterboro	7	5
Belleville	7	5
Kingston	5	7
Cobourg	5	7

If the Petes beat Belleville and lose to Cobourg, and Kingston lose to Cobourg and beat Belleville, there would be a three-cornered tie, as follows, this being Cobourg's only chance to stay in the running:

	Won	Lost
Peterboro	6	6
Kingston	6	6
Belleville	6	6
Cobourg	6	6

There are several other combination that you can figure out for yourself.

The Central Ontario League has ruled that the morning game at Riverside Park on Monday with Cobourg is the postponed game of the first section schedule, while the afternoon game will be the first game in the second round.

It is the tightest race in the history of the Central Ontario League, and the result of Saturday's and Monday's games will be followed with hectic interest.

MIDGET GAME WON BY LEAFS

No Hits Off Armstrong and He Fans 11 in 4 Innings.

In the Midget series at Prince of Wales grounds last evening, Maple Leafs defeated Hillcrests by the score of 10 to 7.

The Leafs took an early lead, getting five runs in the first. Hillcrests showed fighting ability and tied the score in the fifth, Smith and Barrie clouting out three-baggers in the second. But Hillcrests could do nothing with Armstrong's fast ball in the sixth and seventh, being retired in order via the strike-out route. The Leafs hit in a row for three runs in the sixth, cinching the game. Weese pitched well for Hillcrests, but his support failed him at critical stages. Armstrong fanned eleven batsmen in four innings and did not allow a hit.

The teams:

Hillcrests—Starr, 2b.; Smith, 3b.; Wyatt, 3b.; Weese, p.; Maudsley, c.; Mesley, r.f.; Miller, c.f; Calladine, 1b; Barrie, l.f.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people wh. enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Aviators may soon get so they can go some place about as quick as they can stay where they are.

Our idea of fun is a telephone girl calling up a friend and being given the wrong number.

George street amassed seven of their runs in the second, third and fourth innings. The hitting was featured by Court Miller's homer in the third with two men on bases. Ben Mackey dawned a glove and held down 2nd base after the 5th innings and at times showed the class of his better days.

STAR WEARS "CHEATERS" IN NEW PRODUCTION.

In her newest First National attraction, "Heroes and Husbands," which opened a three-day engagement at the Royal Theatre to-day, Katherine MacDonald, the noted screen beauty, has the role of a successful novelist, and as she believes in the verities of her profession, part of the story finds the star hiding her beauty behind a pair of born shell glasses.

"Heroes and Husbands" comes with the managerial assurance that it introduces Miss MacDonald and a supporting organization of recognized screen players in the most delightful comedy this popular star has ever made, a comedy that is overshadowed for a brief while, toward the end, by a flash of poignant tragedy.

Chet Withey directed "Heroes and Husbands" and in all of his extensive and varied directorial career has never accomplished anything quite so good. The story is by Charles Legue, who also fashioned Miss MacDonald's great screen triumph, "The Infidel."

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear son, William James Miles, who died June the 2nd, aged 20 years, 5 months.
His weary hours, his days of pain,

STOMACH TROUBLE
"INDIGESTION"
Relieved By
Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferers from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of all mankind.
Even the little that is eaten causes much torture and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good.
Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man. writes:—"Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion. I could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved I can honestly say that B.B.B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."
B.B.B. is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RUSSIAN.

From Moscow comes word that Russia this year expects to export as much as three million tons of grain. It's an exaggeration, probably like everything that comes out of Russia these days. Even if the grain will be available for export, the Russian transportation system is said to be crippled and tied together with string.
American farmers however, should keep in mind that a come-back of Russia in the world wheat market is just a matter of time.
Meantime, you can bank on the collectors for Russian famine relief knocking on the door next autumn, as usual.

CHILDREN'S HATS

For children there ar every charming hats in mushroom shape, of light straw bound with a bright color and decorated with quaint birds and flowers made of raffia.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white crepe romaine, heavily embroidered in crystal beads. Her tulle veil was held with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses.

The bride's attendants were Miss Mary Kelly of Cleveland, Ohio, who wore orchid crepe de chine, and Miss Edna Allen of Peterborough, in apricot crepe de chine. A .Wilson, of Castleton. At 11.30 a.m. the bride entered the living room on the arm of her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss L. McFarlane, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. M Stinson, M.A., B.D., of Westwood, under an arch of evergreens and Marguerites, in the presence of immediate relatives. After the ceremony and the signing of the register, adjournment was made to the dining room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Here a sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

LINER POURED ITS BEER INTO THE SCUPPERS

U. S. Agents Break Foreign Governent Seals and Dictate Quantity of Liquor to Be Retained

WINE SEIZED

NEW YORK, June 29.—For fifteen minutes between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon real foaming French beer gushed from the midship scupper hole on the starboard side of the French liner Paris, lying at Pier 57, North River, while thirsty longshormen and sailors gazed at it spellbound.

Since Saturday afternoon Captain Ernest Maurras the master of the Paris, and B. Allitt, the Marine Superintendent of the French Line, had been waiting for the custom oficials to inform them how much wines and liquors would be allowed for the homeward voyage to Havre as medicinal purposes.

Under the seal of the French customs at Havre, which were imprinted on back wax attached to cords, the Paris brought in 700 botles of champagne, 800 half-bottles of champagne, 8,000 bottles of table wine for passengers and officers, 51 casks of crew wine, 900 bottles of fine wines, 85 bottles of gin, 17 bottles of rum, 300 bottles of beer, 145 casks of beer and 400 bottles of liquors and cordials. In addition and not under seal the Paris had for use of the crew while in port 700 bottles and two casks of wine.

After several consultation Dr. E. K. Sprague decided that 2,000 gallons of wine and 100 gallons of beer were to be taken from the Paris by the customs officials and turned over by them to the agents of the State Prohibition Director, Palmer Canfield. The breaking of the French seals was done under the direction of Deputy Surveyor James F. Curran, in charge of the Chelsea District, by simply cutting a string to which they were attached.

The beer was poured into the scupper on the ship because the oficials of the line said that the casks were worth more than the beer and if they were not returned to the brewery in Havre they would have to be paid for. Acting under orders the storekeeper knocked the bungs out of thirteen casks after rolling them over to the scupper so that the contents would flow away easily. While that was being done the casks of crew wine were discharged on to the lower section of the pier and sent in trucks to the Knickerbocker warehouse in First Avenue for safe keeping.

Deputy Surveyor Curran with agents of the State Prohibition Director then went to the White Star liner Cedric and seized 7,391 bottles of ale and stout, 90 bottles or ale and stout, 90 bottles of spirits and 37 bottles of wines and liquers. It was estimated that the value of the liquors was $1,720.

The case of the Cunarder Carsonia and the French liner Suffren, the Fibre line Providence and the Lloyd Sabaudo liner Conte Verdi will be taken up by Sprague.

Federal Judge Harland B. Howe of Vermont, sitting in Brooklyn, yesterday accepted forty pleas of guilty, imposing fines of $100 in most instances. At the morning session he criticised Jos. Green, head of the Brooklyn Enforcement Bureau, for what the Court termed "malicious persecution" of defendants in liquor cases that had once been dismised. He urged defendants in cases of this character to take legal action against prohibition agents for being thus annoyed.

Venturesome Girls Cruise Down Yukon In Search of Thrill

DAWSON, Y.T.—June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Armed with rifles, knives, kodaks and fur trimmed bathing suits three girls from Long Beach, California, Thursday set out in small boats to cruise down the mighty Yukon in search of a new thrill. They are Miss Thelma Briggs, Miss Frances Ostberg and Miss Alice Lamy. They are unescorted and intend to bring back big game. Some of the old timers gathered to give them a cheer and expressed the conviction that the girls would get a thrill of all sorts if they carried out their intention of swimming at Fort Yukon, within the Artic circle, under the midnight sun. "Not even those fur trimmed bathing suits will protect them in that icy water," he said.

MASKED MEN RAID PLANTS

Drive Away Guards and Search Blast Furnaces For Non-Union Workers

SYDNEY, N. S., June 29. Canadian Press. — Incessant raids by gangs of masked strikers upon the steel plants and coke ovens continued throughout the night here.

Following the stoning of Magistrate Hill, when he attempted to read the Riot Act at Whitney Pier at 10.30 last night there was comparative quiet for several hours, then activities commenced again. Mobs of masked men entered the steel plants, driving away the guards, and searched the blast furnaces for non-union workmen, who they persuaded to leave their jobs.

The coke oven was raided six times. As this plant contains stills of high explosive chemicals the officials were in a state of terror for fear that some careless raider would set off the whole works; but according to the report; from the company headquarters ths morning the raiders contented themselves with driving out the workers, and there was no destruction to property.

BRITISH LABOR DETERMINED TO CONTROL HOUSE

Expect to Get Into Power in Three Years, When They Would Confiscate Wealth.

LONDON, June 29. — (United Press.) — Simultaneously with the announcement of plans for increased labor organization in order to carry out their promise of a Labor Cabinet by 1926, the British Labor Party, in a convention here, passed resolutions declaring that the capital levy is the keystone of Labor's entire future policy.

Two Prospects.

Britain faces two prospects:

First, that Labor intends to get into power within three years, and secondly, that the moment Labor gets in it will confiscate undue wealth.

Conviction of ultimatum success was the tone of the Labor party's resolutions Thursday. Arthur Henderson announced that the party would inaugurate a special election fund to be used in poor constituencies as part of the political programme that calls for increased spread of the organization through Britain. Henderson declared that now political groups centre on two creeds—Labor versus both the Conservatives and Liberals.

The next step toward winning a Labor cabinet for Britain is to be the capture of the rural and semi-rural districts, he said.

The conference passed the resolution proposed by George Lansbury, demanding that Labor members in Parliament oppose the increase in the Royal Air Force and dubbing it "the preface to a new era of war" and "crime against humanity."

Executives Divided.

George Lansbury on behalf of the Labor Party Executive formally opposed the motion, "I am a republican" the veteran editor of the Daily Herald said "and I have always advocated republicanism, but executives of labor are strongly divided on this subject so why should we fool with a question of no earthly importance which will settle itself evenutally." Formerly Lansbury said he had thought that monarchy and nobility were responsible for making the workers poor "but now I know it is the capitalistic system" he declared. "When you get your social revolution you may be certain that the question of kings and queens and presidents will be settled" whereupon the motion was abandoned.

COAL SITUATION

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(Special).—Here are a few facts the coal commission has unearthed while delving for a solution to the coal "problem."

The coal industry outranks any single manufacturing industry and stands next to transportation and agriculture in number of men employed and value of product.

About 750,000 men are employed, of whom 90 per cent work underground.

Totatl invested capital approximates $2,330,000,000, of which $430,000,000 is invested in the anthracite field.

Of 174 producers of anthracite, 8 control about 75 per cent of the output.

There are 6000 producers of bituminous coal, operating 9000 commercial mines.

Bituminous coal is consumed as follows: By railroad, 28 per cent; industries, 25 per cent; cooking, 15 per cent; domestic fuel, 10 per cent, iron and steel, 7 per cent; public utilities, 7 per cent; export, 4 per cent; mines, 2 per cent; bunkers, 2 per cent.

Domestic coal is distributed by 38,000 retail dealers, handling a total of 130,000,000 tons yearly.

Combined charges of the railroads, wholesalers and retailers, in most localities, exceed the price of the coal at the mine.

KIWANIAN GOVERNORS IN PETERBORO TODAY

Guests of the Peterborough Club at Their Convention, When Representatives From Ontario and Quebec Present.

BIG BROAD VISION

Kiwanian Governors and Lieutenant Governors gathered in Peterborough to-day as guests of the Peterborough Club to hold their convention. Represenaatives came from all over Ontario and Quebec, and every visitor had an inspiring message from his home town club. Mrs. Maurice Park was a guest and entertained the gathering with her usual beautiful rendering of "Down Vauxhall Way" and an encore.

W. G. Keddie, District Governor, Ottawa congratulated the Peterboro Club on the pep shown in the meeting. "The big men in Kiwanis today," he said, "are the men who have the big broad vision of Kiwanis ideals. We of Kiwanis have the ideal of building constructively for the benefit of Ontario and Quebec. Kiwanis is leading a spiritual Renaissance.

Business of to-day will be re-habilitated in this Canada of ours and will take its own place just as fast as the Canadian business man can reach the ideal of a square deal for every man."

The teaching of Kiwanis, the speaker continued is a square deal for everyone, and is founded on the golden rule.

Co-operation and service were stressed by the District Governor as the great points to be emphasized in the Kiwanian code.

"A Kiwanian Club" he said, "to amount to anything, must be able to co-operate with all other Kiwanian Clubs and with other organizations that are working towards the same end. Kiwanis is a religion. In Kiwanis the business man has an opportunity to put into practice ideals that were previously considered more or less ephemeral."

The distinguished visitor urged Kiwanians in their building to have a definite objective. "If you live up to the true ideals of Kiwanis and keep before you the goal that Kiwanis has placed for you, then you cannot help but be a power for good in your community."

Lead the Nations

S. C. Lawrason, lieutenant-governor, London, pointed out the international character of the teachings of Kiwanis.

He had travelled through many countries he said, but none was superior to the Dominion of Canada. "There is no poverty in Canada; there is absolute freedom for every body. If you will study and carry out the principles of Kiwanis you will do a great work in teaching not only Canada but other nations how to live. By living Kiwanis ideals we can keep Casada the greatest of nations."

K. A. Maciver, lieutenant-governor, Toronto, advocated the care of under-privileged children as a first call on Kiwanians. "There is no work that appeals to any organization like helping the one who is down," he said.

E. G. Tanguay, Lieutenant Governor Quebec, looks towards Ki

Dr. F. G. Banting to Open the Exhibition Toronto, This Year

TORONTO, June 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Dr. F. B. Banting, discoverer of insulin, will open the Canadian National Exhibition this year, it was announced to-day.

Negotiations with Dr. Banting have been in progress for some time, and an almost insurmountable difficulty appeared to bar the way.

Dr. Banting is now in England, and had planed to remain there until late in the fall, but he finally consented to cancel his later engagements and return to Canada.

HOLDS ARREST WAS UNLAWFUL

Dr. Richardson of Kingston May Take Action Against Two Provincial Officers.

KINGSTON, June 29 (Canadian Press). — It was stated here this morning that Dr. A. W. Richardson, of this city, may take action against Provincial Inspector Hammond of Toronto and Provincial Constable Roy Clark, of Kingston, to secure damages for wrongful arrest last March.

Dr. Richardson was placed under arrest in connection with an alleged illegal operation on May Dunnett, a former Peterborough young woman, and he charges that he was held in police cells for two days without a warrant being issued against him or without a charge being laid.

At the June sessions of the police held here two weeks ago, the Grand Jury returned a "No Bill" and Judge Madden dismissed the case.

Dr. Richardson has secured legal advice, and it is alleged that his arrest was unlawful owing to the fact that no warrant was issued for his arrest.

It is likely that the case will come up at the fall session of the Supreme Court.

A NEW WEAPON FOR DIPLOMATS OF OLD WORLD

Berlin Scientist Invents a Device to Make Wireless Messages Positively Secret.

LIKE TYPEWRITER

BERLIN, June 29, United Press.—Europe's secret diplomacy has a new weapon. A device to make wireless telegrams absolutely secret, except to the sender and the receiver, has been invented by Dr. Scherbius, a well-known Berlin scientist.

A code is useful only for a certain time. Diplomatic history has shown that codes will soon or later be seen through. Dr. Scherbius has invented a machine which does the whispering and deciphering automatically by a series of permutations in the alphabet. There is hardly a chance of the combination being used twice within one man's lifetime even should he send several messages daily.

Resembles Typewriter.

The machine resembles an ordinary type writer and possesses a sort of switchboard which by one twist substitutes a new combination of letter while the sender is writing on the normal keyboard all the receiver has to do is to fix his switch according to the corresponding keyboard and then to copy the message on his machine. The message then comes out in plain language.

Wolf, the Hero of Terhune Dog Stories, Dies Saving the Life of a Canine Tramp

NEW YORK, June 29.—Wolf, son of Lad, is dead. The shaggy collie, with the eyes that understood and the friendly tail, male famous in the stories of Albert Payson Terhune, died like a thoroughbred, and when Wolf joined Lad in the canine beyond last Sunday night there was no hanging of heads!

Wolf died as a hero, but Wolf was Wolf and so yesterday the level lawns of the Trenune home at Pompton Lakes, N.J., seemed empty and the big house was curiously quiet. True, other collies were there, but so, too, was the big boulder out in the woods with just "Wolf" graven across it.

Ten years ago, when thousands of readers weer folowing Lad's career as told by his owner, Mr. Terhune, an interesting event took place at Sunnybank. Of all the puppies that had or have come to Sunnybank, that group of newcomers was the most mischievous. Admittedly, Lad was properly proud, but readers will remember his occasional misgivings about one of the pups. The cause of parental concern was Wolf. He was a good pupy, you know, but a trifle boisterous; maybe—yes, he was, the littlest bit inclined to wildness.

In 1918 Lad passed on and the whole country mourned his departure. Wolf succeeded his famous father in the stories of Mr. Terhune. The son had long since abandoned his harum scarum ways and had developed into a model member of the Terhune dog circle. In fact, Wolf became the property and the pet of Mrs. Terhune.

As Mr. Terhune put it yesterday, he became the cleverest of all the collies. One could talk to Wolf and get understanding an no back talk. One could like Wolf and say so, and the soft, cool nose would come poking around and the tail would begin to wag till it seemed as if the Wolf would wag himself off his feet.

Wolf constituted himself warder of the Terhune lawns and custodian of the driveways. When motoring parties came in an endangered the lives of the puppies playing about the driveways, Wolf at the first sound of the motor, would dash importantly down into the drive and every puppy would scurry out of harm's way.

Every evening it was the habit of Wolf to saunter off on a long "walk." The exercise, it seems, prepared Wolf for sleep. Three days ago Wolf ambered away and—

Down in the darkness at the railroad station some of the folks were waiting to see the Stroudsburg express flash by. It was a few minutes late. A nondescrip dog, with a hunted, homeless droop to his tail, trotted onto the tracks. Far down the line there came the warning screech of the express. The canine tramp didn't pay any attention to it.

The headlight of the express shot a beam glistening along the rails. Wolf saw the dog and the danger. With a bark and a snap the son of Lad drove the stranger to safety. The express was whistling for a crossing far past the station when they picked up what was Wolf and started for the Terhune home.

Indians of Chemong Will Lay Complaint Before the Throne

The claim of the Chemong Indians to exemption from the Ontario fish and game laws will be submitted to King George himself by Levi General of the Brant reserve, who has certain grievances of his own tribe to lay before the Throne. The Indians contend that their rights to hunt and fish were guaranteed by treaties with the Crown made when this country occupied the status of a colony, and that this right should take precedence over the restrictions imposed by the local governments. General leaves on July 10th for the Old Country, and will take with him a petition from the Mississaugas of Curve Lake, otherwise known as the Chemong reserve.

SENATE AMENDS PENSIONS' ACT

Protest From G. W. V. A. Secretary Broadcasted to Arouse Service Men and Friends.

Mr. Sidney Whatley, secretary of the Peterboro branch of the G.W.V.A. received the following telegram this afternoon from G. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary of the G.W.V.A

"OTTAWA, June 29.—The Senate Committee after a burlesque enquiry of a few sittings has so mutilated the pensions legislation passed by the House of Commons as to almost negate the recommendations of the Royal Commission and befriend discredited departmental officials. The amendments restoring rights under insurance principle of section eleven and correcting improper interpretation section twenty-five three regarding disabilities of pre-enlistment origin have been rejected upon misleading evidence of pension board chairman. The insurance act amendments granting policies to those previously defrauded are rejected with the flimsy strategm of review under the new schedule.

The district review boards are refused substituting a departmentally controlled federal appeal board of five members allowing individual member to travel, hear appeals and give decision, subject to further appeal before quorum of Board at Ottawa. Appeals allowed on entitlement only. No definite provision for soldiers advisers or access iiles. This report by ill-informed senators contemplates an act of unparalleled injustive and shameful violation of all pledges given the C.E.F. Will now ask the Commons for conference with Senate before prorogation Saturday. Appeal all ex-service men and friends in your province to arouse the country immediately in unistakable demand for British justice on behalf of dependents and disabled."

This matter will be discussed by the executive of the local G.W.V.A. Saturday evening.

INQUEST TODAY AT OMEMEE INTO DEATHS OF BOYS

No Suspicious Evidence Revealed by Post-Mortem Examination This Morning in Clarke Case

POVERTY AT HOME

(Special to The Examiner.)

OMEMEE, June 29.—The verdict of the coroner's jury empanelled here to-day to investigate the deaths of the two little Emily township brothers, Melville and Albert Clarke, was anticipated at noon by the intimation that the autopsy revealed no evidence of poison or foul play.

Dr. Clarke, of Lindsay, is the presiding coroner and the Crown was represented by Mr. J. E. Anderson, Crown Attorney, also of Lindsay, and Provincial Officer Storey. The bodies of the two boys were found floating in the Pigeon river, near Fee's Landing, last Sunday, and, on the presumption that they had been drowned, no inquest was thought necessary, and burial took place on Monday. Certain suspicions of the undertaker at Omemee led to the enquiry which was opened here today. In the meanttime the bodies were exhumed and an autopsy was conducted by Dr. Shier of Lindsay.

An officer visited the Clarke home this morning to summons the father, James Clarke, to attend the inquest, but he couldn't be found. No significance was placed upon his absence, as it was thought that he was away in the country. All the signs about the rude home indicated dire poverty, and neglect mutely spoke from the bare premises, a neglect that reached down to the two boys, seven and nine years respectively, and perhaps explained the fact that they had more than once spent the night away from home without exciting alarm. It was believed that the people living in that part of Emily township must have known something of the conditions at the Clarke home, and it was felt that possibly there might have been some neglect or oversight on the part of the public.

MENTIONED FOR THE NEW CABINET

Major Gray of Leeds County for Minister Public Works.

TORONTO, June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Pretty and modest little town of Kemptville has suddenly stepped into the spotlight not only because of the home-coming she last night gave her favorite son, Hon Howard Ferguson, Premier-elect of Ontario but also because it is there that Mr. Ferguson is expected to put on the final touches on building of his cabinet.

New suggestions of likely cabinet timber continue to pour in with Major Gray of Leeds County as one of the new men mentioned for the post of Minister of Public Works. Major Gray is civil engineer and it is claimed by his admirers that his training would make him the right man for the job.

DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND THEY SEE, HEAR, TALK

These Girls Enjoy Life Much As Others Fully Endowed With All Nature's Benefactions.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 29—Seeing, hearing, speaking—three of nature's essential gifts to mankind—have failed two girls, now in their teens, ever since they were five.

Yet these girls, Vallie Douglas and Emma Lenz, pupils in the Texas School for Deaf and Dumb here, enjoy life much as any other girls fully endowed with all nature's benefactions. They communicate by touch, they write, read, sew by hand and by machine, play games, attend Sunday school, use the typewriter, do their own housework and get along as though they had full use of all the five senses instead of only three.

How do they do it?

By the use of their remaining senses—touch and smell, especially—which have been so highly developed as to make them supersensitive to anything within their scope.

Emma and Vallie, for instance, can tell the color of a dress by smelling it. They can discern the presence of a third person by feeling—not physical feeling, but mental, spiritual.

Intuition it may be termed, but whatever it is, say the girls' teachers, it is so perfect as easily to replace the lost senses of sight and hearing.

Upward Struggle

It has been an unrelenting, sacrificial struggle for the girls and even more so for the two teachers under whose care they have been—Miss Mamie Heflybower and Miss Georgia Rock.

Vallie is 16 and Emma 12. Both were born as normal children. But spinal meningitis deprived them of the gifts of sight, hearing and speech—Vallie when she was five and Emma at the age of four.

Not only that, but the affliction left them as helpless as new-born babes. Even their minds were practically blank. They forgot everything they had learned.

When the girls entered the school for deaf and dumb here they knew no words nor had they conception of any object they formerly had recognized. Their teachers faced a hard struggle against triple odds.

To Together

Yet in a few short years, these girls have become almost independent and able to care for and amuse themselves

Vallie and Emma make their way together around the campus without assistance. Their sewing was considered so wonderful that it was put on exhibition last fall at the Central West Texas Fair. The two keep up their own wardrobe, making beds, sweeping and arranging the furniture and pictures in their room.

The eternal feminine vaunts itself in them. They are particular about their dress, and are partial to colors. Emma, for instance, insists on wearing a blue summer hat with bright flowers and a brown coat, while Vallie refuses to wear other than white silk stockings.

Schooling has been slow and gradual for the children, but they are now well advanced in their studies, says Miss Heflybower, their teacher.

"Both children now write reasonably fast with their stylus tablet. They read what they have written with one hand—by 'reading' is meant signalling with their fingers as a mute does—spelling each letter they feel with the other hand. Their books also are read in the same way, and 'recited' to the teacher as one hand feels the raised letters."

Besides reading and writing, the girls study arithmetic, history, geography, grammar, spelling, physiology, hygiene, typewriting and domestic economy.

AMERICAN STARS WILL PLAY TENNIS AT WIMBLEDON, ENG.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 29 (Associated Press).—With several of its outstanding men and women lawn tennis stars listed among the entries, America will make a strong bid for honors in the "world's championships" to be held here beginning June 25, the last to bear recognition as international title events.

Prospects of a Yankee victory in the men's singles loom particularly bright, with three of the "first ten" in United States ranking participating. William M. (Little Bill) Johnston, who holds the next place to William T. Tilden in the American lists; Vincent Richards, brilliant youngster who ranks No. 3; and Francis T. Hunter, another youthful star, form a formidable trio. They will be reinforced, probably, by several other Americans now abroad, including Clifton B. Herd, of Los Angeles, one of the top ranking players in California.

Johnston, fresh from his triumph in the last "world's hard court championship" at St. Cloud, France, is a favorite to capture the title at Wimbledon, which twice before was won by an American, Tilden, in 1920 and 1921. Richards has never tested the historic English turf, but Hunter's play there in 1921, when he reached the semi-final round, was one of the sensations of the tournament.

Although represented by its first two ranking stars in the women's singles—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national champion, and Miss Leslie Bancroft, of Boston—the United States is conceded but an outside chance in this championship, where Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen has ruled supreme for the past four years. In addition, England has several women racquet stars who at times have proved superior to America's best.

Mrs. Mallory will make her third attempt to lift the women's crown. She was eliminated from the 1921 tournament by Miss Elizabeth Ryan, an American girl who resides in England, and crushed by Mlle. Lenglen last year in the final round by scores of 6-2, 6-0. Undaunted by past reverses, however, the American titleholder is confident she will make her strongest bid for the championship this year.

Besides Mrs. Mallory and Miss Bancroft, who also may prove a real title contender, two other Boston women are entered in the women's singles. They are Miss Eleanora Sears, No. 6 in the New England ranking list, and Miss Penelope Parkman a promising young star.

Community Night in Sault St. Marie

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., June 29—(Canadian Press).—Did you ever hear of a town of 22,000 having an Annual Community Night at which as many as 3,000 people turn out in costume in a parade which is viewed by a crowd as large as the entire population?

Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, has such an annual night, and this year it will be held on July 11. Every man, woman and child in the town will participate in some form or other in the festivities which mark the unique gathering.

The affair is sponsored by the Rotary Club, and last year a silver collection on the street during the parade paid for a car for the public health nurse so she could get around to see more babies who needed her and so cut down the death rate. This year a collection will be made to help crippled children.

Following precedent numerous prizes will be given for the best costumes in the parade, such as the most characteristic costumes worn by hunters, woodsmen, and prospectors, as well as by the most attractive women.

As a preliminary to the effort to get everybody in the Sault into an Indian costume on Hiawatha Day in the Discovery Week in August, several floats depicting Indian history at the Sault will be shown. The Ojibway actors who will present Hiawatha in Discovery Week will be present on Community Night.

Buy Winners In Aerial Derby

LONDON, June 29 — (Canadian Press).—The Air Ministry's offer to purchase the winning craft, should they be British, in both the Aerial Derby and the Schneider Cup races for seaplanes, has resulted in the designing of several new aeroplanes which are expected to reach phenomenal speeds.

Last year at Naples the British machine, the Napier Supermarine, created a world's record for sea-going aircraft with a speed of approximately 150 miles an hour, but this year's British machines are expected to attain a speed of 200 miles an hour, while the land machines for the Aerial Derby will be capable of a speed of 250 miles an hour, or more than 4 miles a minute.

MARQUIS CURZON MADE REPLY REGARDING THE LIQUOR SEIZURE IN N. Y.

Not A Question of International Law But A Serious Break of International Practice.

LEGAL POSITION

LONDON, June 29.— (Canadian Press).—Marquis Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs made a lengthy and important statement in the House of Lords yesterday in reply to Lord Birkenhead, who called attention to the seizure by the United States of liquor on British vessels.

The Secretary declared that there was no chance of Great Britain agreeing in any circumstances whatever to the proposal that the United States authorities be given the right to search vessels for liquor within the twelve mile limit. The Government, he added, was fully alive to the importance of the case, and all channels of diplomacy were being utilized to find an exit from a situation which was undoubtedly disagreeable and ought not to be allowed to continue.

Lord Curzon explained that it was a very difficult and delicate matter raising grave issues in both international law and policy. The British Government was not concerned with prohibition in the United States, which was a matter of domestic policy in which the British Government was not interested in expressing an opinion; neither would he discuss the decision of Supreme Court on that country's laws.

But it was concerned with the treatmet meted out to British ships in United States territorial waters, and the degree in which that treatment conformed to or departed from international practice.

It would be premature for him to say, indeed, he did not know, what would be the result of their labors.

Steps Already taken

He would not discuss the legal right of the United States to impose conditions on foreign vessels entering its waters, because on this subject international law was decisive. He next detailed the steps taken by Great Britain, beginning with a note to the United States Government from the British Ambassador at Washington after Attorney-General Daugherty's ruling that the Volstead Act applied to foreign ships.

"We pointed out," he continued, "that for any State even constructively to project the operation of its strictly domestic municipal law on to foreign vessels on the high seas—which was the practical effect of the ruling— would be unprecedented, and if adopted by other States, would subject all shipping other than coast wise to the evils flowing from a conflict of authority. The United States Government acknowledged receipt of this but did not enter into a discussion of its arguments."

The Secretary enumerated the British representations to the United States in chronological order, mentioning instructions to the Ambassador at Washington to place himself in communication with his European colleagues. It was found impossible to arrange concerted representations as some of the other nations, notably France, had already lodged a protest after which followed the receipt of the United States reply, the first week in June.

Legal Position

Great Britain's legal position, according to its legal authorities, Lord Curzon said, is as follows:

"There are two recognized principles of international law which prevent us from contending that the United States committed a violation of international law in forbidding foreign vessels to bring liquor within its waters. The first is that foreigncers trading with a country must comply with its laws; the second is that every soverign independent State is supreme over all persons and property within ts dominions, icluding ships in its territorial waters.

"That is the strict interpretation of the law, but there are other considerations of scarcely inferior validity and importance. The principles to which I have referred cannot be pushed to extremes, but must be applied with moderation and good sense. A ship is a travelling unit passing from one State to another and therefore cannot escape the necessity of complying with other legal systems which may not be consistent with the law of the particular country it happens to be visiting. Furthermore, it is universally recognized that a ship has a particularly close relationship to the State whose flag she flies, and on many matters it is generally convenient that all Governments should recognize the law of the State as paramount.

PLAYFUL DOG WAS CAUSE OF DROWNING

CHATHAM, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press). — Funeral services are to be held in Chatham for a former local resident named H. A. Morgan, who was accidentally drowned in the Canadian River at Oklahoma City, Okla., a few days ago.

A Newfoundland dog's "playfulness" was responsible.

Morgan was wading in the river when the dog, which was swimming around him in circles, forced him into deep water, and he went under almost in sight of his son Victor, who had swum to the other side of the river.

The dog was a family pet of huge size.

The late Mr. Morgan was employed here at the packing plant of the Wilson Canadian Company up until a year ago, when he went to Oklahoma City to take up a similar position there He was a Welshman by birth, and lived in Wallaceburg and St. Mary's prior to residing here.

Mrs. Morgan accompanied the remains to Chatham.

BRITISH CAPITAL NEEDED IN CANADA

E. W. Beatty Says British Capital and Enterprise Have Played Great Part in Development.

LONDON, June 29.— (Canadian Press.) — When interviewed last night as he was about to leave London, President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said:

"British capital and British enterprise as all the world knows, have played a tremendous part in the development of the Dominion and it is our sincere wish that Great Britain will continue to take active participation in the economic progress of Canada. It was particularly pleasing to note in the interim report of the committee of the Federation of British Industries which was appointed to consider the question of inter-imperial trade, as just presented to the British government, that very strong recommendation has been made to the effect that the Dominion should be helped as far as possible in the development of their industrial undertakings as well as their raw materials by the provision, where possible, of British capital. This is all in the right direction."

"During my visit to England I was struck, among other things, with a certain feeling of trepidation regarding the big inflow of American capital into Canada and what they regarded as the possibilities of the 'Americanization' of Canada as a result thereof."

"I pointed out to them that much as we welcome British money there is no imperial preference on capital. And after all it is only natural that United States capital should be allowed into Canada. The two countries are geographically contiguous and American business men are well acquainted with the opportunities existing in the country which in many respects is similar to their own. They are, so to speak, on the ground and are sufficiently alert to take advantage of obvious facilities for the profitable employment of capital. These opportunities are open to the British and the American alike and I am convinced that the financial men of the United Kingdom are as keen as ever on the Dominion as an eminently suitable field for investment. Canada welcomes their co-operation."

WEDDING BELLS

St. Alphonsus Church, Windsor, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, 20th June, when Miss Teresa Fallon became the bride of Mr. Francis O'Connor.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Charles Fallon, was becomingly attired in French blue georgette, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Violet Sullivan, was dressed in white georgette, with hat to match. Mr. Jos. Fallon assisted the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of Mr. Charles Fallon, where a dainty breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor then left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a short honeymoon to Mt. Clemens and Port Huron. On their return they will reside in Detroit.

MAN WAS SHOT IN COLD BLOOD BY DESPERADO

Masked Bandit Shot Pool Room Keeper Dead and Stopped to Search His Pockets.

REGINA, Sask., June 29 (Canadian Press). — Gus Hollenbeck, Dollard, Sask., poolroom keeper, was shot to death by a masked bandit shortly after one o'clock yesterday morning.

As Hollenbeck dropped after the fatal shot, the hold-up rushed forward and stripped his pockets.

Provincial Police working on the case said at noon yesterday that an arrest was an hourly possibility.

The murder was witnessed by another resident of the village, Leonard Stevens, In his story to the police, Stevens said that he and Hollenbeck were the only occupants of the poolroom at the time.

Hollenbeck was preparing to close for the night when a masked man entered ,and covering them with a revolver, ordered them to throw up their hands.

Stevens complied, but Hollenbeck protested Without replying, the hold-up opened fire. The first three shots went wild, but the fourth entered the side of Hollenbeck's head, piercing the brain, and causing almost instant death.

The slayer pushed the dying man over and calmly looted his pockets.

Without a glance at Stevens who was in one corner of the room, he turned and walked quietly to the darkened street.

At the hotel a scant half block west of the poolroom, a dance was in progress. None of the dancers noticed the shots, and the killer had five minutes' start before Stevens gave the alarm.

Stevens was unable to supply the police with any description of the hold-up man.

It is understood that Hollenbeck was one of the citizens of Dollard who gave information to the Provincial Police to the effect that John and Emil Marquette, the two boys who were found dead in a small lake near Dollard, had been murdered because they knew who had robbed the Bank of Hochelaga at Dollard.

A heavy electric storm commenced this morning at Dollard, and the roads, already in a state of quagmire, will be rendered even more difficult to travel by the police officers who are following up clues in their possession.

BRITISH SEAMEN WERE WRECKED IN MID OCEAN

Survivors Tell A Vivid Tale of Handicap and Suffering Before They Were Rescued. Rowed or Sailed 1,750 Miles In Open Boat and Under A Blazing Sun.

London, June 29. Canadian Press. —Details received yesterday of the experiences undergone by the survivors of the British ship Trevessa, which recently sank in the Indian Ocean, tell a tale of suffering which seems likely to go down in the annals of sea disasters.

The Trevessa had been given up as lost for a month until Wednesday when Captain Foster's wife and the vessel's owners received cable messages that the captain and 16 of the crew had arrived at the Mauritius Island, and had landed first at the island of Rodriguex.

The survivors covered the 1750 miles from the scene of the Trevessa's sinking to Rodriguez by rowing and sailing their open lifeboat under the blazing tropical sun with rations equal only to two tablespoonsfull of condensed milk and a biscuit each a day for 23 days, and with no water except that which they were able to catch when it rained. Two native firemen died from the exposure during the trip and the remainder were in the weakest possible condition when the landing was made. The boat was stered by the sun and the stars as the compass was useless and to add to their discomfort heavy weather caused the craft to ship much water requiring almost continuous bailing.

Captain Foster reports that on June 9th they lost sight of the other lifeboat containing 18 men, but the admiralty officials say that this may still land on the Mauritius Island.

It was Captain Foster's second disaster at sea. During the war, while a chief mate, his ship was torpedoed and the liner that saved him was also sunk. Foster with 31 others drifted in an open boat for ten days before being rescued.

Kemptville Turned Out In Force To Greet New Premier of the Province.

PRESENTED WITH CUP

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., June 29 (Canadian Press). — Threatened thunder showers and a chilly air, which savoured more of October than a June evening, failed to dampen in the slightest degree the ardour of the townsfolk of Kemptville who turned out en masse to welcome their own fellow-townsman and Ontario's Premier-designate, the Hon G Howard Ferguson, when he came home last night from Toronto.

Long before the train bearing the leader of the victorious Conservatives pulled into the Canadian Pacific Railway depot, hundreds of automobiles were literally jammed about the open driveway which leads to the main part of the town.

Flags, bunting, and streamers were everywhere, and the shout of welcome which went up when Mr. Ferguson alighted from his car must have stirred the whole countryside.

Two bands the Kemptville Prize Band and another from Prescott, took part in the longest procession this old Eastern Ontario town has ever seen.

War veterans and cadets were also out in force.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and His Worship Mayor W. E. Storey headed the large delegation of town councillors, reeves of adjoining muncipalities, and about 150, including H. P. Hill, ex-M.L.A., who came from Ottawa.

Mrs .W. E. Storey is a sister of the Premier-designate, and she with another sister, Mrs. Lena Jeffrey, of Ottawa, were also given a hearty welcome.

A loving cup was handed to Mr. Ferguson by Albert Langstaff, ex-Reeve of Kemptville, and flowers were given to Mrs. Ferguson.

Charles McCrea, M.L.A., of Sudbury, was with the Premier, as well as Dr. Clark, M.L.A., of Brockville.

Pyrotechnic Display.

Despite a chilly rain which fell in a steady drizzle, Kemptville and the surrounding countryside outdid itself in its welcome to its native son Hon G Howard Ferguson, when he made his first visit to his home town as the first citizen of the Province of Ontario.

Never in all this old and pretty town's history was there such jubilation over a political triumph, and one had to go back to war days to compare the enthusiasm and sheer joyfulness of a victorious homecoming.

The new Premier's train pulled in at 7.55 (standard time), and from that time on, until well after midnight, the place was literally filled with admirers of Mr. Ferguson, evidently all bent on demonstrating just what they thought of his victory at the head of the Conservative Party in the Ontario elections last Monday.

At midnight a dance was in full swing at the Armouries, while fireworks displays were still in progress.

The town was given over entirely to a night of jollity.

As a two-mile long procession of automobiles and rigs left the Canadian Pacific Railway Station, a beautiful rainbow semi-circled the sky, and the crowds gathered from points as far distant as Ottawa and Brockville, cheered themselves hoarse.

Unfortunately, the rainbow did not live up to tradition for a steady downpour set in, and continued right on.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, with Mrs. Meighen, and a dozen or more of Federal Conservatives, were on hand

A FITTING REWARD.

Canada will heartily approve of the action of the Dominion Parliament in providing a life annuity of $7,500 for Dr. F. G. Banting, the young Ontario physician who is responsible for the insulin extract treatment for diabetes, one of the greatest discoveries in the history of medicine.

That Dr. Banting should be made financially independent for life is but simple justice in view of the value of his discovery, and of the fact that he unhesitatingly revealed the details of his new treatment for the benefit of suffering humanity without a thought of any reward for himself or of the commercial possibilities involved in the treatment he had originated.

Although he spent years in research work, living on a mere pittance that wasn't much more than was necessary to keep body and soul together, the young physician made no effort to commercialise insulin.

Had he retained to himself the secret of his cure, there is no doubt he could have piled up a vast fortune for himself.

Instead, he placed his findings at the service of the medical fraternity in order that stricken victims might be given a new hope and be restored to health.

The Ontario Government has already recognised Dr. Banting's great achievement, and the fact that the Dominion Government has seen fit to make a substantial addition to the financial reward to the discoverer of insulin will be received with general approval, not only by doctors, but by laymen everywhere throughout Canada.

MERELY A GESTURE.

Some of the successful candidates in Monday's election who used attacks upon the Ontario Temperance Act as their principal campaign strategy are likely to prove a thorn in the side of the new Premier.

For instance, we have J. A. McCausland, the member-elect for South-west Toronto, declaring that the first thing he will do when the next session opens will be to press for a change in the Ontario Temperance Act, providing for the sale of wines and beers.

Mr. McCausland made promises to this effect during the campaign, and he has now to endeavour to implement them, in spite of the fact that he knows that his leader, Hon. G. H. Ferguson, emphatically declared that the Ontario Temperance Act must remain on the statute books until removed by the vote of the people and that no Government will dare to make any important changes in the Act without the sanction of the people.

That the Premier-designate will not depart from that stand now is regarded as certain, and the member for South-west Toronto must realise that his talk about changes in the Act is without real meaning—merely a gesture to quieten those of wet tendency whose support he received.

There will be no change unless the people say so, and there will be no Referendum unless there is a very strong expression of public opinion in favour of an opportunity to vote on this question again.

That is the Hon. Mr. Ferguson's position as The Examiner interprets it in the light of his speeches.

THE ROAD PROBLEM.

One of the big problems that the new Ontario Government will have to deal with is the question of what is to be done about the road scheme outlined and started by the Hon. Mr. Biggs.

The highways improved by the late Government are, of course, popular with motorists, and their value as an aid to transportation is appreciated.

The people of Ontario as a whole want good roads, but they have grave doubts as to the durability of some of those constructed by the late Government, and are appalled by the expense involved in the methods of construction favoured by Mr. Biggs.

The new administration will have to decide whether or not the whole programme mapped out during the U.F.O. regime is to be completed, and will also have to endeavour to see that the vast expenditure occasioned by the elaborate details considered by Mr. Drury's road-making Minister as necessary is curtailed.

The change in methods of transportation caused by the general use of the automobile, both for passenger and freight purposes, has made it absolutely necessary for Ontario to be provided with a network of good roads, capable of standing up under the ever-increasing traffic.

How this service can be provided without the extravagance that apparently characterised the road construction activities of the Drury Government forms a nice question for the Hon. Mr. Ferguson and his associates.

From every platform they assailed the Biggs method as wasteful and expensive.

Ontario will now look to them to produce better roads, and at the same time to cut down the cost.

REAL APPRECIATION.

In passing a resolution of appreciation at the action of the Canadian National Railways in restoring the Peterborough-Lindsay-Toronto "flyer" and in providing Pullman service for east-bound passengers leaving Peterborough at night over the Canadian National, the Railway Committee of the City Council showed a proper spirit of grateful courtesy.

These improvements to the service fluctuated as the result of the recent visit of Sir Henry Thornton to Peterborough, when representations were made to him by the Council and Chamber of Commerce to show the necessity of this accommodation.

It was impressed upon the head of Canada's National Railways that there was a crying need for both improvements, and Sir Henry has been prompt in granting the request.

Resolutions of appreciation—nice as they are—will not keep trains running, nor will they help to reduce the deficit of the Government railways.

The situation simply is that the service as asked for has been provided, the fast train to Toronto and the sleeper for Montreal have been put into commission, that the Canadian National is the people's own railway, in the success of which every citizen has, whether he realises it or not, a direct interest, and that unless the people of Peterborough show their gratitude in concrete form by extending their patronage, Sir Henry is very likely to be chary in the future of accepting at their face value any representations from Peterborough calling for alterations or improvements in the accommodation furnished by the Canadian National in this district.

BIRD MIGRATION MYSTERIES.

The Dakota Indians have a fable which tells how it came about that geese migrate. It appears that in the old days the geese people stayed in the north during the winter, but so great was the cold that many of them perished. Once upon a time a goose squaw had a dream of the warm Southland, and, moved by her vision, decided to teach her friends how to fly so that they could make the long journey to the south. Her revolutionary action soon started discussion and dissension among the geese people, with the result that the elders of the nation, seeking to preserve the established order, passed a law banishing her. She went ahead, however, by herself, and in the autumn flew south. There she spent a pleasant winter, and in the spring returned to find many of her people dead from the winter's cold, but many others more ready to believe in her. Thenceforth they journeyed south with her each fall and north again in the spring.

Not even the "civilized" white man has gone much further in explaining the mystery of bird migration. Invaluable data have been collected by the Biological Survey, showing the appearance of many different species in various parts of the American Continent at different times of the year. Birds have been "banded," and in so far as is possible their routes have been plotted and their speed recorded. But the precise cause of the migration impetus still remains strangely unknown. It is generally supposed that food and climate play a determining part; that birds move north with the spring in order to have wider pastures, and that they follow the movement northward of spring weather. So also, at the first signs of change in the summer and early fall, they start their southward movement, following those routes where experience has taught them that they will have the best food. This does not explain, however, why they should habitually nest in the north, nor why they should make such long journeys when their southern homes contain all that can be desired. Nor does it tell us how they know their routes, nor how birds which winter in South America can return the following summer to the same birdhouse in the north.

From time to time the Biological Survey has published pamphlets on this subject of which perhaps the most interesting, written by Wells W. Cooke, for years assistant biologist in the Department of Agriculture, was issued in 1915. It gives a number of extremely interesting facts about the range and route of some of our common birds. The scarlet tanager, for example, whose flashing red body and black wings render it one of the most decorative of northern birds, winters in Peru. The bobolink winters in Brazil. Some of the humming-birds go south in the autumn and fly directly across the Gulf of Mexico, a distance of over 500 miles in a single night's journey. The golden plover, which nests just under the Arctic Circle, not only winters in Southern Argentina, about 8,000 miles away, but makes the 2,400-mile flight over the open ocean from Nova Scotia to Venezuela presumably without stopping. Curiously enough, its return flight is made by the overland route, following the Central American isthmus and thence through Mexico to Texas and the Mississippi Valley, and so up once more to the Arctic region. The bobolink also takes a somewhat irregular route, flying south by the Atlantic coast and the West Indies to Venezuela and the Guianas and thence to Southern Brazil, taking its return journey along the same route as the plover.

Even the routes and destinations of various birds still are attended with much uncertainty. The chimney-swifts, for example, well known throughout the East, move south slowly in the autumn, gathering their fellows about them until by the time they reach the shore of the Gulf of Mexico they form a veritable host. Where they go from there, however, has long been a mystery. A day comes when they disappear, not to return until the following March. Perhaps one of them, like the Dakota goose, once had a vision of some unknown Southland, and taught its fellows how to reach there safely, but, having no Indian to commemorate its act, the place remains a secret.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Toronto, with characteristic greediness, is apparently trying to confine the personnel of the new Cabinet to Queen City members. Fortunately, however, the choice does not belong to the Toronto papers, but to Mr. Ferguson.

From an Agrarian standpoint there is one good feature about Monday's landslide. It will release a lot of Farmer members in ample time for the harvest.

Recounts are to be asked for in several ridings. No, there will be none in Toronto.

The Farmers' Government came from the country, went to the country, and now will stay in the country.

Some newspapers are advising the people to get back to business now that the excitement of the election is over. Down this way, however, it was difficult to find anybody during the campaign who was excited.

"Ford Asked to Run," reads a newspaper heading. We have known some that had to be abused into running.

Guessing at the make-up of Mr. Ferguson's cabinet is the principal occupation of political experts these days.

Some electors really seemed to believe that they would wake up on Tuesday morning and find the bars opn.

People Voted Down Additional Grant for High School—Cheese Brings 16½c.—Conservatives Rejoice.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29.—The queston of making the Board of Education an additional grant of $28,800 to complete the new High school, which was submitted to the people yesterday, not as a money by-law but, in the form of a plebiscite, was voted down by a majority of five. All those whose names art on the list were entitled to vote whether or not they owned property and the total number of ballots cast was 529 out of a total of about 1000. No attempt appears to have been made to get out the voters and very little interest was taken in the mater. The vote was as follows:

	Yes	No
Ward 1	115	42
Ward 2	70	63
Ward 3	37	88
Ward 4	40	74
Total	262	267

Majority for negative, 5.

Wards 3 and 4 are the subdivision on the west side of the river and it will be seen that the question carried on the east side and was voted down by the electors on the other. With the west side the issue appears to have been largely the matter of the location of the new school.

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night no reference whatever was made to the result one of the trustees stated to the Examiner after the session that he could withhold the money required. Members of the council opposed to the High School have frequently asserted that theyl were hooked up in their position by 90 per cent of the electors whereas the vote of yesterday shows that only 267, or about 25 per cent are of that way of thinking.

Cheese Brings 16 1-2 Cents.

Five hundred boxes of cheese were offered for sale at the regular meeting of the cheese board last night and the price realized was 16 1-2 cents as against 15 5-8 received a week ago. The buyers present were: Ivey, Cook, Bird and Fitzgerald and the bidding started at 15 1-2 cents. The factories with the number of boxes boarded by each were: Brae 44, Crow Bay 25, Empire 80, I. X.L. 43, Kimberly 45, New Model 28, Prince of Wales 47, Stanwood 45, Trent Valley 40, West Seymour 40, Woodlands 53.

Bird took Brae, Empire, Kimberley and Prince of Wales; Ivey Crow Bay, I.X.L. and New Model; Fitzgerald Stanwood , Trent Valley, West Seymour and Woodlands.

Conservatives Rejoice.

J. F. Belford, the newly elected legislative representative for Northumberland East, addressed a large gathering in Cole's Opera House last night, the meeting having been planned as a notification of Mr. Belford's victory on Monday. A number of autos containing leading members of the party in this district formed in procession, headed by the Regimental Band, and went out to meet the newly elected member, who drove his own car from his home in Codrington .

The chair was occupied by I. A. Humphries and a large number of prominent citizens occupied seats on the platform. Mr. Belford assured the audience that although he had been elected by the votes of the Conservatives in the riding, he proposed to represetn all the people and asked them ,regardless of whether they supported him or not, to feel free to approach him on any matter.

He also stated that the Ontario Temperance Act was in no danger. It was the people's law and would be faithfully and fairly enforced by the new government. If it is ever repealed it will be by the vote of the people, just as it was placed on the statute books.

Brief addresses were made by other members of the party. Mr. Humphries congratulated Robert Lowrey, vice-president of the Conservatives in Campbellford, on the skill and fairness with which he had conducted the campaign and upon the success that had crowned his efforts. Mr. Lowrey made a brief reply The ladies of Campbellford were also complimented by Chairman Humphries for the interest they had taken in the election and the assistance so many of them had volunteered in getting out the vote.

GET OUT IN OPEN AS MOTOR CAMPER

Tips For the Man Wha Goes Hiking With Auto Stoves.

The up-to-date gasoline-burning stove is a boon to the motorist who likes to cook by the wayside. It will cook anything that a house gas range will and at a surprisingly low cost. The fuel is always at hand—in the tank of the car. They are safe, dependable and inexpensive.

The gasoline-burning stove is fed by the gas generated by a spray of raw gasoline passing through a hot pipe. It is perfectly simple in operation and requires no further attention than filling its tank, pumping in a little air and heating the generator by igniting a little raw gas beneath it. In actual use is is most simple and highly satisfactory. With the additio nof an oven, all sorts of baking and roasting can be done.

Wood Burners.

The wood-burning stove, that is, a set up affair much like a small kitchen range, is a very fine bit of equipment. These fold up flat and take up hardly any room when not set up. Of course, they will cook anything and usually wood is plentiful at any camping ground. These stoves possess something the gasoline stove does not; they give out heat so they are a mighty welcome thing on a cold day.

The open-air grate (wood burning) is so inexpensive and useful that no camper ought to be without one. Some are made open-on all four sides and set up on four legs, with the grate perhaps 10 inches from the ground. Others, more elaborate, have three sides of sheet iron. These, of course, can be placed advantageously so as to work most efficiently in the wind. A folding oven usually comes with this type of semi-enclosed stove to permit of baking and roasting. A very small supply of wood will cook a meal on one of these excellent stoves. The grates are usually large enough to hold two good-size stew pans and a coffee pot.

Combination Used.

One wood-burning stove or grate and a gasoline stove make an outfit that leaves nothing to be desired. There are times when wood is hard to get or when the rain is so severe that it is difficult to build a fiire. There are also times when gas might be short. So the two make a great team.

There are other kinds of stoves and cooking apparatus which are good. Those burning solidified alcohol have their place. There is also one using acetylene gas from a portable tank which gives a fine, steady flame. But every auto-camper ought to carry at least one first-class cooking stove of some sort. The old method of building a fire in a fireplace of stones gathered in a field is a relic of the Indians and has no place in the catalog of the successful motor-camper.

LIVED ON BANANAS.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(Canadian Press)—Having subsisted on bananas and "planters' rum" during their entire trip as stowaways from the West Indies, nineteen black Jamaicans were recently discovered beneath the hatches of the fruit-carrier Sama. After having their feverishness somewhat subdued by a spell at Quarantine and Ellis Island they were returned to Jamaica.

REGULAR SESSION EDUCATION BOARD OF CAMPBELLFORD

Order First Payment for Work on New High School--To Engage Inspector Who Will Report to Board.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29 — The members of the Board of Education, who attended the regular meeting last night were Chairman Douglas, Trustees Stephens, Hoover, Birmingham, Major Bygott, Lynch, Loucks, Irwin, Arnold, O'Sullivan, and Dr Watson. Official notice was received from Clerk N. F. MacNachtan of the County Council that Chas. Benor had been appointed a member of the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of S. J. Moore. Mr. Benor was not at the meeting.

Miss Irwin Appointed.

The resignation of Miss Helen Cairns from the teaching staff of the Public School was accepted Miss Cairns goes to the Continuation School at Warkworth, a promotion that she has earned by her faithful and efficient services in Campbellford.

There were three applications for the position, these coming from Miss Merrell Upton, Miss Clemna Ivey, and Miss Evelyn Irwin, all of whose homes are in Campbellford, and all three are among the most distinguished graduates of the local High School.

Miss Upton has taught school successfully for five years, and under the schedule of the Board, if engaged, would be entitled to the maximum salary of $1000.00

Miss Ivey, with one year's experience, would receive $850.

Miss Irwin has had no experience, but she has high academic attainments and has made an excellent record as a teacher in training in the Normal School.

It was a difficult matter to decide, but it was finally agreed to take a ballot. Miss Irwin received a majority on the first vote, and her appointment was made unanimous. She will begin on a salary of $800 a year, according to the schedule.

Work on New School.

T. A. Brown, the contractor who is building the new High School, will be given his first payment for the work already done, a cheque for $6,500.

Trustee Hoover raised the point that it might be the part of wisdom to appoint an inspector to see that the material used in the building is up to the specifications.

This raised considerable discussion, some of the trustees taking the ground that that was part of the duty of the architect, and suggested that the latter be required to come to Campbellford at his own expense once a week to inspect the new

It was explained that Architect Coon is willing to pay $15.00 a week of the salary of an expert inspector.

Finally, on the motion of Trustee Lynch, it was decided to engage an inspector who will report to the Board The matter of his selection was left to the Buiding Committee, who will endeavour to find a man who understands all the departments of the building trade His appointment will be from week to week, as it is impossible to tell how long his services may be required.

The report of the school attendance officer, J. R. Wilkinson was received and filed.

MARQUIS CURZON

The net result of this has been that on many matters the practice has grown up that a State should not exact compliciance with its own law, even though a ship is within its waters, but leave such questions to be regulated by the law of the flag state.

International Practice

"This, however, is international practice, rather than international law, and accordingly departure from it means a breach, not of internation al law, but of the comity of nations Thus if a nation acts unreasonably to wards the ships of other nations, the latter may retaliate."

Referring to the breaking of the British Customs seals, Lord Curzon explained that the seals were not sacrosanct outside of British waters, and in general repeated the recent statement made by the Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, which was to the effect that there was no ground for a protest on this score and that Great Britain recognized the right of the United States to break the seals in territorial waters.

"The object of British shippers in bringing liquor under seal into New York" continued Lord Curzon was not to bring a test case. Their intention was while full guaranteeing that liquor would not be landed, to see whether the United States really mean to proceed in violation of international practice and refrain from availing themselves of what is regarded as a loophole in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States cited by Lord Birkenhead.

"Another consideration is that the real motive of the United States Government in allowing the matter to come to a head at the present time is most probably their desire to put pressure on us to check the traffic in contraband liqcor, notably from the West Indies. This appears from the fact that the latest United States Government proposals to Great Britain couple the two questions."

Proposals From U.S.

The Secretary then went into details of the proposals beginning last year, for checking liquor smuggling involving extension of the right to search within twelve miles of the shore and the British refusal to entertain such proposals.

"We felt that the outbreak of smuggling could not be regarded as permanent, said the Secretary," and we could not acquiesce in the abandonment of a principle to which we attached great importance. At the some time, we undertook to take all steps possible to prevent local law-breaking by smugglers."

Lord Curzon concluded by detailing the latest U. S. proposal for the establishment of a twelve mile limit as a temporary arrangement against a reversal of the Supreme court's ruling. This he descibed as a somewhat complex proposal, which was being considered by the special committee under Ronald McNeill. It was at this point that he declared that Great Britain could not under any circumstances agree to such a proposal.

Lord Birkehead calling attention to the seizure by the United States of liquor on British vessels at New York, asked what the Government's policy relative to the difficulties with which British shipping is confronted.

Lord Birkenhead said:

Birkenhead's Reply

"This eminent authority, (evidently meaning Mr. Lloyd George), has exhorted us to keep cool and let America make the great experiment in her own way without interference. I do not know that any of us has shown any inclination to examine the matter in any spirit but complete calmness, and it is generally recognied that no friendly and reasonable representation to the United States could fail to receive a friendly and reasonable reception. Nobody in this country has the slightest intention or desire to make any criticism at all of the United States domestic policy.'

He passed to the legal aspect of the seizures and expressed doubt as to whether a single competent lawyer in the United States had ever suspected that the Volstead 'Act would lead to consequences such as had been brought about by the decision of the United States Supreme Court. A considerable school of international lawyers he contended, held that the British merchant ship carries its nationality with it. That is the case both in the United States and this country.

British shippers continued Lord Birkenhead, had been advised to make a test case in the United States courts, but he failed to see the use of this as it was extremely unlikely that the decision of the Supreme Court would be reversed.

Liquor Only One Way

"Without one word of friendly discussion with the United States, are we to tell British ship owners that we cannot help them " asked Birkenhead, "and that they must hereafter only take liquor as far as the port of destination, and return without liquor?"

He argued that it would be both unfortunate and unnecessary for the British Government to pass over a policy of this kind in silence. No nation in world had a higher conception of common sense and reasonableness than the United States, and it was inconceivable that tactful and courteous representations would be received by it with anything but the gratest respect and friendliness. He hoped British diplomacy would ask the United States, in the exercise of that discretion which a majority of the judges of the Supreme Court of the United States had pointed out it possessed to infuse some mitigation into this system which while maintaining unimpaired the policy of the United States, would at the same time relieve British shipping of a serious and unnecessary burden

Birkenhead cited the pronouncement by the United States Government at the time of a diplomatic discussion with Spain preceding a very difficclt situation:

"We do not question the right of every nation to prescribe conditions under which the vessels of other nations may be admitted to its ports, but nevertheless we point out that these conditions ought not to conflict with sea usages which regulate commercial interourse between civilized nations.'

Viscount Grey expressed anxiety as to the effects the difficulty might have on British relations with the United States. In his opinion liquor smuggling was not a temporary phase, and would cause friction if continued. There was undoubtedly a cause for irritation on both sides, and he urged that a real attempt be made by both governments to settle the question.

FERGUSON

at the depot to welcome Mr. Ferguson.

Mayor W. E. Storey extended the civic greetings, and speeches were delivered from a huge platform in Riverside Park.

Progress Slow.

Mr. Ferguson dwelt mainly on the need for careful handling of provincial affairs, particularly in regard to finances. He gave no statement on his probable Cabinet line-up, but indicated that one of the first acts of the new government would be the appointment of a financial controller. Some people, he said, would expect revolutionary measures, but anyone who knew the serious state of affairs existing in the province would recognize that progress would be for sometime very slow.

The Premier-designate believed, he said, that the sweeping Conservative victory in Ontario ,would be re-echoed throughout Canada at the next Federal election.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen congratulated Kemptiville on having produced a man of the outstanding ability and outstanding courage.

Mr. Meighen thought Ontario's return to Conservative government, would have considerable influence in Federal politics.

Other speakers included C. N. McCrea, of Sudbury, who was introduced as the new Minister of Mines.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson will return to Toronto on Sunday.

Senate Questioned the Payment of Two Judges

OTTAWA, June 29 Canadian Press. — Senator Gordon in the Senate yesterday again referred to the payment of ten thousand dollars apiece to Mr. Justices Latchford and Riddell for services as a Royal Commission, which he claimed was in contravention of the Judges' Act and had degraded the bench.

He asked for the opinion of the Justice department on the legality of the transaction.

Senator Dandurand said that the Senate was entitled to know if its legislation was being obeyed and he would consult the Justice department.

OBITUARY

MRS. GEORGE POTTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29. — Cordelia Jane Peeling, relict of the late George Potts, of Meyersburg, died at 1.30 Thursday p.m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. Annie Chase, of Inkerman Street.

The deceased had been in declining health for a number of years, but her illness did not become acute until a few days ago. At her own request she was taken to her old home at Meyersburg by her nephew, Geo. Haig, one week ago on Sunday, as she felt that the end was near, and wished to see once more the place where she had spent so many years.

The late Mrs. Potts was born in Picton, Prince Edward County, 80 years ago, and was married in 1860 to George Potts, who died in 1920, at Meyersburg, where he kept a store, in 1860. The couple celebrated their golden wedding in 1910.

Mrs. Potts was appointed postmistress of what was at that time a thriving village, and held the position for over forty years, being forced to retire on account of failing health. She never fully recovered from the shock of her husband's death. late Mr. and Mrs. Potts were for years active members of the Methodist church of Meyersburg and both enjoyed the confidence and respect of an only daughter, Mrs. George Bartlet, who resided near Meyersburg, died nine years ago.

The only surviving relatives of the deceased are Mrs. Chase and a brother, George Peeling, who resides in Albany, in the State of Oregon. Another brother, Moses Peeling, whose home was in Campbellford, passed away a few weeks ago.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon to Mount Pleasant cemetery. Rev. H. B. Kenny will conduct religious services at the home of Mrs. Chase, at 2 p.m.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. Ellen Lairs of Pictou, N. S. who is 87, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Chas. N. Nicholas of Winnipeg, Man., finds it both helpful and beneficial, and everything that can be desired from a laxative standpoint.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps.

Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

INSULIN OBTAINED FROM VEGETABLES

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Some of the components of insulin, recently developed drug which were obtainable heretofore only from animal and fish pancreas, may be obtained from long grass, onion tops and other vegetable matter, Dr. J. B. Collip, of the University of Alberta, one of the discovers of the drug, told the convention of the American Medical Association here yesterday. Other speakers expressed the opinion that this enlargement of the insulin field would mean its increased production and at a lower cost to the practitioner and patient for its use in combatting diabetes.

SNAKE IN CELLAR.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(Canadian Press). — McSwiney, a seven-foot snake, belonging to Miss Eleanor Pirkner, of Brooklyn, recently wriggled into the cellar of Albert Heming and coiled himself around a pipe. When Mrs. Heming visited the cellar she nearly had nervous prostration. She appealed to the corner baker, who tried his luck with a pair of shears, but fled when the snake made for him. Later Mr. Heming returned home and killed McSwiney with a shovel. When apprised of her pet's death, Miss Pirkner was very indignant. She explained McSwiney was gentle and harmless and that she used to feed him on white rats every other Thursday until the firm that supplied them went bankrupt. "He got so he'd only eat about once a month," Miss Pirkner said. "He was so fond of white rats."

Stock Exchange Has Amended Constitution

NEW YORK, June 29.— (Canadian Press.)— Amendment to the constitution of the New York Stock Exchange, designed to prevent members from incorporating branch houses for any part of their business so that such corporate business is placed beyond the control of the Exchange, was submitted to the membership yesterday. Unless the amendment is disapproved within one week it will become a law of the Stock Exchange.

The amendment provides that no member or firm registered on the exchange shall act as broker for any corporation or association engaged in the brokerage business if such business is controlled by stock ownership by the member or any of his partners

The Board of Governors, it is said, adopted the new amendment upon learning that some members had incorporated out-of-town branch offices, or had become interested in corporations engaged in a brokerage business and thus were evading responsibility through the Exchange insofar as the business of such corporation was concerned.

Lawrence Tweedy, who recently succeeded William S. Silkworth, as president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, yesterday visited the office of Attorney-General Sherman and peldged his whole-hearted support in the Attorney-General's attempt to clean all bucketshops and irregular brokers out of Wall Street

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN

When Mr. Myers of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, stepped into the drug store and asked his druggist for the best medicine he had in his store for woman's ills, is it any wonder that he was handed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Mrs. L. K. Myers, in writing of it, says: "I had been weak run down and had a pain in my left side for a long time, so I could not do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me in a short time so I was able to do all of my housework, including washing and ironing and now I feel fine all the time." As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for benefitting 98 women out of every 100 women who take it it will pay every suffering woman to try it.

Egyptian women are said to be exceedingly graceful in figure and poise though not beautiful of face.

WIDOW HOPES FOR RESTORATION OF WAGNER'S THEATRE

Son of Composer Proposes a Trip Across Atlantic to Raise Funds — Closed Since 1914.

By Carl D Groat

BAYREUTH, Bavaria Jnue 29 .— (nUited Press).—A withered old woman lies tossing in pain upon the bed to which she has been confined for years in a molding. weather-beaten old house atop the hill over looking the wonderful Bayreuther Valley.

But the pain is drugged with a new-found joy and a vision of her husband the Great Richard Wagner of Germany, restored to honor.

High-minded Americans are to re build the settings for nature's greatest opera scene and resume, she believes, the big Bayreuther festivals in memory of the famed composer.

She does not know that her son is planning to go to America to earn money on the concert stage for the proposed restoration. She thinks some great charitable Americans are going to help us put the forest theatre in shape to resume father's plays."

Old Lady Cosima Wagner is now eighty-five and the son, Siegfried, fears to tell her that he may go across the ocean. The shock might kill her. He merely has said that the money is coming from charitable millionaires in that western fairyland across the Atlantic, where there are dollars many dollars.— dollars to restore the music of Wagner to its place of honor on the Bavarian hillside.

Cried With Joy

"Ach, mein lieber!" the old lady cried with tears of joy in her eyes when her son brought the news.

"Those are great people. the Americans. I do hope their plan comes through. Will it not be wonderful?"

Since 1906, Lady Cosima has not been active. When the theatre was closed in 1914 it nearly broke her heart. As each day passed since then her hope has been fading with her strength, and now—just as she has been revived and made young again. All the error of bedridden years are swept away by this new hope.

Sigfried told the United Press correspondent he did not have the heart to tell his widowed mother of his plan to go to America for concerts.

"I guess it's all right for me to tell her I am going on a tour of Italy, because that is not so far away, an she is accustomed to that," he said.

Wagner is anxious to hear an American jazz orchestra.

"I want to see everything in America, but particularly I am anxious to hear that what-you-call-it—jazz," he said. "I guess it must be atrocious if it is anything like the music I hear in the restaurants of Germany, but it surely must be interesting."

Shuddered at Jazz

It was explained to him that the musical product of a jazz band is much similar to the co-ordinated out put of a squad of saxaphones He shuddered.

"That must be schrecklich—fright fu," he said.

In reply to a question as to whether he thought jazz a sign of cultural deterioration he replied:

"Oh no; certainly not. Some like that sort of thing and others not. In America you have plenty of orchestras, and plenty of classical music. There must be thousands of lovers and appreciators of real music."

Wagner explained his plans for concerts had been somewhat disturbed by critics in musical magazines who accuse him of shielding behind the desire to restore the Bayreuth spectacles, another motive of personal greed. He referred to the statement of Otto Kahn, musical philanthropist that "We shouldn't offer any more money on the altar of Wagner."

"If I were twenty-four instead of more than fifty, I would gladly make the trip free, but I am old," Siegfreid said. "I have a household of fourteen —my wife mother, four children and seven servants to support.

"I am willing to make the trip for one-fourth of the receipts, or less. with the remainder or the beloved Bayreuther theatre.

Needs $75,000

Chorus girls and actors cost all of 25 cents a day to maintain, minus their beer or schnapps he mused, while tabulating the cost to resume the Bayreuther festivals. A large number of Americans and English attended them before the war. All-in all he concluded it would take 60,000 to $75,000 to rehabilitate the massive forest theatre and provide it with scenery and actors. It would have cost $100,000 to $150,000 before the war.

Wagner, with his former English wife at his side, swore that the venture was not commercial, so far as he is concerned.

"We did have a couple of bad winters here," he added. "We couldn't buy enough food and had to close our beautiful villa.

"But I think I should have some return for my trouble.

"My chief concern is that the Bayreuth fund be in the proper hands, but so far I have no guarantees that the American committee would over take this task.

"I don't want to go to America and return penniless with shattered nerves as has been the case with Strauss and others who went there since the war."

A SERIOUS CASE OF NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Benefited by WINCARNIS

"Some time ago I had a very serious nervous breakdown. I was in such a debilitated condition that an infection of my blood followed an attack of ulcerative sore throat, and I began to lose weight and strength at an alarming rate. As my condition grew worse, it became impossible for me to get a full night's sleep.

When my nervousness and weakness became almost unbearable I began taking Wincarnis, and the improvement was very noticeable before I had finished the first bottle. I am now myself again, and both my father and my son are taking Wincarnis because they have seen how wonderfully it acted in my case. Wincarnis is certainly a remarkable tonic for those suffering from nervous exhaustion, thin blood, sleeplessness or great debility."

Canadian Cattle Have Not Caused Price Drop

LONDON, June 29. —(Canadian Press Cable.)—Enquiry was made in the house of commons yesterday regarding the effect of the removal of the embargo against Canadian store cattle on the prices of meat in the United Kingdom. Incidentally the questioner pointed out that fat cattle had been imported and advertised for sale within a fortnight of landing.

Sir Robert Sanders, minister of agriculture replied that the retail price of beef had not been reduced since the beginning of April.

Commenting on the statement that alleged store cattle had been slaughtered within a fortnight of landing the minister said he understood the buyer referred to had intended to graze the cattle for two months, but falling prices had caused him to change his mind. Nevertheless explicit instructions had been given inspectors at the ports of entry regarding the distinction to be observed between store and fat cattle.

THE WETS AND DRYS TO EMBARASS CONGRESS

Liquor Question May Be Overshadowing Issue at Next Meeting.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(Canadian Press)—Signs multiply that Congress will be greatly embarrassed by the wet and dry issue next session, to say nothing of the fact that this issue is now embarrassing the administration, various state governments and the party chieftains.

The recent expression of Senator Borah in which he indicated apprehension lest the wet and dry question become the oyershadowing one when Congress meets again and in the political situation, is symptomatic of the feeling here among many public men.

Thus far, it is utterly impossible to see the end of the ship liquor complications. This is true regardless of the fact the administration is taking of asking Congress to change the law so as to admit ship liquor on foreign vessels under seal and Secretary Hughes is talking of making treaties with foreign powers which will permit ship liquor to come into this country under seal provided the three mile limit is extended to twelve miles.

But the recent Supreme Court decision in which it interpreted not merely the Volstead Act but the prohibition amendment to the Constitution was sweeping in the extreme. It gave so sweeping a construction of the amendment and held it inhibitions to be so rigid that many good lawyers here do not believe it can be made more lenient by treaty or by legislation.

It is, of course, true that by failing to legislate for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment in one particular and another, Congress can be in direction nullify it. But will the dry permit that. Morever, the administration has raised objections to the non-enforcement policy of Governor Al Smith of New York State. For the federal government to advocate what amounts to non-enforcement of some of the provisions of the eighteenth amendment under such circumstance is not easy. It might become highly embarrassing to the administration if the drys in Congress should condemn any shading down of the law or non-enforcement of any feature of the dry amendment.

Many believe the wet and dry question will be up next session in numerous ways and that it will consume so many months of argument and discussion in both houses as seriously to interfere with other subjects that need attention, such as the railroad and transportation problem.

Near East Conference Is Still A Deadlock

LAUSANNE, June 29. Canadian Press. — Great Britain, France and Italy are still short of an agreement in regard to the form of the last word to be given the Turks in an attempt to settle the deadlock in the Near East Peace conference. According to information in Allied circles the Allies have decided to despatch a collective note or make a common statement to the Turks, setting forth their final views on the problems of the Ottoman debt, and the evacuation of Constantinople and Gallipoli, but thus far have been unable to agree in regard to the text.

The Allied plenipotentiaries yesterday compared the latest instructions received from their respective governments, only to find dissimilarities of a nature necessitating further communications with London, Paris and Rome, and several days are expected to elapse before a full accord can be reached

Meanwhile the conference continues suspended with the Turks apparently amused at the diculties confronting the European nations in their efforts to agree upon a common programme.

Olympic Stadium Will Be Finished by January

PARIS, June 29 — (Canadian Press).—The new stadium at Colombes, which will be the scene of the Olympic games of 1924, will be completed by January 1 next and will have accommodations or 70,000 spectators, instead of 60,000 as originally planned it was officially announced by the Chief Olympic Committee yesterday.

Since the incidents which attended the opening of the new Wembly Stadium in England in April when even this immense structure failed to accommodate all who desired admission some alterations have been decided upon in the Colombes Stadium One stand which provided seating accommodations for 10,000 persons will be altered so as to furnish standing room for 20,000 instead. Work on the swimming pool was begun yesterday.

Don't let diapers irritate your baby's skin

Keep your baby's diapers soft and comfortable. Wash them in pure, safe Lux suds and thoroughly rinse.

There is no free alkali in Lux to stick to them and make them irritating. No harmful ingredient to inflame the sensitive skin. These pure flakes are safe for all the clothes that touch his tender skin.

To keep diapers from irritating

To prepare for washing: Remove all solid matter immediately—put to soak in cold water. If diapers are simply wet place in a covered pail and let soak in cold water.

To wash: Whisk two tablespoonsfuls of Lux into a thick lather in a tub of very hot water. Let diapers soak for a few minutes then dip up and down pressing suds repeatedly through them. Thoroughly rinse in three waters. Boil diapers once a week using one tablespoonful of Lux to a gallon of water.

ENGLAND TO MAKE BIG INCREASE IN AIR FORCE

"One - Power" Standard Will Be Established By the Baldwin Cabinet — Combined Industrial and War Measure.

(By LYLE C. WILSON)

LONDON, June 29 (United Press).—According to figures just compiled here France has 140 first line air squadrons comprising approximately 1,400 planes. In addition are about 600 second string and training ships. By the end of 1923 France will have increased her air force by 60 first line squadrons of 10 planes each.

Great Britain has 32 squadrons, including 390 first line machines engaged in Constantinople, Palestine, Irak, Egypt India and minor foreign stations.

The Italian air force comprises 250 planes, to which will be added 750 modern fighters by the end of 1923.

Japan, under the tutelage of French and English officers, has 12 squadrons in commission and is adding 156 more planes and a giant dirigible.

The air force of France is figured as more effective than those of the rest of the world combined.

ONE POWER STANDARD

England is about to adopt a "one-power" standard in the air.

Premier Baldwin's government will act favorably on the report of the Parliamentary committee on Air Force, which is expected to recommend such a sweeping increase in the air defenses of the Empire, an official in close touch with the English Air Ministry told the United Press.

Lord Salisbury, chairman of the committee, recently forecasted the recommendations when he told the House of Lords that an increase in the Royal Air Force is both necessary and imminent.

Sir Samuel Hoare, chief of the Air Ministry and the first Air Minister to sit in the English Cabinet, has announced that an expansion of the R. A. F. is bound to take place.

Sir Samuel's inclusion in the Cabinet with rank equal to that of the First Lord of the Admiralty and of the Secretary of State for War signifies that England will organize her air defense as a third and separate defensive and offensive unit. Efforts to effect a combination of the R. A. F. as a subsidiary arm to the navy and army have been unsuccessful.

LIFE OF THE NATION

"The expansion of the R. A. F. must be so organized as to make aviation and air defense an integral part of the life of the nation," Hoare declared.

"Though the brunt of home defense will always fall upon the highly trained regular squadrons, a definite place should be found for the growing number of men of every class, sportsmen, scientists, engineers and artisans, who year by year are taking a keener interest in aviation," the Air Minister added.

Stripped of its generalizations, Sir Samuel's statement means that England will soon organize a Territorial Air Force. The English Territorial is like the American Militiaman, a link between the professional services and the civilian population. Efficient Territorial units already exist in all branches of the navy and army.

To organize Territorial units where Sir Samuel's "sportsmen, scientists, engineers and artisans" are available would put the plums of government subsidy and extensive flying fields in the industrial centers of England.

STATIONS IN BIG CITIES

Manchester, Leeds, possibly Plymouth, surely London and one or two of the northwest counties would win the prizes. It is essential that each of those places be properly protected and they will be used as junction points for commercial airways. Each could easily supply persons equipped with the special mechanical and scientific skill necessary to the existence of an Air Force.

The flying personnel of the R. A. F. is the least difficult to obtain, according to a reliable authority in touch with the Air Ministry. The backbone of the flying service is the ground staff.

Territorial flying units will open the way to a goal England has long sought, the best and most comprehensive domestic airways obtainable. These domestic airways will, in turn, be the nucleus of far-reaching lines to the dominions and other parts of the world.

Once started, the English air program will increase of its own momentum. Necessities of empire, coupled with an adequate plan of action, will result in the creation of a system of commercial airways based on the convertible into fighting units.

AGGRESSIVE FOREIGN POLICY

England is governed by a conservative premier and his tory cabinet. Conservatism stands for an aggressive foreign policy.

The Conservative party bought, seized or borrowed the hundreds of thousands of square miles in all the continents which make up the British Empire.

To insure the life of that Empire, it has been pointed out, is the chief duty of Conservatism.

European warriors and statesmen are becoming more and more convinced that no nation, to say nothing of an Empire, can endure under present conditions without adequate air defense and transport.

It is a foregone conclusion that one of Premier Baldwin's acts during his first year of office will be to inaugurate an air program of tremendous scope.

The first step will be the creation of home units. Those completed, the tentacles of English air power will encircle the world as English sea power dominated and enwrapped the globe during the three hundred years before the great war.

BEST I HAVE EVER TAKEN

So says Mr. John Brooks in describing the relief he found in Dreco, the famous herbal remedy.

Mr. John Brooks, a well-known citizen of 82 Chestnut Street, Toronto, makes an interesting statement in which he praises Dreco highly. Let him tell how this wonderful medicine helped him.

"I have taken many things for catarrh in my head, nose and throat, without relief. I believe it was this condition that caused my stomach to get in bad shape. The food I ate would not agree with me and would sour in my stomach, and I also had pains in my back and dizzy spells.

"Dreco relieved these pains and dizzy spells and I can walk along the street now without fear of them overtaking me. I sleep fine and have a good appetite and no longer have that sluggish, tired feeling. Dreco has proved to be a wonderful medicine for me, the best I have ever taken."

Praise of this nature coming from responsible people tells its own story of the value of Dreco as a corrective for all digestive complaints. It is prepared expressly to regulate the stomach, liver and bowels and offers quick relief from many distressing symptoms.

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is compounded solely from herbs, roots, bark and leaves of known medicinal value.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

FOUND PEARL NECKLACE.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(Canadian Press)—Finding a string of pearls in the gutter outside the Biltmore Hotel, two young men tossed them to the door attendant, thinking they were "only dirty beads." John Hussey, the attendant, however, kept the necklace and watched the papers. A few days later an advertisement appeared offering a reward for the return of a lost string of pearls, and today Hussey is richer by $250.

An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and tol dme to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

SELL LAND TO PEASANTS SOLVE LABOR PROBLEMS

JACKSON, Miss., June 29.—(United Press)—Forty and eighty tracts of the world's finest cotton lands are to be offered by European peasants on long-term notes by business men of Greenwood, in the heart of the long staple cotton belt of the United States.

S. M. Dort, business man of Greenwood, suggested the plan, which was endorsed by the planters and merchants of that city at a mass meeting. He is to go to northern Europe this summer and sell the land to the farmers and arrange for their transportation to the delta region.

Expenses of the plan, about $30,000, are to be borne by Greenwood business men, and will be raised at a meeting to be held soon.

Greenwood is in the heart of the negro belt of Mississippi and planters have been seriously handicapped by the labor shortage, resulting from negro exodus to the north. They believe the Dort plan will relieve the labor shortage.

WHAT'S GOING ON

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Every day it becomes plainer that, to the average voter, prohibition will be the main issue of the 1924 political campaign.

The politicians would like to straddle but President Harding has put the Republicans on record as drys, and there's small chance that anybody can get the Democratic presidential nomination who isn't somewhat sympathetic, at least, toward the wets.

The Eighteenth Amendment's repeal won't be asked. The demand will be for what the wets call reasonable interpretation of:

What's an intoxicating drink?

* * *

Prohibition at Sea

The administration admits it's "in the air" over the question of letting foreign ships bring liquor into American waters for their own use—under seal while here.

Our law says they mustn't. Several countries have laws compelling their ships to serve wine to their crews. They must break THEIR laws to obey OURS. The administration says they must obey OURS anyway. This causes such a snarl that they're told, on the "q. t.," they won't be bothered if they're VERY CAREFUL.

The administration realizes this position's dangers so keenly that Congress is to be asked to change the law. The trouble is, Congress surely won't. Most drys won't vote for a change. Neither will the wets, —for one like this. They want wine and beer in the United States. They don't care about foreign ships. They're glad the administration's in trouble. They figure trouble will hasten a change—a big change, not the little one the administration wants.

* * *

Drink Smuggling Problem

One administration plan is to allow foreign ships to bring liquors under seal into American ports if their countries will let America extend her anti-drink-smuggling raids from three to twelve miles out at sea.

British newspapers call attention to the fact that England almost went to war with Russia a few weeks ago rather than permit the latter to stretch her territorial waters' limit from three to twelve miles.

The French and Italian press takes the view that the United States is trying to "dry up" foreign ships so that they'll no longer have a big advantage in getting passengers away from America's own dry merchant vessels.

* * *

Meeting is Postponed

The president was going to meet the governors of the states to talk over with them plans for making prohibition work. He postponed this meeting, he doesn't say for how long. Of course the wets say he found out that some governors meant to tell him they don't think the law ever can be made to work. The administration answers that when the president called the meeting, he really intended to have one—"in good faith."

More Chinese Confusion

With Li Yuan Hung's resignation as president of China, the powers are talking more than ever of "intervening" there to protect their resident citizens and interests.

They might grab a few cities. The Chinese haven't an army or arms worth mentioning and don't stick together well. A small, well-armed force could hold a given spot or cut a path across the country quite easily. Cruisers and gunboats can control the coast and big rivers.

But to police all China is different. It would take millions of soldiers a generation or two, and they might fail then.

However, foreign meddling can keep the Chinese squabbling among themselves.

President Li fled Peking when Feng Yu Hsiang, the so-called Christian general, threatened to seize the city. Maybe Li meant to set up his government somewhere else, but Feng's followers caught him at Tientsin and made him resign.

The Peking cabinet is trying to govern temporarily without a president.

Worried Over Bulgaria

Europe's badly worried over what may follow the militarists' overthrow of the "farm bloc" cabinet under Premier Stambulisky in Bulgaria.

Bulgaria took the losing side in the World War. Beaten, Stambulisky came into power. He submitted to the allies' terms. These were severe. Bulgaria lost much. Yet the allies promised her a few advantages, to console her a little. Their promises weren't kept. All Bulgaria reaped was a net loss.

Bulgaria's neighbor, Turkey, didn't submit. She defied the allies and fought. England's protege, Greece. Instead of being weakened, as Bulgaria was by submitting, Turkey strengthened herself immensely.

What Europe fears is that King Boris and his new premier, Prof. Zankif, are figuring on following Turkey's example now, and trying to take forcibly what Bulgaria wants.

* * *

Where Will It Stop?

Bulgaria can satisfy her ambitions only at Jugoslavia's, Roumania's and Greece's expense. Their troops are ready to resist. Hungary probably will take a hand, if fighting starts. Even farther-away Czechoslavakia is uneasy.

If these countries took the war trail, where would it stop? In Europe, these times, nobody can tell. That's why there's so much anxiety over what, in itself, is a small disturbance.

For awhile the powers hoped Stambulisky would stage a "come back". They know now he won't. He's been killed.

SOME RACE.

Sunny Jim, Bessie Brooks and Polly Stout will have a great fight for first place in the 2.15 class race at Port Hope on Monday next. Five horsese have been entered in each of the other two races, 2.20 and 2.30 classes.

SENSATION IN DELORME CASE

Skull of Raoul Delorme Will Probably Be Exhibited.

MONTREAL, June 29. Canadian Press. — Captain Detective Pigeon will take the stand this morning for the defence in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme, charged with having murdered his half brother Raoul in January, 1922. There will however be no lengthy cross examination.

Alleyn Taschchereau, K. C., began the cross examination of the witness late yesterday afternoon having told the court that he would not likely be more than half an hour before he would be through.

The production in court of the skull of Raoul Delorme, which was exhumed on Wednesday, will probably take place to-day. It was expected that it would be exhibited yesterday but the prosecution evidently decided otherwise. It is believed that this gruesome exhibit will provide one of the sensations of the trial.

Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out, and that is to dissolve them. Get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts, and every blackhead will be gone. Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores, and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of peroxine powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA'S ELEVATOR CAPACITY.

Q—What is Canada's elevator capacity?

A—The 3,700 licensed grain elevators in the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta have a total storage capacity of over 100,000,000 bushels. Ontario, Quebec and Maritime Provinces have storage elevators with capacity up to 33,180,000 bushels.

CANADA'S MILLING INDUSTRY.

Q—What is the strength of the Canadian Milling Industry?

A—With wheat as one of Canada's fundamental products, the milling industry should become one of the leading industries of Canada, if, indeed, it is not the leader from the standpoint of the value of products. The value of milling products in 1920 amounted to $239,255,461, and in 1919 to $262,763,392. In 1919 the capital invested in the milling industry amounted to over $76,000,000 The number of plants in operation was 1,253. These plants had a daily (24-hour) capacity of 141,280 barrels of flour and cereals.

TOO MANY GIGGLERS.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(Canadian Press)—That there are too many gigglers in the United States and that it does not require much effort to make Americans laugh, was the assertion of Ewan S. Agnew, director of the British weekly Punch, who recently returned home to England after a visit in this country.

Fountain pens are long, slender instruments you shake to spatter ink all over creation.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY'S WEIGHT.

There is nothing that for the time given to it will pay so good a dividend in the future as to keep a record of the baby day by day. I don't mean one of those fancy records in which the baby's parents, grandparents and friends come in for a large share of the space but a good sensible record chart with no frills and few words.

One need not buy a special book for this purpose but just a good solid back notebook one that will stand much handling and won't lose its pages.

Allow a full page for each week. Under the week's heading, which carries the date, have such subheads as weight, height, number of feedings, amount of feedings, symptoms, miscellaneous.

The first two headings speak for themselves and as babies are always weighed once a week these items can be noted without trouble.

If the baby is nursed one can leave this space vacant until such time as new foods are introduced.

Amount of feeding refer of course to bottle formulas and it is such a comfort to be able to look back to such a chart in order to refresh your mind as to just what the baby was taking at a certain age and weight. It's surprising how these things slip from the mind and they are invaluable aid in taking care of another baby. Also if the baby is ill they are splendid helps for the doctor.

If the food disagrees this may be noted along with the other natural changes; under the head of symptoms—a new tooth, a smile, the first word, may all be set down in this column with the date.

Miscellaneous will take care of the various jottings of perhaps little value but that of sentiment, the outings, visits, whatever arises in the baby's life which does not fit into the other columns.

SUMMER SKIN AILMENTS.

Even this early in the summer babies dressed in part woolen garments beginning to show the effects of it by breaking out in heat rashes. This is the signal for taking off some of the wool. When it is hot, it is just as hot for baby, and he should no more be burdened with woolen garments than we. In fact his blood runs faster and he exercises more actively so that he should have less garments than we allow ourselves.

Just a part wool band, a diaper for decency sake when he is taken out, a thin cotton slip is enough. If the weather turns cool it is easy enough to add a cotton shirt, cotton hose and a light sack. In the meantime he is much better off without them.

This is the way to prevent prickly heat which is most annoying and will make the baby irritable and upset For the relief, there is nothing better perhaps than soda water used freely and often. Powdered starch is good to use as a powder or part boric acid and starch But prevention is better than any cure.

Bites of insects can be relieved by the use of common, diluted household ammonia. This takes out the sting and itch.

Sun burn should be treated like any other burn and first washed with soda water or soap suds and then well plastered with vaseline.

Chafing can be treated by the use of stearate of zinc powder if it is not too bad; or zinc ointment if the soreness is severe. During the hot days the baby should be sponged several times a day and powdered so that chafing may be prevented.

REX BEACH

Copyright 1922 by REX BEACH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray comes to Dallas and rents the most expensive hotel suite in the city. He calls at the office of Colonel Henry Nelson, his enemy, and informs him that he means to break him financially. Gray falls in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for Nelson. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Ma Briskow and daughter, Allegheny, to the mountains. Gray calls to see his friends and he and Ma Briskow pretend they believe in fairies. Ma says she is a princess and Gray calls himself a duke. Ma shows Gray where she walks daily.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

But the princess raised her slim, jeweled hand, and spoke thus: "Too late, Your Honor! I been married to His Royal Highness the Earl of Briskow, and it serves you right the way you done both of us."

The duke fell into a great rage at this. He refused to believe it, and threatened to annul the marriage.

"Oh, you can't do that," tittered the princess. "We was married by the Royal Justice of the Peace and—we got two children."

Here was a blow! The duke was crushed, until a happy thought came to him. If cruel fate prevented him from claiming the Princess Pensacola, for a bride he would take her for a mother. He had always wanted a mother, anyhow; lack of maternal care it was that accounted for his wildness—it was enough to ruin any duke—and mothers were much nicer than wives. They were much harder to get, also.

"Lord! I wish you mean it!" Ma exclaimed, in a matter-of-fact tone. "I wish Allie was a real princess. Mebbe—"

Gray broke in with a laugh. "There! You've spoiled the play. The duke has fled."

Mrs. Briskow's wrinkled face beamed. "Think of a gre't big man like you playin' 'pretend' with a foolish old woman like me! I thought you had more sense."

"I live in my own land of 'pretend,' just as you do. Why, I have a real princess of my own."

"Honest?"

Gray nodded. "The Princess of Wichita Falls. Would you like to hear about her? Well, she's small and dainty, as princesses should be, and her eyes are like bluebells, Ma. I send her roses, mostly, so they can kiss her cheeks for me. A tiny yellow love bird in a tiny yellow cage sings her awake every morning. I taught it to sing the song it warbles, but—she'll never understand what the little bird is trying to say."

Ma Briskow had listened with rapt attention. Now, she inquired, "Does she love you?"

"Didn't I tell you this was my game of pretense?" Gray said, gayly.

As the two entered the hotel grounds, Gus and Allie hurried to meet them.

At sight of her husband's face Ma inquired, in sudden anxiety, "What's wrong, Gus?"

"It's Buddy," Allie declared.

"'Tain't serious," Briskow said. "And it is, too. He's left school—run away! Here, Mr. Gray, see what you make out of it."

Gray read aloud the letter that was handed to him, a letter from the principal of the institution that he himself had recommended, stating that Ozark had disappeared without doing the college authorities the courtesy of leaving an address. As to Ozark's safety, there was no immediate cause for apprehension, for he had taken with him three trunks of clothing, a high-powered touring car, and a Belgian police dog; but certain of the young man's exploits that had come to light since his departure aroused grave doubts in the principal's mind of his moral well-being.

"What's it mean?" the mother inquired.

"It means that Buddy has taken a vacation. How much money has he?"

"He's got plenty," Gus declared. "More'n is good for him if—"

"If what?" Ma queried.

Gus halted; it was Allie who answered: "If he's done what we think he's done—gone away after some woman."

"Some woman?" Ma stared blankly from one face to another. "Buddy in love? Why, he never wrote me nothing about bein' in love." Reading a further message in her husband's expression, she cried, fiercely: "He's a good boy. He wouldn't take up with—with nobody that wasn't nice. What makes you think it's a girl?"

"I didn't say 'girl,' Ma. I said 'woman.' Buddy's been writin' to me and—"

"What's the difference? Mebbe he's in love with some nice young woman an' they've run away to git married. Buddy's han'some, and they got nice women everywhere—"

HERE WAS A BLOW! THE DUKE WAS CRUSHED.

"Love? With all his money? And him only up to fractions?" Allegheny laughed scornfully.

Gus Briskow wiped his face with a nervous hand. "I'm 'most sick over it," he confessed. "The professor has written me a couple times about him. Buddy's gone kinda wild, I guess, drinkin' an'—"

"Drinking, eh?" Gray was frowning. "The woman part I don't care so much about—he'll probably get over that if it isn't too serious. But whisky! That's different. I'm responsible for that boy; in a manner of speaking, I adopted him because—well, because he flattered me by pretending to admire me. It was a unique experience. I took Buddy for my own. Will you let me handle this matter?" The speaker looked from one parent to the other, and they saw that his face was grimly set. "Give me my way and I'll bring that young rascal to time or—" He shrugged, he smiled faintly. "Give me permission to treat him as if he really were my own, will you?"

"You got my leave," said the father; but Ma Briskow bristled.

"Don't you dast to hurt him," she cried.

"You can't beat anything into Buddy's head." It was Allie speaking. "After all, he's grown up, and what right has anybody got to interfere with him? S'pose it is a woman? S'pose she is after his money? It's his. Men can get what they want by payin' for it. An hour, a day, a week of happiness! Ain't that worth all Buddy'll have to pay? I'd pay. I'd go through torture the rest of my life—"

"Allegheny Briskow!" the mother exclaimed.

"Well, I would." The girl's voice broke, a sudden agitation seized her; in passionate defiance she went on: "What's the use of wanting something all your life and never getting it? What's money for if you can't buy the one thing you want worst of all? That's where men have got the best of it; they can buy love. I wish I was a man; I wish I was Buddy! I'd have my day, my week, and as much more as I could pay for. I'd have happiness that long if it broke my heart. But I'm a girl!"

It was with a sudden interest that Gray studied the speaker. Here was a side to the Briskow character that he had not suspected, and it gave him a new light upon Buddy, for brother and sister were much alike; it showed him more clearly the size of the task he had volunteered to undertake. He heard the father speaking, and reluctantly withdrew his eyes from Allie's flaming face.

"He likes you, Mr. Gray, an' mebbe you could keep him from spollin' his bull life. That's what he's liable to do an'—I'm skeered. He wouldn't listen to me. Boys don't listen to their fathers."

"I'll find him, Gus, and I'll make him listen to me. I will put detectives on the case, and they will report to me at Wichita Falls. As soon as they uncover his trail, I'll go to Buddy at once."

"You goin' to leave us?"

"I must. I've just received a telegram from my—my agent. About the purchase of a well. It is a matter that can't wait."

"I can't thank you for all you done for us. We was in bad shape till you come. Now—"

"Now everything is straight again. That's my job, Gus—to do little odd favors for those I love. You must stay here, for Ma's happy, and this place is making a girl of her. Allie is doing wonders with herself, too. By the way, she needn't be lonely any more; I've talked to some of the guests, and they want to make friends with her. She'll find them nice people, and you must make her meet them halfway. Perhaps she'll become interested in some decent young fellow. I'd like that, wouldn't you?"

"Would ye!"

The tone of this inquiry caused Gray to glance more keenly at the speaker, but Briskow's bright eyes told him nothing.

"Why, naturally. Allie is becoming more attractive every day, and she is going to make something of herself. She is going to 'do us all proud.'"

As soon as he was alone Gray eagerly reread his telegram from Wichita Falls. It was from Barbara Parker—the first, by the way, that he had ever received—and he smiled at the girl's effort to be thoroughly businesslike, and at the same time to convey the full urgency of her message. Why had she economized on words when every one was precious to him? Buy that well? Of course he would, if she so earnestly desired it. But what was better by far than the prospect of a profitable purchase was the fact of her personal interest in him. When it came to the last line of her message, "Bob" had plunged into a ten-word riot of extravagance.

"The bird is darling. I have named him after you."

It was late that night. The southbound flyer had gone through. The Briskows were sitting in the pleasant parlor of their handsome suite, but they were like three mourners. Ma and Pa were soberly discussing the news about Buddy, Allegheny was staring in somber meditation at nothing. The girl was bitter, rebellious, for never had she felt so utterly alone as at this moment. To that question which monotonously repeated itself, she could form no answer. Did he care, or was it all pity—just his way?

She heard his name and her own mentioned, and she became attentive. "What's this? He wants me to meet these people halfway?" she inquired. "What for? I don't like 'em."

"He says you're goin' ahead tremendous, and we'll all be proud of you. Mebbe you'll meet some nice young fellas—"

"He said that, did he?" Allie's voice was sharp.

A FEW STYLE HINTS FOR THE "BREAD AND BUTTER" GIRL

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 28.—(United Press).—

Dear Hedda Hoyt
I know a girl
Who reads the guff
You write about
The latest fads
And she is dressed
In duds that look
About as old
As old Tut's bones
And as she reads
That ostrich fans
Are just the thing
To shoo a fly
And that three loops
Of costly pearls
Should hang where one
Entwined last season;
That Ermine jacquettes
Worked in gold
Are worn by the debutantes,
Her threadbare shoulders
Heave a sigh.
Now in the name
Of K.C.B.
Are there no styles
For such girls as she?
I wonder!

H. G. M.

* * * *

Space prevents me from replying to H. G. M. in the above manner, but there certainly are styles for the bread-and-butter girl. Summer, with its inexpensive fabrics and its wide color range, offers tremendous opportunities to such a girl. However, she must have brains and the ability to stretch a dollar like an elastic band.

Clothes need not be expensive to be beautiful. Who shall say that the orchid is prettier than the vivid rose, simply because it is the chosen flower of society and costs as much per blossom as a room full of wild roses?

The poor girl can be as charming in cotton fabrics as the society girl in her "fur jacquette worked in gold" if she but chooses colors best suited to her lines that display most effectively her youthful charms.

A Few Dress Hints.

Here are a few hints which may assist the girl with a limited dress income in the purchasing of her summer wardrobe:

Instead of the popular pleated skirt, buy your material by the yard and have it pleated over the hips only. This will give the popuar side panel effect and no repleating will be needed during the summer, as pleats that fall over the back of the skirt soon come out of pleat.

Cotton crepe undergarments are inexpensive, wear well and require no ironing. Voille and cotton crepes are quite as pretty as organdy and do not muss easily. They also are replacing ginghams, as they laundry more easily. Trimmed in wool flowers, hemstitiching or featherstitching they are extremely lovely though inexpensive.

White canvas shoes are cheaper, clean easier and look as well as kid ones.

By sewing narrow velvet ribbon about the brim of an expensive hat, placing a velvet band about the crown, one has a smart little hat at little expense.

A Pretty Sport Blouse.

Two bandana squares sewn together at the sides with the ends left for tying on the hips and tacked together at the shoulders make a pretty sport blouse. Cotton squares in pretty pasel colors are less costly than the silk squares and do not fade off on the body as do silk ones.

Hew to the line of the silhouette, though our material be the cheapest cotton.

Colored shoes may be bronzed when old.

Sheer white stockings are not as becoming on the leg as heavier ones.

Keep your entire wardrobe in harmonizing colors that can be worn together without clashing. Keep hats and shoes in subdued shades.

Remove sleeves and cut off skirt of old dress and behold the fashionable swimming dress of today.

Be a bread-and-butter girl if necessary, but have a few jam accomplishments!

MILLS ARE PUTTING SCOURINGS IN FEED

Accusations of Abuses Are Brought Up in the House of Commons. Third Reading of Bill.

OTTAWA, June 29.—(Canadian Press)—Third reading was given by the House yesterday to a bill amending the feeding stuffs act. Complaint was made J. L. Brown (Progressive, Lisgar) that mills were not only putting screening into feed mixtures, but actual scourings. He believed the by-products should be kept distinct and no mixtures allowed. If the mills were permitted to mix scourings with bran and shorts, it would be found, he said, that the pure products would be on the market to so limited extent as to be unobtainable.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture agreed that there were abuses. He thought it would not be well, nevertheless, to go from the extreme of allowing free mixtures to prohibiting mixing altogether.

Donald Sutherland urged the minister to put something in the bill to prevent the adulteration of millfeed which had, he maintained, poisoned many cattle. He remarked that the introduction of screening mixtures into millfeed had taken place at the same time as the permission was granted for the sale of margarine.

"There seemed to be an idea," he added, "that by feeding these mixtures they could get the dairy cow to produce oleo instead of butter."

John Millar (Progressive, Qu'Appelle) commented on an objection that in order to carry out the suggestion to exclude screenings from millfeed it would be necessary for the mills to introduce new machinery.

"It is a question", he said, "either of the mills introducing new machinery or of the livestock changing its digestive machinery."

"If this regulation goes into effect it will be absolutely impossible for the western farmer to get shorts at all," commented Thomas Sales (Progressive, Saltcoats).

BEST STORIES OF GREAT HUMORISTS

Ward rests me more than any living man. This was the testimony of Abraham Lincoln to the great American humorist, Charles Farrar Browne, better known by his pen-name Artemus Ward. We have it on the authority of Dr. Russell H. Conwell, that Lincoln kept a much-worn copy of the News Stand Edition of the "Life and Sayings of Artemus Ward" on a small side table in his study in the White House, and often turned to it when he wished for some relief from the cares of state. On many occasions Browne visited the President and they swapped yarns with much enjoyment. It is related that at a special meeting of his cabinet on Sept. 22, 1862, Lincoln pulled a book from his pocket, and said, "Gentlemen, did you ever read anything from Artemus Ward? Let me read you a chapter this is very funny." Not a member of the cabinet smiled, as they considered that they were there for serious business. Secretary Stanton, who always took himself very seriously, was angry, for Lincoln's action seemed to him to be near buffoonery. Lincoln, however, read the whole chapter deliberately, then laughed heartily, although not a single member of the cabinet joined with him. Nothing daunted, he read another chapter. At last he threw the book down, heaved a sigh, and said, "Gentlemen, why don't you laugh? With the fearful strain that is upon me night and day, if I did not laugh I should die, and you need this medicine as much as I do." Saying which, Lincoln extracted a document that historic piece of writing, the Emancipation Proclamation. The effect on the cabinet was electric. Stanton was the first to make the amende honorable. "Mr. President," he exclaimed, enthusiastically, "if reading chapters of Artemus Ward is a prelude to such a deed as that, the book should be filed among the archives of the nation and the author should be canonized. Henceforth I see the light, and the country is saved."

Neither in his own life-time nor since his death in Southampton, on March 6, 1867, when he succumbed to tuberculosis in his thirty-third year, has Artemus Ward been regarded as a saint, but he holds a secure place as an original genius in the literary annals of the American people, and his whimsical jokes are still read with delight in all parts of the English-speaking world. Artemus Ward and Abraham Lincoln were alike in this respect—at bottom they were both melancholy men. Both suffered irreparable loss in early youth through the tragic deaths of their first loves. Perhaps this accounts for Lincoln's tender interest in Artemus Ward. Both, however, struggled on through life with the conviction that it was their duty to cheer up those with whom they came in contact. Both were born story-tellers, although their manner of telling a joke was different. Ward travelled round the country, pretending that he was showman. He had much to say about his "wax-figger show." But there were no wax figures, only two or three stuffed animals behind him on the lecture platform. At one time these consisted of a jack-rabbit and two moth-eaten bears. In his own whimsical way he told his patrons that he found it cheaper to stuff the animals once than to keep stuffing them continually. Sometimes he hung a map on the wall behind him. When he lectured in England, for instance, he exhibited ludicrous pictures supposed to illustrate his travels across the plains of Colorado and in the Mormon country. His funny comments on these paintings, and in fact all his remarks, were delivered in the gravest manner. His audience laughed uproariously but he never cracked a smile. A writer in the "Spectator," who attended his first lecture in the Egyptian Hall on Nov. 13, 1866, has given this vivid pen-picture of the lank American humorist: "When he first comes with his long, hollow-cheeked face and his bright, sad, interrogative eyes, we should expect from him, if we knew nothing about the matter almost anything than the cause for laughter. He never smiles, but looks, on the contrary, pleading and entertaining, as if he were above all things solicitous to get his thoughts really disentangled this time, when he is approaching one of his odd comparisons. All he says seems to be thought aloud, as if it were just bubbling up new within him. And when he hits on a deep thought and says, for instance, with a hesitating, perplexed candor, as though he were getting a little beyond his own depth and his audience's too, "Time passed on. You may have noticed that it usually does, that that is a sort of way Time has about it, it generally passes on,' a joke of no absolute merit takes a very great humor from his hesitating, anxious way of appearing to show the analysis of his own embarrassed thoughts to the people he is addressing."

From other writers we glean further details concerning Ward's personal appearance. We are told that he always wore a dress suit on the lecture platform. When he was recovering from a serious illness in Salt Lake City, he got the idea that he would look more interesting if he curled his sandy hair. From that time on he never completed his toilet without recourse to the curling tongs. He was, as he said, an incurable "curlist." It was on this same trip, in returning from California, that he first met Mark Twain and Bill Bye in Virginia City in Nevada. Mark Twain, who was then twenty-eight years of age, was on the staff of a newspaper. He and Artemus became great friends and it is from Mark that we have the following comical sketch: "The personal appearance of Artemus Ward was not unlike that of most Maine men. He looked like a glove stretcher; his hair, red, and brushed well forward at the sides, reminded one of a divided flame. His nose rambled on aggressively before him with all the strength and determination of a cow-catcher, while his red moustache, to follow out the simile, seemed not unlike the unfortunate cow." So peculiar was Ward's personal appearance, that when he came on the stage, with his angular form, his blank stare and look of settled melancholy, that his audience shrieked with laughter even vbefore he said a single word. Lincoln said of him, "One glimpse of Ward would make a culprit laugh when he was being hung."

RECIPES

SALMON CUTLETS.

(By Bertha E. Shapleigh)

Season two cups of cold, flaked salmon, either fresh or canned, with salt, pepper and onion juice to taste and one teaspoon of lemon juice. Make a sauce of one cup of milk, one-third cup of flour and two tablespoons of butter, and add enough of this to the fish to hold it together.

Spread in a pan to cool. Shape in the form of cutlets, one heaping tablespoon of the mixture being enough for one cutlet. Have ready some fine dried bread crumbs and one egg slightly beaten and diluted with one-fourth cup of cold water. Cover the cutlets with crumbs, thoroughly coat with the eggs and again roll in crumbs. Brush off the crumbs which do not adhere and give the cutlets a final shaping, making them perfectly smooth with no showing of the fingers on them.

Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 40 counts or seconds. One minute will be long enough to fry the cutlets to the right shade. Fry as many pieces of macaroni, two inches long, as there are cutlets and place a piece of this in the small end of each cutlet.

Serve with peas or grated fresh cucumbers, seasoned with salt; pepper and vinegar. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

SUMMER SALAD.

(By Bertha E. Shapleigh)

Mix one cup celery cut crosswise into thin slices with one cup cold boiled ham cut into dice and one apple cut into very small thin pieces. Make a dressing of six tablespoons oil, two tablespoons vinegar, one teaspoon tarragon vinegar, one-half teaspoon mustard, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon chopped onion and one-eighth teaspoon black pepper.

Mix a little of the dressing with the celery, ham and apple. Cut three cold boiled beets and three cold boiled potatoes into thin slices and dress each with the dressing.

At serving time, mix two cups shreeded lettuce, romaine or endive, with the celery, ham and apple mixture.

Turn into a salad bowl, or onto a platter, cover with one-half cup mayonnaise and surround the salad with alternating slices of potato and beets.

Unsolved Mysteries

HENRIETTE D'ANGLETERRE

There was no attempt at secrecy at the court of Louis XIV. of France the flirtations of Henriette d'Angleterre, wife of the eldest brother of the king, made her husband furious, just as his tastes in pleasures and companions outraged her finer feelings. Neither made any pretense of concealing their opinion, and the tragedy which put an end to the life of Henriette did not come as a complete surprise, though the method by which her death was accomplished was hidden as carefully as the name of the person responsible for the crime.

At St. Cloud, Madame—the official title accorded Henriette—was in the habit of taking a glass of endive water at about 7 o'clock in the evening. A servant of hers would make it and then put it away in a cupboard where there was some ordinary water for the use of Madame if she found the other too bitter. This cupboard was in an antechamber which served as a public passage by which the apartments of Madame were reached.

At 3 o'clock on the morning of June 16, 1670, Henriette died as the result of the action of a violent poison, presumably administered through the water which she was accustomed to drink. Louis was prostrated with grief, but suspected that Purnon, chief steward of Madame's retinue, was a party to the secret of his mistress' death. Purnon was brought privately before the King and threatened with instant death unless he disclosed everything, while a full pardon was promised him if he confessed and named the accomplices to the crime. At first he steadfastly maintained his innocence but, on the verge of torture, he broke down and admitted that Madame had been poisoned, naming D'Effiat, a courtier extremely friendly to the Chevalier de Lorraine whom Madame had been instrumental in exiling, as the man responsible for the deed.

"And my brother," Louis is reported to have asked, fearing the worst, "did he know of this?"

"No, Sire," was Purnon's reply. "No one was stupid enough to tell him. He has no ability to keep a secret. He would have betrayed us."

When examined as to the precise nature of the poison which had accomplished the death of Madame, the steward declared stoutly that he was ignorant of this, but said that it was a "hate philtre" obtained from one of the sorceresses who flourished in Paris at the time.

According to the records of the time Purnon was immediately released and, strangely enough, D'Effiat himself was never even arrested. The entire affair was permitted to lapse into obscurity, due it was said at the time, to the fact that the scandal, if pursued to its final conclusion, would besmirch the names of too many of the notables of the court of the Grand Monarch.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

THESE WORDS ALWAYS IMPRESS

It is possible for nearly any classified advertiser to employ the statement, "References given." Those words always impress. They help to put over successfully want ads. in several classifications, notably, "Situation Wanted," "For Sale—Livestock," "Agents Wanted," etc. They will tend markedly to increase replies from the most desirable applicants and inquirers.

The public associates a high degree of integrity with the professions. In selling, it undoubtedly helps the physician to use "Dr." or "M.D." in association with his name. Blind want ads. seeking rooms, houses to rent, etc., which use the phrase, "professional man," gain strength thereby.

Civil service workers stand high with the public. The latter reasons, and with sound logic, that the character of a man examined and then hired by the government is likely very high. A Federal worker coming to a new city and searching for a house will usually much simplify his task by indicating his occupation in his want ad. Doing this, many have had homes offered them no ordinary party could obtain.

Railroad workers in recent years are popularly known with the general public for their high wages.

In most want ad. classifications, the problem of public confidence is not a serious one. When it exists, there are standard ways to solve it, varying with the situation.

"Established 15 years," or other long period, wins confidence in a business. "Five years with last employer," impresses employers with the advertiser for a position.

"Satisfaction guaranteed, in writing," secures the buyer's confidence as the latter reads a livestock ad.

Most confidence-winning methods take up little space in a want ad. If confidence is your problem, use such of them as you can.

The Court of Last Appeal

YOU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The manufacturer who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparision. He directs to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not so sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his buisness career. It would be biusness suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertisihg that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

FRANCE WOULD STRENGTHEN PACT AGAINST GERMANY

Attempts By Marshal Foch to Settle the Differences Between Poland and Czecho-Slovakia and Ring Foe With Enemies.

(By J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, June 29 (United Press)—Marshal Foch has turned diplomat and is trying to create an "entente cordiale" between Poland and Czecho-Slovakia for the purpose of strengthening France's military position on Germany's east and south flanks. He has made a successful visit to Warsaw and on his way home has stopped at Prague, to complete his military plans.

In Warsaw, Marshel Foch obtained everything he wanted, as far as his personal control over the Polish army is concerned. It was Foch's own strategy, carried out by his principal lieutenant, General Weygand, that saved Poland from the Russian invasion in August, 1920. Since then, France has increased her influence at the Polish capital, until today Marshal Foch is as much in command of the Polish army as he is command of the French army.

But the Poles regard the Czecho-Slovaks as their enemies, and as long as this condition exists France cannot be certain of real military co-operation with her east European allies in the event of a new war against Germany. Two years ago France made an alliance with Czecho-Slovakia, and the real control of the Czecho-Slovak army was given to a Frenchman, General Mittlhauser, one of Marshal Foch's favorite pupils.

Germany Surrounded

This coup, coupled with the French command of the Polish forces, completed the encirclement of Germany, in theory. But the French strategists know that in the event of a struggle against the Germans it might be possible for German diplomats to play Poland against Czecho-Slovakia and to detach one or the other from France. To make France secure against such a diplomatic counter-offensive it was decided in Paris to send Marshal Foch to Warsaw and Prague in the role of mediator. His work is not yet finished, but there are optimistic hopes in France that success is in sight.

Marshal Foch's prime objective is to get Poland into the "Little Entente" as a full member with Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia. Once this is accomplished France will have won an enormously valuable strategic victory against the Germans. So many matters are in dispute between the Poles and the Czechs that Marshal Foch's mission might seem hopeless, except for the fact that both Poland and Czecho-Slovakia realize their major problem is to keep their independence in the face of German opposition.

Blow to Germany

Poland's possession of the Silesian mines is a permanent blow against Germany. Czecho-Slovakia's suppression of German cultural influences, despite her large German population, is also a permanent affront to Germany. On the other hand, the Czechs and the Poles consider themselves rivals for the dominant position in eastern Europe, and both have bitter memories of mutual persecutions within disputed territorial areas.

Marshal Foch is pointing out to the two little countries that they cannot endure if they contiuue to remain enemies. If they do not bury their differences, Germany some time will try to bury both of them in the same grave of defeat. All the logic of the situation is on Marshal Foch's side. His personal prestige is very great and there is good reason for France's optimism about the eventfual result of the Marshal's first venture into statecraft.

GOSSIP OF THE MOVIES

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON

LOS ANGELES, June 29 (United Press).—Filming of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," Harold Bell Wright's popular novel, has been postponed until autumn to allow further research work made necessary by the elaborate scale on which production will be conducted by Principal Pictures Corporation. It is said these producers will try to make "The Winning of Barbara Worth" the equal of "The Covered Wagon."

Instead of filming "Barbara Worth" the company has turned to another of Harold Bell Wright's novels—"When a Man's a Man," which will be produced this summer. By a lucky chance practically all of the players engaged to produce Barbara Worth will be available in 'When a Man's a Man,' and work will start immediately at the United Studios.

Richard Walton Tully has completed the filming of Du Maurier's Trilby," featuring Andree Lafayette, young French actress, said to be the "most beautiful girl in Hollywood," and Arthur Edmund Carew.

Tully is under contract to produce one more picture for First National, and then will probably start independent production on his own successful stage play, "The Bird of Paradise."

* * *

Principal Pictures has just finished the filming of George M. Cohan's "The Meanest Man in the World." The film's premier will be held early in the fall at Cohan's Broadway theater, New York, under the author's personal auspices. Bert Lytell plays the part of the "meanest man"—the part originally played by Cohan himself. Blanche Sweet and Bryant Washburn are also featured.

Rumors persist that Theda Bara will take the leading role this summer in Goldwyn's production of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks." Theda's husband, Charles Brabin, Goldwyn director, was firm on the point that she was not going to re-enter the films. Theda was just as positive that she was seriously considering it. Whether Goldwyn's would make it a nice little domestic party by having Brabin direct his wife is not known. Theda is very likely to stage a come-back in the films this summer.

Eosta Ekman, idol of the Swedish stage, will arrive in Los Angeles late this month to make a picture for Goldwyn's. He will only remain two months, having theatrical engagements in the fall in Sweden. It is rumored he may play the part of "Paul" in "Three Weeks."

Victor Seastrom, noted Swedish director, is already at the Goldwyn lot preparing to produce Hall Caine's "Master of Man," which, by the way, will be given a new title. Seastrom's wife, Edith Erastoff, one of the most popular actresses of the Swedish stage, will arrive in Los Angeles this summer, but in all probability will not appear in the films. She and Seastrom will make their permanent home here.

Joseph Schildkraut, who has been starring in "Peer Gynt" at the Theater Guild in New York City, has arrived here to play the principal male role in the "Master of Man." Mae Busch will play the lead opposite him.

GET BEAUTIFUL HANDS FROM THE DISHPANS.

CHICAGO, June 29 (By United Press).—For lovely hands, wash dishes.

This is the advice of beauty specialists and household economists to all women who seek the "carved white hands" of which the poet sang.

"Don't have the water too hot or the soap too strong," Mme. Louise, a director of the Illinois and Chicago Hairdressers' Association, warned in acclaiming the dishpan as the secret to beautiful hands.

"After the dishes are washed, apply a lotion while the pores are yet open. Then mold the fingers so they will taper. Soft, lovely hands are sure to result."

"Dishes can be done so daintily that it is a pleasure," Mrs. Wilbur E. Frilby, state chairman of the home economics department of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, declared. "Use mild soap and apply a lotion afterwards," she advised.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT SHOWS MARKED DECREASE

LONDON, June 29 — (Associated Press)—A full in the number of unemployed on May 14 to 1,168,600 from 1,218,267 April 30, is considered by officials of the Ministry of Labor to be significant as indicating a steady revival in trade.

It is pointed out that since the beginning of April there has been a succession of weekly declines in the number of unemployed, and the state of the various trades gives hope that the corner has been turned.

JAPANESE FISHERMEN ALONG SIBERIAN COAST

TOKIO, June 29.—(Associated Press)—The interest taken by the business community of Japan in the fisheries negotiations with Russia will be understood when it is realized that the value of the products of Japanese fishermen in Russian waters is 30,000,000 yen annually.

There are more than 1,000 sailing and steam trawlers engaged in the industry, and about 18,000 small boats. Japanese men and women engaged number 20,000. There are six fishing grounds, one on the coast of the Maritime Province, where salmon, trout, herring and crabs are taken, and five on the coast of Kamschatka, where the catches are similar, but runs occur later in the season.

Original American Woman Catching Up.

WASHINGTON, June 29 (United Press).—The original American woman is catching up.

Time was when the Indian squaw was not highly regarded in her own community. She was the bearer of burdens, the drawer of water, the hewer of wood and the slave of the warrior.

But today, the Indian woman is taking her place—an organized place—in the home making and industry of her people.

Out in Montana, among the Blackfeet, Commissioner Campbell, who had charge of the Indians on behalf of the Great White Father in Washington, organized the men Indians into "chapters," numbering the heads of a score of families. These chapters elected their own officers, and worked out a five year programme of agricultural development.

Then Campbell organied the Indian women into "auxiliaries" and they began studying home making and poultry raising.

A group of Indians called on Commissioner Burke, head of the Indian office in the Interior department the other day. The women went along. They went as equals with the men. They told proudly of how they had helped make the five year agricultural programme go. And they showed Burke that Indian women have made good on their own peculiar problems.

Somebody spread a story that the Montana Blackfeet were starving.

They went to Burke to disprove this.

Big Lodge Pole, No Coat, Bird Rattler, Black Weasel and a score more told Burke that instead of starving, the Blackfeet have battled and beaten a period of agricultural depression and are now thoroughly on their feet financially.

SAYS STATE AID NEEDED IN OVERCOMING DISEASE

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 29—(Associated Press).—"It is a primary duty of the state to protect the public from inroads of communicable disease, and to institute measures for the prevention of non-communicable diseases," said Dr. Linsly R. Williams, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, addressing that body here today.

"That the state appreciates this duty is evidenced by the creation of state and local boards of health and the support given to health activities by budgets voted for the maintenance of these boards. But boards of health are able to go only as far in controlling disease as public opinion will support them. An effective campaign against disease cannot be carried on by money alone; it must have the support of public opinion. This opinion is best secured through the membership and support of voluntary health and tuberculosis associations, which furnish the necessary leadership through thwch the people can express their opinion. To spread health education is one of the chief functions of voluntary health organizations. Therefore, they should gain the support of public opinion and other official health agencies so that the latter may be adequately financed and operated for the good of the community.

PENDULUM SWINGS TOWARD NORMALCY

Dow Service Sees Weeding Out Process as Result of Wage Boosts, Past and Pending.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Builders are beginning to see the economic pendulum in the construction industry setting in for the seing back toward normalcy, says the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

This swing back will differ from any other. Usually the turn in prosperity comes when the demand has been satisfied. The counter-march comes now with the demand almost as great for new building projects and alterations as it ever has been, forced not by the high cost of materials so much as by the ascending cost of assembling the materials into a finished structure once they have been bought and delivered to the hand of the craftsman.

So far as available records show, national building construction has never before had to gauge its pace by the supply of workmen to execute plans or equipment manufacturers to meet the demand. There have been times when building constitution progress has been impeded by lack of material.

This condition prevailed in 1920 and it reached almost a corresponding point as far as basic material was concerned early this year' Expanded plant facilities prevented, to a large extent, a recurrence of such a situation in the present building peak. To a large extent equipment manufacturers have been able to meet the abnormal demand, with the exception of the plumbing fixture, some parts of the electrical industry, ceramic tile and, recently, front brick.

One of the most persistent questions that arise in conversation between the architect and his prospective client, the contractor and designer, the sub-contractor and the mill is, "How long is this situation going to last?"

The hopeful artisan thinks it will last a year or more. The architect would like to tell his client to wait, but when the client wants to know how long he will have to delay his plans, he usually decides to go ahead and take his chance with the others—that is, if he has to wait a year or two, only to find then some other hampering condition, that may be worse.

The contractor looks upon his soaring payroll and yearns for conscientious workmanship in proportion to money he pays out. The equipment manufacturer rests uneasily with dissatisfied and disappointed architects and owners at his heels for deliveries he cannot make inside of a quarter of a year, and the basic building material manufacturer, while he is reasonably sure of a demand for his goods, treads lightly for fear he will have to carry over large stocks with prospects of a sick market.

Another few months should show the swing of the economic pendulum of the building industry. There is bound to follow indiscriminate wage advances a certain weeding out process. The building construction industry is $2,000,000,000 beyond normal. Many projected buildings have already been made economically unprofitable under mounting construction costs, but the volume has so far been too great to make its importance felt.

Statistics covering great areas show the trend, however, which is in the direction of a subnormalcy as artificial and as unnecessary as has been the period of abnormalcy.

It is into this period of artificial subnormalcy that increasing construction costs are dragging the building industry. It is a sort of equalizing process, as natural as it appears necessary.

The supply part of the building construction industry, that is, the material and equipment manufacturers, want more than anything else a chance to catch up. The current rapacity for higher wages is certainly bringing that chance to them.

SNAKES AND MONKEYS STILL CHEAP IN LONDON

LONDON, June 29 — (Associated Press).—One of the oddest institutions in London is an auction mart where wild beasts, monkeys, reptiles and other animals and birds are sold at absurdly low prices.

Full-grown Rocky Mountain or Himalayan eagles can be bought for $3 each. There are many bargains in monkeys too, lively young mandrills bringing only $10, and little sooty Mangebys $7. Pure white Rhesus monkeys are in favor among society women and sell for $30. The animals are taken from their cages and held up on the auctioneer's rostrum where they timidly survey the noisy throngs bidding for their possession.

At a recent sale of animals which belonged to a disbanded American circus, a six-foot Florida alligator brought only $12. Two reticulated pythons, measuring 16 feet each, sold for $40 and $75 respectively, and a 15-foot Indian python realized $35. An 8-foot anaconda was bought for $25.

TORONTO, June 29.—The Ontario Department of Agriculture is trying to help farm women by the slogan, "Quit Carrying Water," and by the tour of a truck, giving demonstrations of installing water systems under varying conditions, by a practical plumber. The truck will tour the province all summer and fall.

KEEP VILLAGE OLD TO RETAIN MOVIES.

Pleasanton is the Mecca of Film Producers With Old-Fashioned Hamlet Scenes

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—The movie finger which traces so many human fates has also dictated the character of one of California's oldest towns—a fact which indicates the ramifications of the industry.

Pleasanton, in the San Joaquin Valley, is this protege of the films. One of few western communities retaining a New England flavor, it has pledged its word to remain old-fashioned while neighboring towns bustle on to new fangles in architecture and pep, in return for picture patronage.

* * *

During the past few years, Pleasanton, because of its unique character, its old hotel, once the spiffiest in the state, its venerable church, its picket fences and great trees, has been the setting for at least 40 movies.

Mary Pickford is credited with its pictorial discovery in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." Then followed "Tom Sawyer," "Huck Finn," "The Home Stretch," "The Young Rajah," pictures by Charles Ray and Buck Jones and a score of others, with "Fair Week," starring Fatty Hiers, just completed.

* * *

It was during filming of the last named picture that Director Rob Wagner of Lasky-Paramount exacted the pledge that the town, though far from stagnation, would not spoil its archaic charm. Some of the younger set in business were for giving the place a modern air with the typical Spanish buildings of California, and other fol de rols.

But they listened to reason when Magner said, "One such building would spoil it for the distinctive settings that brings movie companies here."

* * *

Sonora, old gold town of the "mother lode," until recently had the edge on Pleasanton as a movie magnet. But in a moment of progressive ardor it paved the streets and removed the aged drooping willows. Sonora was promptly marked off the movie location sheet.

Pleasanton isn't going to make that mistake—not while picture folk fill its coffers regularly with the largesse incidental to filming its gracious charm. If the young folks don't like it, let 'em move out. The town in its far heydey was good enough for the assemblage of the west's beauty and chivalry, back in the '60's, when racing drew the multitude and poker chips rattled night and day. Fine memories—and if the movies are willing to pay for the shell to which these recollections cling, all the better.

* * *

Let the rest of the world move by. The Chamber of Commerce has said it. Let the spirit of progress find its victims elsewhere. Pleasanton will keep the old oaken bucket and the white picket fences along its pleasant dirt lanes, to be perpetuated in many a film.

DISHWASHING CHAMP CHALLENGES WORLD.

Washed Dishes Thirty-One Hours Straight—No Rush to Compete.

Susie Hetlock, 22, claims the dishwashing championship of the world. Susie works in the kitchen of the Pantall Hotel in Punxsutawney, Pa.

Between meals, the kitchen help got talking about the marathon dancers—and why a marathon is rarely attempted at some useful task. Susie began boasting about how long she could perform with dishpan and soap. Bets were made.

Susie washed dishes 31 hours straight without stopping. She needn't worry about her laurels. No danger of marathon dishwashing or any other kind of housework becoming epidemic.

The question that started Susie performing remains unsettled. Namely: "Why do endurance contestants almost without exception waste their energy on such trivialities as dancing and running, and rarely at useful tasks?"

Trying to figure it out, you become mired to the neck in psychology.

Probably it's because a useful task nearly always involves some sort of compulsion, against which we all have an instinctive spirit of revolt. Not many centuries since most of our ancestors were slaves of one sort or other. Freedom was a delusion, with the peasant toiling to support monarchs or other so-called nobility in grand style. (Modern monarchs are alarm clock and cost of living.)

Instinctively we resent even the rulership exerted over us by nature—her making it compulsory for us to work if we want to survive.

The less compulsion, the less spirit of revolt. That's why pleasant working conditions and liberal pay increase the average person's efficiency—theoretically, at least.

Revolting against compulsory tasks, we gladly welcome anything that doesn't involve compulsion—for instance, recreation or amusement—regardless of how much labor is involved.

Remember how Tom Sawyer induced his pals to whitewash the fence for him? He made the task recreation by removing the compulsory feature.

Willie will toil until ready to drop in his tracks, building a shanty or tramping with the Boy Scouts. But he groans when asked to go to the corner store or carry out the ashes.

Considering our instinctive aversion to compulsion, it's a psychological mystery that we submit to any form of authority—political, industrial or home. Whenever we abide by rulership, it's merely ecceptance of the lesser of two evils.

From information received from Mr. J. H. Black, General Manager of the Company, we summarize the following:

THE COMPANY AND ITS BUSINESS.—Northern Canada Power, Limited, had its inception in 1911 for the purpose of producing and selling power to the Northern gold mines, its first three customers being Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre. Two plants were originally built on the Mattagami River, one at Wawaitin Falls, 14 miles from Timmins, which now has a capacity of 15,000 horse-power, and one at Sandy Falls, seven miles from Timmins, with a capacity of 5,000 H.P. The demand for power, however, became so great that a third plant was recently built out of earnings at Lower Sturgeon Falls on the Mattagami River, 32 miles from Timmins, the capacity of which will be 9,000 H.P., and from which it is expected power will be delivered by the end of June, 1923.

Even with this new plant, however, the Company cannot take care of contracts being offered and the right has been obtained from the Province of Quebec to develop power on the Quinze River, close to the border of the Province of Ontario. Work has been begun there on a plant which contemplates an ultimate capacity of 60,000 H.P.; the present installation to be 20,000 H.P., and it is expected that power will be delivered within 12 months. The new development is approximately 115 miles from Timmins, to which point a transmission line is to be built.

With this plant completed the capacity of the Company will be approximately 49,000 H.P.

As the demand arises additional capacity of 40,000 H.P. can be installed on the Quinze River at a low cost, as practically all the dead work for the total installation is being done now. All of the above developments are owned or controlled by the Company.

SECURITY.—These bonds will be secured;

(a) By a first mortgage on all fixed assets and a floating charge on all other assets of the Company.

(b) By the guarantee of the subsidiary Companies owning the developments at Lower Sturgeon and the Quinze secured by first specific mortgages on their fixed assets and floating charges on all other assets including earnings.

As will be provided in the Trust Deed securing the bonds.

SALE OF POWER.—The development of gold mining in the district is best illustrated by the increase in the production of gold. In 1911 the total gold production in the Province of Ontario was $42,637. In 1922 it amounted to $20,674,109, practically all of which came from Northern Ontario.

Although the Company has continually increased its capacity and enlarged its water storage, the requirements of the Hollinger, McIntyre and Dome Gold Mines have expanded so rapidly that applications for power from other mines cannot be taken care of. Vipond Consolidated, West Dome, Paymaster, Dome Lake, etc., desire power to start production and many other mines require power for development and exploration work and progress has been seriously hindered through their inability to secure it. Further expansion in the field served by the Company together with the discoveries in the new Rouyn district in Quebec which is only 40 miles from the Quinze development promise to produce such a market for power that the Company is confident that not alone will it have no difficulty selling the 20,000 h.p. of the new development but that it will only be a short time before it will have to install additional capacity on the Quinze River.

PROCEEDS OF THE ISSUE.—These will be used to redeem outstanding first mortgage bonds of $1,208,000. on the plants at Wawaitin Falls and Sandy Falls, and to provide funds for the new development on the Quinze River, together with the transmission line from that point to Timmins, and other additions to or betterments of property and plant.

THE COMPANY'S RECORD.—Northern Canada Power Limited has since 1912 redeemed out of earnings $792,000. of the bond issue now being retired, has provided the moneys necessary to construct the new power plant at Lower Sturgeon Falls costing over $1,250,000, and has built conservation dams, transmission lines and made improvements to its different plants, which bring the total expenditure out of earnings to over $3,000,000. The dividend policy of the Company has been most conservative.

EARNINGS.—The Company has to date only had the benefit of earnings from the plants at Wawaitin Falls and Sandy Falls with a capacity of approximately 20,000 H.P. Average annual net earnings available for bond interest, depreciation and Federal taxes from these two plants have been as follows:

For 7 years to December 31st, 1922	$414,800.
For 5 years to December 31st, 1922	414,000.
For 3 years to December 31st, 1922	460,000.
For the year ending December 31st, 1922	612,000.

With the Sturgeon Falls development delivering power for the last six months of 1923, it is estimated that the net earnings will be over $750,000.

With a full year's operation of that plant the earnings should exceed $850,000

With the Quinze development delivering power it is estimated that the yearly earnings should be in excess of $1,250,000

The annual interest charge on the $4,500,000. of bonds now being issued is $292,500.

Further information is contained in a circular which may be had on request.

DRIFTED 3 WEEKS ON INDIAN OCEAN

LONDON, June 29.— (United Press)—Having drifted two thousand miles across the Indian ocean suffering intensity under blazing suns and torrential storms eighteen survivors of the Hains S.S. Company's steamer Trevesia which stranded June 4 have arrived at the Soulilac South Mauritus according to a cable received by the company here today.

Arrival of another boatload at Roddiguez Island with the vessels captain and sixteen others in a desperate condition was reported Monday. The news today means that of the entire crew of the Trevesia with the exception of two natives who died of privation during the long torture in the mid-seas only ten are missing. All the rest have been saved after adventures unprecedent in the annals of the sea.

The crew of the captains life boat had a ration of two teaspoonfuls of milk and one biscuit every 24 hours.

OUT TO SPILL BLOOD FINED $10 AND COSTS

"Out to spill blood, as he is alleged to have described his expedition, Timothy G. H. Crough went out the Ennismore road last Saturday and beat up Timothy Crough, and on being charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley in County Court, was fined $10 and costs, amounting to over $50.

The dispute arose over road work, which Timothy G. H. Crough said he did for many years until plain Timothy Crough got the contract. This made Timothy G. H. see red, and as a result he had to plead guilty to common assault. The parties are not related, although bearing the same name.

The arrest was made by Provincial Constable Cookman and License Inspector Stewar.

VEIL LIFTED ON PEACE PARLEYS

Paris Newspaper Man's Reports on His Interviews With Late Pope.

PARIS, June 29.— (Canadian Press.)—A corner of the veil of secret negotiations during the world war in which Pope Benedict in 1917 attempted to initiate peace negotiations was lifted in the Judet treason trial Tuesday.

Judet, 70-year-old Paris newspaper editor, is being tried as a traitor, charged with having aided the German secret service during the war. Under examination he told of two trips to Rome, in which he was received by Pope Benedict and Cardinal Gasparri.

The first audience, he stated, was in 1915. At that time the Pope said children of his faith were fighting on both sides and that the Vatican must necessarily remain neutral, according to Judet. In 1917, Judet said he advised Jules Camson, then secretary to the Foreign Office, that he would visit Rome again.

Cambon, he says, told him: "The Vatican does not believe that we will win and is therefore unsympathetic, because the Vatican is a commercial institution. But I have been Ambassador to Washington and know that American support will result in victory."

Judet reported this statement to Cardinal Gaspari in Rome who, according to Judet replied: "We believe that France's only relief is peace."

Judet claims that in an audience, Pope Benedict told him: "If the war continues it is the end of civilization. Germany would be disposed to treat on the basis of a League of Nations. That is what you should advise the French government to do."

Judet returned to Paris, where he found government officials were not interested in the proposal.

The prosecution introduced dispatches from Von Jagow and Lanken, German secret agents and propagandists which had been found in Brussels and which, it is said, indicate that Judet was in German pay. He denies the carge.

PARE TO BONE EXPENDITURES

First Duty of the New Provincial Government, Says Premier-Elect H. G. Ferguson.

KEMPTVILLE, June 29.—(Canadian Press.)—In his address here yesterday, Hon .Howard Ferguson, Premier-elect said:

"We are facing debt which is simply stupendous. Our first duty will be to pare to the bone every unnecessary expense and to re-organize every branch of the government, so that it will be founded on sound administrative basis. It is most important that we take care of our financial obligations and the refunding of our debt."

Mrs. G. Howard Ferguson, wife of the Premier-designate, paid an interesting tribute to her husband at the demonstration in his honor here last night.

In responding to the presentation to her of a huge basket of roses, from women of the constituency, Mrs. Ferguson said she had gone to school in Kemptville with her husband, had worked with him in all his uphill political fights, and no one knew better than she the love he had for his native province and Canada in general.

In these two provinces there is a diferent mentality, but there is no reason why the two mentalities cannot be brought together to make something great for Canada.

Othed Speakers.

Owing to the short time at the disposal of the business men who form the club, many of the speeches were curtailed, and several speakers were compelled to limit their talks to one or two minutes. Charles Russell, Trustee, Montreal, paid a graceful tribute to Jack McKone, President of the Peterboro club, and his wife; W. G. Millen spoke in behalf of the care of underprivileged children, and Bill Lattimer of Belleville extended a hearty invitation to visit the 'baby' club at Belleville.

Vern Morphet and Alex Dick joined in a humorous duet in which the histories of several members of the club were more or less accurately told, and Ed. Tanguay rendered Allouette in true Quebec style.

Other Kiwanian representatives present were: H. S. Higman, District Secretary Treasurer, Ottawa; Trustees W. G. Milne, Galt; Rudolph Grattom, Hull; J. A. Gorrie, Ottawa; Tom Mines, Brantford; John Truman, Hamilton and John Allen, Peterboro.

The guests included Dr. J. Graham, Peterbodo; Mrs. Lattimer, Mis Helen Latimer and Bruce Lattimer, Belleville, and C. F. Harris Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

FURTHER BILLS RECEIVE THEIR THIRD READING

Railways, Postage Rates on Newspapers, Chinese Immigration, Received Attention.

DEBATE TODAY

OTTAWA, June 29. —(Canadian Press—Third reading was given in House of Commons yesterday to bill authorizing Governor in council to approve the issue of equipment securities by the Canadian National railways and guarantee of same by the Government. Third reading was given to bill providing that rates on newspapers ann magazines be reduced from a maximum of 1 1-2 cents per lb to 1 1-4 cents. Senate amendments to Chinese immigration bill were concurred in, also amendments to a bill amending the inland revenue act. Supplementary estimates of $30,000 to administer the combines act and $10,000 for the Canadian National Institute for the blind, were brought down and the third reading was given to the bill regulating labelling, percentage content and admixture of mill feed products. In the Senate the senate adopted the House of Commons bills granting bounty on hemp and reducing the duty on cigarettes, respectively. The bill amending the biological act was also passed. There was vigorous criticism of the bill providing for Canadian National railways constructons involving a cost of some $28,000,000. Senator Lougheed moved the six months' hoist. The debate went over until Friday.

Hydro To Be Re-Organized

TORONTO, June 29. Canadian Press. — It was learned through official channels last evening that the Premier-elect plans to hold a conference with Sir Adam Beck as soon as the latter has recovered from his illness, when the whole matter of the future organization of the Hydro enterprises will be discussed and decided upon. Until this conference is held nothing official will be known as to the proposals of the incoming administration. It may be taken for granted however that the member for Hydro "will be offered a position in the new cabinet," though it is doubtful if Sir Adam will accept It seems much more likely that he will prefer to continue his public ownership work at the head of the Hydro Commission as trustee for the municipalities' in the great enterprise.

The commission is likely to be reorganized. The resolution of Hon. D. Carmichael will be accepted at last and the policy of giving the municipalities direct representation on the commission is likely to have the approval of the head of the incoming government.

It is not improbable that having in mind the non-political history and administration of the enterprise one of the commissioners may be chosen from those liberals who have given loyal and consistent support to the public ownership project. In any event it is practically certain that the Hydro municipalities will have the nomination of their own representatives.

STRUCK ON HEAD BY STONE IN STRIKE

Magistrate Hill of Sydney Knocked Unconscious in Disturbance.

SYDNEY, N.S. June 29.—(Canadian Press).—Magistrate W. A. G. Hill was struck on the head by a stone and knocked unconscious at about 10.30 last night while he was endeavoring to read the riot act at Whitney Pier where a series of raids and clashes between mobs of strikers and workmen of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company and city police commenced.

Several policemen, who were guarding the Magistrate were hit by the volleys of stones, the most seriously hurt being Patrolman Andy Campbell, who received a cut on the arm.

At midnight the city police seem to be in control of the situation and no further disturbances were anticipated.

The disturbance followed the walk out of men yesterday in the Sydney Steel plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

TRAVELLER SUPPOSES A HOLD-UP INTENDED

While Lewis Berk, a commercial traveller who resides in Toronto, was proceeding down the hill on the Omemee road about two miles from Fowler's Corners on Wednesday afternoon a weighty brick flew past his head and lodged in the back seat of his car. Mr. Berk saw the man who threw the brick, but did not pause to enquire the meaning of the act. It is supposed that a hold-up was intended.

The brick, coated with mortar, formed a missile that would doubtless have killed the motorist had it struck hiis head, as the impact must have been terrific considering the speed at which the car was travelling on the down grade. Mr. Berk was considerably shaken by his narrow escape.

TO TAKE DRURY'S PLACE AS LEADER OF THE U. F. O.

TORONTO, June 29. — (Canadian Press.)—With Premier Drury retired to private life, one of the first tasks of the handful of U. F. O. members in the new Legislature will be the selection of a leader. Indications and Queen's Park gossip all point to one individual, Hon. Manning Doherty, former Minister of Agriculture, who in 1919 was for a time talked of as the new Premier.

DESPATCH TROOPS TO STRIKE AREA

Detachment Stands Ready to Leave Halifax For Sydney.

HALIFAX, June 29.—(Canadian Press).—A detachment of two hundred and fifty soldiers are under arms and being held in readiness to leave for Sydney, Nova Scotia, as soon as a train can be prepared to take them according to information given out from responsible quarters this morning.

The report says that a formal requisition for troops went out from Cape Breton strike area last night to Ottawa, and that instruction came to Halifax this morning to send five hundred troops at once. Only two hundred and fifty men could be made available so quickly and that number fully equipped, stood ready at nine o'clock this morning, but no train was available.

It was stated at railway offices that a train was being assembled to take soldiers to Cape Breton. Colonel Erick MacDonald head of the Provincial Police is said to be on his way to Cape Breton.

COMPLY WITH DEMANDS.

OTTAWA, June 29. Canadian Press. — The Department of National Defence has been advised that requisition for troops for the Cape Breton strike area was received by the officer commanding at Halifax, and he is complying with it as speedily as possible. The requisition is signed by Judge Finlayson. It is pointed out that when a properly signed request for troops in aid of the civil power is received the military authorities must grant it under the act. Should the number of troops at Halifax be considered insufficient headquarters will see that more are despatched to the strike area from other points.

Marmora Won Lacrosse Game - Belleville Nine Here Tomorrow

RAIN DRENCHED LACROSSE GAME

Marmora Juniors Won First Of Junior Schedule By Score of Four to Two.

With all the troubles the lacrosse fans have to contend with in their efforts to keep the game alive since its revival in Peterboro several years ago, the opener of the season was drowned out in a steady rain that began early yesterday afternoon and continued until the last whistle that announced Marmora Juniors winners from the local youngsters by the score of four goals to two.

In the first half the visitors broke away with a nice combination while the Peterboro squad were disentanging themselves. They stepped into the weather with natty new green sweaters and white trousers that would have delighted Bill Handley, last year's president of the Ontario Association, while the raiment of some of the local players might have brought down fines under the exacting sartorial restrictions that were applied a year ago. The Peterboro boys simply didn't have the cash to rig themselves out as they would have wished, and the Weather Man took good care that they wouldn't have any help at the gate. But lacrosse takes no account of the weather, and the game was started in the rain, and on soggy, slippery grounds, with pools of water, and much mud on the skinned strips of the baseball diamond.

Marmora carried the advantage of weight and system, but in the second half Peterboro broke into their stride, and on the evening's play should have broken even. Jack Creighton, the referee, wrote down the score as five to two, but one of the Marmora goals was scored nearly a minute after the timers announced the end of that period. Play was down at the south end of the field, and the referee did not hear the calls of the timers, who should have been provided with a bell, or some other distinctive signal, until after the goal was scored. Marmora was clearly not entitled to that goal.

The teams were as follows:

Peterboro: Goal, Jack Lebarr; point, Lou Lebarr; cover point, Curtis; 1st defence, Curtin; 2nd defence, Ben Simms; centre, Lionel Brown; 2nd home, Fred Jones; 1st home, Pete Milloy; outside home, Killoran, inside home, Jack O'Toole. Subs — Williams and Dundas.

Marmora — Goal, Neal; point, Bowen; cover point, S. Clement; 1st defence O'Neill; 2nd defence, McWilliams; centre, McInnes; 2nd home, Wells, 1st home, Simmons, outside home, Watson; inside home, Brady. Subs, P. Clement and Reynolds. Referee Jack Creighton.

"Micky" Williams scored Peterboro's first goal in the third period, after he had picked out a path in the Marmora defence and went in alone. Ira Dundas got the other on a pass from Lou Lebarr. Both scorers started as subs., and did exceptionally well. Dundas took the pass in front of the Marmora goal and tossed it in.

Two of the visitors' goals were gifts and all of them were shot from close range at Jack Lebarr who stopped a lot of others that were fired from outside the defence with one or two that were right on top of him. On the other hand Peterboor showed some of the same weaknesses that spoiled their effectiveness last year. They were unable to make their work count around the Marmora goal. O'Toole had several excellent chances in the first period and. Lionel Brown got inside for a shot but the Marmora net guardian blocked cleverly. Ben Simms appeared to have another goal but was too eager. And so it went.

Jack Creighton handled the game impartially, and had only a few penalties on his report. The Peterboro Juniors did not do themselves justice in this twilight performance. Lou Lebarr helped a lot when in the second half he moved up to the home field. Williams and Dundas, the two subs, were good, as were Pete Milloy Fred Jones, Curtin and Curtis. Lionel Brown and Ben Simms both turned in a fine game. With better combination the team should turn the tables against Marmora when they meet again.

Jess Willard Proved Himself A Real Hero

Big Jess Willard is adding to his reputation around New York every day. When the western giant first blew into Manhattan, for his battle with Floyd Johnson everyone gave him the razz. Old Jess, they called him, just back from the old men's home They saw him prompted by greed to came back against some of the hams of the ring and pick up some of the easy money that the promoters were tossing out

"Nickel nurser!" they yelled.

Jess went plugging right along and to the surprise of everyone succeeded in getting himself into the best shape of his career. When he meets Luis Angel Firpo, champion of the "nickel nursers," there are going to be a lot more fans rooting for him than there were at the Yankee Stadium when he socked Johnson.

They had a chance to call him hero a little while back when he dragged his huge frame through a flood in the west and pulled out a number of women children and even horses. Jess was wading in a spot where ordinary human being were trying to swim.

The boys are beginning to take back what they said about him.

BLIND SPRINTERS GUIDE SELVES WITH WIRES

ROY HARLAN (TOP) SHOWS HOW BLIND RUNNERS GUIDE THEMSELVES. BELOW: THE FINISH.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 29.—Imagine blind men running the 100-yard dash.

Pretty hard to conceive, it must be granted.

But they're doing it here at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind.

Down a track of Stygian darkness speed these sightless athletes. On, on, they go until they feel the hanging rope flapping against their faces.

They've crossed the tape! The race is over!

Spectators applaud. But the runners don't hear. Then a slap on the back.

They've won! And tense countenances break into smiles

A wire, a ring and a handle guide each man down the course. The contestants sprint one at a time. Their times are then compared.

Some of the men are remarkable physical specimens. And the athletic events inaugurated by Superintendent T. S. McAloney, help while away monotonous hours and let little rays of sunshine penetrate the eternal darkness of their lives.

GOLF BENEFICIAL TO BALL PLAYERS

Tris Speaker says golf doesn't hurt a baseball player. The big chief of the Indians who has sliced many a brassie shot in the rough, contradicts Frank Chance, new Red Sox manager who issued a ban on golf for his ball players.

"I have never had any trouble reconciling the swing of a golf club and a baseball bat," Speaker declares. "I have never found since I started playing golf that my work on the diamond suffered.

"Anything that keeps you out in the air and gives you exercise is beneficial and golf can be included in that classification."

BROWNS HARD HIT BY LOSS OF SISLER

His Forced Retirement Has Practically Eliminated St. Louis' Chances

BY PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 29 —United Press — One ball player may not make a team, but one can break a team.

George Sisler proved that this season by letting the St. Louis Browns mosey along in the pennant race without his services. Minus the star first baseman, the Browns look like an ordinary baseball club, with nine players on the field stopping batted balls. With Sisler in the line-up last year they lost the pennant race by a nose.

It isn't so much Sisler's physical powers that the Browns need. If he was batting around .419 and stealing 50 bases for them this year it would help, of course. But it's the mental hazard of his absence that is doing more to keep them down.

With Sisler, they are confident; without him, they know they haven't got a chance.

In their failure lies one of the most tragic incidents of hard-luck baseball.

In the absence of Sisler it has been the veteran Walter Gerber that gives the old infield its warped conception of pep. They used to say it was Gerber who was the right side of the diamond and Sisler the left.

But it's sort of hard to be both sides at once.

Y., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—The University of Washington crew, in a great three-mile contest with the shells of five other colleges won the 'varsity race on the Hudson yesterday, defeating the champion navy by a length. QUAKERS WON BY TWO CLEAR GOALS

Defeated the Woollens In A Rainy Game At the Oval Last Evening.

Drizzling rain continued throughou tthe whole game between the Quakers and Packers last evening at the Oval. Each team had only nine men and they put up an excellent brand of football in spite of the conditions prevailing, and Quakers won by two clear goals obtained in first half.

Quakers won the toss and Packers kicked off with each team playing only nine men. The opening exchanges weer even. A mis-kick in the 18 yard area by Wag Hotston, allowed G. Logan to deceive Curtis with an oblique shot. Two successive corners were fruitless for the Packers and a few minutes later Griffin saved a circus shot right in front of the goal with all the Packers on top of him. Offsides twice against Quakers spoiled their chances. An individual effort by Mayette on the right wing, he centred to Craig who shot low and quick for Quakers' second goal. The Packers came back to test Griffin, who was compelled to give away a fruitless corner. A foul against Underwood confined the play to Quakers' area with all the forwards missing a great chance.

The ball was now very heavy, caused by the rain, which made the game slow Curtis made a brilliant save from the foot of G. Logan twice in succession. Midfield play was indulged in until half-time—Quakers 2, Packers 0.

On resuming Harry Hotston made Griffin hustle in goal to save from him in the nick of time .G. Logan dribbled through all the players into the Packers' goal, but his finishing shot was high over the bar Griffin in Quakers' goal, was playing a good game between the sticks. He was stopping shots from every angle.

For tackling and placing, "Red" Logan was playing like a demon. Craig accepted an opening to make Lazenby give away a corner that was fruitless.

Packers went down in a body to swarm around Griffin, but he was very safe. Harry Hotston missed an open goal at the other end.

With each team only having nine men the football was clean and fast. They tried hard to get a goal and in this respect Ted Hotston had hard luck. Darkness set in as the final whistle went. Quakers 2, Packers 0.

Goal scorers—Logan and Craig.

Quakers — Griffin, Young and Croft; Shaw and Logan half-backs; Mayette, Craig, G Logan and Pellow forwards.

Packers —Lazenby, Wag. Hoston and Underwood; Jack Shaw and Bradbury; Ted Hotston, Harry Hotston, Batley and Jury.

Referee—J. Clark.

CRUCIAL GAME IN BIG FOUR TOMORROW

Local Crew Have To Beat Belleville or Drop Out of First Section Race.

HOLIDAY GAMES

If Belleville succeeds in winning tomorrow's Big Four game at Riverside Park the Petes will be out of the running and the Grand Trunks will have the first section championship within their grasp With so much at stake and with the traditional rivalry between the two teams the game should be one of the best of the season. Wednesday's slaughter at Belleville should not be taken too seriously, for the simple truth is that the Grand Trunks or no other team had as many breaks in their favour in a single game before. The weakest hitters in the Belleville team had no mor trouble in getting a hit than the good one and they hit at anything that came along too, while the luck of the game is shown by the fact that in spite of all the balls driven out of the infield the Petes outfielders didn't make a put out all afternoon' The drives were hit everywhere but where they were.

Tomorrow is another day and with the Petes forced to win or drop out of the race the Trunks will find the Solomon crew a much different proposition. It will be a battle of right-handers, Oulette opposing Heckman —and there should be few dull moments. Fans who remained away last Saturday missed the best game of the year and there is every reason to expect tomorrow's to be equaly as exciting. It will get under way at 3 o'clock.

Monday's Programme.

Three will be two Central League games at Riverside Park on Monday, Dominion Day. At 10.15 a.m. Cobourg and the Petes wil clash in a postponed game, the fixture that should have been played here on May 24th. From the way the situation now looks the championship of the first section may hinge upon the result of this game.

The two teams will meet again in the afternoon at 3.15 in the first game of the second round and both teams will be on their toes to get away fast in the second series.

This is the closest race in the history of the Central League and the interest will be at fever heat over the holiday

CATCHER BRUGGY IN HARD LUCK

Had A Chance To Jump Into A Berth With the New York Yankees But Was Not Allowed To.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—Dame Fortune smiles blandly on some ball players while others merely draw an unkindly frown.

The new major league rule that no players can be bought after June 15 has made apparent such a situation. This rule was made to prevent clubs from buying star players at the fag end of the race, when the addition of a certain player would just about cinch a pennant.

The two New York clubs for years have adopted such a policy. The Giants inaugurated it, and the Yankees to keep in step had to follow in McGraw's footsteps. This is no longer possible.

Recently in an effort to bolster his club McGraw secured Hang Gowdy and Pitcher Watson from Boston. That was a great break for Gowdy, a player on whom the Braves asked waivers during the winter. It means that Hank has a great chance to share in a fat world series melon.

Then there is the case of Johnny Rawlings and Lee Meadows. Rawlings refused to report to the Phillies when sold by the Giants. There was little incentive to play with the tail end Phillies. Pittsburg comes along and grabs the pair from a club certain to hold down the cellar berth.

On the other hand Frank Bruggy, second-string catcher of the Athletics, draws the tough break. Bruggy is a seasoned catcher with a good head. The New York Yankees wanted him to take the place of the ailing Schang. It is understood Outfielder Elmer Smith, a recruit pitcher and a lot of money was the bait laid before Manager Mack.

At present Mack is the leading contender with the Yankees for first honors, and Mack not desiring to strengthen an arch enemy turned the offer down. Nevertheless a very tough break for Frank Bruggy. Going to New York would have meant at least an additional $5000 for the year.

ATHLETIC DAY FOR THE GIRLS

Mr. R. G. Sturgeon has announced his intention of holding an athletic day for girls on Thursday August 23rd' The programme, which will be published later, will include all kinds of athletic events. Riverside Park has been secured from the base ball executive for the occasion and girls who are interested in athletics are expected to compete. Mr. Sturgeon is arranging for the prizes himself, and will be glad to give any information about the field day to those who may be interested.

GOT THIRTEEN CHICKS FROM TWELVE EGGS

OAKVILLE, June 29. Canadian Press. — The hatching of 13 chicks from 12 eggs was the feat accomplished this week by an Oakville hen thereby rivalling the exploit at Milverton, Ont., recorded on June 20th last whereby 34 ducklings emerged from 33 ducks eggs.

Mrs. Paget of Maple Avenue, Oakville, bought a setting of thirteen eggs the other day from Chas. Naylor of Oakville. Mrs. Paget undertook to have the eggs conveyed to the home of her sister in law, Miss N. Paget, on Dundas street, Oakville, about a mile away. One of the eggs was broken in transit, leaving the dozen, one of which produced twin chicks.

Revising The Ontario Statutes

TORONTO, June 29 — (Canadian Press).—If the commission which has been named to revise the Ontario Statutes equal the feat accomplished by their predecessors who made the revision in 1914, there will be a burning of the midnight oil. Work commenced on the 1914 revision in July, 1906, and nearly eight years later the task was completed. In that time, by reason of the wide powers invested in them, the commissioners had been able to consolidate the statutes that were still in force, to discard those which had become obsolete, and include all the legislation that had been placed on the books since 1897, the time of the prior revision, to 1914, and yet comprise everything in a volume of slightly fewer pages than the 1897 revision. Instead of 342 chapters as in the 1897 revision, there were only 301 in the 1914 revision. But to do it over nine hundred sessions were held. Two or three meetings were held every week, and during vacations the commissioners met allowed a thousand dollars a year.

Since the 1914 revision 1,275 acts have been passed by the Legislature. Many of these are amending acts. Some of the acts have been amended in the same session of the Legislature in which they were passed. Since the incoming of the Drury U.F.O.-Labor administration 573 acts were passed. This work of consolidating these new act with the previously existing legislation will be a tremendous task.

The Chairman of the Commission is Chief Justice Sir William Meredith, and the other commissioners are: Mr. Justice Middleton, Justice Logie, Mr. Justice Mowat; ex-Judge C. G. Snider, of Hamilton; Judge O'Connor, of York County; Edward Bayly, K.C.; and A. M. Middleton, the executive members of the Cabinet Council.

TOO MANY FIGHTERS; TOO FEW FARMERS

Ireland's Problem Now Is to Have Swords Beaten Into Plowshares — To Reduce Army.

(By CHARLES M. McCANN)

DUBLIN, June 29 (United Press).—Irish statesmen are wrestling with the problem of securing for their country a peace which it never has really known before.

This task of turning swords into ploughshares is complicated by the fact that previously nearly all the plowshares in Ireland had been beaten into swords.

There is a shortage both of plowshares and of men who know what to do with them.

The youth of the country knows little but war. And thousands of men are out of work owing to the destruction of factories and the disorganization of industry.

There is a standing army of 35,000 There are 15,000 Republicans in prison. There are tens of thousands of unemployed workmen in the country. Only 60 per cent of arable land is under cultivation in the Free State—primarily an agricultural country.

But there is no doubt as to the government's desire to restore both agriculture and industry, and doubts as to its ability are being rapidly dispelled.

Republican prisoners are being asked, as the price of their freedom, to promise not to take up arms against the Free State. The promises are coming more freely since the "dump arms" order.

Reduce the Army

It is planned to reduce the army gradually to perhaps as few as 10,000 men. Recruiting has been stopped, and men are to be demobilized as rapidly as they can be absorbed into industry or agriculture. In future, it is planned that the term of enlistment should be short, and that during their stay in the army soldiers should be taught trades.

Only a few weeks since the cessation of civil war, Dail Eireann—the Irish parliament—already has before it the new land bill, designed, Secretary of Agriculture Hogan said in introducing it, to permit tenant farmers to purchase 70,000 small farms, "so that there will be absolutely no agricultural landlords or tenants in Ireland."

This bill will end forever a system that for decades caused nearly all the disorders in Ireland—"absentee landlordism" by which rich landowners, living in England, rented out lands to tenant farmers.

Efforts already are being made to place under cultivation the 40 per cent of untilled arable land.

These measures will absorb into agriculture thousands of sons of farmers—rebels or Free State soldiers.

Government Helping

The government is doing its utmost to encourage restoration of industry, and the building up of new industries. But it is not doing it wildly, as was shown at a recent Dail meeting when the government refused to subsidize the tobacco industry until it should have received evidence that the industry was worth subsidizing.

Owners of destroyed property are being urged to rebuild. The government plans to pay for destruction of property one-half in cash and one-half in five per cent government bonds.

When rebuilding starts generally, thousands of workmen, now idle, will be employed.

As to economies, the government is cutting down its payrolls. It is dismissing superfluous men and is also reducing the vacation periods.

The civil service is being made pork-proof.

A previous article in this series mentioned that taxes are being paid willingly. Arrears are being collected and current taxes are coming in.

Altogether Irishmen paint a rosy picture of the Free State's future. If the rebel activities for the next few years at least are confined, as is expected, to paper, Ireland will have every chance to win a place among the nations.

HERE AND THERE

NEW.

After 20 years experimenting, Franz Lang comes from Munich, Germany, with an apparently perfected crude oil motor that operates without an ignition system. He calls it the Aero Motor. If successful, no more bother with carburetors, timers magnetos and spark plugs.

Auto drivers will realize the importance of such a motor, when they stop to think that crude oil can be purchased in cities for a few cents a gallon. Would some gasoline maker buy Lang's motor to keep it off the market? That has been done with many important inventions

ASHES.

France reveals that it has nearly 1,500,000 mutilated war veterans, including the blind, crippled, shell-shocked and insane. These unfortunates are costing the French government five billion francs a year—pensions, etc.

This is part of the price of "victory." A war is a loss, to the victor as well as the loser. This would be generally realized, if it were not for the propagandists, of whom there are two distinct types—morons and those with a personal selfish interest.

BOOTLEGGERS.

The chemical industry, representing an investment of a billion dollars, organizes to drive bootleggers out of its ranks. It sounds good on paper, and the movement may amount to something, for it's a real attempt on a big scale to enforce the prohibition law as it applies to the use of alcohol as an industrial raw material.

Sad news for the makers of synthetic whisky and home gin. Most bootleggers, of course, are now making their own alcohol out of cane sirup, instead of getting grain alcohol illicitly.

PERSONALITY IN PEOPLE'S HANDS.

Learn to Use Them Properly and You'll Gain Charm and Esteem.

(By A. H. FREDERICK)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—If you think you are slipping in esteem among your friends, that your personality is waning, watch your hands.

Many women make a poor impression on others, declares Margaret Anglin, famous American actress, just because they do not know how to use these important appendages.

"It is surprising how many women, who know how to assume otherwise correct and graceful posture, spoil the whole picture by awkward and ungainly hand positions," she says.

"It is one of the most common faults of those seeking a stage career, where hands play a very important part.

"And, started on observation along this line, I find it a prevalent fault of our women."

To get your personality "across" it is essential that the hands be used properly, she declares.

If you, as a hostess, wish to welcome guests cordially to your home, smiles and kind words are not enough. To make the guests feel absolutely welcome the picture of your joy at seeing them must be complete. The hands must synchronize in this picture with the other welcoming symptoms.

How is this to be done?

"Well," says Miss Anglin, "begin by not trying to study certain gestures to accompany certain words or phrases. This would lead to artificiality, and artificiality is the unforgivable sin in the category of gesture.

"Study your hands; even though they are not pretty they can be made to seem so by proper use. Experiment until you find positions in which yours are seen to best advantage.

"Then practice, allowing them to gesture slightly in accord with what you are saying. See if they truly emphasize your words. If the do not, then do not gesture at all.

"Always remember that no gesture at all is far better than one out of harmony with the rest of you.

"When you have found that you do add to your personality by certain gestures, incorporate them into yourself by practice.

"They will not become truly beautiful and beneficial to your appearance until they have become so thoroughly part of you that they are made unconsciously. The studied gesture, made consciously, is never pretty."

Miss Anglin believes that every mother of a daughter should begin early in lessons of correct hand posture. The child who gets an early start toward hand and arm gracefulness has an asset that every woman covets, she declares, and one which will reach its highest perfection when it "grows up with the girl."

To do this, instruct the child never to make an obvious gesture, that is, one so pronounced as to center attention on the hands. Teach her to make the simplest gestures possible which yet bring out the full force of the conversation. And, above all, teach her to make the gestures unconsciously.

"And once again, let me warn you," says Miss Anglin, "no gesture at all is better than an ungraceful or affected one."

SWEDISH WORKERS GO BACK TO FARMING NOW

STOCKHOLM, June 29. (Associated Press).—Sweden's "back to the soil" movement, started to turn certain unused lands to agricultural production and at the same time to provide farms for the excess of industrial workers who had difficulty in finding employment when the post-war boom ended, has already resulted in a number of new and successful farming colonies, according to the Stockholm newspapers.

A typical case which illustrates how men without jobs have been transformed into proprietors of forty-acre farms, with home, live stock, implements, etc., is seen in the colony at Basbo. A tract of 476 acres, part of a private estate, was purchased by the Private Homes Commission and divided up into ten farms. Three tenant families of the estate were put into possession of a parcel each on condition that they serve as leaders and instructors of the other seven colonists, who were selected from the supernumeraries of the cutlery works at Eskilstuna. Each farm had a cottage, and the commission further provided each colonist with one horse, two cows, a number of hogs, chickens, etc. Each farm has 20 acres or more of forest, which, it is expected, will be conserved and made productive.

The average cost of the land was $1,800 for each farm, and the cost of the improvements when completed will average about $1,300. The financing was done by the Private Homes Commission out of public funds appropriated for the purpose. Each farmstead carries a mortgage, but the interest is low, and the terms of payment easy.

SOMETHING DOING ALL THE TIME.

Aeroplane flights, high bar work and James E. Hardy riding a bicycle across a wire forty feet in the air will be a few of the features of the big celebration at Port Hope on Monday next.

WHEN SAFETY LAST'S THE SLOGAN

The wreckage above was once an auto. Two persons, one of them Mrs. Harry McAfee, prominent interior decorator, were killed when a Los Angeles suburban double-header electric struck their machine. The train derailed and caught fire, injuring 22 passengers.

RADIO UNCOVERS STORE KNOWLEDGE.

Vibration, Important in Everyday Life, is Made Understandable.

It never happened before—a passing train makes an auto rear up like a horse and run away. This occurred recently in Quincy, Mass.

Herman Collier parked his auto near a railroad. He and his mother climbed out, went into a nearby store to buy a basket of groceries. A freight went by. Its vibrations started the car, which crashed through the crossing gates and barely missed the caboose.

Your first thought is that Herman's car needs tightening up. But ponder a moment on the mysterious vibrations that started the auto. Not long since most people would have decided that the devil had slipped into the machine and set it going. We know now that it's a matter of vibration—something we speakabout offhand since the radio came, something that's going to be a greatand powerful slave in the future—and yet vibration is one of the most mysterious and uncanny things with which we deal.

Without vibrations, no sound no light, no radio. The taboo list runs on into the thousands. Even mutual love can be classed as a matter of reciprocal vibrations.

Marching soldiers, as far back as Napoleon, broke step in crossing a bridge, lest the vibrations of their marching cause the bridge to collapse.

If you had a piece of steel as large as the Woolworth building and could suspend it from a cable like a clock's pendulum, then let a small hammer swing repeatedly and methodically against it, in time the vibrations of the hammer blows would start the great block of steel swinging.

We are swayed by psychic vibrations in nearly everything we do. War, for instance, is the result of the force, patriotism, vibrating through nations. Vibrations, material and psychic, are constantly flowing toward and through us. Sometimes we respond, like a radio tuning into a concert. Some of us receive the great spiritual vibrations from beyond, others cannot.

The vibrations that animate us gradually form a rhythm by which we live. One extreme is the languid, procrastinating individual who "doesn't pick up many out-of-town stations." He is a crystal receiving set, responding only to nearby vibrations.

The other extreme is the highly-strung person who picks up so many vibrations that he moves at top speed, almost falling over himself in his hurry.

Nervous breakdown results usually from the inability to insulate one's self against distracting vibrations.

This discussion brings us to the borderline of the psychic, a mysterious field that later will be understood and handled as we now understand and handle such forces as electricity.

VAMP OF TO-DAY IS IN BUSINESS.

She Excells Where Engineering Man's Money Speculations is Aim.

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK, June 29.—Perhaps you thought vamps operated almost exclusively in movies or in high society.

If so, let De Sacia Mooers, movie favorite, correct your impression. The vamp of today, she says, is in business. And she's making good.

"Vamping," she informed me, "is a recognized profession in the business world. You find the siren employed by large commercial establishments, in banks and in big corporations—wherever it is necessary to engineer deals that require finesse in parting some man from his money. That's where women's generation of training may be put to account."

The new type of vamp doesn't pay. Instead, she gets richly paid for her services, it seems.

"The business vamp of today," my informant went on, "is not the conventional raven-hued enchantress who begins to ogle as soon as she sees a man, and hence puts him on his guard. She is almost exclusively the blond type.

Ah, Those Eyes

"The blond is more subtly appealing. No one ever knows quite what deep-dyed schemes are being hatched behind her calm, laughing eyes. She is the northern type, you know, coming from a race that has had to fight hard for its existence. She doesn't expect to get by on sex alone.

"The brunet, too, is usually more selfish than the blond—she will vamp for what she can get out of it herself, but a blond will campaign for the sake of someone else."

De Sacia Mooers, wife of Edward Demarest Mooers, owner of the famous Yellow Aster gold mine of Randsburg, Calif., is a blond herself. She gained all this information about vamps while preparing for her role of the blond vamp in "Potash and Perlmutter," which is now being filmed.

She's A Diplomat

"Positively the best vamps of today are in the business world," she concluded. "A beautiful woman is an asset to any business concern, just as she is to a home.

"The girl who wants to be a professional business vamp, however, must have more than regular features. She must have diplomacy and tact, be sympathetic, a good listener, a smart dresser, have lots of pep and a clear head.

"She usually has an understanding with her employer that she will go out to suppers with men with whom the concern is doing business.

"There is no moral issue involved with the business vamp's life. She must outdo Caesar's wife in keeping herself above reproach.

"If she can't sidestep the final issue and be the master of every situation, she will be more harm than good to her employer, and she won't hold her job."

WANTED A PENSION.

Capitol Entertainment

The art of one man makes the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week end. George Beban is "The Sign of the Rose" does some wonderful acting. A little-known character to Peterboro audiences, his is a splendid form of dramatic characterization. Pietro Balletti and his small daughter Rosa dominate the picture. A shabby Italian, with rough, ragged clothes a polite gentleness of manner that includes all in a mild sweep, his passionate sorrow over the death of his little daughter is the sort of screen triumph in tragic realism that brings a choke to the throat. The patho of this story would be almost unbearable, were it not lightened by the sudden, unexpected happiness of the ending. To the patient Italian, his child snatched away by a recklessly-driven automobile comes a stroke of happy fortune that makes up, in a measure for the realistic pathos of the story. Whimsical and delightful are the scenes between the home-coming father and the little, dark-haired daughter, keeping house with big apron and tightly-drawn braids, and there is a long-drawn out sigh in the scene where the father and the crippled lad prepare to play "Sanny Claws" to the small girl.

A moral accompanies this picture, a lesson to the spoiled brother of a rich man whose craze for pleasure indrectly brings about the tragedy and there is the manager of the flower-shop, "The Sign of the Rose," whose weakness helps the story to a logical conclusion. The human element is strong in this picture, with a dramatic atmosphere of suspended interest that keeps the attention of the audience focused on the sceen throughout. Interesting, pathetic, humorous, essentially human, it is a fine and likeable production.

"Kid" Roberts is the central figure in another of his engaging ring episodes, when he is saved from a "frame up" by the friendship of an attractive young telephone operator, and turns the tables on a ring of crooked sports. The fight is replete with thrills for pugilistic fans.

The comedy is a "painful" affair, illustrating the trials of a sufferer from an aching tooth, whose screaming molar and swollen visage accompany some ludicrous episodes, in his endeavors to rid himself of the offending tooth. He tries in divers ways to become separated from it, after a rapid exit from the dental chair.

A pleasing feature of the pictures last night, with reference particularly to the features presentation, was the very appropriate and lovely music rendered by the Capitol orchestra in keeping with the changing spirit of "The Sign of the Rose."

AT THE ROYAL.

EVERY HUSBAND A HERO, EVERY WIFE A HEROINE

In her new Associated First National production, 'Heroes and Husbands," which has its initial presentation at the Royal Theatre, yesterday. Katherine MacDonald, portraying a successful novelist, makes the assertion that "we are all heroes and heroines if someone makes us believe we are."

And then, at a Long Island house party, for the sake of proving her theory, Miss MacDonald writes a play and the house guests are cast for the different characters, with the real villain of the story having the part of the hero and Miss MacDonald, the realy-truly heroine, assuming the part of the villainess! She proves the contention most cleverly and entertainingly, with the assistance of such fine players as Nigel Barrie, Charles Gerrard, Charles Clary, Mona Kingsley and Ethe Kay, all under Chet Withey's skilful direction in the development of Charles Logue's out of the ordinary comedy drama.

Aeroplane a Flying Wing

LONDON, June 29 — (Canadian Press).—An aeroplane which will be nothing more or less than a flying wing is shortly to be tested. The body has been so shaped that it has itself become a lifting surface and instead of so much dead weight in flight it will carry more than a ton. This bodyless machine is expected to prove faster and more economical than any previous type. It will be multi-engined with a saloon for twenty-five passengers and additional space for mails and baggage.

WARM DEBATE OVER ITEM IN ESTIMATES

OTTAWA, June 29. Canadian Press. — There was a heated debate in the House of Commons this morning on the supplementary estimates. Mr. Meighen accused the government of putting in a $30,000 item for a breakwater at Belle River, North Esex, purely as a political move to make good the promises of A. F. Healy during the bye-election campaign in that riding.

Government speakers said that the proposal to develop the harbor antedated the bye-election. The discussion took most of the forenoon, and and no vote has been taken yet on Mr. Meighen's motion to cut out the item.

REV. G. E. ROSS, M.A. HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED

Changes announced in the first draft of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference include the removal from the pulpit of Mark Street Methodist Church of a popular city pastor, Rev. G. E. Ross, M. A.

Mr. Ross, who has been in charge of the Ashburnham Methodist church for the last four years coming here from Trenton, Ontario, is going to Janetville where he will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist Church. A coincidence about this change, which makes it very pleasing to Mr. and Mrs. Ross is the fact that seven of the former's youthful years from the age of eleven when he came out to Canada from his native birthplace of Scotland, were passed in Janetville. He returns now to his boyhood's home.

Rev. Mr. Ross, who will occupy the pulpit of Mark Street Church for two more Sundays, leaving for his new charge about the 11th of July, will be succeeded by Rev. Richard Bamforth of Deseronto.

GERMANS USING EXPLOSIVES IN THE RUHR AREA

Reply to Stiffening of Occupation is Time Bomb Which Kills Nine Belgians

RAIL CAR WRECKED

DUSSELDORF, June 30. Special —Nine Belgian soldiers were killed and 25 were wounded, when a bomb was thrown in a carload of troops near Duisburg. The car was blown to matchwood.

The explosion is regarded in military circles here as the German reply to the stiffening of the occupation regulations in the Belgian zone since the killing of the two Belgian soldiers at Marl several days ago, and is thought to have been carried out by the same organization that arranged the explosion that killed two Germans in the waiting room of the Wiesbaden railway station this week.

The train which was carrying 300 men on leave had just left Dersburg, shortly before two o'colck. The bomb exploded as the train was crossing the Rhine. It completely demolished the car, killing or badly wounding every man in it, and mortally wounding the sentinel who was guarding the bridge. He was struck by a fragment of iron. The wounded are being cared for in the hospitals in the vicinity of Dersburg. Several of the wounded are not expected to live.

It was announced that penalties will be applied by the authorities of occupation for the outrage.

POLICE ROLLING STOCK REPAIRED

Finance Committee Passed Acconnt for $695.76 After Postponing Approval.

The bill for repairs to the police car and motorcycle, amounting to $695.76, was passed by the Finance committee of the Council last night, but on Ald. Meyer's suggestion, seconded by Ald. Holloway, the chairman of the Police Commission will be informed that this action is taken without prejudicing the Council's claim to certain control of the Police Department expenditures.

The Studebaker car was thoroughly overhauled at a cost of $591.63, according to the account from Messrs .White and Ackford. One of the items in the bill was 285 1-2 hours at one dollar an hour. Another was $85 for painting the car. White Brothers tuned up the motorcycle for the consideration of $104.13. Previously, the Finance committee had decided to set these two accounts aside for further deliberation, but advice from City Solicitor Wearing last night assured the Council that the account could be paid without involving the position of the Council with respect to the Police Commission.

Ald. Holloway remarked that the repairs to the police fleet had evidently been contracted for on the cost plus basis.

Sum Voted For the Experimental Farms.

OTTAWA, June 30.—(Canadian Press)—Answering Progressive criticism of a vote of $75,000 for experimental farms Hon' E. M. MacDonald said in the House yesterday that some of the buildings were in "a wretched condition." They must give proper facilities for the work of these farms or close them.

John Evans (Progressive, Saskatoon), said the country was top heavy with such institutions.

O. R. Gould observed that a boy of twelve by examination of a field had disproved statements made in an elaborate pamphlet on cutworms issued by the experimental farms. He thought more money should be allocated for farms in the western wheat area.

The item carried.

DECLARED AMERICA IS GOING TO SWEEP BRITISH OFF SEAS

Speeches Attacking Great Britain in Terms Unfit to Print Delivered at Gatherings on the Reconditioned Liner.

ABOARD LEVIATHAN

LONDON, June 30 (United Press). — Speeches attacking Great Britain "in terms which are unfit to print" were delivered at gatherings aboard the Shipping Board's liner Leviathan during her trial trip, according to a despatch from the New York correspondent of the London Daily Mail, published to-day.

"Lasker (then chairman of the Shipping Board), who was at the the official post, listened with every appearance of approval to a tirade of abuse of everything British from W. F. Gibbs, the naval architect who reconditioned the Leviathan," the despatch said.

The Daily Mail quoted Gibbs as saying that he had learned "all the crooked tricks" of British steamship owners, and that America was now going to sweep the British off the seas!

NEW YORK, June 30 (United Press). — W. F. Gibbs, the naval architect and designer of the re-conditioned Leviathan, when he read the London Daily Mail article, declared he recalled no such occurrence.

"The passengers aboard the ship heard my remarks, and they are entitled to place on them their own construction," Gibbs told the United Press. "The matter is entirely a Shipping Board affair, and I wish to make no statement, except to say that I personally have always had the greatest respect for British competition."

BILL SHELVED NEXT SESSION

Redistribution Issue Will Be Laid Over for Another Year.

OTTAWA, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—The work of special committee on redistribution was reviewed by the Chairman Hon. E. McDonald when the House resumed at 11 o'clock to-day. Redistribution in each province, he said, has been taken by sub-committees on which each of the three parliamentary groups were represented, progress has been made in British Columbia but considerable difficulty had been experienced by the Prairie Province sub committees particularly in Manttoba, in the Maritime Provinces, there had been strong claims for minimum representation, very little progress had been made with regard to Ontario, said Mr. MacDonald, and as the provincial elections approached, the members were frequently absent and the possibility of settlement, grew less. The end of the session approaching committee et as a whole and decided to recommend that the matter be held over and the bill finally acter upon next year. Mr. McDonald pointed out that on the last two occasions when a redistribution followed upon the taking of the decennial census, the bill had not been passed any sooner than would be the case in this instance. The fear had been expressed that an election might occur in the meantime, working a hardship upon provinces which are entitled to increased representation, Mr. McDonald assured the house that there was no possibility of an election before next session.

GALLAGHER'S INDIAN LUNG REMEDY

This is a preparation which has been used in the writer's family for years. From personal experience we believe it to be superior to any Cod Liver Oil or fish oil preparation in fortifying the system against repeated colds or for any lung trouble. A splendid blood builder and protection against attacks of the Flu.

It is said that a missionary to India contracted lung trouble, an Indian Doctor gave him this recipe, which restored him to health. One of the ingredients in this preparation is found only in India and is most expensive, at time of writing being worth $88.00 per pound.

A members of the writer's family had increasingly severe hemorrhages of the lungs. When her doctor said he could do no more, she began taking this Remedy, soon regained her good health, lived twenty-five years after and never had any lung trouble during that time. Neighbors with Asthma were also completely relieved by its use and it was always used with the greatest efficiency after Pneumonia, the Flu, or for chronic colds.

It is not a cough syrup, but it enriches the blood to such an extent that it is able to fight off the disease. The good effects of this medicine are felt more fully months after a course has been taken. It is put up in 16-oz. bottles selling for $1.50.

While taking this remedy if the bowels do not move freely each day, try Gallagher's Blood Purifier once a day, to keep the Liver and Bowels active. In cases of severe lung trouble it would be well to bathe the patient with alcohol and water once a day. We feel sure you will get most gratifying results from the intelligent use of Gallagher's Indian Lung Remedy.

More Troops Sent To Strike Zone

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—One squadron of Royal Canadian Dragoons from Stanley Barracks and Niagara Camp, together with companies of Royal Canadian regiment from London, Longbranch and Niagara proceed today to Sydney, N.S., to be prepared for whatever eventualties may occur as outcome of strike at plant of British Empire Steel Company.

Company from Toronto entrained at 10 o'clock this morning on orders from Department of Militia and Defence at Ottawa. Assignment from Toronto will consist of several hundred men.

A Recital

A very pleasant and entertaining recital of the pianoforte pupils of Mr. R. Gliddon, director of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, was given in the Conservatory Hall last evening to a good-sized audience. Pupils of Miss Mae Perry also gave several charming and graceful dances, which were heartily encored.

Mr. Gliddon's pupils gave a very enjoyable recital of instrumental music. They evidenced throughout a careful attention to technical detail, combined with a high degree of sympathetic interpretative powers which made their music very pleasing, a free wrist movement which gave their tone production a ringing, elastic quality, and a smooth, even execution. The younger pupils gave an excellent account of themselves, and the senior work was very pleasing. Miss Agnes Grant showed a delicate silvery tone in her dual offering; Miss Olga Fowler played very brilliantly from memory Verdi's Quartette from "Rigoletto; Miss Bessie Everest gave a splendid rendition of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," and there was a pliable tone and firmness of execution in the music of Mrs. Nora Edwards, of Lindsay, that made her selection; Liszt's "Cantique d'Amour," most acceptable.

The little airy figures of Pierrot and Pierrette, in their white harlequin costumes, were charming in the pretty interpretative dance which depicted their light romantic wooing, and the symbolic number, "Poet's Love," with the central figure, Miss Mae Perry, surrounded by little sweethearts in softly-tinted dresses, was repeated to much applause.

Those taking part in the dances were: Pierrot and Pierrette, Kathleen Cooney and Olive O'Connell; in Poet's love, Poet, Miss Mae Perry; Damsels, Kathleen Cooney Olive O'Connell, Mary Westbye, and Margaret Lockington.

The musical programme was as follows:

Sonatina (Dussek), Wilson Roseborough.

Sonata in E flat (Beethoven), Vera McGill.

(a) Gondolier (Habebion).

(b) Waltz in C sharp Minor (Chopin)—Miss Edna Connor.

(a) La Cascade (Paner)

(b) Polonaise (Chopin) — Miss Agnes Grant.

(a) Hunter's Song (Quigley)

(b) The Merry Peasant (Schumann)—Ted Wyatt.

Moonlight Sonata (Beethoven), Miss Bessie Everest.

Whims (Schumann), Miss Bessie Levine.

Cantique d'Amour (Liszt). Mrs. Nora Edwards, of Lindsay.

Rigoletto Fantasie (Verdi), Miss Olga Fowler.

THEIR FAITH IN "KING" PURNELL YET UNSHAKEN

Lowly Members of the House of David Cult Not Surprised at Recent Publicity.

THEY HAVE ENEMIES

BY MAURICE HENLE.

BENTON HARBOR, Michigan, June 30. — Lowly members of the House of David cult—the rank and file—have greater faith to-day in "King" Ben Purnell than ever.

And so if the State of Michigan believes that by disclosing alleged immoral conditions involving Benny the John Smiths of the tribe would become disgusted, it missed a guess by a wide, wide margin.

Max Blume is one of those rank and file members. "Blume" translated, means "flowers," he explains,and and convince him that only a true him selling flowers in town at the site of the new four storey hotel the house is building there.

"What do you think of King Ben now?" he was asked.

MAX BLUME.

He gave a short laugh. "Why we have greater faith in him than ever."

Suspicions.

Before he would talk at all it was first necessary to wear down his natural suspicions of newspaper men asd convince him that only a true impression of how actual members feel towards the missing "Seventh Messenger" would be printed.

"Didn't all those articles coming out in the newspapers surprise you and other members?"

"Of course not," he replied. "We knew it was coming. Wait! There will be worse things happen to us. But truth will triumph."

"Where is King Ben?"

"I dont know."

"And yet you believe in a man who would run away?"

"Absolutely. We are convinced Benjamin is the Seventh Messenger As to his running away, why, we have enemies. We expected all this. But remember this: We do not hate those who are conspiring to tear down our structure asd our faith. If we hated them it would be against our teaching.

"The Bible says to love your enemies. We can't go to court to fight them, because that too is against our teaching and against Scripture. Human being for the most part are not good. But wait!"

Evil will Go.

"Seventy seven years. You see, it took six days to make the earth. That means 6000 years. There were 4000 between creation and Christ, and 1923 since. In 77 years the 6000 will have passed, and evil will have gone from the earth, and good will rule."

Blume was once a hotel clerk in Switzerland He came to this country and tried the hotel game here; but he says that business with its sordid competition wearied him and he joined the House of David after hearing a street speaker in Seattle, Wash. He has been here 12 years, and is very happy. As a postcript it might be well to mention that Benton Harbor, exclusive of the cult members, thinks highly of the bewhiskered group. They say that the Davidites are gentlemen, that they mind their own business, and never create disturbances. In other words they are pretty good neighbors.

GEORGE GRANGE PROPOSED FOR CITY HALL JOB

Property Committee Recommend Him for Position of Janitor—Robert Wilson Resigned.

13 APPLICATIONS

George Grange was recommended for the position of caretaker of the City Hall by the Property Committee last night.

Thirteen unsolicited applications were received for the vacancy, caused by the resignation of Robert Wilson, which the committee accepted, to take effect on 7th July, with salary continuing until the end of the month.

Persistent ill-health forced Mr. Wilson to resign from the position. which he has held since 1907. He not only did good work at the City Hall, but his quiet, unobtruding manner and kindliness made him a doubly valuable public servant.

Those who applied for the job on the strength of the newspaper reports of Mr. Wilson's retirement were: Albert Duncan, McDonnel Street; Geo. W. Thomas, 190 Perry Street; J. H Campbell, W. S. Strike, James Gates, Roland Long, George Grange, Alex. Nesbitt, F. W. Eggleton, John Martin Luther janitor at the Y.M.C.A., John S. Mason, 667 Armour Road, H. W. Smith, 619 Union Street, Mr. and Mrs. S. Waterhouse, 470 Stewart Street

During the illness of Mr. Wilson his work has been performed by Alex. Nesbitt, assisted by Mrs. Waterhouse, who was employed three days a week.

Mr. Grange was selected from the applicants by Ald. Crowe, and all the members of the committee, together with several other aldermen, expressed themselves as favourable to his request.

Ald. Crowe referred to Mr. Grange's experience as caretaker of the Armouries and also at Kingston, and stated that he wished to give the former Fire Chief the opportunity of accepting the position of caretaker at the City Hall.

Mayor Taylor seconded Alderman Crowe's motion.

The salary is $1,200 a year.

No Garbage Collection.

Upon the representations of Sanitary Inspector Stapleton, Mr. Withers, the garbage collection contractor, and Mr. Murphy, of the incinerator, the committee decided to revert to the former cusom on holidays and dispense with the regular collections on that day. When the contract was made out this year, it was agreed that the collections should be made on the holiday or the following day. Mr Withers said he preferred to gather up the refuse on the holiday, but only a few of the householders put out garbage on that day. Throughout the South Ward the people asked him why he was working on a holiday, but the only complaint against not collecting last year came from the West Ward.

This summer the change proposed

NEW PHASE OF TURKS' POLICY

Are Pretending to Ignore the Allied Occupation of Constantinople—Threaten Foreigners.

LONDON, June 30. — (United Press).—Dispatches from Constantinople state that all foreign residents of the city have been ordered by the Angora Government to secure permits to remain. Thirty days will be allowed during which time application must be made at the police stations for the permits. After that fines will be imposed on all foreigners found without one. The British colony, numbering about thirty-five hundred is affected by the order. The Turkish authorities declare that every aid will be given them in obtaining the necessary papers.

The order from Angora points out that the move is simply the enforcement of a law already in existence, but which has been heretofore ignored by foreign residents of Constantinople. The action of the Angora Government is regarded there as a further phase of the Turkish policy of pretending to ignore the Allied occupation of Constantinople.

SEIZE GREEK SHIPS

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30—(Special). — All Greek ships coming to Constantinople will be seized, Turkish authorities notified the Allies to-day.

Choice liquor have been confiscated from several British steamers, by U. S. Government dry agents. This shows how a derrick lifted many cases from the White Star liner Baltic at New York following the Treasury Department's ruling that foreign vessels may not have surplus supple within the three-mile limits. Note the British government seals, which revenue agents broke open, affixed to the boxes.

DESPATCH TROOPS TO SCENE OF THE STRIKE

Force of Men Sent From London This Morning - An Attempt to Wreck a Canadian National Train

LONDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Troops of unit "A" headquarters company of the R.C.R. stationed at Wolsley Barracks, in this city, left early this morning on special Canadian National Railway train for Sydney N.S., where they will be stationed to protect the property of the British Empire Steel Company pending the settlement of the dispute between that company and 2,000 of its employees who are now out on strike.

The unit is under command of Col. C. H. Hill D.S.O. and numbers about 150 all ranks.

The order to entrain for the east was received last night in a code message from the Department of Militia and Defence at Ottawa and officers in command of the local unit, were kept busy until an early hour this morning arranging the necessary details.

SYDNEY, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—An attempt to wreck the C.N.R. troop train bringing soldiers from Halifax for strike duty here was discovered by Railway employees about 3.30 this morning, half an hour before the force reached the city.

At that hour a telephone message reached the despatchers office saying that railway ties or steepers had been wedged below the rails and piled on main line at a point between Chappel's Mill and the companies siding. Several officers went out and removed obstruction and by order of the sheriff all crossings and switches were watched until the train got safely in.

The first detachment of 250 men reached the station about four this morning.

CHIEF THOMPSON MADE A BIG HIT

Had a Busy Time Lookin After Entertainment of Visitors.

The proposed elective police commission had the worst of a debate at the chief constables' convention held in Windsor last week, at which Chief Newhall was a delegate, and the Dominion system of parole was the butt of much criticism.

Chief Rutledge of Detroit congratulated the chief constables of Canada on their victory over the elective commission advocates. The elective commission is a great handicap, he said, to the police officers in the United States.

Dr. Lowell of the Ontario Parole system received a gruelling on the present laxity in the parole department, but after a lengthy debate the blame was finally placed on the superior authorities in Ottawa, and a resolution framed calling on the Dominion parole department to take the same steps as in Toronto in connection with all paroles. The system advocated is the enquiry from chief constables where convicts come from as to the character and probablity of success of the men proposed for parole. General Victor Williams, Chief of the Ontario Provincial Police spoke at great length on the Leo Rogers case condemning the paroling of such convicts and endorsing the resolution.

Former Peterboro Chief

Throughout the convention, Chief Daniel Thompson, formerly Chief Constable here, was prominent in the entertainment of the guests and in the deliberatons of the assembly To him is credited the great success of the 1923 convention, and the spirit of the delegates showed that he is co-operating successfully with the Chiefs from the United States and with the Border cities chiefs. Many prominent police officials from across the line and from all over Canada attended, including R. K. Fox, Chief of Detroit police, who has just recovered from a shooting fracas when he attempted to arrest a couple of hold-up men; the head of the traffic squad of New York city, who gave useful pointers on the manage ment of traffic; Joseph Rogers, late superintendent Ontario Provincial Police who was noted or his administration of the Province with only 46 men; and many others.

Next Convention

Chief Belanger of Montreal was president of the 1923 convention and in his attendance at the International Convention in Detroit a few weeks ago was successful in gaining for Montreal the 1924 International convention. This is believed to be the first time the convention has been held in Canada.

Chief Ross of Ottawa secured the 1924 Canadian convention and the two will be held about the same time. The Convention just closed was conceded the biggest and most helpful

MICHIGAN PIKERS' TOUR CALLED OFF

Lot of Hard Work and Propaganda Rendered Useless by Verdict.

A letter addressed to "All Interested Parties," has been received from W. E. Edenburn, manager of the projected tour of the Michigan Pikers' Association to the effect that the 9th annual Good Roads Campaign, planned by the Michigan Association to take place from July 9th to 23rd, and known as the "Champlain's Trail Tour", has been indefinitely postponed. The letter says: "We do not expect to conduct this or any other tour at this time, although the event might be revived at the annual meeting of the Association in the fall."

The president of the Association Capt. W. S. Gilbreath whose decision was supported by a quorum of directors after 'careful consideration and exhausting effort to put over the Tour," gives as reason for postponing the event the lack of transportation facilities and the very few responses made "to our solicitation both for transportation and funds. It has made it necessary for us to call off the tour for this year."

"We do this with regret, as we were particularly anxious to assist our Ontario friend in the magnificent propaganda work they have been doing in good roads and would not under any cirsumstances have a tour that was not up to the standard. Conditions preventing this, we feel that our action was justified."

The letter finishes; "We wish to thank you for the interest you have taken in the matter and deeply regret the conditions of non-support which was the main factor in causing this decision and our inability to advise you of the same at an earlier date."

THY WILL BE DONE ON EARTH

The sweetest music that ascends to God's throne is the music of a life in tune with Himself, whose genuine love flows out to Him, who delights in His fellowship, and whose heart overflows with the joy of that communion, insomuch that other lives are refreshed by it, as they taste the joy of kindness, of justice, of comfort and of unselfish love; this is pure joy to the Father, who would have us pray, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

THREE RINGED CIRCUS ON THE LOCAL MARKET

Tape Worms and Pink Rambler Roses on Exhibition — One Man Swallowed a Hard Egg.

TODAY'S PRICES

There were plenty of berries on the farmers' market this morning, of good quality, at prices ranging from fifteen to eighteen cents a box. The carts were not as numerous as usual, but there was plenty of green stuff, with lettuce selling at three bunches for ten cents. Potatoes were still firm at $1 a bag, and little pigs were much in evidence, at $12 per pair. Red and white cabbage plants were 15 cents a bunch; new beets 10 cents. Green peas were a popular commodity at one stand, at 15 cents a quart The fish vendor had trout and Lake Ontario mullet, the latter a pound for a dime.

The auctioneer, whose humorous description of offered articles always brings him a fair-sized audience, was selling long-lashed whips and shoes and suspenders, among other things. He had two loud-voiced rivals this morning; in the red-faced gentleman who displayed his curly locks and combed his hair for the benefit of an admiring assemblage, in support of his claims for a brand of hair restorer, and the fleshy-faced seller of "body foods," who was accompanied by a pink-faced talking doll, a small boy, and an assortment of slight of hand tricks. This individual swallowed a hard-boiled egg at a gulp for the entrancement of the spectators, and had on view several samples of tape worms, "body parasites" which he claimed responsible for many cases of alleged cancer and tuberculosis. He also advanced the theory that the usage of rare meats, particularly of pork, impure water and unclean milk, caused many of these interior growths.

Upstairs, in the basket section, there was plenty of butter and eggs, and a quantity of fowl. Butter was selling from 32 to 35 cents a pound, and eggs from 22 to 25 cents a dozen. Year old chickens were 25 cents a pound. Little, fluffy, chirping chicks were on hand in two batches; Rhode Island Reds and Barred Rocks and Leghorns at 15 cents apiece, and, in another basket, at five for a dollar.

Five dollars this morning would buy a black collie pup or a spaniel, and twenty cents would give you a bouquet of pale pink, rambler roses.

FRENCH SENATE WILL NOT MODIFY DEMANDS OF GERMAN PAYMENTS

Not a Single Dissenting Vote When Money Is Asked to Carry on Occupational Program.

GERMANY MUST PAY.

PARIS, June 30. — Canadian Press —Enthusiasm such as is seldom witnessed in the Senate was aroused by Premier Poincare yesterday when at the end of a stirring speech asking the Upper House to vote the credits necessary for the Ruhr occupation, he informed the "temporal and spiritual powers," that although France had been loathe to have recourse to force; "now that measures of coercion have been instituted they will be continued until Germany surrenders."

The members of the august assembly arose, cheered long and loud, and then voted the credits for 307,000,000 francs without a single dissenting voice.

With much emotion the Premier referred to Germany's financial situation as becoming more grave daily.

"The Reich," he said, "is turning in a most frightful vicious circle without making any attempt to emerge. She is banking upon a miracle to save her from actual ruin but miracles are rare. Not a single day passes but German industrialists are attempting to meet our own business men or politicians. I am invariably informed of these moves. We shall fall into no more traps.

"At times Germany is hoping for Allied intervention; when she figures on France's discouragement and lassitude, she is making a grave mistake. We have announced our essential demands; we will not modify them in the slightest.

"At Brussels, the Belgian government in agreement with us, has decided not to examine the German proposals until Germany abandons her resistance; we will not evacuate the Ruhr until Germany begins to pay. The only means of making Germany pay is her desire to recover the Ruhr. We have no thought of annexation; we scorn accusations of imperialism.

"We don't want to confiscate the Ruhr; we will hold it only so long as Germany does not pay her debt. The latest German proposals are not serious and do not deserve a reply. If Germany fails to understand so much the worse for her. Never will we give up the precious guarantees until she settles. Should we recross the Rhine before being paid Germany will have achieved her revenge and our humiliation .

"Had we political or military aims we should have occupied the Valley of the Main and to have cut Germany in halves, but we only desire to exercise economic pressure, so we occupied the Ruhr.

"We have met with resistance that is called passive, but is in reality active, insidious and criminal. The resistance has come from the large industrials and from the Berlin government. This has not always been realized abroad, especially at the Holy See—where errors may also be made.

"We should have preferred not to have recourse to force but we had to apply coercive measures. We have continued and will continue in spite of everything. Our victorious nation cannot renounce its victory. It will oppose its will to that of the vanquished nation who refuses to acknowledge its defeat."

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly — as it generally does — the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BROKEN BONES OF DELORME'S SKULL SHOWN

Another Bullet Found in Third Examination of Body of the Murdered Youth.

POLICE EXAMINED.

MONTREAL, June 30.— (Canadian Press.)—At the sight of splintered bones, forming part of the shattered lower jaw of his half brother Raoul, with whose murder Father Delorme is charged, the accused priest was unable to control himself and wept for several minutes in the dock. He ceased from his persistent habit of taking notes while Dr. MacTaggart, the medico-legal expert attached to the court, held up one of the bones with the bullet hole in it for the jury to see.

Dr. MacTaggart stated this was the third examination performed on the body of the murdered student. The first was made at the regular autopsy on January 7, 1922; the second to find out whether or not the youth had been poisoned; and the third, last Wednesday, to discover if further bullets could be found. One was found then and produced in court yesterday afternoon. It was of the same calibre as the two others found in the body, namely 25.

The afternoon was also marked by the gruelling cross-examination of Chief Lorrain of the Provincial Detective Force by counsel for the defence. Counsel warmly criticized Chief Lorrain for what he called his "impudence" in not submitting a parcel sent him containing Raoul Delorme's watch for examination by finger-print experts. He asked him if it were true that he had been railroaded from bartender to Chief of Police, amid the objections of Mr. Calder, Crown Prosecutor and the court.

The third important witness was Oscar Haynes, a local gunsmith. He was called as an expert to define certain defects in the revolver he sold to Father Delorme prior to the murder, and to identify the number of bullets fired to show the difference between the priest's weapon and a number of other pistols of the same and different makes.

CANADIAN GOVT. SEEKING OFFICE FOR 20 YEARS

Dominion Is Still Lacking Suitable Quarters in London — Must Rent New Building.

$25,000 FOR RENT.

OTTAWA, June 30.— (Canadian Press.)—A vote of $25,000 in connection with the high commissioner's office in London brought a query from Sir Henry Drayton in the House yesterday as to what progress was being made in securing new Dominion offices in the capital of the empire.

Premier King replied that for over tweny years Canadian governments had been seeking to secure suitable offices in London, Australia and South Africa had appropriate offices there, but Canada was inadequately housed. The present high commissioner had had several buildings under consideration, including Cox's Bank building, but so far none had been acquired. The lease of the present offices in Victoria street, Westminster would be up shortly and it would be necessary to obtain temporary quarters. This vote was for that purpose.

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter wanted to know whether the Minister of Railways couud tell the House whether the Minister of Railways could tell the House whether Sir Henry Thornton might have acquired a castle or two in London, but to this there was no reply.

In answer to a plea by General Ross of Kingston for the housing of the various government offices of Canada under one roof, the premier said that the dominion had tried to obtain a building now occupied by British Columbia, which was better than any offices controlled by the Dominion. That province, however, had declined to sell. The Dominion was at present renting part of the British Columbia house for immigration offices.

BIG INCREASE DEMANDED BY COAL MINERS

Twenty Per Cent. Increase For Men on Contract Wage or Two Dollars a Day For Day Wage Men.

OTHER DEMANDS.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—The demands of the anthracite mine workers to be presented to the coal operators were adopted by the miners' convention late yesterday as submitted by the scale committee, except that the increase of one dollar a day for men paid by the day was amended so as to make the increase two dollars a day.

The convention then adjourned finally.

The demands follow generally those adopted at the convention in Shamokin, Pa., in January, 1922, and for which the miners fought for five and a half months, the men finally returning to work without an increase in wages, but maintaining the scale under which they had quit. The present agreement, which was entered to in last September, expires August 31, and it was announced the new demands will be presented to the operators as soon after the Fourth of July holidays as possible.

The discussion of the demands from beginning to end proceeded in an orderly manner and there was no serious objection offered to any clause in the list presented.

The principal demands for an increase of twenty per cent. in the contract wage; two dollars a day increase for men paid by the day; a two year contract with full recognition of the union; uniformity and equalization of all day rates; the eight-hour day for all men employed in and about the mines; that where coal is paid for by the car, the system be changed and it be paid for by weight.

There were a number of other demands of a technical nature.

The morning session of the convention was marked by a disturbance due to the presence in the balcony of the hall of Joseph Manley, son-in-law of William Z. Foster, and identified with the Trades Union Educational League, and J. P. McCarthy, representing the Labor defence Council, who were bitterly denounced as enemies of the United Mine Worker and other trades unions and ordered to "remove their carcasses from the hall."

McCarthy was accompanied by his wife.

Amid wild jeers and hoots the three safely left the place. A half block from the hall, Manley and McCarthy were attacked by a number of men and in the melee McCarthy was badly used up. Mrs. McCarthy was not assailed although for a time she pitched in and helped defend her husband.

Senate Adopts Amendments To Soldiers' Insurance Bill

Senator Griesbach Commends Work of Board of Pensioners and Officials of the D.S.C.R.—Amendment to the Pension Bill Was Defeated.

OTTAWA, June 30. —(Canadian Press.)—With very little debate the Senate yesterday afternoon in committee of the whole adopted amendments to the House of Commons bill on Soldiers' Insurance in line with the report of Senator Beique's special committee. While the commons bill provided for the granting of insurance in 71 disputed cases, the Senate's action would make them subject to review by the minister.

Senator Calder explained that a number of these applications were actually rejected. Furthermore the original law gave the minister absolute right to refuse policies where he found sufficient cause.

It was agreed by the special committee he said that a soldier should be entitled to insure his life in favor of dependents. It was advisable, however, to avoid exploitation of the government for the benefit of people not dependents. As a case in point he cited an application of a man for a $5,000 policy while he lay dying in a hospital. The beneficairies were to be his parents who were in no way dependent upon him.

A warm tribute was paid to the members of the board of pensioners and officials of the D.S.C.R. by Senator Griesbach. They were doing excellent work, he said, and Canada was fortunate in benefitting by their good services.

Considerable opposition developed against the Senate committee's amendment to the pensions bill —the amendment striking out the clause which would revive the insurance principle for dependents. Senator Griesback opposed the amendment, although a member of the special committee. He explained that it was a matter involving justice and right, but there was also the matter of cost. This it had been estimated would amount to some $32,000,000 during the next 25 years over and above the present expenditures.

Senator Laird also opposed the amendment. He believed that the contract of the people of Canada and the men who served overseas was to care for these men during the whole of their service. He was not very proud of the action taken by parliament in 1920 in going back upon its contract simply because it would cost too much money.

Senator Turgeon expressed the pleasure he would have in voting against the amendment and asking the country to economize in order to be able to pay the just debt owing to those who saved the country from German slavery.

The amendment was defeated by a vote of 41 against 20. Senator Dandurand, also a member of the special committee, voting with the majority.

MORE RIOTING BY STRIKERS

But Strike is Expected to Collapse Soon After Detachment of Troops Arrive.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 30.—(Canadian Press).—Mike Koval Russian one of the raiders of the British Empire steel corporation plant here, was struck over the head, and at an early hour this morning was still unconscious and in a critical condition

Raiding and rioting broke out afresh here last night at the British Empire Steel Corporation's plant, where steel workers are on strike, and although the police are doing their best to hold the crowds in check, it is now evident that quiet can be restored only by the arrival of troops now en route from Halifax. The fact, that soldiers arriving, is known to the rioters, they seem determined to make the most of the few hours left to them. The troops are not expected to reach the city before this morning.

The strikers or that portion of them represented in the raids, are out of control of their union officials, and it is predicted here that the strike will probably collapse within twenty-four hours of the arrival of the troops.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING CAUSED THE DEATHS OF THE CLARKE CHILDREN

Such Was the Verdict of the Jury at Inquest in Omemee Yesterday — Marjorie Sloan's Name Cleared of All Suspicion

THE EVIDENCE.

OMEMEE, June 30.— An inquest into the causes of death of Melville and Albert Clarke, the two young children of James Clarke of East Emily whose bodies were found floating on Pigeon River, near Fee's land ing on Sunday, last, was held here at 10.30 yesterday, after the bodies had been exhumed at five o'clock, and brought to the undertaking parlors of C. L. Morcombe. Dr. L. V. Shier of Lindsay conducted the post-mortem examination, Dr. Clarke of Lindsay, acting as coroner, and the examination presided over by Crown Attorney E. Anderson.

A dozen witnesses were examined, among them the housekeeper, Marjorie Sloan, who testified that she had not seen the children since nine o'clock on the Saturday morning previous to their disappearance. The father of the children, James Clarke who is working on a farm in this vicinity, was not called to give evidence.

The jury, after half an hour's delib eration brought in a verdict of "accidental drowning" from the punt on which the children were supposed to be playing, and gave as their opinion that no tangible evidences of foul play had ben discovered. An examination of the stomachs of the two boys, ready for transportation to Toronto, was not considered necessary.

After examination of the remains at the morning session an adjournment was made until one o'clock this afternoon, the second session fin ishing about four o'clock. The undertaker, C. L. Morcombe, the housekeeper Marjorie Sloan, Burgess near whose property the children were discovered, and Lawrence McGahey, who helped to take them from the water, were among the witnesses questioned.

The mother of the children was not at the inquiry, although it was reported that she was expected home from the west on last evening's train.

The jury was composed of the following members: J. J. Nicholls, (foreman), A. Ford R. Poast, J. T. Beatty Reuben Bradley, R. Morton

Lady Astor Furnishes Amusement in House

LONDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press Cable).—All parties in the House in Commons laughed heartily yesterday at the spectacle of Lady Astor, member for Sutton, seated beside Sir F. G. Banbury, Conservative and trying to hold him down by the coat tails to prevent him speaking on the agricultural credits bill so that the House could get to her liquor bill before four o'clock.

Banbury, however eluded her grip and struggled to his feet. His speech was punctuated with dispairing "Ohs" from Lady Astor. Other members, continuing the debate were greeted with groans of disgust from the noble lady. The discussion ended with five minutes to spare for the liquor bill and there was a roar of laughter when the first amendment thereto was moved by Banbury who appeared bliss fully ignorant of Lady Astor's gestures of disgust. He was still speaking when time was called The debate was adjourned with Lady Astor shaking both fists at the ungallant member to the amusement of the rest of the house.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1923.

DOMINION DAY.

To-morrow is the anniversary of Canada's natal day and Canadians throughout the Dominion will celebrate the occasion on Monday.

How many, however, will give a thought to the significance of the event, or will think of the anniversary as anything else but a holiday, a day off from work and a chance to go fishing or to see a ball game or visit the summer cottage?

We in Canada are too lax about our national holiday, too prone to neglect its real meaning and too careless about imparting a historic significance to our celebration of Dominion Day.

The result is that many of our new citizens, freshly come to Canada, haven't the least idea why July 1st is a holiday—and nobody bothers to tell them anything about it or to inform them that one of the most important episodes in the history of this country was consummated on that date fifty-six years ago, when the Provinces were amalgamated into the Dominion and Canada became a country, rather than a collection of independent Provinces.

It is unfortunate that more effort is not made each year to make the celebration of the anniversary mean something.

Here in Peterborough there has been a particularly noticeable absence of any organized attempt to make our Dominion Day activities significant of the event the holiday commemorates.

We have, in fact, passed so far along the road of neglect that it is a novelty to find a flag flying on July 1st.

THE COAL PROBLEM.

The United States Coal Commission has sent a warning to the anthracite coal miners, now in session at Scranton, to the effect that "public sentiment will tolerate no suspension of the anthracite coal supply this year."

In so far as it goes, the notice is satisfactory.

The effect in Canada, however, especially in Ontario and Quebec, should be to increase the agitation for a Canadian coal supply that will leave the Canadian people independent of the American mines.

Whether or not a strike is averted in the anthracite fields, the fact remains that the supply of coal available from this source for Canadians next winter is not likely to be much greater than during last winter.

That means that the people of limited means who cannot afford to leisurely lay in a supply of fuel during the summer months, but have to depend upon buying it later on as they need it, will be the chief sufferers from the situation unless successful steps are taken to ensure a supply from other sources—Alberta, for example.

The Western coal mines seem to offer the chief hope for Ontario, and it is a matter of regret that no effort is apparently being made at the present time to overcome the difficulties that prevent the development of a big market in this Province for the Alberta product.

The coal problem must be solved.

PERSONAL LIBERTY ATTACKED AGAIN.

In Windsor the other day a landlord who sued his tenant for damages to his property caused by the cooking of pork chops and the smoking of strong tobacco was given judgment for $50.

It was claimed that the house was tainted by odors of cooking and smoking.

Personal liberty seems to have received another jolt in this award.

If a tenant can't cook or smoke in a house, then what earthly use is a residence to him?

Of course, there is tobacco and tobacco. Everybody has come across some brand villianous enough to justify any landlord haling a tenant using them into court.

Probably the offender in this cause celebre was smoking something of that kind.

Even that, however, does not account for the objection to the pork chop.

And if owners of property are going to extend this sort of thing along the line suggested by the judgment it won't be long before a man who wants to rent a house will have to sign an agreement that he won't eat green onions or potato salad or corned beef and cabbage or anything else that the landlord doesn't like to eat, and "House to Rent" ads will wind up with the announcement, "No strawberry shortcake allowed."

PROMISES OF ECONOMY.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson has announced that his Government will adopt a policy of strict economy, expenditures will be pared down to the utmost and every effort will be made to place the administration of Ontario's affairs on a business-like basis.

The proof of the pudding, of course, is always in the eating, but the people of the Province of all shades of political belief will wish the new Premier every success in carrying out his programme.

His Government succeeds a regime that, largely due to the lack of Parliamentary experience and of business ability on the part of the Cabinet in power, was guilty of flagrant extravagance in almost every department of Provincial business.

The people have a right to expect of Mr. Ferguson and his colleagues, many of whom have had the advantage of being schooled in Legislature experience, that they shall make a much better showing than their immediate predecessors.

Their mandate from the citizens of Ontario is to carry out the policy that Mr. Ferguson has outlined, and while it is not always as easy to practise economy in office as it is to preach economy while out of office, the new Government is committed to the adoption of business methods and to holding down the lid of the Treasury.

If it fails in this respect the people have shown what they can do to an administration that falls down in its promises, and the fate of the Drury government in 1923 can quite as easily be the fate of the Ferguson Government four years hence.

HELD UP!

The Senate at Ottawa has held up the three bills covering pension, insurance and treatment legislation for ex-service men and dependents, pending an investigation by a special committee, says the Veteran. Thus the representatives of these groups are forced to again fight for justice. The merits of the case have been established before a Royal Commission after a thorough investigation, and again to the satisfaction of all parties in the House of Commons. The people of Canada have expressed in no uncertain terms their desire to see that the injustices caused by the Pension Board are rectified, yet the Senate on the question of the cost of putting the legislation into effect have decided to conduct a new enquiry.

The restoration of the "insurance" principle in pension administration involves no expense that would not have been incurred under proper operation of the 1919 Act. The appeal system seeks to establish a means of justice too long denied to ex-soldiers and dependents. The question of cost is one, therefore, which should not be considered in reaching a final decision as to the legislation. The principle of the legislation is the same if only one person was involved as with ten thousand.

The duty of the Senate is unmistakably clear, and should any effort be made to nullify or contract the purpose of this legislation, such effort can only be regarded as a breach of faith with those who did not count the cost when they offered all that life holds dear at a time when the very existence of the nation was in dire peril.

A RAINY DAY.

The average person asked if he found any pleasure in a rainy day would unhesitatingly say no. And yet if he stopped to think for a moment he might feel inclined to give quite a different answer. There are so many different kinds of rainy days, and a rainy day may be spent under so many different conditions. No one is likely to regard favorably a rainy day that spoils a game of golf, nor is there any real pleasure in being caught in a rain storm in an open car with ten or fifteen miles of hilly roads to cover without chains. Brides are proverbally averse to being married on a rainy day, and men who had to spend such days in the trenches of Flanders look back upon them with unmixed disgust. And yet even the most depressing of rain clouds has its silver lining.

As a matter of fact, apart from the inconvenience that may be an incident of a rainy day, the thing that really lowers our spirits is not the presence of rain, but the absence of sunshine. No one but a hopeless misanthrope dislikes a sunshower. On a warm summer's day it is indeed a thing of pure delight, a joy to all the senses—provided, of course, one is not wearing a silk hat or a new bonnet. A sunshower is one of the most glorious manifestations of nature. On the other hand, a gloomy day, when the clouds hang low as though pressing down upon the earth, when the air is heavy and lifeless and clammy, when men are sullen, women peevish and children fretful, when pessimism seems the only rational doctrine and optimism an absurdity—is the very abomination of desolation, though it is not in any sense a rainy day.

What normal man or woman—one may take the children for granted—with a sound body and a sane mind, can look back with anything but pleasure to a rainy day in June in the woods or on the mountains. Perhaps it is a little better in retrospect than in actual experience, for at the time one feels some discomfort from the effects of wet clothes and squodgy boots. But it is a poor spirit that cannot rise superior to such mere inconveniences, and absorb the atmosphere of nature throbbing with new life under the stimulating influence of rain. The air seems clearer and purer than it was before, washed of all impurities; the colors of tree and bush, grass and flower, moss, fern and lichen become more vivid; the air is filled with the clean, refreshing smells of field and forest. One brings back from such an experience memories that are worth treasuring, impressions that give one a better and more wholesome outlook.

The satisfaction one feels in listening to the drumming of rain drops on the tightened roof of one's tent, when safely inside, is perhaps based more largely on physical comfort than aesthetic sense. But while this feeling of snug security is also present with us when we listen to the music of a summer shower on the roof overhead, there is also a very real if intangible charm about that music itself. Is there indeed any more exquisite lullaby than that which lures one to sleep in an attic room, an old-fashioned attic with dormer windows and sloping roof, when a gentle summer shower steals through the summer night and breaks its stillness with the soft patter of raindrops overhead?

But after all the very best part of a rainy day is the aftermath, the glorious awakening of nature at the touch of this life-giving force. Archibald Lampman, whose gentle spirit was atune to all the moods of nature, has woven this thought into one of his sonnets:

The enormous clouds are rolling up like steam
Into the illimitable blue. They gleam
In summits of banked snow against the sun.
The old dry beds begin to laugh and run,
As if 'twere spring. The trees in the wind's stir
Shower down great drops, and every gossamer
Glitters a net of diamonds fresh-spun.
The happy flowers put on a spritelier grace,
Star-flower and smilacina creamy-hued,
With little spires of honey-scent and light,
And that small, dainty violet, pure and white,
That holds by magic in its twisted face
The heart of all the perfumes of the wood.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lining up the new Cabinet is just now the chief occupation of political experts.

Another result of Monday's election is that it supplied a lot of people with the information that Kemptville is on the map.

Add up the Conservative and Liberal vote throughout Ontario on Monday and you get a faint impression that somehow the people of the Province were a bit dissatisfied with the Drury Government.

Canada's birthday is being celebrated Monday. Have your flag flying.

The number of level crossing accidents continues to increase almost daily. The old advice, "Stop, Look and Listen," if followed would avoid the vast majority of such mishaps.

Seriously Burned.

Very many friends learned with regret of the unfortunate accident that befell Miss Green, Chapel street, whose clothing caught fire from a bon-fire one day last week in her yard. With great presence of mind, Miss Green threw herself to the ground and rolled in the grass and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. She then got to the house and called Mrs. Black, who resides near her. Medical aid was summoned and later Miss Green was removed to the Cobourg Hospital. We are very pleased to state that, although still suffering from shock and from her burns, she had recovered sufficiently to return to her home yesterday. Mrs. Runcimen has been in town looking after Miss Green's home since the accident occurred.

TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, June 30. — A heavy run of about 5,0000 cattle for Monday's opening market, and a slackening demand for hte export trade, had a depressing effect on the market from the start, and the result was slow and rather draggy markets for the balance of the week. Prices were a good 25c lower in Monday's market, and at the close in Thursday's market were from 25c to 50c lower. The export trade has lost vim, compared with the very active demand for the first weeks of the season. Prices have dropped in the Old Country, and the market there is described as between seasons. Following a midsummer dull period, it is expected there will again be an active demand in the early fall season. In the meantime local buyers for the export business are contenting themselves with just a few loads of the choicest heavy grass cattle to fill space contracts. Prices in the export section have run from 25c to 50c lower than during the rush period. Stall fed heavy steers are practically all out, only an odd one or two appearing from day to day.

The lessening export demand made it easier for buyers for the domestic butcher trade, and with plenty of god cattle to choose from, prices easily slid off from the rather high perch they had occupied for some weeks. With the exception of a few extra choice fancy butcher quality, the general run of butcher steers, fair to good quality, ranged from $6.75 to $7.25 in Thursday's market.

There will be no market on the holiday on Monday next, and as only moderate runs are likely for the balance of the week, prices should hold about steady at present levels.

In the small meat section, calves have declined from $1.00 to $2.00 since a wek ago. Some fairly good calves were selling around $6.50 to $7.00, and choice tops around $8.00.

Lambs were easier at the close at 14c to 14½c. Light sheep holding fairly steady around $6.00 to $6.50.

The hog market has held practically steady throughout the week at $7.75 f.o.b., and $8.35 fed and watered. There was a slightly firmer feeling at the close.

Suffered From Pimples and Blotches For Fifteen Years

When the blood becomes impure it is only natural that pimples, blotches boils or some other blood trouble will manifest itself by breaking out of the system.

There is only one way to get rid of these obnoxious skin troubles and that is by giving the impure blood a thorough cleansing by the use of a good blood-purifier, such as

Burdock Blood Bitters

This remarkable remedy has been on the market for over forty years; is the best obtainable, and will do all we claim for it as a blood cleanser.

Mr. Albert R. De Witte, Lake Valley, Sask., writes: "I have suffered very much from pimples and unsightly blotches for the past fifteen years, and was so bad that I hated to go out anywhere. I tried many different medicines, but none seemed to help. A friend told me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I have used three and a half bottles, and now I have a clear, rosy complexion."

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING

H. McGinnis and F. J. Mackey.

Her Name Cleared

In order that her name might be cleared of all suspicion in regard to the death of Albert and Melville Clarke, Marjorie Sloan, was present at the inquest held in Omemee yesterday. Miss Sloan attended the inquest at her own request and a statement on the part of the Crown Council absolutely exonerated her of any shadow of suspicion. Miss Sloan, who is known in this city pointed out last evening that idle gossip has been entirely responsible for her name being drawn into the case. After the death of the children she left the employ of their father and came to Peterboro, where she stayed with friends and did not leave for "parts unknown" as was reported from Omemee. She was arrested on a technical charge of vagrancy in order that the police might hold her as a material witness in case any foul play was discovered in the tragic end of the children. She was not released on bail as was at one time reported but was allowed her freedom without having any money or bond put up.

At the inquest absolutely nothing derogatory to her was brought out.

MYSTERY PUNCTURED.

LINDSAY, June 30—The Omemee "mystery" was effectively punctured on Friday, when the coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the cause of the death of the two Clarke children brought in a verdict of accidental drowning. The jury ended its labors at 4.30 o'clock after the result of the post-mortem examination was submitted and a number of witnesses were examined.

Langton Wilson, mail carrier, who lifted the bodies of the two boys out of the water on Sunday afternoon, was the first witness. He thought the bodies floating on the water were water lilies. When found, the bodies were in a cramped position. He saw no evidence of foul play. Both bodies were floating in four or five feet of water. The punt was up on shore.

Dr. Shier, of Lindsay, who conducted the post-mortem, reported that the faces of the two lads were swollen and congested. There were scratches on the younger boy's face. The bodies also showed signs of being very poorly nourished. One boy had a bruise on his forehead, made previous to death. Both had signs which would indicate death by drowning, but there was nothing to suggest poisoning.

Laurence McGahey, in his evidence, told of seeing the bodies of the boys floating while he was in swimming. One of the bodies was bleeding from the nose and mouth.

Cecil Mills, who was working on a summer cottage at Fee's Landing, said he saw the Clarke boys on Saturday at the noon hour in swimming. He and other workmen gave them the balance of their dinner. About 1.30 they went towards home. In the evening the big punt was found floating in the water. It was impossible for the boys to even overturn it on land. He would not say there was any foul play.

Marjory Sloan, of Peterboro, in her evidence, said she had been housekeeper for James Clarke since November 14 last. She saw the children last on Saturday morning, and waited for them to return to dinner until one o'clock. They did not come home to supper either. She had a son of her own nine months old. She was not worried. No effort was made to find the boys when Mr. Clarke came home. The elder boy had been away twice at nights before. They would go to school and not return until evening. She used to punish them, but it was no use. The father thought a lot of the boys. They were forbidden to go to the water. Mr. Clarke never left the farm until Saturday, and she never left since she came, save to go to the mail box. She was in the house when Mr. Clarke told her of the drowning. He felt badly. She knew nothing of foul play. Sometimes she would punish the children and lock them up. Two weeks ago the older boy hit the younger boy on the head with a stone. She denied ever abusing the children.

Undertaker's Evidence.

C. F. Morcombe, undertaker, of Omemee, told of preparing the bodies for burial. He found no water in the lungs or stomach. He found bruises and scratches. From dark discoloration around the eyes he thought the boys might have been hit across the eyes. The discoloration should have disappeared after embalming fluid was used. He did not expect to find the bodies as stiff as they were. He became suspicious that there was foul play. When hearing talk of ill-treatment at the Clarke home his suspicions increased. On Tuesday he communicated with the authorities at Lindsay because the bodies, when found, were stiff and rigid. From what he saw of the post-mortem, he was satisfied the boys were drowned.

Wm. Burgess, who owns the farm on which Clarke's house is located, said he first had suspicion of foul play, but had since changed his mind. He was satisfied that neither James Clarke nor his housekeeper had anything to do with foul play.

Had No Suspicion.

S. Stinson said he knew of no person who saw the boys Saturday afternoon. He had no reason to think there was foul play.

Wilbert Fee said the punt was 15 feet up on shore on Saturday and upside down. It might be possible for the boys to put it in the water, but it would have been hard work. Saturday evening the punt was floating in the river near the wharf. He heard nothing suspicious concerning the death of the boys.

James Goselin, in his evidence, said he saw the punt floating at four o'clock on Saturday, but there was no one around.

Crown Attorney Anderson said he would like to call the boys' father, but he was not around. If the jury thought it necessary he would be brought from Peterboro; if not, the case would close. His (Mr. Anderson) feeling was the boys were drowned while the father was at home working.

After being out half an hour, the jury brought in a verdict of death by drowning.

KEENE OFFERS A GOOD FIELD UNION CHURCHES

Presbyterian Congregation Voted Against Measure But May Fall in Line—The Present Pastor.

(By a Staff Reporter.

KEENE, June 30.—When the bell of the Presbyterian church in this village sends out its call to worship every Sunday morning, half the residents lay aside their worldly cares and ambitions, don their Sunday attire and answer the summons. The nationality of the early settlers disposes of the question; the Presbyterians are by long odds in the lead. Not only are there worshippers in the village itself, but from all parts of the country they come in buggies, cars and on foot, some of them from Hiawatha, which is nearly ten miles distant.

A Field For Church Union.

Remaining loyal to traditions the majority of the members of the church went on record as opposed to church union when the last vote on that issue was taken in the congregation. Their pastor, Rev. John Archibald, who has been with them about a year and a half, long enough to win the esteem and confidence of his people, was a delegate to the last General Assembly and in common with all the other delegates, lay and clerical, from the Peterborough Presbytery, voted for union. Some of the older members of the congregation say that now that union has been endorsed by the highest court of the church they will not be surprised if all the Presbyterians in this district fall in line with the majority.

There is an excellent field here for union. The Presbyterian church, large as the congregation is for a country village, is capacious enough—it has sittings for over 700—to accommodate all the church-going Protestant people in the community. The local Methodist congregation is virile but lacks in number and is on the augmentation fund. The combined denominations would make a strong working force. The Presbyterians and Methodists maintain branches at Westwood and these, too, could be united with advantage to both.

No More Augmentation.

There was one item of business transacted at the recent meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery in Hastings, which is regarded as significant, now that union has been officially decided upon. The Presbyterians of Havelock presented a call to Rev. James McIlory of Dutton. In order to pay him the minimum salary a grant from the augmentation fund would be required.

The Presbytery refused to sustain the call and the Havelock church remains officially vacant. The representatives of the congregation were told by the members of the Presbytery that they could become self-sustaining by forming a union with one of the Methodist churches in the district.

Pioneers in Presbyterianism.

Keene is famous among other things for organizing in 1839, one of the first, if not the very first, curling clubs in Ontario. But, with the sturdy Scottish pioneers, spiritual matters were given precedence. The Presbyterian congregation was founded and well established six years before the settlers felt free to take up the lighter things of life and indulge their passion for the national sport of the land of their birth. The curling club, so formidable as to be almost invincible in its early days, has maintained its reputation down to the present and the church, which has been fortunate in the ministrations of distinguished preachers, has kept pace with the general progress of the community. It is to-day regarded as one of the leading rural congregations in Ontario and the possessor of one of the finest buildings, a structure which is entirely free of debt.

There was a liability of $700 on the property and when Mr. Archibald, the present pastor, asked for a special collection to clear this off, the people responded with $800. Only a few Sundays ago a request was made for $250 to pay the cost of painting the church fence and the manse and the collection plates were heaped with contributions that totaled $269. The present church, which is a model of architecture, and well appointed in the interior, was built in 1884, John Harner of Norwood, having the contract for $9000. It was dedicated by the late Principal Cavan of Knox College on the 24th of June, 1885.

A Thrifty Clergyman.

Rev. Francis Andrews was one of the most famous and successful pastors the church at Keene ever had. He was inducted in 1851 and died in the harness 51 years later, a length of active service that has seldom if ever been equalled in the denomination. Mr. Andrews was of Irish birth but he seems to have become infected with the spirit of thrift that possessed the Scottish people by whom he was surrounded. His stipend at the start was $500 a year and he never received more than $800, but by frugality and wise investments he amassed what was a fortune in those days and left an estate that was valued at $28,000. It is little wonder that a place settled by such business like pioneers should eventually come to be known as the wealthiest village of its size in Canada.

The Present Pastor.

The present pastor, Rev. John Archibald, is a graduate of Manitoba College, a native of Scotland. He is in the prime of life, a good speaker, and an energetic pastor. There are now 120 families and 240 members in the congregation. The church at Westwood has 45 families and 117 members. The Keene church sent 39 of its young men to the Great War. Thomas Thompson, 90 years old, is the oldest member of the session, the same age as the congregation with which he has been associated so long William Campbell is the dean of the Board of Management, or deacon as they are still called here.

The Soldiers' Memorial.

While other places larger and more pretentious than Keene, have been talking all these years about a memorial to the men who fought and gave their lives for the Empire, the fine granite shaft in the village bears testimony to the grateful memory in which the martyred dead of Otonabee township are cherished by those on whose behalf the sacrifices were made. There are 50 names on that monument.

The township council was charged with the duty of fencing and improving the site upon which stands the monument erected nearly three years ago. The fence has just been received here from the factory and the location will so be one of the beauty spots of the district as originally designed.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

White and Gold Altar Dedicated in St. Paul's Church—Personals.

Lakefield, June 30. — A mission opened on Wednesday in St. Paul's Roman Catholic church under Father McGrath, a member of the Paulist Order. Mass was said at 8 a.m., 9 a.m., and service at 7.30 p.m. A service was held in which the handsome white and gold altar, donated by Mr. Patrick Sullivan, was dedicated and also the beautiful statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Leahy.

These offerings to God were highly acceptable in His sight as too few of us think of making a gift to the Giver of all things, and these offerings are not only commendable as being offered to God but will be of great use to the parish also.

Father McGrath's text was "He who loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me," and in a wonderfully forceful sermon he set forth that the very foundation of our life and religion is based on the love of God, which is the greatest thing in the world. We are too much inclined to drift away from God and put His service second to business or pleasure. There is no sin greater than to allow one's soul to become dead to the wonderful love of God. Sin is a dreadful thing—lying, for which there is no excuse, slander taking the character from one's neighbors ,murder and all other grievous sins. All through the ages the prophets preached repentance for sin. Our Lord Himself commanded it. John the Baptist's cry was "Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." The apostles and saints of the church continued, and all through the ages the church has taught the love of God and preached repentance for sin. It is never too late to repent and turn to God who never fails us, and whose love was so great that Jesus Christ died on the cross that we might have eternal life. The church provides the season of Lent especially for repenance for sin and occasional missions are held for the same reason. One may say sin is a little thing but let us remember that the so-called little sin in the Garden of Eden brought sorrow, suffering and death to the world, and from these three things no one can escape. Such are the far-reaching consequences of sin, so we should do penance for our sins and turn again to God.

A special mass for working men was held at 5.30 on Thursday morning. The mission continues to-day, and closes on Sunday evening.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices —

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, June 30. Special. — The stock market was full of cross currents to-day with no definite trend in evidence. Certain issues would get weak such as Delaware and Hudson which declined 3½ points to 104 1-4, and then the stocks were strengthened, but under this it is evident that quiet buying of leading coppers and rails is underway.

Studebaker announced an advance in prices ranging from $20 to $75 on record sales for the first six months together with a statement that the demand continues ahead of production. This refutes the bear rumours of the past few weeks and supports the position taken in the street that matters are in good condition in the motor industry. Selling of special stocks were not regarded as important, largely resulting from weakened accounts but strengthened by the sale of certain issues.

Baldwin sold at a new low 116½ off 2½ from the day's high. Arguments that Poland might fail in making its annual million dollar payment to the Co. for locomotives had been used by the shorts whenever they wanted to depress the stock yet the fact that Poland actually handed over the first installment of a million on the stock was followed by further selling. Quiet trading marked the finish of the bond market to-day with considerably more realizing noted than is customary on Saturday due to the exodus of traders out of the city until after the 4th. Improvement in sterling after touching a new low for the year in the previous day aided foreign bonds though net changes for the day were relatively unimportant. Further weakness in Francs unsettled several of the French municipals, although French government bonds held their ground fairly well. Austrian sevens have been backed and filed all week closing about midway between the extremes.

London despatches say that the weakness in sterling exchange in New York is the result of the large movement of British funds to the American money market which in turn is producing many signs of tightening money rates in London. There are rumors that the bank rate will be raised at once but these while indicating general impressions are premature. The stock market opened irregular to-day with pressure being exerted in some issues. Margins cells were fewer and there was a good volume of scale orders in the market. Opening prices U S Steel 90 5-8; N Y C 97¼ un 5-8; Anaconda 38 3-8 up 1-8; South Pac 85¼ off 1-8; Baldwin 118¼ off 1-2; Studebaker 90 7-8 up 1-8; Bath Steel 42 5-8 off ¼; Union Pacific 128½ off 1 1-4.

DOCTOR SPEAKS ON PHYSICAL TRAITS

Receding Chins Caused By Swathing Infants in Clothing — Sunlight Is Necessary.

LONDON, June 30.—The receding chin and other deterioration of the features "now so noticeable in the upper classes of this country" were attributed by Dr. Leonard Williams, in a lecture at the Royal Institute, to the custom of wealthy parents swathing their infants when taken for an outing in too much clothing, and thus interposing a wad of material through which the beneficent rays of the sun could not penetrate.

The subject of the lecture was "The Physical and Physiological Foundations of Character." Dr. Williams said that the whiter the skin of an individual the higher was the development of the central nervous control, and for this reason the black man must remain a child in the evolutionary tree. The necessity for sunlight might have caused the Englishman to cultivate outdoor sports, and the nature of the sports' training, to play for his side and not for himself, distinguished the Englishman from all other white men—he was the white man par excellence.

The lecturer gave some instances of the almost miraculous changes brought about in the mental and physical development of children by the administration of thyroid extract, whereby a Caliban-like creature became entirely human in a very short space of time, able and anxious to take his place amongst his fellows.

The struggle for supremacy between the sex glands produced in one result the masculine woman and effeminate man. The masculine woman despised her sex, she affected to despise man, but she really hated him, and, like Lady Macbeth, she said: "Infirm of purpose, give me the dagger:" she took the dagger and she used it.

The result of the struggle in the opposite way produced the effeminate man, who though he might play tennis and keep the company of girls, had too intuitive a knowledge of them to marry one of them. The Victorian environment had given us the essentially feminine woman, who was taught crochet work, and music, who fainted at suitable intervals and cultivated the art of the vapors. Today the girl learned tennis, golf cricket, and—horrible thought—football. They knew nothing of the art of fainting, and their only acquaintance with vapors was derived from the burned churches which they ignited in the suffrage movement a few years ago.

BULBED SUNSHINE TO NOURISH PLANTS

Powerful Electric Lights to Work Constantly at Thompson Research Institute.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Powerful electric lights that are to bring "sunshine" into the night so that growth can continue unbroken through the twenty-four hours are to be features of the Thompson Institute for Plant Research being established at the Yonkers home of Colonel William B. Thompson.

One of the things the bulbed sunshine will be tried on are seeds from the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen. Although students of plant life are not exactly optimistic, the experiment on the seeds centuries old will be staged thoroughly in an effort to coax leaves and perhaps blossoms that nature intended should mature when world history was briefer.

The announcement of the plan to try again to make artificial sunshine practical in plant life—the experiments tried before have not been exactly crowned with success—was disclosed in a formal statement issued yesterday by Dr. William Crocker, Research Director of the institute. Dr. Crocker has had wide experience as head of plant physiology of the University of Chicago.

The institute, which is to be started at an initial outlay of $500,000, was established by Colonel Thompson because of interest in plant life which developed through his experiences on his own estate. Colonel Thompson found that there remained much to be learned by the horticulturist and devised the institute as a means whereby information on prevention of disease and care of plants could be unearthed and disseminated.

"Perhaps nobody," said Dr. Crocker "states the function of the institute better than Colonel Thompson himself when he says: 'In another century this country must feed, clothe and shelter several hundred millions of people instead of one hundred million as now.'

"The laboratories will embody all the most modern features of the best laboratories of America and Europe. There are large rooms in which all the growth conditions for plants are under complete and accurate control. In these chambers the temperature, humidity, carbon dioxide concentration of the air and the quality, intensity and duration of light can be adjusted at will and automatically maintained. In other words, the experimenter can manufacture climate and atmosphere to suit the needs of the experiment.

"Some of the greenhouses will be provided with large cranes bearing powerful electric lights that can be shifted over the houses at night to supplement the sunlight. A portion of the flue gases from the boilers is to be scrubbed and purified and the carbon dioxide thus obtained is to be conducted to the greenhouses and other growing rooms as an atmospheric fertilizer.

"A series of greenhouses is to be built in which the several compartments are covered with colored glass of various spectral characters or ray absorbing power. While the main emphasis is to be put on the physiological, pathological and chemical phases of plant production, the staff will be so chosen as to bring together the knowledge and technic of all phases of plant science."

On the Board of Trustees of the institute are the business group consisting of Colonel Thompson, C. C. Dula and Theodore Schulze and the scientific group, including Professor John Coulter of the University of Chicago, Professor L. R. Jones of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Raymond Foss Bacon, consulting Chemist of New York City, and Dr. Crocker.

WORLD EMPIRE LINKED BY RADIO

LONDON, June 30—Great Britain's immense scheme for linking all its dominions by radio may be completed within 12 months.

This news is important not only in the development of radio communication, but in the closer union of the world's greatest empire by air.

For several years, leaders in British foreign affairs have been contemplating just such a system of intercommunication among the dominions and possessions of Great Britain. The ships of the greatest maritime country in the world weren't enough to tie the interests of all these varying nationalities into one. So they are resorting to radio.

And radio promises to accomplish what they desire.

That is, an empire "upon which the sun never sets" with many varying interests and ideals combined under one major influence of a united nation.

Trunk Lines Up

Already, trunk radio lines have been strung from London to its important dominions and colonies. They radiate from the capital of the empire in a huge semi-circle to the east, the west and south, criss-crossing and interlocking until a map of these lines looks like a Chinese puzzle.

Powerful transmitting and receiving stations are in operation and more are contemplated, so that London may bring cities as far off as Melbourne, 9300 miles away, within an your or so of communication with it. Not only London, but any other important center of the British Empire is being placed into position so as to make communication between it and another British city speedy and easy.

For example, Vancouver, important British port on the Pacific, can communicate with Melbourne direct across the Pacific, although another line of communication to Melbourne is through Manchester and London.

In England, Manchester and London are made the central exchanges of this vast system of intercommunication. Manchester controls most of the lines to North America, while the lines from London go to South America, Africa, Asia and Australia.

Further Plans

Besides, more lines of communication are planned. Such, for instance, as a direct line from London to Peking and Tokio. At present, London reaches these oriental cities by relaying through Vancouver. The new line would shorten the distance by more than one-half and would save considerable time.

In India lines are contemplated to join Madras to the important inner centres. Similar plans are being worked out for Africa and Australia.

Besides these extensions, which have already been planned, more complete services are under consideration. In Canada, Edmonton, Montreal, Winnipeg and other important cities will be linked by radio. Similar links will be arranged for South American cities, even though they are not within the British empire.

A direct line between London and Kingston, Jamaica, is also under consideration.

The whole work of bringing together this vast realm, besides other important points of the world, is being undertaken by the Marconi company here. According to officials of the company, all the main lines are expected to be working within 12 months. As soon as this is accomplished, they say, every important center of the empire will be within wireless communication with every other part of the empire and with the rest of the world.

Then, it is planned further, will come the work of erecting smaller stations throughout the empire, to branch off from these important centers.

It is the greatest plan for world intercommunication ever contemplated.

SWEDEN TO HELP AMERICA CELEBRATE JULY FOURTH

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, June 30 (Associated Press).—Commemoration of the fact that Sweden was the first country to sign a commercial treaty with the United States after their independence had been won, will take place in Gothenburg this year at the first Swedish celebration of the Fourth of July, the festivities marking the culmination of "Sweden-America week," which is a feature of the Tercentennial Jubilee Exposition now being given here.

About 5,000 visitors from America are expected to participate in the festivities. This festival will be honored by the presence of the King and the Crown Prince of Sweden.

A historical fact of significance to Americans will be recalled at the unveiling of a statue of Gustaf III., one of Sweden's most famous kings. He showed great sympathy for the cause of the American colonies during the Revolutionary War, and, after the war was over, it was he who authorized the signing of the new republic's first treaty of commerce and amity with any nation, even antedating England in recognition. The new statue is a gift from American citizens to Sweden.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MODIFIED MILK.

One gets so used to the term modified milk that it is hard to realize that to the uninitiated it has but little meaning. One young mother asked me if she could get at her drug store, which proves very conclusively that to many the term means nothing.

When cows' milk was first used as a baby food it was very soon discovered that a great deal had to be done with it to make it at all like mothers' milk. The two fluids were both milk, but cows' milk is much stronger in proteids and deficient in sugar. A baby could not digest cows' milk unless the proteids were made weaker and so for this reason we add water to the milk in proportion to the age of the baby. This naturally dilutes the sugar and fat content and in some cases we counteract this by giving the baby a top milk mixture and we always add sugar to the food. If the milk still causes a very sour reaction sometimes lime water or soda is added to it, though if the mixture is right for the baby's digestion these last two are not essential.

This then is milk modified by water, sugar and sometimes cream so that it resembles as nearly as possible breast milk.

It has been found that when the milk is brought to a boil that the proteid curds are easier digested, so that very often this is another step in modifying the milk. When one considers that breast milk is designed for every need of the baby while so much care and trouble and often worry attend the modification of milk to make it suitable for its use, one wonders why mothers are so ready to wean the baby at the slightest provocation in order to give it cows' milk.

Unsolved Mysteries

According to a story widely circulated at the time—a story which has now achieved almost the distinction of a legend—Santa Ana, the Mexican liberator, general and president for four terms, was not Santa Ana at all, but a native of the United States born in Kentucky under the name of Nat Saunders.

The story is to the effect that Saunders was the son of a Welsh pioneer and that his mother was an Indian squaw, which would account for his dark complesion; that he was sent to West Point, where he learned the military taetics which proved so valuable in later years, and that, while there, he killed a ferryman near Highland Falls, N.Y.—an event which caused him to flee to Mexico, where he changed his name to Santa Ana and entered the Spanish army. His real identity, it is declared, became known when he was recognized by one of his Kentucky cousins at the time when he was a prisoner of Sam Houston..

The biographers of this most unusual military character state that he was born at Jalapa in 1795, but they admit that he would discuss his early history with no one and that he was never known to refer to his parents—which may have been due either to the fact that he was a Kentuckian fighting against his native country or to his natural secretiveness.

It was at the battle of San Jacinto River in 1836 that Sam Houston routed the Mexican army and captured Santa Ana, who had treated the Yankee settlers in Texas with so much cruelty that, when he was taken prisoner, Houston had great difficulty in saving his life. The captive sought to purchase his freedom by acknowledging the independence of Texas, but it was nearly a year before he was released and his subsequent career was extremely varied.

At times he was President of Mexico and then again a fugitive in peril of his life from his own government. In 1845 he was desposed from the presidency and fled to Cuba. There he conspired to betray Mexico and annex it to the United States; but, when war between the two countries broke out he was recalled, made provisional president and commander-in-chief and was sent to drive the United States troops out of Texas, an attempt which was a signal failure. Zachary Taylor, at the head of only about one-fourth as many men defeated him decisively at Buena Vista, and two months later General Scott added another, crushing defeat at Cerro Gordo.

After the war Santa Ana went into exile, but returned to Mexico again in 1853 and was elected President. The discovery of his conspiracy to change his one-year term into a life office with the title of Most Serene Highness led to the confiscation of his fortunes and another period of exile. Later he made two other and unsuccessful attempts to return to Mexico, though he was permitted to come back in 1874 and died at Mexico City on June 21, 1876, in poverty and utter obscurity, without throwing the slightest light upon the question of his birth and nationality.

TENSE SITUATION OVER POPE'S NOTE

Reception Planned at the French Embassy to the Vatican Postponed.

ROME, June 30.—(United Press).—A tense situation has arisen between the Vatican and the French Government over the Pope's recent letter with regard to the French occupation of the Ruhr. The announcement to-day that a reception planned to be held at the French Embassy to the Vatican, July 3, has been postponed indefinitely increased the tension of the last twenty-four hours and was given a significant political interpretation.

The announcement of the postponement of the scheduled reception followed the action of the leaders in the French Senate on Friday, repudiating the suggestions of the Pontif.

While a spokesman at the Vatican let it be known that the Pope believes his letter was misinterpreted in French circles, there is a strong feeling that his efforts to remedy the situation were not received in the spirit in which they were made.

Seek Explanations.

The Italian newspaper Messagero stated that the French Ambassador Jonnart has been instructed from Paris to seek explanations at the Vatican. Jonnart, it is said, intends to enquire as to the motive of the Pope in speaking for the evacuation of the Ruhr. The paper foresees that the Vatican will take the position that no denunciation of the French political policy or the approval of the German position was intended. The Vatican will reaffirm its stand that all interested parties should hasten the return to normality as suggested in the previous Papal documents, the paper adds.

It is denied that the recall of Jonnart is being considered as a result of the situation.

NEW METAL PLANES MEET AIR MENACE

England Said to Be Producing New Monster That Flies, Swims and Walks.

By LYLE WILSON

LONDON, June 21—(United Press).—England will counter the menace of a superior air fleet with a new type of plane which is said to embody structural features previously thought impossible to apply to a heavier than air craft.

English newspapers have been banging away for a greater air fleet.

Citizens of London vociferously shout that their home city is pitifully defenseless against any power minded to attack it by air.

Mr. John Bull, Esq., discusses the situation as he rides the London subway or the Birmingham trams. England was once the objective of skilful air bombers and that period of unhappy impotence will not be repeated if English citizens have their way.

Lord Salisbury, speaking for the Bonar Law Government, recently told the House of Lords that a considerable increase in the Air Force is now necessary.

Englishmen have been wondering what turn the increase might take.

A New Metal Plane

The answer is a new metal plane, according to English flying circles. This ship is described as "a monster required to carry a heavier load to a greater height, and to fly faster and for longer distances without alighting than any machine designed before." The new ship will defend itself with machineguns, small quick-firers throwing explosive shells and with bombs.

This unusual power of defense is interpreted as a direct challenge to the menace of Continental fleets of pilotless planes. A single giant such as the English intend to produce could fly into a swarm of wireless controlled puppet ships and shatter them all, it is said, while they were crossing the Channel.

Accessory to these heavy machines will be the single seaters in which Britain has never lagged. Slight mechanical improvements are constantly being made on the scout type of ship. Even now they are capable of sky-rocketing to tremendous heights, and of speedy manoeuvering once the desired altitude is attained.

New World Wonder

What may become the eighth wonder of the world is described by the Melbourne, Australia, correspondent of the London "Daily Herald."

An English officer on secret mission to the colony is said to have told of an airplane which will not only fly but swim above and below the surface of the seas and travel overland in the manner of a tank.

These craft, the correspondent declares, are being constructed in lonely spots over all the British Empire. They will carry the fourfold equipment of a plane, a submarine, a ship and a land vehicle. The machines are to be called Tessaurins and the correspondent expects to travel home from Australia to England in one of them.

Butterflies, which are very prolific in Australia, are suffocated in thousands by the aborigines, separated from their wings, pressed into cakes and eaten.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

A GROUP OF WANT AD. TIPS.

Every reader of retail advertising is familiar with "sales," held numerously throughout the year. Department stores in particular advertise almost daily special sales, with sales of extra importance at lesser intervals. As readers who have responded know, store sales are many times extensively patronized. The sale idea appeals strongly to most people.

Heavy volume of business—small margin of profit, is the sale principle. It will work in want ads., too.

"Closing out" sales repeatedly attain their chief purpose—that is, they close out. When an advertiser is closing out his business, selling all his furniture, livestock, etc., it is a good plan to use the descriptive title, "Closing Out Sale," in the want ad. It suggests the correct fact, that closing out, the advertiser is willing to sell at attractive prices.

"New customer" sales have proved successful. The advertiser—it makes no particular difference what he sells—offers articles at bargain prices to all customers during the stated period.

"Removal Sale," "One-Day Sale," "Opening For Business Sale," "Anniversary Sale," "Season-End Sale," etc., all are effective for classified advertisers. The ingenious man can originate clever sales ideas of his own.

Here are some hints to make the want ad. sale pay. Quote prices on several leaders, bargains which easily will appeal to readers. Be square—deliver merchandise as good as promised. Realize, except in the case of the closing out sale, that your real profits are tied up in the customers who like you way of doing business, and become permanent patrons. Compile a list of new customers obtained. Follow up by calling them on the 'phone later.

Put on your sale, ordinarily, on the day locally most convenient for want ad. readers.

"SECRETS" OF GOOD SALESMANSHIP

That much used word "Salesmanship," mistakably suggests to some people that only the favored few or the carefully trained can be good salesmen. There were good salesmen before the word came into use. The things they practiced, in intercourse with buyers, are the things which help to make sales for skilful want ad. users today. Here are the main things.

1. Genuine enthusiasm for the offered article and its usefulness for the inquirer. What the inquirer thinks of it, at first glance, is immaterial. The good salesmen believes in his article, and his whole enthusiastic manner reflects high high opinion of it.

2. Courteous, pleasant attitude. Good salesmen are optimistic persons. They have smiles and, perhaps, a joke for the possible customers they talk with. Whether they discuss the weather, the business outlook, or merits of goods, they talk cheerfully. Gloom has no place in salesmanship.

3. They size up the customers, what feature of their offering will most appeal to him, and talk most about it. Minor details, though of a favorable nature, are kept in thebackground, while the big sales point is hammered.

Broadly, this is either price or quality. If the inquirer is one keenly sensitive to price, the good salesman, though advancing favorable arguments of usefulness, etc., always points his appeal with the low price. Another inquirer, however, is obviously a "quality" buyer, in which case, intrinsic qualities of merit are most favorably and prominently advanced, price being brought in, perhaps, only near the end of the discussion.

4. One or two or three failures to sell do not dampen the good salemen's faith in and enthusiasm for his article. He is as confident and smiling when the fifth and sixth inquirers appear as he was for the first.

Cultivate proficiency in these four directiops, and the family and associates will soon talk of your good salesmanship.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

TIMELY TIPS FOR NEW CAR OWNERS

By E. H. SCOTT

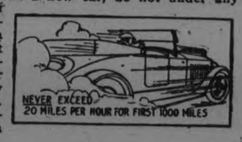
How to Drive Your New Car the First 1000 Miles

How often have you heard the remark "Oh, the ..... car is just a piece of junk, after you have run it a few months, it rattles like an old tin can, pumps oil, and costs a small fortune in repair bills." I have heard that remark many many times during the years I have been in the automobile business, it is a remark frequently made to the unfortunate service manager, and is, in most cases, very unjust and not at all deserved by the car. It is quite useless to tell the owner that he is the man who is responsible for all this "grief". It is true, however, in 99 cases out of 100.

The life of your engine depends very largely on the way you drive and operate your car during the first 1,000 miles you run it. A fast pace will shorten the life of a motor just as surely as a fast and merry life will shorten the life of a man or woman.

The first 1,000 miles a car is run, is the most critical in its history, and your treatment of it during this time, will determine to a very large extent the amount of useful service you will get from it, and amount of money you will ultimately pay in repair and overhaul bills.

During the first 500 miles you run a new car, do not under any circumstances, exceed a speed of 20 miles an hour. During the following 500 miles, do not exceed a speed of 25 miles an hour. Do not allow the motor to race unnecessarily, or you will surely pay for it in repair bills. Do not allow the engine to labor on high gear. If it starts to slow down and labor, change down at once to a lower gear.

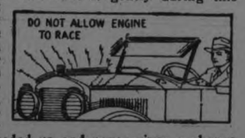


It is difficult for a man who has had no mechanical training to understand why, if a new engine appears to run nice and smoothly and with apparently plenty of power, this extreme care should be taken.

Perhaps this little illustration which you WILL be able to understand will make it plain to you. Suppose you were a man who had never taken any strenuous exercise, then all at once decided to take on a walk of 20 miles and determined to complete the distance at the rate of 6 miles an hour. If you ever completed that walk, how do you think you would feel at the end of it, and how do you think it would affect you. You know you would be stiff for a week or more after, and might even do your system serious injury.

Suppose, on the other hand, that you decided first to get into condition by taking a walk of 2 miles a day the first week, then 3 miles a day the next week, 4 miles a day the following week, and so on. By the time you have reached the point where you are going to perform the 20 mile stunt, you will be limbered up and able to do the walk with ease and without harming yourself.

Now can you see the point. Treat your car right by giving it a chance to limber up before you go after any speed records. Let the other fellow pass you if he wants to. Take it gently during this first 1,000 miles, then you will get two, perhaps three years service from your car before it will be necessary to spend a dollar on an overhaul. Speed up and race your engine, and inside twelve months an expensive overhauling is necessary. The reason why such a large number of cars soon become regular customers at the repair shop, is just because they were speeded up and never given a chance during that critical first 1,000 miles.



However, money spent in repair bills is not the only price you will have to pay for your speed. When you do not allow the engine to be limbered up slowly, and it is speeded and raced up when it is new, it is very often the cause of turning a perfectly good engine into a bad oil pumper. If the engine is speeded up when it is new, it sometimes causes the cylinder casting to warp or the cylinders walls become scored. When this happens the piston rings can't make a perfect oil seal or hold compression, with the result that oil is pumped up on top of the pistons and causes the spark plugs to foul very frequently. In addition to oiled up spark plugs, the cylinders will carbon up quickly and before long the engine starts to knock and overheat. If the valve seats or stems become warped, it is impossible for the valves to seat properly and a serious loss of power is the result.

Now, remember you can eliminate all the above troubles by giving the engine just half a chance to limber up. When you hear of a certain car of 1914 or 1915 vintage that is still going strong, you can just bet your last dollar that that car was carefully driven the first thousand miles, and all the other thousands of miles it has been driven since then.

Cars are being built better today than they have ever been built before. Better steels have been developed, production methods improved, and more accurate machinery to turn out the car parts etc., are in use in every plant. The cars that are being built today are as far ahead of the cars of a few years ago, as the electric light is ahead of gas light.

Remember first, last and all the time, the service you are going to get from your car, will depend to a very large extent on the way you drive and the care you give it, in much the same way as your own health depends on the way you look after it.

SAYS USE OF INSULIN HELPS IN TUBERCULOSIS

SANTA BARBARA, Ca., June 30—(Associated Press).—"The discovery of insulin for the cure of diabetes by Dr. F. G. Banting of Toronto, Canada, may be considered a great aid in the anti-tuberculosis campaign," said Dr. W. D. Sansum of the Potter Metabolic Clinic, Santa Barbara, Cal., today at the nineteenth annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association now in session in this city. "A good many cases of tuberculosis are also diabetic. Heretofore the treatment of diabetes meant a severe diet, often causing undernourishment, although the treatment of tuberculosis calls for the best nourishment possible. Cases affected with both diseases have in the past been nearly hopeless."

The use of insulin, Doctor Sansum pointed out, now frees such patients from all diabetic symptoms, and if tuberculosis is present, this may be treated with the best general diet that the market affords. One patient under the care of Dr. Sansum gained 35 pounds, and now weighs 15 pounds more than he ever has weighed. In every one of his tuberculosis diabetic cases, laboratory findings have shown progressive improvement. "It now appears," said Dr. Sansum, "that such patients have the same chance of recovery as have similar patients without diabetes."

THIN, IMPURE BLOOD

Means a General Weakness and Loss of Health.

If people would realize the importance of keeping the blood rich and pure there would be less sickness. The blood is the means through which the nourishment gained from food reaches the different parts of the body. If the blood is impure, the nourishment that reaches the nerves, and organs of the body is tainted with poison and disease follows. The blood is also the medium by which the body fights off disease. If the blood is thin and watery the power of resistance to disease is weakened. If your are weak and run down, if your nerves are frayed, if you lack ambition, have no appetite, and are short of breath after slight exertion, the trouble is almost due to poor blood. In cases of this kind you should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood. They help to enrich and purify the blood from first to last dose, and in this way bring new health and strength to weak, run-down people. Mrs. John Timmons, Elmvale, Ont., tells of the benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were to her, as follows: "I became very weak and was hardly able to walk and had to be helped upstairs. I had no appetite and slept poorly at night. I finally went to a doctor who told me the trouble was lack of blood and that my condition was serious. He gave me medicine, which I took faithfully, but did not improve. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and did so, and after I had taken two or three boxes felt that they were helping me. I could eat better, and I slept btter. I continued using the pills for some time longer and quite recovered my old-time strength and feel that I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am not an invalid to-day."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BELGIAN FOREIGN OFFICE BRANCH FRENCH GOVT.

Has Decided That Poincare Is Too Strong For Germany and Will Permit Paris to Dictate.

DOCILE FOLLOWER.

By J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(United Press).—Efforts on the part of Belgium to establish an independent foreign policy for herself have failed. The Belgian foreign office must now be considered as a branch of the French Government.

Ever since France went into the Ruhr, there has been an anti-French party at work in Belgium. But the increasing success of Premier Poincaire's Ruhr adventure has had a decisive effect at Brussels and the overthrow of the Belgian Government means the anti-French clique has failed.

Efforts by Great Britain to win the Belgians to the British point of view about German relations are now far from realization. The Belgians have decided to follow France's lead still more closely, and this fact makes Poincaire's position more secure than it has been at any previous time since the beginning of his Premiership.

What Belgium Wanted.

The visits of Belgium and French statesmen back and forth between Brussels and Paris for more than a month, showed the growing differences between the policies of the two countries. Belgians wanted no break between France and Great Britain, for it is to both of these countries that Belgium owes her independence. The real purpose of the Belgian desire to become something more than a second to France was to act as a mediary and restore unitary action on the part of France and Great Britain.

Belgian statesmen would have succeeded in that ambition if the Germans had shown signs of winning the Ruhr struggle. But Germany is slipping too fast for anybody to believe Berlin will defeat France in the present contest. The firmness of Premier Poincaire is increasing, as German indecision grows. The practical logic of the situation, therefore, has resulted uncomfortably for those Belgian leaders who wanted to take the initiative away from France and lodge it once more in a joint committee of all the allies.

It has become impossible for them to convince their followers that Belgium's interests would be better served by breaking away from the Poincaire leadership at a time when Germany is approaching nearer and nearer the point of surrender.

Belgium Follows Victors.

Henceforth, Belgium will be a docile follower of the French victors. That is to say, this satellite condition will continue as long as French victory continues to remain in sight. If an unexpected change should occur in the situation, and if the German collapse should be halted and should give place to a new vigor of resistance, then the Belgians will be able to strive once more for an independent foreign policy.

But no such reversal of form is to be expected for the immediate present, if at all. There is no room for doubt but that the French are displaying the higher morale in the present struggle and that the Germans are showing evidences of moral disintegration.

The expectation that Germany would develop a sense of iron discipline and Spartan fortitude over the Ruhr situation has not been realized. The French squeeze is being too painfully felt for that. The final evidence of it is the new acknowledgment of Belgium that the welfare of the Belgian people can now best be served by following fully in Poincaire's footsteps.

Two Minute Tours

Runnymede, scene of the signing of the historic Magna Carta, on June 15, celebrated the 708th anniversary of that signing.

Runnymede lies only five miles down the Thames from Windsor, the town which holds the most sumptuous of the palaces of the British kings, and which gave as an English family name to the present monarch when, during the World War, his German name became unacceptable.

The meadow is only some 12 or 15 miles upstream from London.

There is a conflict of opinions as to whether Runnymede or Magna Carta Island, just off shore, was the site of the signing of the Great Charter. A generally accepted version of the historic incident states that the army of barons encamped on Runnymede, that King John's followers remained on the opposite bank of the stream, and that the meetings between the monarch and the leading barons took place on the little island. A cottage on the island houses a stone slab on which it is asserted that the document was signed.

SOME MEATS SELL TODAY CHEAPER THAN IN 1913

CHICAGO, June 30 — (Associated Press).—The recent announcement from one of the statistical bureaus of the United States government that the cost of living is approximately 67 percent. higher today than it was ten years ago has brought a statement from F. W. Waddell, vice-president of Armour & Co., to the effect that wholesale selling prices for meat are in some cases lower than they were in 1913, and in others at almost exactly the same level.

Mr. Waddell submits the following comparative prices based on an average of the trading in May, 1913, and May, 1923:

	1923	1913
Pork Loins	.16¾	.14½
Boston Butts	.12½	.12½
Spare Ribs	.08	.10
Beef Carcasse	.13	.12
Loose Lard	10.18	10.60
Ham	.21	.23

"It must be understood there are certain grades of products that sell for higher prices than those quoted, and other grades that sell at lower prices," says Mr. Waddell, "but the general standard of prices is just about on the level of 1913.

"In 1913 and 1923 the average cost of hogs was about the same, but since 1913 the cost of manufacturing live animals into meat has increased materially, as has the cost of distributing the finished product. The prices quoted above are to retailers. Retail prices vary according to the grades handled, and the service which a retailer gives to the householder."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE MANITOBA VOTE.

Editor Examiner.

Sir,—I remember when I was a boy standing on the beach at Old Orchard watching what I had been told was the incoming tide. But noticing that the waves receded a great distance, I thought I had been misinformed, and that the tide was not flowing, but ebbing. But I was quickly undeceived by observing that no matter how far the waves receded each one subsequently came up higher on the beach than its predecessor. So I had been mistaken. The tide was not ebbing—it was flowing.

Many people are making the same mistake today regarding Manitoba. They had thought that there the tide was flowing. But now they see the waves receding so far—and they may go back farther—that they say the tide is ebbing. This, however, is a very superficial view. Every reader knows that the progress of every good cause, like the progress of Christianity itself, closely resembles the flowing tide. Sometimes the waves recede so far that people get discouraged and feel like sitting down under a Juniper tree, only a little later to find that the retrogression was only temporary, and that their cause was stronger than ever.

Thus it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be.

Many and varied explanations of the Manitoba vote will be given. But these are merely matters of detail, and I do not believe that the receding waves throughout the whole world, as evidenced by present world conditions and regarding which so much has been written by pessimists, have any more significance regarding ultimate results than those receding wares which I watched when a boy had upon the Atlantic tide.

I do not share the doleful apprehensions of our pessimistic friends, but I look for a better, a brighter and a happier world as the result of the growing reception of those very principles and truths which the forces of evil are so strenuously contending. J. C. SMITH.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. COMMONS MAY PROROGUE AT 3 THIS AFTERNOON

All Night Session Ends at 8 O'clock This Morning —Grants to Canadian Press Total $58,000.

OTTAWA, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time this session the House of Commons, in an effort to prorogue, held an all night session last night adjourning only at eight o'clock after sitting continuously since 8 o'clock last night. The members will assemble again at 11 a.m.

Prorogation has been tentatively fixed for three o'clock this afternoon Practically the only business now remaining before the House consists of Senate Amendments to three bills respecting pensions and Soldiers insurance.

Three Hours' Rest

From 11 o'clock yesterday morning, all day yesterday and throughout last night till 8 this morning, the House of Commons sat in an effort to reach prorogation and then only adjourned to meet again three hours later.

Starting yesterday with minor items in the supplementary estimates, the House passed the night in discussion of the Imperial Conference, then one item after another was before the House, some highly contentious, others slipping through as fast as they could be read by the chair.

The House was in a mixed humour, some of the members were sleeping others were in a talkative frame of mind. Others were trying to get some fun out of the all-night sitting and occasionally a book or a paper was shied across the desks.

Grants to Press

At five this morning the last items in estimates were disposed of, these being two grants, totalling $58,000 for the Canadian Press, adopted without division, but after heated debate, during course of which the Premier stated this would be the last year. No objection had been taken until this year when there was some reason to believe that the Press more or less controlled a number of papers entitled to news which perhaps they received with governmnt assistance. If the grants were cancelled at once it would not injure larger newspapers but smaller newspapers in the Maritime Provinces and the West might suffer. As it was being counted upon this year, the government intended to vote it but it should like to intimate it would not be continued in subsequent estimates.

A Six Month's Hoist

The senate last night by a vote of 47 to 10 gave a six month's hoist to the Government bill providing for the construction of about 1,000 miles of C.N.R. branch line at an approximate cost of $28,000,000.

SOME HALF DOZEN RECOUNTS LIKELY

Election Complaints Have Been Fairly Numerous, Due Only to Ignorance, However.

TORONTO, June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Among the most interesting of election aftermath possibilities is that of a revote in the riding of South Waterloo, where K. K. Homuth, Laborite, and a supporter of the Drury government, finished with a slim majority of 13 votes. The story comes from the riding that a deputy returning officer erroneously assumed that he could add to the voters' list the names of 12 citizens who called to register their votes. Opinion at Queen's Park yesterday was to the effect that these 12 illegal votes in a riding where the unofficial majority is 13 would be presumed by a judge to upset the whole proceedings.

According to the chief returning officer, Allan Dymond, no applications for a recount have been received as yet. Nevertheless the expectation is that there will shortly be half a dozen. There is no final news in yet from Algoma.

Hon. Nelson Parliament, defeated by 19 votes in Prince Edward county, was at the Parliament Buildings yesterday and it is understood that a recount in Prince Edward is among the certainties. Due, it is said, to the newness to their jobs of some of the election officials, election complaints have been fairly numerous. Odd stories have reached Queen's Park of ballots being unfilled by deputies who marked and handed them in ,and in one instance of a deputy undertaking to correct a ballot which a woman had spoiled. Mrs. W. E. Groves, defeated Progressive candidate in North-west Toronto, was among those who registered complaints yesterday. Nothing has appeared, however, which would indicate anything worse than ignorance on the part of deputies.

LAKEFIELD FIRE WAS INCENDIARY

Such is Opinion of the Deputy Fire Marshal—Praised Brigade.

LAKEFIELD, June 30. — (Special.)—Fire which attacked the Sanitary Meat Market on June 10, was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, Deputy Fire Marshal R. J. Marsh declared late yesterday evening, following an investigation which occupied two days.

The stock in the store, which was practically destroyed, was owned by Fred Patterson, Peterborough, and the store building was the property of W. W. Laird, Lakefield.

At 2.05 on the morning of the 10th the fire was noticed by two young men, who raised the alarm. When discovered the blaze appeared to be in the cellar.

The Deputy Fire Marshal made an inspection a few days after the fire, and returned to investigate further on Thursday last. As a result of the evidence the Deputy Marshal asserted last night that the fire was "a deliberate plan to destroy the place, and it was only saved by the prompt work of the Lakefield fire brigade."

Praised Fire Brigade.

"I have never seen a keener piece of fire fighting in my experience in Ontario," Mr. Marsh told th Examiner.

The quickness of the volunteer fire department in coming into action and their efficiency in getting at the source of the fire and smothering it with over 74 gallons of chemical in the face of great personal danger, were highly praised. One man was injured during the operations. Fire Chief Wilbert L. Webster received warm personal congratulations from the Deputy Fire Marshall.

Biggest Church Bell Moulded in Germany.

By GUS M. OEHM.

BERLIN, June 30. — (United Press).—The biggest church bell in Germany and one of the biggest in the world has just been moulded at Cologne.

The bell is a product of the foundry of Heinrich Ulrich at Apolda. The scaffold and form and other necessary preparations were begun more than a year ago.

The bell is 3.30 meters high and 3.25 meters across. It weighs about 50,000 German pounds.

The moulders worked twenty-four hours heating the ovens, melting the 30,000 pounds of bronze. Two carloads of wood, worth four million marks, were needed to bring the ovens to the proper temperature. For the building of the mould, 6,000 pounds of wire were used. The bell is inscribed as follows:

"I am called St. Peter, protector of the German land. Born of German misery, I call for unity."

Underneath the figure of an angel are the following words in Latin:

"In the year 1923, A.D., 600 years after the founding of the church, under the reign of Pope Pius XI., Archbishop Karl Josef Kardinal Schulte," etc., etc., "I was moulded at Apolda by Master Ulrich. The means were given by the German Reich, the Prussian state and the nationalistically inclined citizens of Cologne."

BLACK LINGERIE.

Black lingerie grows more, and more popular, particularly the elaborate lace trimmed variety. It is also shown in navy blue and in brown.

FALL SILHOUETTES.

There is no danger that the straightline frock is to be ousted for fall, though there are many variations of the circular flounce and the pleated skirt shown.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Diphtheria Reported in the Village—School Board Held a Meeting — Personals.

MILLBROOK, June 30.—Much sympathy will be felt for Mr. and Mrs. Dolbert Sanderson, whose fourth daughter, Marguerite Francis Rebecca, aged 11 years and 11 months, passed away about 11.30 p.m. on Thursday, after an illness of less than a week, from an attack of diphtheria. The funeral took place on Friday at 3 p.m. from W. J. E. Gillott's undertaking parlors, King Street, no public service being permissable either at the house or graveside. Deceased was a bright little girl, a member of the Methodist Sunday School, and also of the Wideawakes C.G.I.T. group in connection with the school, and was a faithful attendant at both the Sunday and week-night sessions. Interment was in Gardiner's Cemetery.

A younger sister, Anna, is ill with the same disease, a slight improvement being reported in her condition on Friday. A trained nurse is in attendance.

Rev. S. T. Tucker and W. G. Howland were business visitors to Toronto on Thursday, bringing home the new car which the former recently purchased, that evening.

Miss Zeta Kenyon was a visitor to Peterboro on Thursday, spending the day with her mother, Mrs. D. Kenyon.

Owing to the heavy rain on Thursday the garden party which the Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, intended holding at the home of Mr. Jas. Paul, 8th Line, Cavan, was postponed until Friday evening, as was also the one which was to have been held at the Methodist Church grounds, Fraserville. The disappointment was keen in both cases, but the continued downpour made it impossible to go on either with the tea or programme on Thursday afternoon or evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Hunter, of Toronto, are guests of his sister, Miss E. Hunter, en route to their summer home at McCracken's Landing, Stoney Lake.

The quota of Cadets going from Millbrook to Barriefield Camp include the following: Allen Pitt, Corp. Captain Clayton Kidd, Nellis Rowland, Bob Shaw, Walter Sayles, Lawrence Ingram, Linden Russell, Jack Byam, Albert Cullum, Eldrich Todd and Foster Russell. They will parade at the Armouries here at 7.10 a.m. Monday, leaving on the 8.40 train, via Peterboro, for Barriefield. Lieutenant E. E. Doxsee is the local Cadet instructor.

Miss Mabel Clarry left this week for a visit with her sisters, Misses Blanche, Gussie, and Gertrude, all trained nurses, of New York City. Mrs. Max Cameron, of Ottawa, and Mrs. L. F. Clarry, of Calgary, are also visiting in New York. Miss Clarry may remain for some time taking an additional course in her pipe organ music during her stay in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Dawson, of Rossburn, Man., are spending a part of their honeymoon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson, north of the village. Their marriage took place on the 13th of this month.

Mrs. Wilbert Thorne, Carmel, spent the week-end at her old home in Emily Township. Her father, R. J. Paterson, Conservative candidate for South Victoria, won out in the recent election by a substantial majority against F. C. Sandy, U.F.O. member of the late Government. A Liberal, L. V. O'Connor, also contested the riding, polling a much smaller vote than either of the other two.

The regular meeting of Millbrook Council will be held on Tuesday, 3rd July, at 7.30 p.m., instead of Monday, the latter being a holiday.

Mrs. (Dr.) Reynolds and little son Clifford, of Toronto, who have been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. Johnston, Fallis Line, are now in Belleville as guests of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Ketchison. The latter, with Mrs Johnston, recently returned from a two-weeks' motor trip north as far as Waubaushene, visiting friends en route at Midland, Toronto, and other points. Mrs. Reynolds motoring back with them on their home trip to Belleville.

Richards, B.A., formerly of Castleton, is the new pastor on the Cavan circuit, Mount Pleasant being one of the churches under his charge.

Smith, secretary treasurer, L. W. Smith, J. A. Vance and G. E. Burnham. Minutes of the previous meeting read and on motion confirmed. Communication from F. C. Paterson, district representative, and read by the secretary acknowledged receipt of $15 for the Rural School fair fund. System Run Down Blood Out of Order

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is, when, as a rule, it is improper circulation of the blood.

All they need is a good tonic to build up the system and put the blood into proper shape.

For this purpose there is nothing on the market to-day to equal.

Burdock Blood Bitters

It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. H. Poole, Port Dover, Ont., writes:—"My system was run down and my blood out of order, and I suffered a great deal from pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. A friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle and before it was used I found it was doing me good. I kept on until I had taken three, and now I feel like a different woman.

My husband also took it and it has built him up."

THE TRIAL OF DELORME COMPLETES EIGHTH DAY

MONTREAL, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—The trial of Father Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother, Raoul in January, 1922 has now completed its eighth day of hearing, and there is little indication of a close to the case. The Crown Prosecutor has not yet completed his side of the case, While that of the defence has yet to come. There is therefore a very likelihood that the trial will continue throughout next week if not longer.

To-day the examination of Gunsmith Haynes will be continued.

CANADIAN STAR IN U. S. GOLF FINALS

Miss Ada MacKenzie and Miss Glenna Collett Will Meet This Afternoon For the Title.

BUFFALO, June 30 (Canadian Press). — Miss Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, former women's golf champion, and Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, United States national woman champion, are the finalists in the championship fight of the Buffalo Country Club's third annual women's invitation golf tournament, which ends this afternoon. They will meet in the title match of 18 holes.

Miss MacKenzie won her right to play the national champion by the elimination of Alexa Stirling, mertopolitan champion, in the semi-finals yesterday, two up and one to play.

The Canadian's victory upset the dope of the galleries, who had figured Miss Stirling as Miss Collett's contender for the final. A gallery of about 2,000 watched the play.

Miss MacKenzie took the lead at the eighth hole, and was never down thereafter. She was one up at the turn, going out in 39.

Both drove well, but the Canadian star excelled in both approaching and putting. Scores:

Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, defeated Miss Anita Lehme, Chicago, 6 and 5.

Miss Ada MacKenzie, Toronto, defeated Miss Alexa Stirling of New York, 2 and 1.

JACK KEARNS NO FOOL.

Jack Kearns doesn't know a thing. He fixed it so that Dempsey, to whom he is charge d'affaires, would get his entire purse before he steps into the ring with Tommy Gibbons. He pried out $100,000, cash money, as soon as the contract was signed, collected another $100,000 after a few weeks, and is due $100,000 July 2.

Kearns may not look good in a silk hat, but he knows how to do his stuff.

Maple Leaf Juveniles and Midgets will practice at King Edward school It is important that all players of the two teams attend his workout.

The Studebaker Light-Six Sedan $2225

—But You Can't Ride on the Paint!

Imitation diamonds can be made to look so real and sparkle so brightly that it is difficult to tell them from the genuine.

But try to sell one and you will find out its real worth in a flash.

Same with automobiles. Weaknesses of construction in a closed car can be hidden, for a time, with paint and varnish and fancy fittings. But all is not quality that glitters.

You can't ride on the paint. And when you place such a car in the second hand market, you suffer a heavy depreciation, because it lacked real intrinsic value at the outset. Use will never improve a mediocre product.

Motor car owners tell us that the trade-in value of any Studebaker car at the end of three or four or five years of useful life is greater than on any other car built today—the percentage of depreciation is the lowest.

No wonder the Studebaker Light-Six Sedan is the fastest selling quality Sedan in the world!

The name Studebaker stands for quality, durability, comfort and integrity.

MACKEY'S GET MANY TALLIES

Score Fourteen Runs and Hold Lakefield Scoreless in E. P. League.

Mackey's Bread piled up fourteen runs against Lakefield in an East Peterborough League contest at Prince of Wales School Grounds last evening. The game was called at the first half of the sixth when the visitors got their only run; but as the score reverted to the fifth the lone tally doesn't appear in the box score. Northey twirled a good game for Lakefield, but the Northerners erred nine times. In addition to their generosity in misplays, the visitors could not solve Kennedy's offerings their three hit being scattered. Mackey's got in some telling blows Williams and Collins hitting for three bases. The bread-makers had a field day in the fifth when infield errors, and their two hits, gave them seven runs.

CANADIAN RUNNER-UP.

Upsetting the Dope

They say Jack Dempsey has a cinch—at least the dopesters do;
Tom Gibbons hasn't got a chance, according to their view;
But take a look in hist'ry's book and it will show to you
Occasions good and plenty where the under dogs came through.

One time a Hebrew shepherd kid, not yet beyond his teens,
Pulled out a little sling and drew a pebble from his jeans;
Remember what a chortle rose from all those Philistines—
They said Goliath had a cinch till David spilled the beans.

Way back when Father Time was young, old Artaxerxes' hordes
Opined that of this little earth they were the overlords;
Thermopylae's three hundred Greeks just bared their naked swords
And there another lead-pipe cinch likewise went by the boards.

Once just because the British folks began to feel their oats
A huge Armada sailed from Spain—the largest thing that floats;
But Francis Drake, he gathered up some sassy little boats
And where they figured on a cinch he got their Spanish goats.

When Bender, Coombs, and Eddie Plank were idols of the fans,
And Mack's Athletics made the rest all look like also-rans,
In 1914 Boston's Braves upset old Connie's plans,
And knocked his famous hurlers for a row of garbage cans.

John Harvard's football team once sent a bid to Bo McMillin
To bring his prayin' Colonels on to Cambridge for a killin';
"All right," responded Centre's crew—that bunch was more than willin'
And that is where the dope received another awful spillin'.

Gene Criqui came across from France, a sacrificial lamb,
And dopesters thought Kilbane had picked another fistic ham;
The home-folks gathered there to see our Johnny's kayo slam—
But once again the dope went wrong—it wasn't worth a nickel.

Jack Dempsey, too, can recollect without a mem'ry tax
The day when he was thought a mark for Willard's ponderous whacks,
But all the world can tell you how, beneath those fists of Jack's,
The dope and Willard got it where the chicken got the axe.

And now the dopesters have it doped that Gibbons should be pie
For Dempsey when they battle on the Fourth of this July;
It may be so, but I don't know, I sort of wonder why
Another cinch may not go wrong—if so, nobody'd cry.

TWO LIVELY GAMES BILLED FOR MONDAY

Cobourg and Petes Clash in What Promises to Be An Exciting Double Bill on Dominion Day.

Peterborough ball fans have no need to stop to figure out their programme for Dominion Day, for with two Central Ontario League games with Cobourg scheduled for Riverside Park on Monday, there will be plenty of excitement.

In the morning at 10.15 o'clock sharp the two teams clash in a postponed game, upon the result of which the championship of the first section of the Big Four race is likely to depend. This is the game that should have been played here on May 26th.

Belleville and Kingston are slated to play off their tie game in Kingston on Monday morning, and if the Petes beat Belleville to-day and Cobourg on the holiday morning they will be tied with the winner of the game in Kingston, provided that Kingston wins to-day in Cobourg.

If the Ponies are beaten to-day and if the Petes grab off to-day's and Monday morning's game, they will win the first half if Kingston wins Monday or be tied with Belleville if Belleville should win the play-off game.

There will be all kinds of excitement in the morning battle, because of the sensational finish to the League race.

In the afternoon at 3.15 the two teams meet again in the first game of the second round, and with both outfits anxious to get away to a good start in the second section there should be a real battle in the after dinner fixture.

Tom Gibbons Watches Every Dempsey Move.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 30. —One great difference between the systems of the two rivals in the coming scrap at Shelby is that Tommy Gibbons keeps posted on every move that Jack Dempsey makes in the ring at his training camp here.

He has scouts on the job reporting every knockdown and every bit of information that could give him an inkling on the champion's trim and fight system.

Dempsey, on the other hand, has sent no scouts over to Shelby. True, there are friends who drop into camp and give him their ideas about Gibbons after seeing the challenger in action. But Dempsey sends no scouts over to Shelby. He was at the ringside in New York that day when Gibbons lost the decision to Harry Greb and from that gets his ideas as to Tommy's ring methods.

OLYMPIC CHANCES REST ON SILENCE

Many U. S. Runners May Be Tarred With the Professional Brush.

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 30.—(United Press).—A new storm is being stirred up to clean so-called amateur athletics of professionalism. Great gusts of words are blowing from cast and west, howling for reform.

The latest furore is being directed against track athletes. It is said a great number of running stars are receiving money in secret for performing in various meets.

It is known that a policeman can't wear silk shirts and a high hat on his salary. It is known a taxi driver can't tour the world on his profits every year. It is known a poor man can't live in ease without money.

A leading runner said he had been offered $30,000 to tour the west with a bunch of gamblers for three months. Another sprinter said he had received an offer of $1.000 for one race.

Gamblers would take the runners to small towns, where there are some local "stars." They would let their man (under an assumed name, of course) lose a couple of races to loosen up the change of the small townsmen. Then they would sock in a good bet and depart with the cash.

One of these runners said he knew many of his brother amateurs that were being paid money. He named them, and named the amount they received for certain races.

"Everybody knows about it," he said. "But what can you do?. If you raise a howl, they would sweep out the best runners in America.

"It would ruin the sport and spoil American chances in the next Olympic games."

That's interesting. It certainly cannot be considered "American sportsmanship" to let such a condition continue, the storm stirrers say. If any amateur is receiving money he should be kicked out. And the only reason nothing is being done about it is because it would spoil American chances in the Olympics.

TRAP SHOOTING.

The Gun Club held their weekly shoot last evening, but owing to the high winds the good scores were scarce.

Roy Hutchison proved to be the big noise of the evening with 46 cut of 50, having three badly dusted birds charged up to him. Mr. Sutton of Lakefield, was a visitor and did some nice shooting, although using a strange gun. Several of the new members are starting to hit them pretty fair.

JACK DEMPSEY HAS GOOD RECORD

Made a Rapid Rise From a Poor Start to the Heavyweight Championship.

Jack Dempsey shot to the top as the heavyweight champion of the world almost overnight.

He developed his fighting powers in short no-decision bouts.

His early ring career did not startle anyone.

Dempsey's first start in New York was against John Lester Johnson—and he lost the newspaper decision.

This discouraged him. He left the east and did not reappear again for two years.

Out on the Pacific coast Jack Kearns was looking for a likely prospect.

Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, is said to have introduced Dempsey to Kearns the first time. Kearns smelled paydirt.

He matched Dempsey up against fellows who could hit to see if his new find could take 'em.

Dempsey proved he could do this as well as hit.

The Manassa Mauler began to knock them over.

In two years he disposed of all logical contenders for Jess Willard's throne.

Then they got Willard at Toledo and won the title that has since brought fortunes to both under shrewd handling and business acumen.

Dempsey knocked Willard out in three rounds— the shortest fight in which a heavyweight title ever changed hands.

After taking the title in 1919 he swung into action again the next summer against Billy Miske at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Miske lasted but three rounds. On Dec. 14, 1920, he also met and knocked out Bill Brennan in 12 rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Then in 1921 came the biggest title mill ever staged from a box office standpoint—the Carpentier Battle.

Dempsey knocked Carpentier out in four rounds. The gate was $1,600,000. Dempsey received $300,000 and Carpentier $200,000.

Since that time the champion has been idle. No promoter was able to sign an opponent at a figure that could be handled and Chairman William Muldoon of the New York Boxing Commission found excuses why selected contenders were ineligible.

Then Tom Gibbons rose to the top of the heavyweight division by a series of sensational knockouts.

Shelby, Mont., jumped into the spotlight overnight, raised a guarantee of $310,000, and signed the champ and Gibbons to a 15-round decision championship fight for July Fourth.

The articles were signed in Chicago last May. Then the wheels for the big battle swung into action immediately.

Dempsey was born in Manassa, Colo., June 24, 1895.

His nationality is Irish-American.

He started boxing in 1915. He has had 60 fights.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo Fireman, is the only man who ever knocked him out. He did it in one round in 1917.

Dempsey has been knocked down four or five times.

Only four of his fights ever ended in draws.

Willie Meehan and Jack Downey won decisions from him.

Forty of his battles were won by knockouts.

Greb and Wilson For Middleweight Title.

NEW YORK, June 30. — Canadian Press. — Tom O'Rourke, the matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C., announced yesterday that he had signed Harry Greb of Pittsburgh and Johnny Wilson of Boston, world's middleweight champion, for a 15-round decision title match at the Polo grounds on the night of Aug. 31st. Greb, he said, deposited a forfeit of $10,000 as a guarantee to make 160 pounds, the middleweight limit.

O'Rourke did not divulge the terms of the contract but it was understood that the champion was guaranteed 37½ and the challenger 12 1-2 per cent of the receipts.

Greb had been angling for a title match with Wilson for some time.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA FORMED AS A COMMUNITY UNDERTAKING

Inspired by the Success of the Trinity Church Orchestra at the Ontario Festival--John Crane is First President.

R. CLIDDON, DIRECTOR

The Peterboro Symphony Orchestra was organized at a meeting of representative musicians on Wednesday night.

Officers were elected, Mr. Rupert Gliddon was chosen director, and plans were laid out for the consolidation and development of this praiseworthy enterprise which has been powerfully inspired by the brilliant success of the Trinity church orchestra at the Ontario Musical Festival in Toronto a few months ago.

To its promoters and to every citizen who is seriously concerned about the progress of music in this city, the announcement of this undertaking is a dream come true. Hopes of such initiative as this have been so long deferred that they were practically abandoned by those who were convinced of the orchestral possibilities wrapped up in Peterboro's wealth of talent.

Only the Conservatory orchestra kept alive the spark of hope which the war almost extinguished. Since then that group has been gradually reasserting itself, and meanwhile the Trinity church musicians have been engaged in building up slowly and soundly and with a clear, practical vision, the band which with some augmentation carried off the honours in its class at the provincial competition.

The achievements of Peterboro's musicians in that contest and festival revealed the "acres of diamonds" here at home. Those who were in close touch with the higher musical life of the city were not so greatly surprised at the distinction which the Peterboro representatives won so decisively. They were elated by the sweeping successes, and they were gratified too by the tributes which bore out their own judgments of the musical resources of this community, which they had regarded as only partly developed and co-ordinated.

Since then, men who possess executive as well as musical ability have been quietly at work, fired by the vision which they had long beheld, but which needed some flashing presentation to attract general attention to beget a common desire for the fulfilment of that splendid prospect. The accomplishment of the Trinity orchestra and Peterboro's vocalists concentrated the public mind and especially the interest of musicians upon the wealth of material in this city. In the enthusiasm flamed up then the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra was conceived, and long cherished aspirations came into being.

Such was the genesis of the new organization which starts with a strong nucleus of musicians, a capable director and an executive that should command the confidence of all citizens and the active co-operation of earnest musicians.

The Officers

The officers elected at Wednesday night's meeting which was attended by some thirty citizens, are:—

Honorary President—G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.

President—John Crane.

1st Vice-President—Dr. H. G. Park.

2nd Vice-President—John J. Turner.

Secretary—J. Mendel Greene.

Treasurer—W. E. Lech.

Councillors—R. W. Cormack and R. A. Brown.

Conductor—Rupert Gliddon.

It was decided to elect the officers annually by a majority vote of the members of the society which is to be known as the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra, the conductor chosen by the executive, from time to time, being ex-officio a member of the executive. The various resolutions at the inceptive meeting were passed by standing and unanimous votes, and the by-laws and constitution will be dealt with at a meeting to be called shortly.

Not Competitive

So much for the beginning. The whole scheme has been carefully thought out, and the problems that lie ahead have not been underestimated. Peterboro's new orchestra should commend itself to all musicians and to the citizens as a whole. It is in no respect competitive. Its members have no intention of trying to compete with or trespass upon the grounds of other musical organizations. They do hope to enlist the active support of those who wish to participate in the development of a symphony orchestra that will do credit to Peterboro in that field, and attract to its membership those who have the requisite ability. No financial inducements are held out, but there is the inducement of the artistic appeal and expression which should bring together under Mr. Gliddon's baton every available orchestral instrument in the city.

A Financial Side

Musical culture should be immediately quickened by the Orchestra, not only for those who have the gift of musical expression and performance, but also for those who can only listen and enjoy the works that will be presented. There is a financial side to the undertaking that has been carefully considered. A library is needed at once, sufficient for the first rehearsals which may not be called until later. Certain instruments are almost indispensible, and certainly desirable, such a tympani, a xylophone, basoon and so on. Some of these may have to be purchased by the orchestra, or they may be produced by players now residing in Peterboro who are unknown to the Society at present.

The main fact, however, is that the Orchestra has been launched under very auspicious circumstances. The officers gladly accepted their positions, and likewise the accompanying honour, with a spirit of willingness and determination that was reflected in the eagerness and enthusiasm of the members. It is hoped that before long the executive will be able to report a response of co-operation and sympathy from the citizens generally and especially from the musicians of Peterboro upon whom the success of the symphony finally depends.

ROTARY LEADS BANTAM SERIES

Have Two Big Evenings and Defeat Curlers by 15 to 4

Rotary Bantams had two big innings in the game with the Curlers at Prince of Wales grounds last evening, winning the contest by 15 to 4. The Rotary youngsters are now out in front in the series with two wins and no losses. The Rotarians tallied five runs in the third and finished strong by sliding four runners across in the seventh. Guiry fanned fifteen batsmen. Allen, pitching for the Curlers, struck out seven in three innings, and Doughty, who finished the game, whiffed ten in the four innings. The teams were:

Rotary—Graham, 3b.; Goodfellow, 2b.; Sowden, 1b.; LeBarr, ss..; Macdonald, l.f.; Gillespie, c.f.; Archambault, r.f.; Carroll, c.; Guiry, p.; Koster, c.f.

Curlers—Doughty, c.f., p.; Kingdon, 1b.; Martin, 2b.; McFadden, c.; Westbrook, l.f.; Walton, ss..; Robertson, 3b.; McGee, r.f., c.; Allen, p.; Jones, c.f.; Dillon, l.f..

Umpire—A. C. Kay.

BASEBALL COMMENT

An exciting game of baseball, played this morning by a number of juniors who intend to qualify later for big league membership, was staged between McIlwain's Wild Cats and Delahaye's Tigers. The game was somewhat one-sided, resulting in a score of 15-0 for the Wild Cats, who made tracks immediately for the newspaper office to chronicle their victory, and remark that 'the Wild Cats are coming along good.'

Details of the players were not furnished, but the line-up was as follows:

For the Wild Cats—Chas. McIlwain, p.; Dosie Sweeney, c.; Chas. Butcher, 1b.; Norman Sullivan, 2b.; George Brown, 3b.; P. Clarke, c.f.; H. McIlwain r.f; H. Wiley, l.f.

The Tigers' line-up was: R. Delahaye, p.; S. Perryer, c.; Gerald Stabler, 1b.; Billie Perryer, 2b.; T. Woodcock, 3b.; A. Delahaye, c.f.; R. Lucas, r.f.; E. Long, lf.

The next game in this exciting series will be played on Saturday, July 7th, at Victoria Park.

WINNIPEG, June 30.— (Canadian Press.) — Endorsation of the wheat pool plan proposed by farm leaders of Alberta was expressed yesterday by Premier John Bracken. It was his idea, he said, for the solution of the marketing problem.

The Manitoba government has not been invited to participate in the Calgary conference on pooling of wheat, but such an invitation would be accepted, it is reported.

WIDOW, 38, IN LOVE; HER CHILDREN OBJECT; SHOULD MAMMA WED?

One of life's deepest problems—Shall a widow of thirty-eight or forty years renounce all hope of another love romance in order to obey the wishes of her children, almost grown?—forms the basis of William de Mille's Paramount production of "Only 38," which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre the first half of next week, commencing with a special holiday matinee Monday. Lois Wilson, one of four featured players, enacts the role of such a mother. May McAvoy is the grown-up daughter and is also featured, as are Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett.

"A woman's right to love and to be loved never ends," declares Miss Wilson. "When her first husband passes away, that ought not mean that his widow live the rest of her life alone and unhappy. She should be able to again seek romance and cheer. In 'Only 38' I play the role of a woman less than two-score years old, a widow who finds love again but whose second romance is opposed by her children. I feel certain that I would not spurn happiness were I faced with the same issue in real life."

"Although, as the daughter in 'Only 38,' I oppose my mother's romance following the death of my father, I would never think of such thing actually," says Miss McAvoy. "A mother has the same right to romance as her children. If she thinks it wrong to marry, believing it a disrespect to her dead husband, then she should act as she thinks best. At most, it should not be the business of her children to judge for her. On the other hand, the children would soon marry themselves, automatically leaving the mother alone. Unselfish children naturally think of this before hand."

Pulp Embargo Would Hurt Canadian Trade.

QUEBEC, June 30. — (Canadian Press.)—"If the proposed embargo on the exportation of pulpwood from Canada is put into effect by the government it simply means that local dealers will be placed on the street." The foregoing statement was made yesterday morning by a local exporter, who is directly in touch with every phase of the question.

The matter will be taken up today with Hon. Ernest Lapointe. A delegation of local merchants will wait upon him and present their case and ask him to approach the government with a view to securing protection for the industry.

Calvin Gray is living in Dallas at the most exclusive hotel. He declares himself the enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker. Gray falls in love with Barbara Parker, daughter of Tom Parker. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Ma Briskow and Allegheny, the daughter, to the mountains. Gray visits them and Ma shows him where she goes to visit with fairies. Ma pretends she is a princess and Gray declares himself a duke. A message comes with information that Bud Briskow, the son, has run away from school. Gray offers to follow and bring the boy home.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"N-not exactly, but—"

Allegheny rose with an exclamation of anger. "Well, I won't meet 'em. He'd better mind his own business."

"Why, Allie!" the mother exclaimed, in mild reproach.

"I won't! I hate everybody. Him, with his high an' fancy ways—" the girl choked. "He looks down on us the same as other folks does, an' I don't blame him. He acts like we was cattle, an' we are." Her own scorn appeared to whip the speaker into a higher frenzy. "Now he's gone off to spoil Buddy's doin's. Buttin' in, that's what it is. If I knew where Buddy is, I'd warn him. I'd tell him to look out. I'd tell him to grab his chance when it comes along, if it takes all the Briskow money, all the Briskow wells. He's lucky, Buddy is. It don't make any difference who he took up with, if he loves her."

Never but once before had the Briskows seen their daughter in a mood like this, and that was on the occasion of their first visit to Dallas.

It was several moments after the door of Allie's room had slammed behind her before Gus Briskow spoke, and then it was with a deep sigh.

"I been afraid of something like this, Ma. I reckon we're goin' to pay dear for our money before we get through."

"An' him with a princess in Wichita Falls!" the mother quavered.

CHAPTER XVIII
A Welcome Visitor

WHILE it cannot be said that Tom Parker had ever labored arduously at anything, nevertheless he had followed his calling faithfully, and the peculiar exigences of that calling had made of him a light and fitful sleeper.

That small room at the rear of his office Barbara had cleared of its dusty accumulations—of its saddles and saddle-bags, its rusty Winchesters, its old newspapers and disorderly files—and had transformed into a retreat for him.

Tom approved of the change after he became accustomed to it, for he was subjected to fewer irritating distractions there than elsewhere. It was his practice to sleep from nine-thirty until eleven, when "Bob" fetched him a glass of orange juice with a "spike" in it. This refreshing beverage filled him with new energy to tackle the issues of the day, and thereupon began a routine as fixed as some religious ritual. Promptly upon the count of twenty he emerged from the inner office, slamming the door energetically behind him.

Whether "Bob" was alone or engaged with clients, Old Tom's air was always the same; it was that of a busy man weighted with grave responsibilities. He frowned; he muttered, hurriedly:

"Got to see a man; back in an hour. Anybody calls, tell 'em to wait."

This took him to the front door, which he also slammed behind him—there being a certain force and determination to the sound of a slamming door. Then he limped down the street to Judge Halloran's office. The judge usually had the checkerboard out and set when Tom arrived.

This morning "Bob" was alone at her desk when he came out, and something about her appearance caused the old warrior to look twice.

"My goodness! son, you're all dressed up!" he said, as he noted "Bob's" crisp white dress, the rose upon her bosom, the floppy hat that framed her face. "Church sociable som'ers?"

"No, dad."

"You certainly are sweet." Tom's bleak, gray face softened, then some vague regret peered forth from his eyes. "Certainly are sweet, but—"

"But what?" The girl smiled up at him.

"Oh, I don't know—seems like you ain't quite the same boy you was. You're changing lately, somehow. Getting more like your mother every week. I like that, of course," he said, quickly, "but—I'd like awful well to see you in your ranch clothes again. I bet you've clean forgot how to ride and rope and—"

"LESSEE YOU DO A FEW SHOTS," HER FATHER URGED.

"Try me sometime and see," said the girl.

Apparently Tom believed there was no time like the present, for he slid his right hand under the left lapel of his coat, and when he brought it away there was a large single-action Colt's revolver in it—a massive weapon upon the mother-of-pearl handle plates of which were carved two steers' heads.

"Lessee you do a few tricks, 'Bob'. Do the roll. Remember she don't stand cocked."

Miss Parker rose to her feet and took the weapon. She balanced it in her hand, then she spun it, rolled it, fanned it, went through a routine of lightning-like sleight-of-hand that Tom had taught her long before.

"Lessee you do a few shots," her father urged, when she handed it back to him.

"In here?"

"Sure! It's our shanty. Drive a few nails or—I'll tell you; kill that bear and save that tenderfoot's life." Tom pointed to a Winchester calendar on the rear wall, which bore the lithographic likeness of an enraged grizzly upon the point of helping himself to a hunter.

"Why, we'd have the whole town running in."

Reluctantly Tom reloaded his weapon and thrust it back into its shoulder holster; regretfully he murmured: "Doggone! We never have any more fun." He turned toward the door.

"Where are you going, dad?"

"I got to see— What is it?"

"Bob" hesitated. "I wish you'd stay here. I think Mr. Gray arrived this morning, and I expect him in."

Tom decided that he had made Judge Halloran wait long enough. He should have been in the old rascal's king row by this time. So he said, briskly, "Wish I could, son, but I got to see a man."

"Mr. Gray was here several times before he went away, but you were always out." When her father showed no inclination to tarry, Barbara spoke with more impatience than she had ever used toward him. "I want him to meet you, dad, for he has come back on purpose to take up that Jackson well. If I devote all my time to business, it seems to me you could afford to sacrifice an hour to it, just this once. That checker game can wait."

Tom was offended, and, being a stubborn man, he bowed his back.

"Tell him to wait," he said curtly. "I'll get around to it soon as I can."

Without further comment the old man pulled his gray wide-awake lower over his eyes and limped out of the room. But he did not go to Judge Halloran's office; he was too sore to risk further offense at the hands of one who took malicious delight in antagonizing him, so he walked the streets. Perhaps he had permitted the girl to do more than her share of the work, and hence her inclination to take all the credit for their joint success was only natural, but it was time to change all that; time to turn a big deal without her assistance. That was the thing to do, handle the Jackson lease in his own way and turn it over for a price far in excess of seventy-five thousand dollars. Such things were being done—Tom did not know just how, but he could easily find out—and there were several thousand dollars in the bank to the firm's account.

A bus was about to leave, so Tom clambered in.

Little prickles ran over "Bob"; she felt her whole body galvanize when she saw Gray coming.

He entered, as he knew he would enter, with the suggestion of having been blown thither upon the breast of a gale. He was electric; he throbbed with energy; he was bursting with enthusiasm, and his delight at seeing her was boyish.

"I told Jackson you'd be out to look at the well and the books today," "Bob" was saying. "He won't wait an hour longer."

"Splendid! I came the instant you telegraphed—dropped everything, in fact. Some of my men are waiting to see me, but I haven't even notified them of my arrival. Important business, too; nevertheless, I hurried right here. They can wait." Gray laughed gladly. "Jove! How becoming that hat is. I hired the best-looking car I could find, and it will be here in a minute. I told myself I had earned a day with you, and I wouldn't spoil it by permitting you to drive. I've so much to talk to you about—business of all sorts—that I scarcely know where to begin."

Now "Bob" had expected to drive to the Northwest Extension with Gray; nothing else had been in her mind; her field clothing was even laid out really for a quick change, but a sudden contrariness took hold of her; she experienced a shy perversity that she could not explain.

"Oh, I'm sorry! I—can't go. I simply can't," she declared.

He was so obviously disappointed that her determination gained strength; she was surprised at her own mendacity when she explained the utter impossibility of leaving the office, and told a circumstantial fib about a title that had to be closed with people from out of town.

In order finally to get him away before she could change her mind, she promised to hurry through her affairs and then drive out to bring him home.

Gray drove directly to the lease he had come to examine, and was disappointed to learn that the owner had just left. This was annoying; "Bob" had assured him that he was expected. Inquiry elicited from the surly individual in charge no more than the reluctant admission that Jackson had been called to the nearest telephone, but would be back sometime.

It's Nerve Force from Nuxated Iron that helps make STRONG, MAGNETIC, FORCEFUL MEN, who make their over-mastering presence felt the moment they enter a room.

NUXATED IRON

contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Organic iron enriches the blood and plenty of rich red blood means more nerve force, so that Nuxated Iron not only feeds what might be termed artificial nerve force to the nerve cells, but it stimulates the blood to manufacture a greatly increased supply of new nerve force. If you are weak, nervous or run-down, get a bottle of Nuxated Iron to-day, and if within two weeks' time you do not feel that it has increased your nerve force and made you feel better and stronger in every way, your money will be refunded. PATTE AND WOLFF RAISE FOXES HERE

New Company Will Start Building Operations Next Week.

Rearing black foxes, an industry which is rapidly expanding in Canada and the United States, will soon be in progress in this district, according to information given out to-day by the secretary-treasurer of Patte and Wolff Foxes, Ltd.

At a meeting of the shareholders yesterday it was announced that premises for the ranch have been secured near Chemong, and that the capital of the company has been nearly all subscribed, those who were approached jumping at the opportunity to secure a quota. The directors had particular pleasure in announcing that it was not necessary to peddle the company's stock, it selling on its merits to many who recognized the worth of the undertaking.

The personnel of the directorate and officers includes many internationally-prominent men. The president of the company is H. E. Wolff, president of the H. E. Wolff Publishing Co., New York; Thomas Barrie, president of Barries, Ltd., is vice-president; J. E. Patte is secretary-treasurer, and the directors are G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Claire W. Desbacker, of Buffalo. Mr. Gordon was one of the original shareholders of the company, and prominent among the shareholders who later invested are M. A. Koenigsberg, New York, head of the Hearst Associated News Service, and Madame Frances, also of New York, one of the most celebrated modistes in America.

Start Next Week.

The company has now about forty pairs of foxes in Prince Edward Island, which will be moved here in the fall. An experienced keeper will accompany them, and his knowledge of the business, extending back to the time when the industry was started, will be invaluable to the local company. Mr. Patte will devote his entire time and attention to the business of the young company.

Arrangements have been made for E. Gillant, of Summerside, to commence building operations on the ranch immediately. He will arrive in Peterborough on Monday, and the work will be proceeded with along the most modern lines. Mr. Gillant has had many years' experience in building similar ranches in Prince Edward Island, and the company feels that it has secured the best possible man for this important work.

The powers of the company enable it to deal in and rear foxes and other wild and domestic animals, and the skins, pelts and products of the same.

Profitable Business.

The silver fox industry has been very profitable in the past, and at the present time a great many new ranches are being operated in different parts of Canada. There is a ready market for live foxes for breeding purposes, and also for pelts. Silver black fox pelts are now selling at an average price of from $200 to $400 each.

In the United States a real boom in the business has set in. One magazine, the Black Fox, published by F. C. Kay, New York, is devoted solely to furthering the black fox industry, and has been published for six years past. The American Fox and Fur Farmer is devoted to the same line.

That Thomas Barrie, of Barries, Ltd., with branches all over the country, and years of experience in the fur business, has consented to become a shareholder, augurs well for the future of the company, and shows a confidence in its aims.

Conditions Ideal.

Breeders with many years' experience have visited Peterboro to investigate the possibilities of the business, and have pronounced the conditions ideal for the successful raising of the finest foxes. Climatic conditions on the site of the new ranch are equally as good as those in Prince Edward Island, and the soil is eminently suitable.

The company has been represented throughout its organization by Gordon and O'Brien, who are now acting for it.

"If we take the holiday collection on the following day," Mr. Withers said, "that means about thirty-five loads of garbage to be taken to the incinerator. When we do the work on one route our horses are too tired to start out on the other, which may be at the other end of the city. All we might do would be to hire horses, but teams are mighty scarce now, and the worst part of it would be getting men who know anything about the work."

Mayor Taylor moved that notices be published informing the public that there would be no collection of garbage on Dominion Day.

WOMEN WORKERS HELD A REUNION

W. H. Bradburn Addressed Workers in His Committee Rooms.

The members of the Women's Liberal - Conservative Committee and women workers and supporters of the cause in the recent election held a very joyous re-union last evening, at Mr. W. H. Bradburn's committee rooms, 309 George Street, which were filled to overflowing with a jolly crowd of workers and supporters, who helped to roll up the winning candidate's majority on Monday last.

The evening took the form of a general re-union and social affair, during which a musical programme, the service of light refreshments, and addresses by Mr. Bradburn and Mrs. Howard L. Fallis, president of the Women's Liberal - Conservative Association, were interspersed by congratulations from all sides to the candidate.

Mrs. S. T. Medd, first vice-president of the ladies' organization, occupied the chair. Enjoyable music was provided by a group of musicians, composed of Mrs. G. Evans at the piano, Mrs. M. B. Hoyland, violin, assisted by two small violin pupils, Kathie Taylor and Winnie Evans. Scott Medd gave several pretty vocal solos.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. W. H. Bradburn and Mrs. H. L. Fallis, both of whom spoke briefly. Mr. Bradburn thanked in hearty fashion the workers who had given him their loyal and efficient support in the recent campaign, and Mrs. Fallis also expressed her appreciation of the encouragement and help afforded by the women workers, and advised strongly the retaining of the present organization of feminine helpers.

A HAPPY TIME AT ST. ANDREW'S PICNIC

Yesterday, St. Andrew's Sunday School ran an excursion, per steamer Stoney Lake, to Harwood. The crowd, due to the rather inclement weather of the preceding evening, was not as large as usual, but all the picnickers had a most enjoyable time.

Baseball and races were the chief kinds of sports after dinner at Harwood.

Fat women's race—1, Mrs. Geo. Henderson; 2, Mrs. A. F. Allison.

Men's race—1, V. Foster; 2, F. E. Kerr.

The event that naturally attracted the greatest interest and attention was the fat women's race. It was felt that handicaps should be placed on the ladies to prevent too many entries. The field was therefore limited to those not more than seventy years of age and weighing not more than two hundred pounds. The word of the contestants had to be taken in these matters, but it seemed certain that no one could have been more than twenty years of age and their respective weights were well within the limit set. There were no limitations as to complexion, color of hair or nationality, although it might have been better to have excluded all professionals from the race, as it was evident that some of the ladies belonged to this class. They ran the twenty yards in less than three minutes, which gives a good idea of the terrific pace and the great powers of endurance of the runners. For the first five yards the most experienced of race-track gamblers would not have dared to hazard a guess as to the winner, but fleetness of foot, a lack of avoirdupois, a strong wind, and great powers of endurance must eventually tell in any race, and so gradually the winners gained a few inches on their less fortunate competitors and won out. The race was very close though, very exciting, and a severe strain on the nerves of the spectators. No runners in the Greek Stadium or Marathon ever performed just like these. If any other congregation thinks they have lady runners it would be advisable for them not to enter a contest with those of St. Andrew's if they wish to retain their self-conceit.

The sail home up the river was very pleasant, and altogether the outing was much enjoyed.

TROOPS STILL REMAINING IN STRIKE AREAS

No Immediate Action Contemplated by the Federal Authorities—Miners Issue Threat.

THE ACT FLOUTED

OTTAWA, July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — No immediate action is contemplated by the Federal Department of Labor in connection with the ultimatum issued by Cape Breton mine workers that they will cease work unless troops in Sydney strike area are withdrawn at once.

This announcement was made by Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, to-day. He pointed out that his department had nothing to do with the militia and that if Industrial Disputes Act had been flouted it was a matter for the Provincial authorities to deal with.

Troops will remain in the strike district until the local authorities express a desire to have them withdrawn.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 3.— (Canadian Press) Three hundred and fifty additional troops and seventy-four horses arrived here this morning by special train from London, Ont., and were immediately transferred to Col. Elkin's camp at Whitney pier. The night passed without further disturbance, although an unusually large number of people were about the streets. Miners have made no further sign of movement since their ultimatum of last night, which also included a threat that if troops and police are not withdrawn by midnight they will not only strike themselves, but call out the pump men and maintenance and repair men and leave the mines to drown.

Flying Squirrel Ends Flight at Incinerator

From Gull Lake to the Peterboro incinerator is a long flight, even for a flying squirrel. But Herb Routly vouches for the performance, which phenomenal as it was in every aspect, was more than extraordinary in some of its features.

Mr. Routly was motoring along the road that runs through the swamp the other side of Gull Lake last night, when this flying squirrel with something of the nature of a jay-walker in its make-up, took off from a tree alongside the road, probably for a last glide before turning in for the night, and floating through the gloaming, parachuted into the passing automobile and plumped with a soft thud against the cushion of the back seat, in the very midst of six dogs.

To the average citizen who never gets beyond the end of the pavement, and certainly never dreams of sauntering along the Gull Lake road, the flying squirrel (Pteromys volucilla) is in much the same class as the pink elephant and the purple rat. Both are more or less mythical, but they do say that pink elephants were more common than flying squirrels in these parts not so many years ago. Mr. Routly has not only seen rodents of the flying species but the evening he threw into the garbage can all that the six dogs left of the unlucky little intruder that gracefully zoomed across the Gull Lake road and floundered into that nest of dogs that had almost torn it to pieces before Mr. Routly had stopped the car and discovered the cause of the sudden disturbance.

And so that flying squirrel's final evening flight before turning in after the holiday, ended this morning at the incinerator, the first and probably the last of its kind to be publicly cremated.

REDUCTION IN NUMBER POLICE

General Victor Williams Declines to Commen—Possible Change in Situation.

TORONTO, July 3 — (Canadian Press). — General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, declined to comment this morning on a report from Windsor, Ont., that there would be a reduction in the number of liquor law enforcement officers in that district when the new Government took charge. However, the tendency around Queen's Park is to consider as premature speculation as to what the new Attorney-General will decide in this connection before it is known who will be given that portfolio in the new Ministry.

"The enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, or any other law, will be carried out by my force as the new Attorney-General suggests," said General Williams. "I take my instructions from the Attorney-General; it is up to him."

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE $32,000

St. Andrew's Sunday School and Seven Dwellings Double Last Month's Total.

Building permits for the month of June totalled $54,427, compared with $22,325 last month and $20,389 in June last year.

The most imposing item in the list for June is the alteration and enlarging of St. Andrew's Sunday School at an estimated cost of $30,000. Without this large item, the permits are within a few thousand dollars of both last month's and last year's totals.

Only 34 permits were taken out in June, of which seven were for dwelling-houses and nine for garages.

The largest dwelling is a 6-roomed building on Stewart Street, estimated at $6,000. Others are: McDonnel Street, $4,000; Bethune Street, $3,000; 213 Auburn Street, $2,850; 344 Donegal Street, $2,600; 4 Mark Street East, $1,500; and Lake Street, $1,200.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

NEW ORLEANS, July 3 — "Polly Alex" hasn't shouted for his cracker in thirty years. But his feathers keep on growing so fast they must be trimmed semi-annually. If they weren't, he wouldn't be able to sleep in peace in his present home—a glass case.

Alex, died in 1893. Mrs. George Spellman, who was his mistress, has a large box full of clippings from his tail and wings. Louisiana State ornithologists say it is the sole instance on record where nutriment in the quills has remained so long after death.

HUMAN GLANDS PUT PEP INTO THE PATIENTS

Twenty-eight Cases Followed Up and in Every Case Operation Was a Success.

A DOCTOR'S CLAIM

VIENNA, July 3. (Special.) — Human glands have been successfully transplanted from one person to another, Scout Ginzy to the man from whom the glands were taken, and with permanent rejuvenation of the receiver.

This is the claim of Dr. Robert Lichtenstern, pioneer in the gland transference, made in an interview with the United Press.

Twenty-eight cases of human gland transplanting have been followed up by the scientists. The patients were of all ages and in every case the operation was successful.

"Loss of glands means nothing to the man from whom they were taken but gives normal life to whom they were given," he said.

Dr. Lichtenstern said: "in 1915 I examined the first case, a man now 37 years old, who had been maimed, and developed all the characteristics of a glandless man. After the transplantation of glands all the symptoms disappeared, vitality was restored: the patient married a short time ago and is living a normal life.

"A second man operated on in 1918 by transplanting glands has regained all the marks of vitality, and is married."

Other operations of men varying in age have been successfully made since that time and in every case the object was accomplished.

OCTOGENARIAN IS STILL SHIP'S COOK

Noman Earle Has Been Around World More Times Than He Can Count.

MONTREAL, July 3.— Eighty years of age and still going strong.

Norman Earle, veteran cook of the Canada, has sailed the seven seas, been around the world more times than he can count and is still straight. Be the cook a beefsteak with any man, he says, and know the ins and outs of every port on the map.

This veteran cook and seaman mopped his brow as he told of his experiences from the kitchen to the higher altitudes when he took his first air journey two years ago. "There is nothing new about the kitchen," he said. Nor is there anything seductive about the air. Air and food are about the same. We cannot enjoy one without the other."

Around the world several times, Mr. Earle has seen many interesting characters in his day. He speaks seven languages. He has met and travelled with kings and queens, emperors and lords and dukes. He was married three times, and is the father of fifteen children. His first wife was a Dutch woman; his second an English woman, and the third a Russian. His boys are everything from soldiers to sailors. And his daughters, while some of them is married, one wears a veil.

Mr. Earle served with many lines and intends to retire shortly and spend the remainder of his years on dry earth.

"Though I love the ocean," he said, "I think I like it better than land. The best part of my life has been spent topping the waves and I enjoyed it."

Likes Jazz

And the old boy likes jazz. "It is the most encouraging music in the world," he said. "That is, it makes you try to feel gay and responsive whether you want to or not. There is nothing the matter with that."

During his life's voyaging, Mr. Earle, who is a bit of an antiquarian, took a liking for rings. Although he does not wear them all, he has one for every finger and toe. And he shuffled through a box and took out a motley selection. "they are all the best," he added. "And some of them are a great deal better than they look. One of them came from Russia, years ago. Before they got the Bolsheviki there. Of course he don't believe in jewellery. He is positively artificial enough. And the rest. Well, there is pretty nearly one from every country in the world. At least the principal ones."

Tells Fortunes Too

Apart from cooking feasts and making up those delicious plates that every cook prides himself in being able to do Mr. Earle is a psychological expert. He tells fortunes and reads fates. "And to look at me," he concluded, "one might imagine I was an applicant for a psychological examination if the length of years would not make that impossible. Old people never have their hands read. They know they are childish anyway."

CONDEMNS THE BOMBING OF A FRENCH TRAIN

Notes From the Vatican Explains Position—Action of Germans Disapproved.

INCIDENT CLOSED

ROME, July 3.—(Special). — Expressions of regret at the Vatican over the bombing of the Ruhr train, killing Belgian soldiers, were prompted by a desire to stress the impartiality of the Holy Father, it was said in political circles here today. The Pope desired to make clear his position against Germany in this instance to disapprove the accusations which had been made in France, following his recent letter advising the French evacuation of the Ruhr.

The Osservators Rommano officially states that the Pope transmitted the following message to Nuncio Pacelli in Berlin:

"While the Holy Father, by his previous letter, endeavored to induce the Powers to effect a friendly understanding and asked the abandonment of everything that might prevent it, he learns with profound regret the acts of sabotage being committed and also other crimes in the occupied territory under the guise of passive resistance.

The Holy Father instructs Your Excellency to act with energy, asking the German Government to condemn once and for all this criminal resistance as the Holy Father condemns it."

Semi-Official Note.

Following Sunday's conferences between French Ambassador Jonnart and both Pope Pius and Cardinal Gasparre, the Vatican State Chancery Monday issued the following semi-official note:

"The Pope is profoundly grieved by the many acts of sabotage by the Germans in territories occupied by France. His sorrow is all the more strong because these acts of sabotage are contrary to the principles of justice and charity which the Pope has steadily preached and which inspired his letter to Cardinal Gasparre.

"Vatican circles consider the France-Vatican incident closed by the long conversation between the Pope and Jonnart. The latter amply illustrated the spirit of his letter, fully confirming what he had written. The Pope is chiefly preoccupied by the fact that the suffering of the German people may facilitate the penetration of Bolshevism, the terrible consequences of which may be easily imagined."

WILL ELECTRIFY COBOURG LINES

Money Authorized by Parliament and the Senate

MONTREAL, July 3. Canadian Press. — Gerard Ruel, the chief counsel for the Canadian National Railways, stated to-day that the story to the effect that electrification of the system in the Toronto district would not be carried out because Parliament did not vote any money is incorrect. The bill which the Senate did not carry did not provide for electrification as it was provided for in a general bill for seventy three millions passed by the House and the Senate. The work will be proceeded with in due time.

It was learned from the local officials of the Canadian National today that it was expected a start will be made this week towards getting the necessary organization and service for the construction of the Toronto Eastern from Toronto to Bowmanville and Cobourg.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR HAS IMPROVED HEALTH

SOUTHAMPTON, July 3. — (United Press).—The British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Auckland Geddes, arrived here today in somewhat improved physical condition. He motored to his country home. He said he intends to return to America at the end of September. Sir Auckland is on leave because of ill-health.

Rockefeller Has Pretty Tough Time

PARIS, July 3.—(Special).—The fame of the Rockefellers as benefitors having spread through out Europe, until everyone here believes their bounty is to be had in unlimited quantities for the asking, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is having a hard time getting the rest for which he came to Paris.

Arriving last night Rockefeller was forced to slip away from the station incognito and go to a small hotel to avoid the throngs bent on applying to his generosity. "I came for a rest, but I am having a hard time getting it," John D. Jr. said.

Unemployment is At Minimum Here

Unemployment in the city is at a minimum, according to the reports of the Peterborough Branch of the Government Employment Bureau. Road work, building and laboring jobs have taken their quota of the unemployed, and only a few are registered for work on the Bureau's books.

A feature of the service is the great number of youths from the schools who are registering for summer work.

There are usually a number but this year an unprecedented call is being made for this work. The boys are a problem to the Bureau, as so few positions are suitable for them.

BELGIUM SENT ANOTHER NOTE

British Foreign Office is in Darkness as to Nature of Reply.

BRUSSELS, July 3.— (Canadian Press.)—The Belgian answer to the British questionnaire on the Franco-Belgian reparation policy has been sent to the Belgian Ambassador in London, who is expected to deliver it to Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, this afternoon. Up to 1.45 this afternoon no request had been received at the Foreign Office from Count Destaulaire, French Ambassador, for an appointment to meet Lord Curzon. It was assumed from this that the French reply to the questionaire might be delayed another day.

The British Foreign Office is in darkness as to whether the reply will be verbal or written. It is known that the British Cabinet would greatly favor having France commit herself on paper and thus afford Britain a record for the future. In the meantime the views held in British circles are anything but encouraging. It is pointed out that in neither his recent speeches nor his conversations has Premier Poincare indicated any intention of receding from France's determination to evacuate the Ruhr only when Germany has decided to meet the demands of France.

IMPORTS INCREASE EXPORTS SMALLER

Canada's Export Business in Agricultural Products Dropped Three Million Dollars.

OTTAWA, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Canada increased her imports of agricultural and vegetable products from the United States during the month of May as compared with the same month a year ago, but her exports of these commodities to the United States show a decrease in value of nearly three million dollars. Imports of agricultural products from the United States during May, 1923, were valued at $9,574,323, as compared with $6,921,150 in May, 1922. Exports declined from $5,930,307 in May, 1922, to $2,719,184 in the same month of the present year.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATED BY THE ROTARIANS

Thoughtful Address Upon Canadian Citizenship by Rev. A. J. Langford Features Luncheon.

ALONG NEW LINES

The Peterborough Rotary Club's weekly luncheon to-day was distinguished by several features appropriate to the celebration of Dominion Day, and the gathering was one of the most enjoyable held for some time.

A thoughtful and eloquent address along lines that fell somewhat out of the beaten path common to such speeches was delivered by Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, whose theme was Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Langford did not depend upon the trite platitudes about Canada's greatness in resources and possibilities that often form the stock-in-trade of orators to whom a patriotic subject has been allotted. On the other hand, he warned his hearers to beware of the fallacy that Canada had already reached nationhood, and to be careful not to believe that there was a mysterious evolution and progress going on that would of themselves, and without any sacrifice or endeavour on the part of the people, bring this country into a perfect state.

The speaker emphasised the necessity of making the Canadian flag stand for service rather than as the embodiment of the will to power, as an emblem of force and the desire to rule. He laid particular stress upon the need of the men and women of Canada so conducting their affairs and their business that they would be doing something to make their country a better place in which to live. The problems of race and geographical differences were pointed out by Mr. Langford as an example of the difficulties which beset Canada, and which challenged the sincere and wise efforts of the best of Canadian citizenship.

The address was full of thought-inducing advice, and was followed with the closest of attention by the Rotarians.

Miss Matthews Preston was heard to splendid advantage in several vocal numbers, her first selection being a rendition in French of "O Canada."

President McElderry expressed congratulations to the Boys' Camp Committee, and announced that the addition to the camp was finished, and that the first group of boys had gone out to Clear Lake yesterday.

Arrangements are being made to have the camp visited by the Rotarians.

Rotarians from out of town present to-day were E. A. Wilson of Lethbridge, formerly of Peterborough, and B. F. Kaufman of Springfield, O.

GEORGE STREET PAVING PROGRESSING SMOOTHLY

The paving of George street is progressing rapidly and smoothly. The grading has been completed over the whole stretch of street from the C.P.R. to Romaine street; all the material is on the ground, and the cement has been poured as the west side as far as Townsend street. Mr. John Carroll expressed himself as satisfied with the rate of progress but remarked that the street cars and the cramped conditions interfere somewhat with the work.

A call was received by the fire department at a few minutes after noon yesterday from Byers store on Chamberlain street where defective stove pipes had resulted in a small fire.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS IN PETERBORO WITH A MESSAGE FROM LEADER

Rev. H. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Castleton Refers to Spirit Which Solves Problems of the World.

TODAY'S SESSIONS

"I do believe that the Dominion of Canada is called of God to teach the far-flung nations of the world that what has been done here in the cementing together in an invisible obnd of nine great provinces whose differing problems of racial, religious economic and social aspect have not been allowed to interfere in any way with the one great family idea, that this same thing may be done elsewhere, that the spirit that has actuated the people of this Dominion for the last fifty-six years is spirit which solves the problems of the world in true true spirit of Jesus Christ" said Rev. H. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Castleton, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Summer School which opened at George Street Methodist church, with the singing of the inspiring hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The Summer School this year is meeting for the first time in its history in Peterboro with an attendance of about thirty students, to date, and some eight or ten ministers, making up in earnestness and enthusiasm what it lacks in numbers.

The prayers were led by Rev. G. E. Ross, M.A., of Mark Street Methodist church, and Rev. S. A. Kemp of Warkworth. The president's address followed an eloquent, forceful message, on "Religious Education and the National Vocation," "To the the material-minded," said the speaker, "the term, of a country's wealth were expressed in the wealth of its natural resources or in its physical area. To thoughtful men and women a nation's greatest contribution is in the calibre of its manhood and womanhood, in the quality of their souls and intellects."

Home Training

The importance of home training was emphasized also of the work of the school but the church also had a great contribution to make to the development of national life. As God called individuals to various works of life, did He not also call nations to various good deeds. In the history of the world, it was true that these nations that failed to illustrate the idea which God had committed to their care were doomed to destruction, for "God broke their sceptre and destroyed their people." The Hebrew people hoarded their knowledge and worship of God, and refused to give to other nations the truth he had discovered, and God broke their power so that is their slavery and bondage the truth might be given to their conquerors. Other parallels were afforded in the history of the Greeks and of the Romans.

The great ideal of the British Empire tends toward democracy and constitutional government and as high ideas of citizenship, "but if the British Empire fails to cherish these ideals and fails to disseminate them to the world, the shric of her power will be broken as God has broken the power of countless other nations since the beginning of time." To Canada, declared Mr. Richards, belonged the task of avoiding those pitfalls of evil which had been the destruction of other nations, and the liberation of the twin ideas of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man to other nations of the world, that the League of Nations might be enabled to be a workable force, solving its problems in the light of the teachings of Jesus Christ.

To-Day's Session

This morning's session whose session are presided over by Rev. R. T. Richards, opened with Bible Study, led by the Secretary, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, B.A., B.D., of Little Britain, whose subject was "The preparation of Jesus for His Work." Mr. McCutcheon spoke of the personality of the Saviour, of the atmosphere which ruled the world in which he was born and reared; the looking of the people toward a Saviour; of His childhood, with particular reference to the Temple incident with Jesus' perception that spiritual things were the most important in the businesses of the world; and of His baptism, as significant of His definite choice and consecration to His work.

"Local Church Problems," was a subject handled in vigorous, interesting manner by Rev. G. J. Campbell, of the Evangelism and Social Service Department, Toronto, at this morning's session. Mr. Campbell drew a parallel between a fanatic parable about 'spiders' which spread the premises surrounding an absentee congregation, or the 'cleanest of the pulpit' under a tax manner, and the young people's societies which lacked life and enthusiasm. "It is better to close up those meeting-places and go away from them altogether than to go along in a haphazard manner," declared the speaker, the key-note of whose address was preparedness in the many different activities of the church life.

MEDICAL SKILL A COURT ISSUE

Counsel for Defense in Delorme Case Raises an Objection.

MONTREAL, July 3 (Canadian Press). — That it is beyond the competence of medical authorities to establish that stains on the automobile cushions taken from the car of Abbe Delorme were human blood, and that consequently such evidence was not only valueless, but it also placed the accused under an "intolerable burden," was the contention of C. H. Cahan, K.C., one of the counsel for the defence this morning when the trial of Father Adelarde Delorme, indicted for the murder of his half-brother, Raoul Delrume, was resumed.

Mr. Cahan was cross-examining Dr. Derome.

On being told by the Crown Prosecutor Calder that it was the Crown's intention to prove by Dr. Derome that certain stains on the cushion produced were stains of human blood, counsel for the defence entered an objection, and asked Chief Justice Lemieux to find a rule of law that in the present condition of scientific knowledge it was impossible for any known scientists by any test now known to science to differentiate that stains on cloth are stains of human blood.

Counsel quoted from various authorities to support his objection, and suggested that Dr. Derome, whatever may be said on his favour, may have limited experience in the application of tests. It was impossible for the accused, said Mr. Cahan, owing to absolute lack of financial resources, to bring experts from abroad to meet even the evidence of Dr. Derome. He asked, therefore, that his evidence be not placed before the jury.

Combating the argument of defence counsel, Crown Prosecutor Calder declared that since the authorities quoted had written their books, medical science had made progress and instanced the discovery of insulin as an example of what had been done in the past year. Dr. Derome, he said, had been on the spot when the stains were found fresh, and he contended that His Lordship could not throw out the evidence.

VETERANS WELFARE OBJECT GATHERING

System Of Community Service Sought By Convention.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3. — (Canadian Press).—An efficient system of community service which will benefit any British veteran of the world war is the objective of officials who are gathered here for the annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association. This morning about 300 delegates were registered for the convention proper, and three thousand ex-soldiers for the annual reunion which is being held here in conjunction with the convention proper. Five days of strenuous work confronts the delegates.

Labor and trade conditions in any part of Canada will be indexed from time to time. And other information calculated to be of value to veterans would be added, and this information will be broadcasted for the benefit of ex-service men throughout the British Empire. Members of the G.W.V.A. will be entitled to all the privileges of any other Command of the organization in Canada. Convenience and welfare of veterans will be the first consideration under the system which is being drafted by the Re-organization Committee.

All He Wore Was Smile

Whoopee! Every fire-plug in Chicago brings joy to kiddies these hot days. The improvised shower-bath idea was started last year in New York, and has since spread all over the country.

BOOTLEG IMMIGRATION IS BAD AS BOOTLEG BOOZE

Army and Navy Together Could Not Stop Smuggling—Helpless Foreigners Shot Down By Mexicans.

NEW YORK, July 3. (United Press)—"Bootleg" immigration and "Bootleg" liquor sometimes go hand in hand, says the Foreign Language Information Service.

The service says its expose of foreign "bootleg" immigration ring is borne out by the investigation conducted of the recent arrival in New York harbor of a mysterious schooner, with 75 Chinese aboard. It was testified that each Chinese paid the captain of the Mary Beatrice $500 on promise to land the "bootleg immigrants" in the United States. The story told by the Chinese was that the captain also had a cargo of "bootleg" booze, and that he took the "bootleg" booze on shore, but left the "bootleg" Chinese. In the battle that followed, nine were killed and several others badly hurt.

The Federal government got into the investigation when Secretary of Labor Davis told President Harding and the Cabinet that there are 5,000 Chinese coolies in New York City, that have sneaked in as 'sailors,' and to deport whom will cost the government $1,000,000, Secretary of Labor Davis recently told President Harding and the Cabinet.

Davis said the whole army and navy could watch the coast of the United States without preventing the "bootlegging" of immigrants, including Chinese. The 5,000 coolies now in New York came in as members of ships crews, dived overboard at night, and hid in Chinatown, Davis said. It is difficult to ferret them out and expensive to deport them, costing $500 a piece to send them back to China.

The Foreign Language Information Service also has been investigating the Mexican borders where "bootleg" immigration thrives.

On Mexican Border

"Beware of Mexico and of immigrant smuggling" wrote Inspector Camilo Trazivuk at the end of a sensational report on the robbery and massacre of a party of Italians who tried to enter the country illegally near Nuevo Laredo.

Of seven Italians who tried to run the gauntlet from Mexico, U. S. Inspector Trazivuk wrote:

"These poor fellows gave themselves up to some Mexicans in the hope that they would be taken successfully across the river to the American side. Late in the evening the Mexicans took the Italians from Nuevo Laredo to another town near the river. When they reached the bank of the river the highwaymen ordered the immigrants to take off their clothes and wade across. The immigrants paid $10 each to their guides, but the robbers were not satisfied; they knew that the helpless aliens had more money about their persons, so they opened fire and killed six of the Italians.

Found the Bodies

"The seventh one, although wounded, saved his life by running. This survivor, Giovanni Lerraro, related his experience to the authorities, and four days later the bodies of his companions were found floating in the river.

"I am stating this terrible case so it may serve as a warning to Jugoslav immigrants not to try to smuggle themselves into this country. Many have lost their lives of whom nothing will ever be known. Beware of Mexico and of immigrant smuggling."

Bearing upon the plight of those marooned in Cuba, hereis the cry of Stefan Gabian:

"After the invasion of our country and the regin of terror and plunder, thousands of our people had to leave the native land and look for salvation abroad. Agents made the most of our situation and brought us to Cuba. Nearly a thousand of our people wander about here, starving and bewildered. Many of our people had fallen ill. If no help comes to deliver us, I think we shall all perish here. Every cent has been taken from us and we cannot get away from here. But there is no help and no one to advise us.

Eat From Gutter

"The population of Cuba looks upon us with suspicion and contempt. And indeed, they may well despise us when they see how the wretched Ukrainians, men and women, pick from the streets and gutters the dirty leavings thrown out from the stores and restaurants."

Evidence of organized conspiracy in Europe to fleece the immigrant and to violate the immigration and passport laws has come to the Italian, Jugoslav, Czechoslovak, Finnish and Lithuanian bureaus of the Foreign Language Information Service. Some of this evidence points toward the complicity of a well-known steamship agent in Lithuania, while many arrests have recently been made in Adriatic ports of persons engaged in selling bogus passports to persons anxious to enter the United States.

From Prague comes the story of shysters who hang about the American consulate with private "tips" about Cuba and Canada for sale to persons who have been refused passport visas by the consul.

TROOPS STILL REMAINING IN STRIKE AREAS

No Immediate Action Contemplated by the Federal Authorities—Miners Issue Threat.

THE ACT FLOUTED

OTTAWA, July 3.— (Canadian Press.) — No immediate action is contemplated by the Federal Department of Labor in connection with the ultimatum issued by Cape Breton mine workers that they will cease work unless troops in Sydney strike area are withdrawn at once.

This announcement was made by Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, to-day. He pointed out that his department had nothing to do with the militia and that if Industrial Disputes Act had been flouted it was a matter for the Provincial authorities to deal with.

Troops will remain in the strike district until the local authorities express a desire to have them withdrawn.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 3.— (Canadian Press) Three hundred and fifty additional troops and seventy-four horses arrived here this morning by special train from London, Ont., and were immediately transferred to Col. Elkin's camp at Whitney pier. The night passed without further disturbance, although an unusually large number of people were about the streets .Miners have made no further sign of movement since their ultimatum of last night, which also included a threat that if troops and police are not withdrawn by midnight they will not only strike themselves, but call out the pump men and maintenance men and leave the mines to drown.

Flying Squirrel Ends Flight at Incinerator

From Gull Lake to the Peterboro incinerator is a long flight, even for a flying squirrel. But Herb Routly vouches for the performance, which phenomenal as it was in every aspect, was more than extraordinary in some of its features.

Mr. Routly was motoring along the road that runs through the swamp the other side of Gull Lake last night, when this flying squirrel with something of the nature of a jay-walker in its make-up, took off from a tree alongside the road, probably for a last glide before turning in for the night, and floating through the gloaming, parachuted into the passing automobile and plumped with a soft thud against the cushion of the back seat, in the very midst of six dogs.

To the average citizen who never gets beyond the end of the pavement, and certainly never dreams of sauntering along the Gull Lake road, the flying squirrel (Pteromys volucilla) is in much the same class as the pink elephant and the purple rat. Both are more or less mythical, but they do say that pink elephants were more common than flying squrrels in these parts not so many years ago. Mr. Routly has not only seen rodents of the flying species but this morning he threw into the garbage can all that the six logs left of the unlucky little intruder that gracefully zoomed across the Gull Lake road and floundered into that nest of dogs that had almost torn it to pieces before Mr. Routly had stopped the car and discovered the cause of the sudden disturbance.

And so that flying squirrel's final evening flight before turning in after the holiday, ended this morning at the incinerator, the first and probably the last of its kind to be publicly cremated.

REDUCTION IN NUMBER POLICE

General Victor Williams Declines to Commen- Possible Change in Situation.

TORONTO, July 3 — (Canadian Press). — General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, declined to comment this morning on a report from Windsor, Ont., that there would be a reduction in the number of liquor law enforcement officers in that district when the new Government took charge. However, the tendency around Queen's Park is to consider as premature speculation as to what the new Attorney-General will decide in this connection before it is known who will be given that portfolio in the new Ministry.

"The enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, or any other law, will be carried out by my force as the new Attorney-General suggests," said General Williams. "I take my instructions from the Attorney-General; it is up to him."

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE $32,000

St. Andrew's Sunday School and Seven Dwellings Double Last Month's Total.

Building permits for the month of June totalled $54,427, compared with $22,325 last month and $29,389 in June last year.

The most imposing item in the list for June is the alteration and enlarging of St. Andrew's Sunday School at an estimated cost of $30,000. Without this large item, the permits are within a few thousand dollars of both last month's and last year's totals.

Only 34 permits were taken out in June, of which seven were for dwelling-houses and nine for garages.

The largest dwelling is a 6-roomed building on Stewart Street, estimated at $6,000. Others are: McDonnel Street, $4,000; Bethune Street, $3,000; 212 Auburn Street, $2,850; 544 Donegal Street, $2,000; 4 Mark Street East, $1,500; and Lake Street, $1,200.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

NEW ORLEANS, July 3. — "Polly Alex" hasn't shouted for his cracker in thirty years. But his feathers keep on growing so fast they must be trimmed semi-annually. If they weren't, he wouldn't be able to sleep in peace in his present home—a glass case.

Alex. died in 1893. Mrs. George Spellman, who was his mistress, has a large box full of clippings from his tail and wings. Louisiana State ornithologists say it is the only instance on record where nutriment in the quills has remained so long after death.

HUMAN GLANDS PUT PEP INTO THE PATIENTS

Twenty-eight Cases Followed Up and in Every Case Operation Was a Success.

A DOCTOR'S CLAIM

VIENNA, July 3. (Special.) — Human glands have been successfully transplanted from one person to another without injury to the man from whom the glands were taken, and with permanent rejuvenation of the receiver.

This is the claim of Dr. Robert Lichtenstern, pioneer in the gland transference, made in on interview with the United Press.

Twenty-eight cases of human gland transplanting have been followed by the scientists. The patients were of all ages and in every case the operation was successful.

"Loss of glands means nothing to the man from whom they were taken but gives normal life to whom they were given," he said.

Dr. Lichtenstern said: "in 1915 I examined the first case, a man now 37 years old, who had been maimed, and developed all the characteristics of a glandless man. After the transplantation of glands all the symptoms disappeared, vitality was restored: the patient married a short time ago and is living a normal life.

"A second man operated on in 1918 by transplanting glands has regained all the marks of vitality, and is married."

Other operations of men varying in age have been successfully made since that time and in every case the object was accomplished.

OCTOGENARIAN IS STILL SHIP'S COOK

Noman Earne Has Been Around World More Times Than He Can Count.

MONTREAL, July 3.— Eighty years of age and still going strong.

Norman Earle, veteran cook of the Canada, has sailed the seven seas, been around the world more times than he can count and is still straight. He can cook a beefsteak with any man, he says, and knows the ins and outs of every port on the map.

This veteran cook and seaman mopped his brow as he told of his experiences from the kitchen to the higher altitudes when he took his first air journey two years ago. "There is nothing low about the kitchen," he said. "Nor is there anything seclusive about the air. Air and food are about the same. We cannot enjoy one without the other."

Around the world several times, Mr. Earle has seen many interesting characters in his day. He speaks seven languages. He has met and travelled with kings and queens, emperors and lords and dukes. He was married three times, and is the father of fifteen children. His first wife was a Dutch woman; his second an English woman, and the third a Russian. His boys are everything from soldiers to sailors. And his daughters, while none of them is married, one wears a veil.

Mr. Earle served with many lines and intends to retire shortly and spend the remainder of his years on dry earth.

"Though I love the ocean," he said, "I think I like it better than land. The best part of my life has been spent topping the waves and I enjoyed it."

Likes Jazz

And the old boy likes jazz. "It is the most encouraging music in the world," he said. "That is, it makes you try to feel gay and responsive whether you want to or not. There is nothing the matter with that."

During his life's voyaging, Mr. Earle, who is a bit of an antiquarian, took a liking for rings. Although he does not wear them all, he has one for every finger and toe. And he shuffled through a box and took out a motley selection, "they are all the best," he added. "And some of them are a great deal better than they look. One of them came from Russia, years ago. Before they got the Bolsheviki there. Of course he don't believe in jewellery. He is positively artificial enough. And the rest. Well, there is pretty nearly one from every country in the world. At least the principal ones."

Tells Fortunes Too

Apart from cooking hashes and making up those delicious plates that every cook prides himself in being able to do Mr. Earle is a psychological expert. He tells fortunes and reads fates. "And to look at me," he concluded, "one might imagine I was an applicant for a psychological examination if the length of years would not make that impossible. Old people never have their heads read. They know they are childish anyway."

CONDEMNS THE BOMBING OF A FRENCH TRAIN

Notes From the Vatican Explains Position—Action of Germans Disapproved.

INCIDENT CLOSED

ROME, July 3.—(Special). — Expressions of regret at the Vatican over the bombing of the Ruhr train, killing Belgian soldiers, were prompted by a desire to stress the impartiality of the Holy Father, it was said in political circles here today. The Pope desired to make clear his position against Germany in this instance to disapprove the accusations which had been made in France, following his recent letter advising the French evacuation of the Ruhr.

The Osservatore Rommano officially states that the Pope transmitted the following message to Nuncio Pacelli in Berlin:

"While the Holy Father, by his previous letter, endeavored to induce the Powers to effect a friendly understanding and asked the abandonment of everything that might prevent it, he learns with profound regret the acts of sabotage being committed and also other crimes in the occupied territory under the guise of passive resistance.

The Holy Father instructs Your Excellency to act with energy, asking the German Government to condemn once and for all this criminal resistance as the Holy Father condemns it."

Semi-Official Note.

Following Sunday's conference between French Ambassador Jonnart and both Pope Pius and Cardinal Gasparre, the Vatican State Chancery Monday issued the following semi-official note:

"The Pope is profoundly grieved by the many acts of sabotage by the Germans in territories occupied by France. His sorrow is all the more strong because these acts of sabotage are contrary to the principles of justice and charity which the Pope has steadily preached and which inspired his letter to Cardinal Gasparre.

"Vatican circles consider the Franco-Vatican incident closed by the long conversation between the Pope and Jonnart. The latter amply illustrated the spirit of his letter, fully confirming what he had written. The Pope is chiefly preoccupied by the fact that the suffering of the German people may facilitate the penetration of Bolshevism, the terrible consequences of which may be easily imagined."

WILL ELECTRIFY COBOURG LINES

Money Authorized by Parliament and the Senate

MONTREAL, July 3. Canadian Press. — Gerard Ruel, the chief counsel for the Canadian National Railways, stated to-day that the story to the effect that electrification of the system in the Toronto district would not be carried out because Parliament did not vote any money is incorrect. The bill which the Senate did not carry did not provide for electrification as it was provided for in a general bill for seventy three millions passed by the House and the Senate. The work will be proceeded with in due time

It was learned from the local officials of the Canadian National today that it was expected a start will be made this week towards getting the necessary organization and service for the construction of the Toronto Eastern from Toronto to Bowmanville and Cobourg.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR HAS IMPROVED HEALTH

SOUTHAMPTON, July 3. — (United Press).—The British Ambassador to the United States, Sir Auckland Geddes, arrived here today in a somewhat improved physical condition. He motored to his country home. He said he intends to return to America at the end of September. Sir Auckland is on leave because of ill-health.

Rockefeller Has Pretty Tough Time

PARIS, July 3.—(Special).— The fame of the Rockfellers as benefiters having spread through out Europe until everyone here believes their bounty is to be had in unlimited quantities for the asking, John D. Rockfeller, Jr., is having a hard time getting the rest for which he came to Paris.

Arriving last night Rockefeller was forced to slip away from the station incognito and go to a small hotel to avoid the throngs bent on applying to his generosity. "I came for a rest, but I am having a hard time getting it," John D. Jr. said.

Unemployment is At Minimum Here

Unemployment in the city is at a minimum, according to the reports of the Peterborough Branch of the Government Employment Bureau. Road work, building and laboring jobs have taken their quota of the unemployed, and only a few are registered for work on the Bureau's books.

A feature of the service is the great number of youths from the schools who are registering for summer work.

There are usually a number but this year an unprecedented call is being made for this work. The boys are a problem to the Bureau, as so few positions are suitable for them.

BELGIUM SENT ANOTHER NOTE

British Foreign Office is in Darkness as to Nature of Reply.

BRUSSELS, July 3.— (Canadian Press.)—The Belgian answer to the British questionnaire on the Franco-Belgian reparation policy has been sent to the Belgian Ambassador in London, who is expected to deliver it to Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, this afternoon. Up to 1.45 this afternoon no request had been received at the Foreign Office from Count Destaulaire, French Ambassador, for an appointment to meet Lord Curzon. It was assumed from this that the French reply to the questionaire might be delayed another day.

The British Foreign Office is in darkness as to whether the reply will be verbal or written. It is known that the British Cabinet would greatly favor having France commit herself on paper and thus afford Britain a record for the future. In the meantime the views held in British circles are anything but encouraging. It is pointed out that in neither his recent speeches nor his conversations has Premier Poincare indicated any intention of receding from France's determination to evacuate the Ruhr only when Germany has decided to meet the demands of France.

IMPORTS INCREASE EXPORTS SMALLER

Canada's Export Business in Agricultural Products Dropped Three Million Dollars.

OTTAWA, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—Canada increased her imports of agricultural and vegetable products from the United States during the month of May as compared with the same month a year ago, but her exports of these commodities to the United States show a decrease in value of nearly three million dollars. Imports of agricultural products from the United States during May, 1923, were valued at $8,574,523, as compared with $6,921,159 in May, 1922. Exports declined from $5,520,397 in May, 1922, to $2,719,184 in the same month of the present year.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATED BY THE ROTARIANS

Thoughtful Address Upon Canadian Citizenship by Rev. A. J. Langford Features Luncheon.

ALONG NEW LINES

The Peterborough Rotary Club's weekly luncheon to-day was distinguished by several features appropriate to the celebration of Dominion Day, and the gathering was one of the most enjoyable held for some time.

A thoughtful and eloquent address along lines that fell somewhat out of the beaten path common to such speeches was delivered by Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, whose theme was Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Langford did not depend upon the trite platitudes about Canada's greatness in resources and possibilities that often form the stock-in-trade of orators to whom a patriotic subject has been allotted. On the other hand, he warned his hearers to beware of the fallacy that Canada had already reached nationhood, and to be careful not to believe that there was a mysterious evolution and progress going on that would of themselves, and without any sacrifice or endeavour on the part of the people, bring this country into a perfect state.

The speaker emphasised the necessity of making the Canadian flag stand for service rather than as the embodiment of the will to power, as an emblem of force and the desire to rule. He laid particular stress upon the need of the men and women of Canada so conducting their affairs and their business that they would be doing something to make their country a better place in which to live. The problems of race and geographical differences were pointed out by Mr. Langford as an example of the difficulties which beset Canada, and which challenged the sincere and wise efforts of the best of Canadian citizenship.

The address was full of thought-inducing advice, and was followed with the closest of attention by the Rotarians.

Miss Mathilde Masson was heard to splendid advantage in several vocal numbers, her first selection being a rendition in French of "O Canada."

President McElderry expressed congratulations to the Boys' Camp Committee, and announced that the addition to the camp was finished, and that the first quota of boys had gone out to Clear Lake yesterday.

Arrangements are being made to have the camp visited by the Rotarians.

Rotarians from out of town present to-day were E. A. Wilson of Lethbridge, formerly of Peterborough, and B. F. Kaufman of Springfield, O.

GEORGE STREET PAVING PROGRESSING SMOOTHLY

The paving of George street is progressing rapidly and smoothly. The grading has been completed over the whole stretch of street from the C.P.R to Romaine street; all the material is on the ground, and the cement has been poured on the west side as far as Townsend street. Mr. John Carroll expressed himself as satisfied with the rate of progress but remarked that the street cars and the cramped conditions interfere somewhat with the work.

SMALL FIRE YESTERDAY

A call was received by the fire department at a few minutes after noon yesterday from Byers store on Chamberlain street where defective stove pipes had resulted in a small fire.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS IN PETERBORO WITH A MESSAGE FROM LEADER

Rev. H. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Castleton Refers to Spirit Which Solves Problems of the World.

TODAY'S SESSIONS

"I do believe that the Dominion of Canada is called of God to teach the far-flung nations of the world that what has been done here in the cementing together in an invisible obnd of nine great provinces whose differing problems of racial, religious economic and social aspect have not ben allowed to interfere in any way with the one great family idea, that this same thing may be done elsewhere, that the spirit that has actuated the people of this Dominion for the last fifty-six years is spirit which solves the problems of the world in true true spirit of Jesus Christ" said Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Castleton, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Summer School which opened at George Street Methodist church, with the singing of the inspiring hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The Summer School this year meeting for the first time in its history in Peterboro with an attendance of about thirty students to date, and some eight or ten ministers, makes up in earnestness and enthusiasm what it lacks in numbers.

The prayers were led by Rev. G. E. Ross, M.A. of Mark Street Methodist church, and Rev. S. A. Kemp of Warkworth. The president's address followed an eloquent, forceful message, on "Religious Education and the National Vocation." "To the the material-minded," said the speaker, "the term of a country's wealth were expressed in the wealth of its natural resources or in its physical area. To thoughtful men and women a nation's greatest contribution is in the calibre of its manhood and womanhood, in the quality of their souls and intellects."

Home Training

The importance of home training was emphasized also of the work of the school but the church also had a real contribution to make to the development of national life. As God called individuals to various walks of life, did He not also call nations to various good deeds. In the history of the world, it was true that these nations that failed to liberate the idea which God had committed to their care were doomed to destruction, for "God broke their fabric and destroyed their people." The Hebrew people hoarded their knowledge and worship of God, and refused to give to other nations the truth the had discovered, and God broke their power so that in their slavery and bondage the truth might be given to their conquerors. Other parallels were afforded in the history of the Greeks and of the Romans.

The great ideal of the British Empire tends toward democracy and constitutional government and to high ideas of citizenship, "but if the British Empire fails to cherish these ideals and fails to disseminate them to the world, the abric of her power will be broken as God has broken the power of countless other nations since the beginning of time." To Canada, declared Mr. Richards, belonged the task of avoiding those pitfalls of evil which had been the destruction of other nations, and the liberation of the twin ideas of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man to other nations of the world, that the League of Nations might be enabled to be a workable force, solving its problems in the light of the teachings of Jesus Christ

To-Day's Session

This morning's session whose session are presided over by Rev. R. T. Richards, opened with Bible Study, led by the Secretary, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, B.A. B.D., of Little Britain, whose subject was "The preparation of Jesus for His Work." Mr. McCutcheon spoke of the personality of the Saviour, of the atmosphere which ruled the world in which he was born and reared; the looking of the people toward a Saviour; of His childhood, with particular reference to the Temple incident with Jesus' perception that spiritual things were the most important of the businesses of the world; and of His baptism, as significant of His definite choice and consecration to His work.

"Local Church Problems," was a subject handled in vigorous, interesting manner by Rev. G. I. Campbell, of the Evangelism and Social Service Department, Toronto, at this morning's session. Mr. Campbell drew a parallel between a fantastic parable about 'spiders' which occupied the premises surrounding an inactive congregation, or the "legs of the pulpit" under a lax minister, and the young people's societies which lacked life and enthusiasm. "It is better to close up those meeting-places and go away from them altogether than to go along in a haphazard manner," declared the speaker, the key-note of whose address was preparedness in the many different activities of the church's life.

He was rather severe on some church programmes; on the too-long prayers offered; the anthems

MEDICAL SKILL A COURT ISSUE

Counsel for Defense in Delorme Case Raises an Objection.

MONTREAL, July 3 (Canadian Press). — That it is beyond the competence of medical authorities to establish that stains on the automobile cushions taken from the car of Abbe Delorme were human blood, and that consequently such evidence was not only valueless, but it also placed the accused under an "intolerable burden," was the contention of C. H. Cahan, K.C., one of the counsel for the defence this morning when the trial of Father Adelarde Delorme, indicted for the murder of his half-brother, Raoul Delrome, was resumed.

Mr. Cahan was cross-examining Dr. Derome.

On being told by the Crown Prosecutor Calder that it was the Crown's intention to prove by Dr. Derome that certain stains on the cushion produced were stains of human blood, counsel for the defence entered an objection, and asked Chief Justice Lemieux to find a rule of law that in the present condition of scientific knowledge it was impossible for any known scientists by any test now known to science to determine that stains on cloth are stains of human blood.

Counsel quoted from various authorities to support his objection, and suggested that Dr. Derome, whatever may be said in his favour, may have limited experience in the application of tests. It was impossible for the accused, said Mr. Cahan, owing to absolute lack of financial resources, to bring experts from abroad to meet even the evidence of Dr. Derome. He asked, therefore, that his evidence be not placed before the jury.

Combating the argument of defence counsel, Crown Prosecutor Calder declared that since the authorities quoted had written their books, medical science had made progress, and instanced the discovery of insulin as an example of what had been done in the past year. Dr. Derome, he said, had been on the spot when the stains were found fresh, and he contended that His Lordship could not throw out the evidence.

System Of Community Service Sought By Convention.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3. — (Canadian Press).—An efficient system of community service which will benefit any British veteran of the world war is the objective of officials who are gathered here for the annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association. This morning about 350 delegates were registered for the convention proper, and three thousand ex-soldiers lent support of their presence at the annual re-union which is being held here in conjunction with the convention proper. Five days of strenuous work confronts the delegates.

Labor and trade conditions in any part of Canada will be indexed from time to time. And other information calculated to be of value to veterans would be added, and this information will be broadcasted for the benefit of ex-service men throughout the British Empire. Members of the G.W.V.A. will be entitled to all the privileges of any other Command of the organization in Canada. Convenience and welfare of veterans will be the first consideration under the system which is being drafted by the Re-organization Committee.

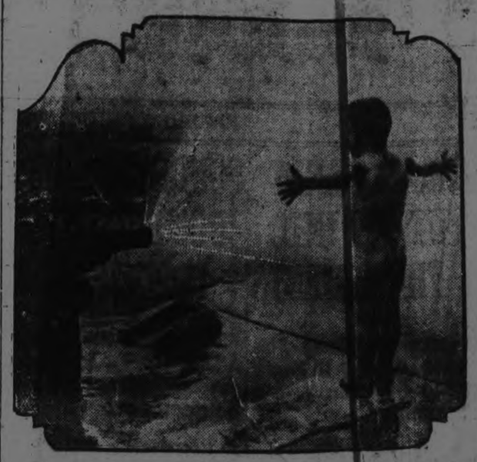
All He Wore Was a Smile



Whoopee! Every fire-plug in Chicago brings joy to kiddies these hot days. The improvised shower-bath idea was started last year in New York, and has since spread all over the country.

BOOTLEG IMMIGRATION IS BAD AS BOOTLEG BOOZE

Army and Navy Together Could Not Stop Smuggling—Helpless Foreigners Shot Down By Mexicans.

NEW YORK, July 3 (United Press).—"Bootleg" immigration and "Bootleg" liquor sometimes go hand in hand, says the Foreign Language Information Service.

The service says its expose of foreign "bootleg" immigration ring is borne out by the investigation conducted of the recent arrival in New York harbor of a mysterious schooner, with 15 Chinese aboard. It was testified that each Chinese paid the captain of the Mary Beatrice $500 on promise to land the "bootleg immigrants" in the United States. The story told by the Chinese was that the captain also had a cargo of "bootleg" booze, and that he took the "bootleg" booze on shore, but left the "bootleg" Chinese. In the battle that followed, nine were killed and several others badly hurt.

The Federal government got into the investigation when Secretary of Labor Davis told President Harding and the Cabinet that there are 5,000 Chinese coolies in New York City, that have sneaked in as 'sailors,' and to deport whom will cost the government $1,000,000, Secretary of Labor Davis recently told President Harding and the Cabinet.

Davis said the whole army and navy could watch the coast of the United States without preventing the "bootlegging" of immigrants, including Chinese. The 5,000 coolies now in New York came in as members of ships crews, dived overboard at night, and hid in Chinatown, Davis said. It is difficult to ferret them out and expensive to deport them, costing $200 a piece to send them back to China.

The Foreign Language Information Service also has been investigating the Mexican borders, where "bootleg" immigration thrives.

On Mexican Border

"Beware of Mexico and of immigrant smuggling," wrote Inspector Danilo Trazivuk at the end of a sensational report on the robbery and massacre of a party of Italians who tried to enter the country illegally near Nuevo Laredo.

Of seven Italians who tried to run the gauntlet from Mexico, U. S. Inspector Trazivuk wrote:

"These poor fellows gave themselves up to some Mexicans in the hope that they would be taken successfully across the river to the American side. Late in the evening the Mexicans took the Italians from Nuevo Laredo to another town near the river. When they reached the bank of the river the highwaymen ordered the immigrants to take off their clothes and wade across. The immigrants paid $10 each to their guides, but the robbers were not satisfied; they knew that the helpless aliens had more money about their persons, so they opened fire and killed six of the Italians.

Found the Bodies

"The seventh one, although wounded, saved his life by running. This survivor, Giovanni Lerraro, related his experience to the authorities, and four days later the bodies of his companions were found floating in the river.

"I am stating this terrible case so it may serve as a warning to Jugoslav immigrants not to try to smuggle themselves into this country. Many have lost their lives of whom nothing will ever be known. Beware of Mexico and of immigrant smuggling."

Bearing upon the plight of those marooned in Cuba, here is the cry of Stefan Gabian:

"After the invasion of our country and the regin of terror and plunder, thousands of our people had to leave the native land and look for salvation abroad. Agents made use most of our situation and brought us to Cuba. Nearly a thousand of our people wander about here, starving and bewildered. Many of our people have fallen ill. If no help comes to deliver us, I think we shall all perish here. Every cent has been taken from us and we cannot get away from here. But there is no help and no one to advise us.

Eat From Gutter

"The population of Cuba looks upon us with suspicion and contempt. And indeed, they may well despise us when they see how the wretched Ukrainians, men and women, pick from the streets and gutters the dirty leavings thrown out from the stores and restaurants."

Evidence of organized conspiracy in Europe to fleece the immigrant and to violate the immigration and passport laws has come to the Italian, Jugoslav, Czechoslovak, Finnish and Lithuanian bureaus of the Foreign Language Information Service. Some of this evidence points toward the complicity of a well-known steamship agent in Lithuania, while many arrests have recently been made in Adriatic ports of persons engaged in selling bogus passports to persons anxious to enter the United States.

From Prague comes the story of shysters who hang about the American consulate with private "tips" about Cuba and Canada for sale to persons who have been refused passport visas by the consul.

TWO STEAMERS WERE WRECKED NEAR MARVALE

The Rocky Shores of Newfoundland Have Claimed Two More Victims From the Sea.

CREWS SAFE.

HALIFAX, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Two freight steamers, both reported to be laden with coal, were lost on the shores of St. Mary's Bay, Newfoundland, on Sunday, according to word received in Halifax yesterday. They were the Norwegian steamer, O. A. Knudsen, 3,532 gross tons, and the French craft Banba, 492 net tons.

The crews of both steamers, which are reported to be total wrecks, landed safely. The O. A. Knudsen and the Banba stranded five and seven miles respectively north of where the Canadian Pacific liner Marvale came to grief recently.

The Norwegian steamer struck on Gull Island, and was reported Sunday as being submerged aft, but with her bridge and bow above water. She is regarded as a probable total loss.

The Banba struck in Broad Cove at four o'clock Sunday afternoon and is partly submerged.

While no mention was made as to the cause of the stranding, it is believed that the steamers stranded during the dense fog which has enshrouded the Newfoundland coast for several days. Last reported as sailing from New York on June 21 for Sydney, the O. A. Knudsen, commanded by Captain Kolsto, was either bound to Newfoundland or to a transatlantic port. She was built at Stockton in 1917. She is registered at Saughesund.

In available shipping records the Banba is last reported as sailing from Sydney on May 26 for the Clyde and arriving there June 8, sailing on June 17 for the United States.

Canadian Passengers in Train Collision.

CHERBOURG, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—A special train with 150 passengers on board from the steamer Andania, from Montreal, June 23, collided yesterday with a stationary train at Caen, owing to a signalman's mistake. The shock was a violent one and many persons on the stationary train were injured, but no one on the Andania special was hurt. The boat train continued to its destination shortly afterward.

Indians of the plains made spoons, caps, combs, bows and head dresses from buffalo horns.

French Farmers Blame Radio For Bad Weather.

PARIS, July 3.—Weather experts are deluged with letters from farmers and peasants, who bitterly complain that the cold, rainy weather of the last three months in France is due to wireless. Without giving any reason for the charge, a farmer writes: "The bad weather of the last few years unquestionably is due to wireless." He suggests that broadcasting be forbidden.

Another suggests farmers refuse to sow crops this year unless broadcasting ceases. Similar letter are received by the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs.

Experts can find no basis for the charge against the radio.

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOL TEACHER

Pinegrove Scholars Honor Miss Sage, Teacher For Two Years.

PINEGROVE, July 3. — On Thursday afternoon a number of children and neighbors gathered at the school for their annual closing picnic. Towards the end of the picnic they presented their teacher, Miss G. C. Sage, with a handsome parasol, presentation by Edna Hockaday, and the following address was read by Birdie Abbotton behalf of the pupils:

"Dear Miss Sage,—

"The scholars of Pinegrove School wish to thank you for your kindness towards them during the two past years. Although they have done many wrongs, they will now try to do their best. Now you are leaving them, they ask you to accept this gift which they are now offering you, wishing you many happy future days.

"Signed on behalf of the school—Laura Abbott, Edna Hockaday. Laurena Nugent."

Their teacher was entirely taken by surprise, but, however, thanked the pupils very much for their lovely gift, and also for the many kindnesses done by pupils and neighbors during the time in which she was teacher of the school. She also wished them many happy future days

The rest of the day was spent in music and games, and very happy time was spent.

BYNG HAS LEFT OTTAWA FOR AN EASTERN TOUR

Will Spend Three Months Visiting the Maritime Provinces and Quebec.

BIG PROGRAMME.

OTTAWA, July 3.— The Governor-General and Lady Byng of Vimy, accompanied by their staff, left the capital Saturday at noon, to commence a tour of the Maritime Provinces and a portion of Quebec, which will occupy a period of three months His Excellency has laid out for himself a strenuous and arduous programme and the itinerary of his tour covers not only large and important centres in the Maritime Provinces, but also many out of the way places which have never yet been visited by the King's representative. Before his return at the end of September, he will have visited over seventy cities, towns and villages in the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. It is understood that he received an invitation from Newfoundland, but was unable to accept.

Last year Lord and Lady Byng visited the far West and the Yukon and acquainted themselves at first hand with the conditions of the prairie provinces and other portions of the West. Their tour this year is for the same purpose, as they have never yet visited the Maritime Provinces. While of necessity they will have to attend many social functions, yet they will endeavor to get an intimate knowledge of the peoples of the olde provinces of the Confederation. Lord Byng, particularly, will meet many of those who served with him in France, and all along the route he will be affectionately greeted by veterans of the Great War.

While the Governor-General and Lady Byng will travel by special train and thus cover thousands of miles, they will visit by motor many places which are not reached by railway service. They will thus enable many Canadians, who have never yet seen a Governor-General, to meet the present holder of the office.

Will Attend Celebration.

The vice-regal party will spend three days in Pictou, attending the celebration of the arrival of the "Hector," carrying the first Scotch settlers to that district. They will arrive on Tuesday, July 17, and leave on Friday the 20th. An idea of the strenuous nature of the trip may be gained by the fact that in one day alone they will visit the towns of New Glasgow, Stellarton, Westville and Trenton. The itinerary also includes the mining districts of Sydney and Glace Bay, and it is hoped that the recent labor troubles there will not prevent them from visiting these places.

On their return trip about September 4, Lord and Lady Byng will visit the Gaspe Peninsula, in the "Lady Grey," and from September 12 to September 3 they will visit the following places in Quebec: Mont Joli, Rimouski, Cacouna, Riviere du Loup, St. Pascal, Ste. Anne, Ste. Jean, Montmagny, arriving at Levis on Tuesday, September 18. They will then remain in Quebec at the Citadel until the end of September, arriving back at the capital on October 1.

Five Motors for Every 100 People in Canada.

OTTAWA, July 3.—(Canadian Press)—Motor vehicles registered in Canada during 1922 averaged 5.7 to every 100 people. The total registration was 513,8 an increase of six per cent over 1921. Passenger cars in 1922 numbered 462,275, commercial cars 37,9 and motor cycles 9,375, while licenses issued to dealers and manufacturers amounted to 4,561. The last named cover all styles of cars. Saskatchewan and British Columbia do not compile separately the number of commercial cars registered for these provinces trucks are therefore included with passenger cars.

In addition to the 462,275 passenger cars registered, tourist cars entered Canada to the number of 818,374 for a period of 2 hours or less; 175,535 for 2 to 30 days; and 2,420 for a period of one to six months.

LARGE TIMBER AREA IN ONTARIO SOLD TO MONTREAL COMPANY

Company Undertakes to Erect $1,500,000 Mill For the Manufacture of Kraft Paper.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

The granting of cutting rights over an area totalling 1049 square miles, in return for crown dues, certain bonuses, and an undertaking to spend $1,500,000 in the erection of a kraft mill, was the contract which, in essence, the Ontario government ratified over the week end with the Continental Wood Products Company, Limited, of Montreal. The deal constitute the largest timber sale which the Government lands department has negotiated since the memorable Backus transaction, which became one of the chief administration items which the Drury government was called upon to defend.

The area which the sale involves, includes the following townships: In th District of Algoma: Davin, Amunsden, and Kapuskasing; in the district of Sudburk, Shenango, Lemoine, Lincoln, Copperfield, Litsett, Floranna, Sadler, Alcorn, Paul, Collins, Pattinson and Racine. The company which was awarded the area was the only tenderer. The prices which it is to pay and which, in view of the conditions attached, the governments regards as satisfactory are: White Pine, $4.76 per thousand feet; red pine, $8.60 per thousand feet; jack pine, $5.15 per thousand feet if taken out in the log; spruce, $7.17 per thousand feet, if taken out in the log; spruce pulp wood, $1.30 per cord; other classes of pulpwood, 70 cents per cord; ties 15 cents each. The usual crown dues are included in the foregoing totals.

A New Industry.

The Ontario Government's object in disposing of the limit is, declaredly, the establishment of a new industry in Northern Ontario, that of manufacturing Kraft paper for wrapping and box making purposes, No such industry it is stated, exists in that region at present, and upon its successful operation, it is further stated, depends the utilization of a quantity of popular timber for which there is at present no market.

The Continental Wood Products Company undertakes to erect a million and a half dollar kraft mill, to employ an average of 100 hands for ten months each year, and to turn out daily 75 tons of kraft pulp. In addition the Crown reserves the right to require at a later date the erection of a paper mill of not less than 50 tons' capacity per day. In order to permit the later establishment of a newsprint industry the crown has also excluded in some of the townships the right to cut spruce.

The mill which the Continental Company is to erect, and which must be commenced during the present Summer and have $500,000 expended upon it by June of next year, will probably be located at Elsas. The timber will be floated down the Trout and Chapleau Rivers to the Canadian National Railway, which is expected to benefit materially from the establishment of the new kraft paper company.

In addition to the 1049 square miles of territory just secured, the Continental Company also has freehold lease of several thousand of acres in the vicinity.

Lady Louise is thirty-four years of age and a great-niece of the late King Edward. Prince Gustav is at present visiting England, but will leave for Stockholm in a few days with his two sons. No date has yet been set for the wedding.

Family Was Glad to Return to British Soil.

SARNIA, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press)—When the ferry Louis Phillippe docked here at five o'clock Sunday afternoon the population of Canada was increased by one family of nine persons. Mr. and Mrs. W. H Dobson, who operated a farm near Brockville until a few years ago when relatives enticed them south, have returned to the land of their birth bringing with them seven young Dobson's. "We gave farming in Arizona a pretty fair trial," Mr Dobson said, expressing his pleasure at again being on British soil. "We have finally come to the conclusion that old Ontario is good enough for us, so here we are." Incidentally Mr and Mrs. Dobson crowded their family into a large touring car and made the 1700 miles trip from Phoenix by road.

ECONOMY SHOULD BE THE WATCHWORD

Sir Edward Kemp Protests Strongly Against Unnecessary Government Expenditures.

OTTAWA, July 3.— (Canadian Press)—At the closing session of the Senate Saturday Sir Edward Kemp protested against the amount of money involved in the supply bill. The estimated, he said, approached a half billion dollars. The government seemed to be going ahead as if there had been no war and no war debt, no railway problem or railway debentures and no exodus and no immigration. He believed that Canada should commence, at once a sinking fund of a least one half of one per cent as the war debt to gradually remove this burden. The taxation has paralyzed industry and while there was a considerable turnover in business the results were disheartening. The government did not appear to understand the meaning of the word economy.

Senator McLennan strongly recommended that some board be constituted which would ascertain the facts regarding public works and lay them before parliament.

Senator Turriff on behalf of the Progressive party protested againht the tremendous expenditure. There could be only one result of this policy and that was bankruptcy In the Ontario election the one great issue that had defeated the government was that they advocated economy and practiced extravagance. The present government in Ottawa advocated economy and practiced extravagance such as was never seen before in any government in Canada. The result will be the same here as in Ontario if a halt is not called. The supplementary estimates were of the most glaring political kind he had ever seen since he entered parliament. What was wanted was a finance minister with courage enough to say "no" and stand by it.

Senator Bradbury drew attention to the fact that the civil service expenditure had increased from 38 millions to 56 million. Senator Belcourt said "unless we practice individual economy we will never practice national economy. We have not practiced what we preached" and governments followed rather than directed public opinion.

Senator Dandurand agreed with the necessity for economy. The pressure exerted by the members for expenditure was tremendous. The general impression wha that the civil servica was over-manned. He did not know whether this was true or not, but he did know that the officials were very efficient. He served notice on the Deputy Ministers that at the opening of the next session of parliament that they would have to appear before a special committee of the Senate and give complete information as to number, salary and location of civil servants in the government employ at various periods from 1910 to 1923 and explain any increases, if any, and also state the minimum staff required for each department.

Senator Fowler took exception to the increase accorded certain deputy minister, three of whom, he said could not earn $1200 a year in private life.

GOOD FISHING AT HASTINGS.

HASTINGS, July 3.—The tourist season is now in full swing and the fishing is far ahead of all past years.

Fifty thousand bass were put in the river above the bridge this last week.

Trent Valley Lodge, the home of the American pleasure-seekers, had a party of twenty-five from Buffalo, who motored in to spend the week of the Fourth of July.

From Hastings to this popular resort, about five miles west, the shores are fast being taken up as camping grounds, and twenty cars from the United States were counted in that section on Sunday.

TROOPS WERE CALLED OUT AT SYDNEY MINES

First Shots Were Fired and Several Rioters Are Missing—Damaged Heads.

RIOT ACT READ.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 3.—(Canadian Press)—Score of rioters are nursing damaged heads, five required medical attention and two are in jail following the first shots fired Sunday night at Whitney Pier, where the situation became so serious that troops were called out, the Riot Act read and a volley discharged ove rthe heads of the crowd in an effort to induce it to disperse.

Even this show of military force seemed to have little effect and it it was not until a machine gun was placed in position and at least preparation made to fire that the crowd slowly dispersed.

The trouble started about 8.30 p.m., by which hour a huge crowd had gathered in Victoria Road, opposite number four gate of the steel plant, which was guarded at the time by Steel company police, the troops having retired to their quarters in a building some distance inside the property.

After a period of inactivity the gathering surged forward and broke down the gate and a section of the fence. At the same time volleys of stones smashed the window in the gate house and struck several policemen, one large piece of slag fracturing Officer John McAuley's arm.

While the police were using their fists and clubs, in an effort to stand off the crowd, the troops were summoned and when a small detachment appeared under arms, Magistrate T. F. Routledge started to read the Riot Act. The crowd transferred some of its attention to him and showered the justice with stones. Mr. Routledge with difficulty finished the reading of the Riot Act and ordered the soldiers to fire. A volley was accordingly fired over the heads of the mob, which gave back a little but did not seem seriously alarmed by the shooting, to judge from the shouts of defiance which arose from all sides.

By this time other troops had appeared, and as the mob seemed to be getting ready to rush the gate, a machin gun was placed in position.

The crowd began to disperse and at 9.15 the street was reasonably clear.

LAST DROP OF WATER GONE

Eight Men of Twenty-Four Adrift in Life-Boat For a Month Died of Exposure.

PORT LOUIS, Island of Mauritius, July 3.—(Associated Press)—The last drop of water had been drunk and the last biscuit eaten when the second lifeboat of the British steamship Trevessa arrived at this island Friday with sixteen survivors. Twenty-four men got away in this lifeboat from the Trevessa just before she sank a month ago in the Indian Ocean, but eight of them succumbed to the hardships they were forced to endure in the small open boat.

Chief Officer Smith told of the terrible sufferings the men went through. He said that the eight who died began drinking sea water when they could no longer withstand their thirst. They collapsed from exhaustion and the last of them died in sight of land.

The daily ration was one biscuit for each man and a few drops of water. They added to their original meagre water supply by catching rain water. When they landed, the survivors, gaunt and some of them with long beards, sank to their knees and thanked God for their deliverance. Then their first request was for water. All of them had badly swollen feet owing to constant immersion in salt water.

Big Radio Outfit Was Cause of Small Fire.

TILLSONBURG, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press)—A fire of unusual origin was discovered at the home of Mrs E. Hawkey, Harvey street, at 11.40 o'clock Saturday morning caused directly by a radio outfit owned by her nephew Mr. Kenneth McAlpin, a former high school student here. He was recharging the batteries and was away from the house when the fire was discovered, but as the location was just about 50 feet from the fire hall it was soon extinguished by chemicals. The loss to the house and instruments will run in the neighborhood of $300, partially insured. The set was built by Mr. McAlpine and is the most powerful outfit in the district, London, England, and France having been picked up many times lately.

MANY EXPERTS TESTIFY AT THE DELORME TRIAL

Bullet Experts, Blood Experts and Grease Experts Will All Be Heard This Week.

MANY EXHIBITS.

MONTREAL, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—A week of expert witnesses faces the jury in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme on the charge of murdering his half-brother, when the case is resumed this morning.

There will be bullet experts, blood experts, grease experts and handwriting experts. Examination and cross-examination of these witnesses, it is anticipated, will be lengthy and comparatively slow, because of the masses of exhibits that accompany the testimony. It is now thought that the crown will hardly finish its prosecution before the end of the week, while the case will probably go to the jury not much before the end of next week.

Only one set of experts so far has appeared before the jury—Doctors Wilfrid Derome and D. D. MacTaggart and Oscar Haynes, the local gunsmith

The number of defence witnesses is still uncertain. It is said many of the defence witnesses will appear without subpoena that the crown counsel will never know exactly what to expect.

FREE CAMPS FOR MOTORISTS.

Free camping grounds for touring motorists are being provided by many cities, says the Toronto Star. Kingston is the latest to consider a project of that kind.

There are, however, two sides to the question. On the one hand, a certain number of motorists will break their journey where such camping grounds exist, and the accommodation thus afforded may be of some advertising value to the municipality. A proportion of these motorists may be people who could not afford to make their trip if it included hotel bills.

On the other hand, reports from camping grounds in the United States are not unanimous in praising the discretion and gratitude of motorists who take advantage of them. And it is found that many of those who do so would be quite able to afford hotel accommodation.

Prohibition has greatly curtailed the revenue of Ontario hotels. They require, in order to maintain their legitimate services, all the legitimate revenue which they can get. Visiting motorists might well be encouraged to patronize the Province's hostelries. The provision of free camping grounds does not work towards that end.

MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATION.

One of the most glaring defects in the Hydro-electric Commission has been the fact that the municipalities, the partners whose faith and enthusiasm and courage have made the huge public ownership scheme possible, have been denied direct representation.

That was an inexcusable injustice to the municipalities, and although pressure was brought to bear upon the Drury Government, the efforts were uniformly unsuccessful.

With a new regime in Ontario, this unfair treatment of the cities and towns which are identified with the Hydro-electric undertakings should be terminated.

The municipalities should be given an opportunity to name their representatives on the commission, not as a privilege but as a right.

Mr. Drury chose to disregard the municipalities, a policy that was alike uniair and stupid.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Ferguson will not make the same mistake.

They have waited long for justice, and if it is denied them again the resentment that will result will not be pleasant for the Government that happens to be in power.

STARTING ANOTHER YEAR.

Canada enters upon her fifty-seventh year as a Dominion under most encouraging auspices and with bright hopes for the future.

The effects of the post-war depression are slowly passing, industry's wheels are humming busily, there is little or no unemployment, while there is nothing in the nature of a boom there are signs everywhere of a general improvement in industry and business.

The exodus to the United States which for some time was of large proportions has been checked—or rather has checked itself.

Not only has the stream to the south dried up, but there is a noticeable increase in the number of Canadians returning to their native land.

From the Prairie Provinces come splendid reports of crop conditions, indicating a bountiful harvest, and throughout the East the intelligence from the farms is sufficient to ensure a fine year for agriculture.

Taken all in all, there is no need to worry about Canada; no country in the world is in better condition or has better prospects than our own Dominion.

True there are mighty problems to be solved—immigration, the railway question, rural depopulation and matters of similar importance—but if the people of Canada are steadfast and industrious and keep their firm faith in their wonderful country the future can be faced with confidence and hope.

A CONTROLLER OF FINANCE.

The intimation from Hon. G. H. Ferguson that he has been considering the advisability of the appointment of an expert in financial matters to act as controller of Provincial finances is the most important and most interesting announcement that the Premier-designate has made since the election.

The plan will appeal to most people as a business-like step, and one in the best interest of the Province.

Its success, however, as the Examiner sees it, depends upon two things—upon the selection of a thoroughly qualified man and, secondly, upon the manner in which his recommendations are carried out.

There are difficulties about both of these factors.

To name a good man for the post is not in itself particularly hard—but to secure the services of such a man is another matter, because it must be remembered that experts with the qualifications necessary are holding highly lucrative positions with big business firms and Ontario will have to pay handsomely to tempt one of them into the service.

The right man, of course, would be worth a huge salary, for he would, if given a proper chance, save his remuneration many times over every year in the saving he would be able to effect in the expenditure of the Province.

It is at this point the second factor enters the situation.

A controller of finances would be of little real value unless he actually controlled, and it is a matter for speculation how far the politicians would allow an official of this kind to go, how much regard they would have for his advice, and how many of his recommendations would be carried out?

Members of the Legislature with pet schemes of their own to foster and anxious to see that their constituencies are not overlooked are not liable to take kindly to advice from a controller of finance whose sole object would be to promote economy and efficiency rather than to play politics.

MAKE IT MORE EASY TO VOTE.

The comparatively small vote polled in many ridings in Ontario in last week's election is being discussed by most of the Provincial newspapers, and there are many explanations as to the faiure of a large proportion of the electorate to register their votes, accompanied by the usual argument in favour of compulsory voting.

The Examiner feels that there are several things that might be done to make it more convenient for the electors and to do away with some of the excuses that are being quoted as reasons for not voting.

In the first place, many people in urban constituencies are at a loss to know just where they should vote, and a considerable percentage of them, unless they are approached by a party worker and supplied with the information, do not take the trouble to find out.

If it were possible to have the returning officer or some other official appointed for the purpose to mail a notice to each person on the voters' list in cities and towns showing every voter just where he was eligible to vote, the additional vote polled as a result would amply justify the expenditure involved.

Polling booths are shifted around considerably, and the lack of any permanence in this respect is another check upon the voters' enthusiasm. They go to the place they voted last election, find that this time they have no vote there and some of them refuse to take time to go to the proper place.

If these frequent changes would be avoided the result would be shown in a larger vote.

It is all very well to say that the man who doesn't take the trouble to find out where he votes doesn't deserve to have one.

The fact remains nevertheless that there are hundreds of such men in every riding, and because the information is not at hand or because of changes in the location of the polling booths a large proportion of the vote that would otherwise be polled is not registered.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

In the case of two embarrassed Canadian banks the difference in value of funk and fearlessness has been forcibly demonstrated.

The Merchants Bank, through faulty amateurish banking, and through piratical raids upon it by some notably bad characters in the community, was forced into a position when its losses could not be longer masked. The revelation of the weakness, a weakness that should never have been allowed to assume any serious menace, was met by cowardice and unwisdom, such as had never before been known in the history of Canadian banking. The property that needed only reasonable courage and judgment for its rescue was practically thrown away in a panic.

Another bank, the Union, suffering from indiscretion of its officers and laxty of its inspectors, was found to be so weakened as to be forced to reveal to its shareholders its altered condition. The representatives of the Union Bank met the crisis with courage and determination to save the institution. They have issued a statement, the good faith of which there is no reason to doubt The candor and wisdom displayed in the statement to Union Bank shareholders which The Star published yesterday should have a reassuring effect. The Union Bank will survive, strengthen and, we hope and believe, will continue to serve the public as acceptably as in the past.

* * * *

Comparison of the revelations in the case of the two banks and the procedure that preceded the revelations are startling. Investigated by high authority, the Merchants Bank was found to have its capital intact and $1,500,000 of a Rest after a cut-to-the-bone inspection, and yet that old solvent institution was sacrificed and its shareholders victimized to the extent, it is estimated, of at least ten million dollars.

A high authority investigated the affairs of the Union Bank and found the stock unimpaired and a Rest Account of $1,750,000. The bank goes on in confidence and doubtless in prosperity. The contrast in results from the same sort of enquiry and from practically the same finding is suggestive of something worse than mere stupidity.

* * * *

The Union Bank did not surrender. It did not call in anybody to take over its business, its good-will and its assets. It did not present its stockholders with the staggering alternative of accepting a heavy loss on their investment, or risking a total loss by trying desperately to continue in business after the devastating disclosure that the Board of Directors wanted to sell out.

If we had been fortunate enough to have found a little of this pluck and determination in the small group of men who had the fate of the Merchants Bank in their hands during the dark days when Mr. H. B. Mackenzie was secretly investigating and Sir Montagu Allan was awaiting his reports behind the backs of the shareholders, the tragedy of the disappearance of the old "Merchants" hight never have occurred. — Exchange.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With the Senate blocking the most important legislation passed, the session of the House of Commons just closed, cannot be classified as extraordinarily successful.

This week will show whether or not the newspapers are expert guessers as to the personnel of the new Cabinet.

Strange no one has risen up to mention Hon. Peter Smith as a possibility for the position of controller of Provincial finances.

Everybody is always happy at a Port Hope old boys' reunion because the visitors see so many reasons for being thankful that they made up their minds long ago to leave the old town.

A big American cruiser passed through Peterborough the other day, and its owner spent one hundred dollars here on groceries, while five hundred gallons of gasoline were purchased. Traffic of that kind on the Trent Canal means big business for Peterborough.

The Rotary campaign to develop the patriotic side of the observance of Dominion Day finds an urgent need for that very kind of propaganda.

Mr. McCausland, M.P.P., thinks Ontario needs beer as an immigration promoter. That is in the nature of a reflection upon the people of the British Isles.

The Premier-designate declares that his policy will be that of strictest economy. It will be a fine thing for Ontario if he carries out his promise to the letter.

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Blanchard, of Smith, Was Presented With Gift of Four Pieces of Silver.

On Tuesday, June 26, a very pleasing event took place at Hall's School, S.S. No 4, Smith, when their teacher, Miss Blanchard, was presented with a beautiful gift of four pieces of silverware, by the people and children of the neighborhood.

The children were dismissed for afternoon recess as usual, but in a very few minutes to the surprise of their teacher, they returned to the room followed by their parents and friends.

The following address was read by one of the senior scholars:

Dear Miss Blanchard,—

"It is with regret that we learn you are about to sever connection with this community.

You were always willing to give a helping hand to the pupils and during the two years of your teaching career in No. 4, you have been tireless in your efforts to help the pupils along.

We trust you may be spared many years to enjoy the pleasures in the land of your birth.

We wish you, Miss Blanchard, to accept this small remembrance as a slight token of our esteem for you."

Signed on behalf of the school section.

Fern Armstrong.
Mabel Mullen.
Dorothy White.
Hilda Bell.

During the reading of the address the gifts were presented by one of the junior pupils while another of the little ones had a bouquet of flowers which was afterwards given to their teacher.

Miss Blanchard, although completely taken by surprise, made a suitable reply and thanked the scholars, parents and friends for their beautiful gift.

The Duty of Fire Prevention

Carelessness with cigarette butts, cigar ends, matches, pipe ashes, camp fires, fly smudges, railway locomotives, slash-burning operations—human carelessness of some kind accounts for over 95% of the forest fires in Ontario.

It is impossible to say how many fires along railway lines are not due to engine sparks, but to the thoughtless smoker tossing away his cigarette or cigar butt. However, there is no doubt a fair number of forest fires originate in this way, and such are preventable. Each individual should realize his personal responsibility to be careful with fire in any form in northern Ontario.

Save Ontario's Forests

The Ontario fire ranger is at the mercy of all types of carelessness, and cannot prevent fires starting, as a rule. He can only attempt to limit the consequences. He is entitled to your help and co-operation by being careful with fire.

WHY NOT CARS FOR LAME?

One of Them Protests Lack of Help For Disabled.

In the face of a nation-wide movement of safety organizations against automobile driving by persons physically incapable, a member of the "wheelchair brigade" comes out to protest his case.

He is Arthur M. Van Rensselear of New York. His complaint is that as much should be done for the cripple as far as transportation is concerned, as is being done for him to improve his physical condition. On the contrary, he maintains, the cripple in some states is actually being barred from driving an automobile, even though he can substitute appliances where his legs or hands are useless.

During all the 25 years of automotive development, says Van Rensselaer, cars have been designed for the use of the able-bodied.

"What has been done for the crippled?" he asks.

"In many instances the cripple's power of locomotion is so limited that he is unable to make use of the ordinary means of transportation," he adds. "In looking about to see what kind of a vehicle has been developed for his needs he finds that he must be contented with a hand-propelled chair.

"Some of the more enterprising cripples have had automobiles made over in such a manner that they can be operated by hand control. Then they run into a snag.

"There are states, and Maryland is one for example, that refuse to grant a license to any one who can't use both legs and both arms. That ruling denies the cripple the right to make use of the public highways, for how many are in a position to afford a car and pay for a chauffeur?"

Van Rensselaer has invented a motorized wheelchair for the use of cripples. It is entirely hand-controlled, is operated by a gasoline engine, has an electric starter and can maintain a speed of 25 miles an hour.

"For the first time," he says, "cripples have an opportunity to motorize themselves. But the laws of some states forbid them to drive on the highways. Other states tax them heavily."

"The time has come," he concludes, "when instead of hampering the cripple in his efforts to motorize himself and thus get to shop and office, the states ought to do everything to encourage the disabled in his efforts."

SAFETY FACTORS

"At least five factors must be considered in the bringing about of safer highways," says Edward S. Jordan, special representative in traffic and safety for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. He lists them as:

1. Safety education—in schools as well as for adult motorists and pedestrians.
2. Jail for reckless drivers.
3. Adequate playgrounds—including streets to be set off exclusively for play.
4. Better traffic regulation—especially uniform laws and prevention of careless driving.
5. City planning—to avoid congestion and provide parking space.

AIR BULB ACCELERATOR

Instead of the metal pedal accelerators which are being put out for a popular small car; a form of air cushion pedal has been invented. It is said to take up shock, especially while going over bumps, and thus produce more even supply of fuel. When the bulb pedal is pressed, an air cushion beneath the steering column expands and moves the rod extending to the carburetor. When the foot is taken off the bulb pedal, the air cushion contracts and the rod is drawn back.

HOW TO GROW AN INCH OR SO.

Gloria Foy Accomplished It By Vigorous Dancing on Her Toes.

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, July 3.— Many a girl has bewailed the fact that she lacked an inch or so in height and thought there was nothing to be done about it.

But Gloria Foy, quite accidentally and unintentionally, added cubits to her stature, and her system may be effective for others.

Miss Foy simply danced on an inch and a half—and did it after she had reached the mature age of 21, the period in life when most girls feel they can depend on their height and forswear the troublesome practice of letting down hems.

"Six months after I had been dancing in 'Up She Goes'," Miss Foy explained, "I had gained my extra height, I spoke to my dancing master about it and he did not seem surprised in the least. Rather he assured me vigorous dancing so stretches the muscles that it causes almost any person engaged in it to grow taller.

On Her Toes

"Then I spoke to a physician and he, too, said it was quite the rule to elongate by exercise."

To be sure, Miss Foy spends much of her time on her toes. She dances for practically two hours each evening, during the performance, to say nothing of two matinees a week.

She takes a dancing lesson every day which consumes another hour, and usually practices two hours a day besides. So, you see, she really worked for those inches.

Adds to Pep

"But I've never felt so well or had so much pep as since I have been exercising so consistently," she assured me. "I wish I could urge all women to keep up their dancing and their exercises past the point of fatigue where they really get fun and exhilaration out of what they do.

"I practice my bar work and my ballet technique just as faithfully now as I did when I started to dance. I can stand infinitely more physical and mental strain than I used to and I have never had even a suspicion of ill health since my engagement began. I've been appearing steadily now for eight months.

"Of course, only a professional dancer would want to give as much time to technique as I do, but even a small dose of it, say half an hour a day, would be enough to give any woman a new joy in activity—and probably an inch or so, if she stuck to it."

IN THE YFAR 2500

We had a dream last night, that we had come back to earth in the year 2500. Well, you'd never have known the old place.

The first thing we noticed was that there were no houses fastened to the ground. People in the year 2500 were living in enormous airships, with as many as 10 rooms inside. When the family tired of a location, it flew to another. No trouble about trespassing, for all land was owned in common by all the people (through their government) in the year 2500.

The flying machine had made it possible for the average person during lifetime to visit nearly every interesting place on earth.

Attached to the big airplane-home was a garage where pa kept the small plane that carried him to and from work at a speed of 500 miles an hour. With such fast transportation the great cities, naturally, had broken up except as groups of factories, offices and shops.

Inside the airplane-home we found ma cooking dinner. A scientist long since had discovered how to release the terrific energy locked up in the atom, and a pound of coal did a family's cooking and heating for months.

Through a window we saw a glass building.

"That," ma explained, "is a farm. As you know, if you recall your history, it was nearly the year 2000 before scientists learned how to cross cereals and vegetables with yeast growth and produce a crop in 24 hours."

The children and parents looked phenomenally healthy. All germs had been conquered, all disease stamped out. A World War had been declared on rats and insects such as flies and mosquitoes. These had been exterminated finally by cross-breeding other insects that were their natural destroyers.

Radio in the year 2500 had been perfected until a perfect receiving set was as small as a watch and carried by every one, enabling people to talk to any person anywhere at any time. The intellectuals, of course, had abandoned clumsy language and were exchanging thoughts by telepathy.

At this point, the alarm clock began ringing.

THREE O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING

This is the Bow-Wow Chorus. They're holding down the shoes now. But times will change. They'll be getting said shoes from upstairs windows some of these mornings when lights are low and most of the city is sleeping. The pups, all pedigreed Airedales, were born in London, old deah.

STRICT RULES GOVERN THIS TENNIS TOURNEY

ST. LOUIS, July 3—(Associated Press).—Players in the singles and doubles championship of the United States Municipal Tennis Championship must be public park title holders in their respective cities to qualify, it has been announced. The tournament, the first such event ever held in this country, will begin here August 8.

Gold medals will be awarded the winners in the singles and doubles, and the name of the singles' victor will be inscribed on the new National Municipal Tennis Championship Trophy. This trophy, donated by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, is a silver vase mounted on an ebony base.

To qualify in the singles and doubles championship, players must have their entries made by an official in charge of the public courts of the respective cities they represent, and these officials must certify that the entrants conform to the following:

"Must have been a resident of the city he represents for at least one year preceeding the date of the tournament.

"Must be an amateur under the rules of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

"For singles championship, must have won the city public park tennis courts championship, or for the doubles championship, must have been a member of the team winning the city public park tennis court doubles championship of the city he represents during the current year, and which rewpective local championships shall have been held on public park tennis courts.

"Shall not have represented a club whose tennis courts are not under the direct supervision of the public recreation authorities, in any tennis tournaments since June 1 of the current year."

ALWAYS ON TIME

Motorists who must "ride by their watch," may find a helpful suggestion in this sketch. It is of a watch in a case especially built for driving wheels by a Sioux City, Ia., watch firm. However, a handy man could just as well fashion his own leather case like the one sketched.

HANDICAPPED, BUT HAPPY

The most famous case of success despite the odds of blindness and deafness is that of Helen Keller, author and lecturer, who fought her way upward through a college education to success. Her speech also was impaired, when she lost her sight and hearing at the age of 19 months, although she has made great improvement in that.

Besides her case and that of Willetta Huggins of Janesville, Wis., there are other notable cases of victory over the handicaps of blindness and deafness.

Miss Esther Scott, assistant to the secretary of the Louisiana Commission for the Blind, has been blind 13 years, yet writes movie criticisms, telling what's happening on the screen by the music and the reaction of the audience.

Practically every institution for deaf, dumb or blind, has a similar inmate or more. All joyful and successful despite their failings.

TAKE THESE ALONG ON TOURING TRIP

Before going out on a tour of any considerable distance, be sure you have these extras with you:

Spare inner tube with a box of valve insides.
Two extra spark plugs.
Few extra bulbs.
Pound of cup grease.
Can of hand soap.
Can of light lubricating oil.
Wiping clothes.
Extra fan belt.
Oil and grease gun.
Extension luggage carrier.
Roll of tire tape.
Blue Book.

Besides, if baby is going along, a small hammock made especially for automobiles will relieve mother from holding him all the way.

ENGLAND'S GRIST OF LETTERS

LONDON, July 3 (Associated Press)—In the 12 months just ended the British post-office handled the enormous number of 3,300,000,000 letters, 500,000,000 postcards, 1,500,000,000 printed papers, 175,000,000 newspapers and 120,000,000 parcels. The total is 5,595,000,000 pieces of mail.

Of the 120,000,000 parcels, no fewer than 30,000,000 were wrongly addressed, or not addressed at all, while thousands of tons of letters were not delivered for the same reasons.

RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS TO COST MANY MILLIONS

CHICAGO, July 3 (Associated Press—The Pennsylvania Railroad system has begun a series of improvements to cost more than $125,000,000, according to an announcement made by the road here recently. Work has already begun on improvements costing more than two million dollars in the northwestern region, which includes most of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The largest single improvement will be at 55th Street, Chicago, where the tracks will be elevated at a cost of $616,221. Another expenditure, of $121,379, will be made just four blocks south, at 59th Street, where the Pennsylvania shops are located. Facilities for making heavy repairs to freight cars will be installed in these shops so that disabled cars can be put on the tracks promptly, in accordance with the present campaign to keep all equipment promptly, in accordance with the prein constant service.

Pennsylvania Railroad coal docks at Sandusky, O., will have their slip deepened to permit the entrance of large ships and allow continuous passage to other crafts.

A second track will be extended from Webbs to Walbridge, Ohio, with a 125-car capacity siding at Webbs, at a cost of $400,000. This improvement will expedite the handling of freight from Toledo and relieve the Toledo yard from considerable congestion.

At Ft. Wayne, Ind., a 110-foot turntable will be installed to replace a 75-foot turntable, which has become inadequate for the large, modern engines. This will cost $68,068.

The announcement says that these improvements are in accordance with the nation-wide campaign being conducted by the American Railway Association to have all railway equipment in constant service for the expected traffic this summer, when the present business boom will reach its height.

What would be nicer than seeing a lanodlord's wife disgusted because he won't paint their home?

Save Fuel in Cooking

The illustration shows an interesting test you should try in your own kitchen. It proves the superiority of good enameled ware for cooking purposes. Take an SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan, and a sauce pan of equal size made of aluminum, tin or other metal. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Set both sauce pans over the fire. The water in the SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan will be boiling merrily in about five minutes, while the water in the all-metal sauce pan will come to the boil in about eight minutes—three minutes longer. Save fuel in cooking. Use

DETECTIVE TURNS TO SCIENCE

LYONS, France, July 3 (Associated Press).—France always is interested in developing modern methods to trace down criminals, and M. Locard, head of the Lyons detective bureau, is giving his attention to dust.

Recently he was confronted with three prisoners whose occupations it was necessary to ascertain despite their efforts at concealment. M. Locard placed the clothes of each man in a large paper bag, shook them, got the dust thus dislodged from the bag, analyzed it and determined that one man was a mason, another a carpenter, and the third a coal dealer.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

WEATHER WANT AD WISDOM

It was a community in which Saturday afternoon and Sunday are much used by newspaper readers to respond to Want Ads. Thursday set in a heavy rain, which continued throughout Friday and Saturday morning. The Want Ad phones reflected the weather. There were fewer calls and fewer ads. Many classifications for the week-end issues were smaller than usual.

People who might otherwise have inserted Want Ads reasoned that it was poor weather for business. They would insert their messages "next week."

And it came off fair Saturday afternoon, and those keen ones whose Want Ads had been ordered for insertion benefitted in consequence —there were as many buyers in the field, there were fewer Want Ad offerings to investigate. Advertisers sold very readily.

There are peculiarities of the weather which obtrude on experienced persons with observation. Thus, wet evenings and Sundays are bad for interviewing advertisers in person—that is obvious. But they are surprisingly good for remaining at home and reading. Usually more people read the Want Ads on rainy evenings and Sundays than on fair ones. This greater number of readers may go a long way to compensate the advertiser for the rainy weather, sometimes actually is a preponderatingly favorable thing.

Out of the larger number of readers, the maximum number of prospects are interested. They may call up.

I have just examined the Want Ad of an enterprising man. He concluded his rainy day message with this: "Phone me to-day. Then if you're interested further, we'll make an appointment for fair weather."

You, too, can make Want Ads pay in rainy weather.

YOUR FRIENDS, THE BOYS AND GIRLS

If you visit a neighborhood grocery store often, a fact likely to force itself on your attention is the large number of purchases made by boys and girls. Mother needs something suddenly. The neighborhood store is handy, and so is a youngster. An opportune combination! Mother knows from experience that Son or Daughter will be well treated at the store.

Good neighborhood grocers realize what a help in their business the boys and girls are. They give no one better attention.

I know of many Want advertisers who, by treating youngsters unusually well, make the latter very valuable in their business.

A certain shoe repair man puts in his Want Ad, "Free candy for boys and girls who bring in shoes." His is a popular cobbler shop!

During the fruit season, nearly any close-in orchardist can turn to advantage the boy and girl labor of the community. Every town is full of families eager to save money. In some of these families, the older ones are too busy to visit the orchard themselves. This in a Want Ad—"Send the boys and girls, they will be treated well"—is a hint that many will heed.

Selling fruits on the vine or the tree, the customer doing the picking, is a fast spreading Want Ad plan. The orchardist saves cost of picking labor and cost of containers, while customers make big savings, too. Children are excellent pickers. Best prospects for sales are families with growing children. So—expressions like this in Want Ads—"Nice, clean picking for children"—will help the advertiser to success.

And there is still another angle to this subject of boys and girls—your own youngsters. Many Want Ad users have their childhen deliver to customers for them.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Much Interest Being Shown in the Large Number of Women Safely Carried Through the Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Following Letters Are Impressive

Owing to modern methods of living, few women approach this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying and often painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, nervousness, headaches, melancholia and irritability are only a few of the symptoms incident to this trying period of a woman's life, and the following letters prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to overcome these abnormal conditions.

"Fisherville, Ky.—"For several months I was under the doctor's care as he said my nervousness, chills, hot flashes and weakness was caused by the Change of Life, but I did not seem to get any better. I was not able to work and spent most of my time in bed. A friend called to see me and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I cannot tell you how much good the medicine did me, as I had such a hard time before taking it. I can only advise every woman passing through the Change of Life to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it did so much for me."—Mrs. EDWARD B. NEAL, Star Route, Fisherville, Ky.

A Michigan Woman Helped

Ionia, Michigan.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and had been under the doctor's care without any relief. A friend in Lansing, Mich., asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel fifty per cent better already. If any one in this condition doubts the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help them I will gladly answer their letters."—Mrs. MAX W. HAHN, 687 N. Jefferson Street, Ionia, Mich.

A New York Woman Helped

Syracuse, N. Y.—"I was used up with nervousness, weakness and hot flashes so I could hardly keep around, and could not get out much on account of those awful prickly feelings. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helping another woman with symptoms like mine. My husband got some for me, and after taking it five months I can get around and even do my housework, washing and ironing included, and my friends can see what a change it has made in me."—Mrs. SIDNEY HUMPHREY, 825½ Burnet Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

MORWENA BIRD SAID YES TO EGYPT'S ROYAL PRINCE

CAIRO, July 3 — (Associated Press).—Cairo is gossiping again. The inhabitants had barely recovered from the Tutankhamen affair when a scion of the Egyptian royal house sexcretly married an English girl.

The bride was Miss Morwena Bird, and the royal bridegroom is Prince Said Halim, second cousin of King Fuad. The minute the regal relatives of the prince heard about his love for an English maid of another faith they began making objections, but got nowhere with them. The prince simply took his sweetheart into a Moslem religious court, went through the ceremony and ran away to see Europe in the fashion of honeymooners.

Miss Bird since the war has been one of the bright figures of Cairo's ballrooms. Her father was a colonel stationed in Egypt before the war. The prince, who is 25, already has the reputation of being a good prophet and a reckless man with his purse.

His talent for getting rid of money came to public notice when he was sent to England before the war to study under many tutors. He was so extravagant that he had to be sent away to Switzerland, where, in those days, there were fewer opportunities for getting poor quickly.

His penchant for prophecies was recognized during the war when he persistently wrote to the newspapers that Turkey and Germany were going to fall. As everyone knows, this forecast came about, in a manner, so the prince is now a prophet with some glory in his own land.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Are Women More Careful Motor Car Drivers Than Men?

STATISTICS collected by the National Safety Council from police departments, chambers of commerce, local safety councils and automobile clubs seem to agree that the hand which rocks the cradle is quite competent at the steering wheel. The testimony of individual male drivers who have had the experience of having wife and wife drive from the rear seat, would also make interesting testimony and would probably prove that caution is an instinctive feminine trait, according to C. T. Fish, writing in the National Safety News, who says: "While there is a difference of opinion as to whether men or women make the best drivers, the unanimous verdict is that women as a rule are careful and do not intentionally disregard the laws or the safety of others. With regard to woman's presence of mind in case of emergency, it would be unsafe to make any comparison with the so-called stronger sex. Individual cases without number could be produced in support of both men and women, but they would hardly form a fair basis for a verdict in favor of either sex."

The number of men involved in motor accidents greatly exceeds the number of women. In Los Angeles, the ratio for ten months of 1922 was 96 to 4. The Massachusetts Safety Council reports that out of 521 fatal accidents in the state last year involving 544 deaths, only 5 were caused by women operating cars; in 3800 non-fatal accidents, involving 537 drivers, only 1 of the latter were women. The proportion of men and women involved in similar accidents would probably differ very little throughout the whole of the United States. However, these figures unsupported have very little value and there are many other factors to be taken into consideration as there are no figures available which show the number of men and women drivers.

H. E. Hollensbe, secretary of the Rochester, N. Y., Safety Council, points out that the hours of driving are different for women than for men and that they usually choose the quieter neighborhoods for motoring. Mr. Hollensbe does not state the time of day that women usually select for motor trips, but it is quite likely that they avoid congested streets during rush hours whenever possible. The fact that women do not drive trucks or taxicabs would also tend to reduce the percentage of accidents attributable to women drivers.

Women are ace high as safe and careful drivers, according to the experience of A. A. Carroll, Superintendent of Police of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Mr. Carroll says: "After nine years of listening to complaints on traffic, I am fully convinced that women are a great deal more careful drivers than men. They do not take the chances that men take; they do not drive as fast as men and, as a rule, are more inclined to want to live up to the ordinances, so I also believe that women as a rule, feel a greater responsibility when driving a car than does the ordinary man."

That women are safer drivers than men is also the opinion of Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles in the state of Massachusetts, who has made a close analysis of accidents that have occurred in that state during the past year. Even only three fatal accidents out of 146, and only 150 non-fatal accidents out of 4097. Mr. Goldie states, however, that this is not conclusive evidence since there are no figures to show the number of men and women possessing drivers' licenses. But from reports coming to the Public Safety Bureau of the Police Department there is nothing to indicate that women are not driving as safely as men.

Commissioner of Traffic B. R. Marshall, of Pittsburgh, while recognizing the merits of women drivers, does not recommend them as drivers of motor vehicles. He says in part: "In my nine years' experience as head of the Traffic Division of Pittsburgh we have not, to my knowledge, had a fatality where a woman was operating the automobile. In the same length of time we have turned over to the coroner a great number of male drivers who have maimed or actually killed persons through the operation of motor vehicles. Female drivers, as a rule, are more timid than male drivers and take fewer chances. Furthermore, they are not so likely to operate motor vehicles when under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs. In spite of all this, we do not recommend female drivers of motor vehicles."

When asked to explain his objections, Mr. Marshall stated that the female driver was inclined to drive in the middle of the road; she becomes more confused when confronted by a crisis (which happens frequently under modern traffic conditions); when quick decision is required her judgment is not usually so dependable as that of the male; women are more inclined to ignore the parking regulations.

E. B. Lefferts, manager of the Public Safety Department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, believes that while there are many excellent drivers among the women, yet as a class they are not as proficient as the men. He attributed this to the fact that woman's experience with machinery goes back a very few years while man was associated with mechanical devices of all kinds long before the invention of the automobile.

The merits and weakness of women drivers are carefully summed up by Lt. Martin A. Blecke, head of Traffic Division, Cleveland Police Department, whose experience permits him to speak with authority on the subject. Lt. Blecke's observations are as follows:

Women are not generally speeders, but are more careful drivers, especially if married. They feel the responsibility of their home and children.

Accidents involving women drivers usually occur because of sudden excitement through some unusual or unexpected circumstance.

The parking ordinance is the one most frequently violated by women.

Women seem to be more dangerous than men when learning to drive automobiles.

Police complaints show that women know little about the traffic regulations, but it has been found that women are most careful about passing standing street cars; and finally—

The average woman driver is probably as careful, if not more careful, than the average man driver.

WHAT MEDICAL SCIENCE STILL HAS TO DISCOVER

DESPITE the great progress made in recent years by medical science, there are still many mystery diseases to whose origin and prevalence doctors have been unable to discover the slightest clue.

Take the prevailing epidemic of "sleeping sickness," which has come from nobody knows where, and is likely to go nobody knows when. A strange characteristic of this malady, which a writer in London Tit-Bits points out, is its preference for Jews in a mixed population, in accordance with the well-known predisposition of the Jewish people to certain diseases of the nervous system.

Why this should be so is one of the minor mysteries of medicine, as is also the fact that Jews are less liable to tuberculosis than those among whom they dwell.

It has never been explained how infectious epidemics make a start without any apparent cause in localities free from infection, and to which infection has not been conveyed from outside. We observe instances of this in outbreaks of disease on ships at sea.

Again, one of the most inexplicable things about influenza is the regular recurrence of epidemics every thirty-three weeks; nor are we certain why it is that while so many people are hard hit by it, whole families being wiped out in the worst epidemics, so many more are left scathless.

That one man's meat is another man's poison is an old story. But no doctor can explain satisfactorily why this should be so; why such apparently innocuous foods as fresh eggs should be rank poison to some, milk a lethal draught to others, fish or strawberries a scourge to large sections of the community, the scent of roses, violets, or lily of the valley a cause of nervous collapse to thousands; and so on.

Why cancer should develop in some persons and not in others, who so far as is known are living in the same surroundings and under identical conditions, come of the same stock and eat and drink of the same fare, is an unsolved problem.

Medical investigators are still in the dark with regard to the real factors in the production of sex, the origin of "infant prodigies," and the appearance of genius. Prodigies confine themselves chiefly to the playing of musical instruments or the playing of chess. No one seems to know why; nor do any of the known laws of heredity account for such men of genius as Shakespeare, Dickens, Darwin or Pasteur.

Many are the theories with regard to the causation of sleep, but so far none has proved entirely adequate to explain all the facts of the condition. Were we acquainted with all the factors in the production of sleep we should be able to induce it by purely physiological means, as Nature does, without the introduction of drugs.

The Romantic Origin of "Darby and Joan"

A VERY happily married couple who lived in the 18th century were John Darby, printer, of Bartholomew's Close, London, and his wife, Joan. The constancy and devotion to each other of the old-fashioned, simple, and virtuous couple so impressed Henry Woodfall, who had served his apprenticeship with the printer, that he wrote a poem, "Darby and Joan," in commemoration.

This poem was printed and received a good deal of notice. The expression then passed into the language as symbolizing the eventide of happy wedlock.

Just WHY You HAVE a TEMPER

IN fear the body is prepared for flight. In anger much the same preparation is made, the body is prepared wonderfully for a powerful fight. Civilization has made fear worse than it originally was because the flight is usually prevented, although the body is set for an endurance run. It is the same with anger; a temper among our prehuman ancestors prepared them for a fierce struggle in which they could better protect their lives and the lives of their young by virtue of having a temper. Civilization has changed that, too.

When one is in a temper digestion is stopped as it is in fear. The same little glands, the adrenals, are unusually active. It is their secretions that play havoc with the usual bodily economy. They dissipate the bodily resources by making available for consumption all the reserve stores of energy that have been laid away in the liver.

The secretion of the adrenals removes fatigue. Among our prehuman ancestors a temper prevented fatigue in the excitement and intense exertion of a mortal struggle. Today adrenalin injected into the system of a worn-out person brings surprising rejuvenation. But modern civilization has made a temper fatiguing rather than fatigue removing.

Adrenalin makes certain hairs stand erect. The hairs on the back of an angry cat stand up because the unusually large amount of adrenalin in the system under the influence of a temper causes the tiny involuntary muscles at the base of these particular hairs to contract, and as they contract the hair rises. This makes the cat look larger and more powerful than it really is and should strike terror to the heart of all except the fiercest antagonists. This is another use of a temper.

Human beings have no hairs to stand erect and make them appear larger than they really are. But the adrenalin affects the involuntary muscles just the same. The "sinking" feeling in the abdomen after an outburst of anger is brought about by the excess of adrenalin, causing the involuntary muscles about the stomach and intestines to contract and stay contracted. Among our prehuman ancestors this also helped them to fight better. Civilization has changed this, too.

A temper brings about a more rapid clotting of the blood than normally takes place. This kept our ancestors from bleeding to death when they were severely wounded in a fight. Today it helps but little when one becomes angry at a necktie or a stubborn tire.

We have a temper because it was of much use to our ancestors in protecting themselves and their progeny. Civilization has rendered these uses rather useless, if not at times actually harmful. But still we have our tempers. We must learn how to use them in ways that will facilitate personal progress.

Will There Be a Race of Supermen?

IN discussing the question whether mankind is still evolving, Sir Arthur Keith, a British scientist, holds that changes are taking place more rapidly now than at any former period. The evolution of man can fairly be compared with the evolution of automobiles, according to Sir Arthur, whose views are set forth in the Journal of the American Medical Association. In the early days, local makers conformed to local needs, but after a certain period, special standardized types ousted local types. So, too, with man. Certain local types spread across continents and suppressed others, which might have been excellent from an engineering or esthetic point of view, but through the working of natural selection, they disappeared because they did not meet the needs of the place and time.

Twenty years ago, Metchnikoff accused nature of bungling in her workmanship as regards modern man. He protested against thirty-two teeth as being too many. He resented the existence of the appendix, the cecum and the colon. From his standpoint, these charges could be extended. Every industrial nation had a large "C" population. In 20 per cent. of adults, the teeth were so bad as to be useless for mastication. More than 5 per cent. required spectacles, and the same number had chronically diseased ears.

Metchnikoff's charge to many sounded justified, but it was only necessary to consider the time required to teach the young, untrained dog that the home was not run to satisfy its particular needs, to realize that the discords of modern life might not be due to nature's blunderings, but to man's stupidity. Five thousand years ago there was not a patch of corn grown in Great Britain; today the poorest child is better fed and sheltered than the best-off child then. We give our digestive tract no rest, either whipping it up with patent sauces or seeking to treat its rebellion with patent pills. It is not nature that has gone too slow, but man too fast.

There is definite evidence that changes are taking place in the human body. Remains in the museum of the Royal College of Surgeons show that there have been modifications in the formation of the human jaw, of the placing of the front teeth, and of the character of the nose, with the result that the tendency is toward the production of a long, narrow face.

As to whether the brain is or is not increasing, no definite answer can be given, because sufficient skulls are not available. The fact is that today not one person in fifty uses his brain to half its capacity, most people having more brains than they know what to do with.

The SECRET of Muscular STRENGTH

WHAT is the secret of the strong man's strength? It lies, according to Prof. A. V. Hill, an English authority, not only in the size and condition of his muscles, ability to recover readily from fatigue, storage of oxygen in the blood and elsewhere, to support violent exercise, but also in the habit of using "appropriate muscles in an appropriate rhythm." In a lecture before the Royal Institution in London, as reported for the British Medical Journal (London), Prof. Hill gave a striking account of the efficiency and economy of the master tissue of the body. He regarded the activity of muscle, in its highest co-ordination in the gymnast or the first-class mechanic, as presenting a scarcely less wonderful picture than that presented by purely intellectual processes.

"The true function of muscle," Prof. Hill explains, "is to pass from one state of stress to another, and only incidentally to perform work. The ready recovery from the extreme fatigue consequent upon violent athletic exercises is rightly attributed to the circulation; if the circulation were hindered by a cramped position recovery would be greatly delayed, and if the isolated muscle were deprived of oxygen, it might show no sign of recovery at all. Although in a single twitch the rise of temperature is of only a two-thousandth or a three-thousandth of a degree, the delayed heat produced after the contraction is over might be one-and-a-half times as great as that produced during the actual contraction. This delayed heat is connected with the recovery process. In very severe muscular exercise, such as that of a man running a hundred yards at top speed, every muscle fiber in the body is strained to the utmost, and the effort is followed immediately and probably for a considerable time by panting, owing to the oxygen demand. The possibility of continuing a violent exercise for any length of time depends upon the extent of the oxygen 'credit' upon which the body can draw.

"An individual, after 1¾ minutes of violent exercise, requires as much oxygen to enable him to recover equilibrium as he would ordinarily use in one hour when lying at rest. The limit of muscular activity which the body can reach depends upon the maximum rate at which it can obtain oxygen, and this maximum in its turn depends upon various factors. The amount of oxygen which the blood can carry is comparatively small—not more than one-fifth of the blood volume in any case, and probably in ordinary exercises not more than one-seventh.

"The efficient carriage of oxygen around the body depends very largely upon the lungs as well as upon the heart, and also upon a balance struck between the two. The maximum amount of oxygen I can take into the body is 4.2 liters a minute, and the amount for which I can obtain 'credit' during severe exercise is 13 liters. Therefore I am able to run for one minute at a rate governed by 17.2 liters of oxygen, but for the second minute the total oxygen intake would be increased only to 21.4 liters, averaging 10.7 a minute. If it was possible to economize the energy required for a given series of muscular movements then less oxygen would be necessary.

"It seems to me probable that the difference between the good long-distance runner and the poor one is not due to the more effective mechanism of the former for supplying himself with oxygen, but rather to the fact that he has learned to use his muscles more efficiently, and therefore more economically."

How FLOWERS and INSECTS DEPEND on ONE ANOTHER

Fig. 1.

—Courtesy of American Museum of Natural History.

Fig. 3.

Fig. 1—The Pollen Held in Place. Fig. 2—Insect Gathering Pollen. Fig. 3—A Mature Pod Artificially Pollenated. Fig. 4—Larva Within Pod.

A REMARKABLE instance of how flowers and insects depend upon one another is offered by the yucca and the little moths of the genus Pronuba. The pistil that bears the pollen-receiving organ of the yucca extends well beyond the pollen-producing organs of the plant, and hence, without artificial aid, fertilization would fail to take place. Yet fertilization must take place if the yucca is to develop seeds, and seeds must develop if the larvae of the Pronuba are to secure the diet on which they are dependent. The act of pollination is performed by the moth. If it were not for this insect, the yucca would probably be doomed to extinction and with its passing out the little moth would lose the one source of its food supply.

Fig. 2.

The females of Pronuba have organs especially fitted for the performance of their task. They have a pair of maxillary tentacles with the spinous undersides of which they hold the pollen ball that they gather. In the topmost illustration the numeral 1 indicates the pollen mass held in place by the organ mentioned, which is designated by the numeral 2. The illustration immediately at the right shows the moth assiduously gathering its ball of pollen. The illustration next in order shows the Pronuba in the act of laying her eggs.

Moths and butterflies in general lay their eggs on the surface of plants. Pronuba is one of the exceptions, piercing the tissue of the yucca with its egg-laying organ in order to deposit its eggs in the seed capsules, thus providing for the emerging larva an enclosed banquet hall.

The larva when full-grown perforates the capsule and drops to the ground. The illustration at the bottom designated 1, represents a mature pod that has been artificially pollinated and protected from Pronuba. The illustration to the right of it, marked 2, shows a pod with constrictions due to the puncture made by the Pronuba mother. The emergence holes of the larvae are also indicated. Illustration 3 is that of the interior of one of the lobes of a pod, with a larva present.

GAS from GARBAGE

EXPERIMENTS were made recently by German chemists to determine whether or not it was economically feasible to manufacture gas from garbage sweepings and refuse materials of all sorts. Although these materials contain a considerable proportion of water, as high as 53 per cent., nevertheless it is possible under certain conditions, according to a writer in Chemiker Zeitung, to obtain a gas from them.

It was demonstrated that about 25 liters of gas, which had a heating value of 3820 calories per cubic meter, were evolved from one kilogram of the raw materials. The composition of the gas was 51.1 per cent. carbon dioxide, 3.4 per cent. of heavy hydrocarbons, 8.3 per cent. of carbon monoxide, 7.2 per cent. of hydrogen, 24.4 per cent. of methane and 5.6 per cent. of nitrogen.

The temperature of the gasification process is much lower than that at which coal is distilled for the production of gas, for in the case of the refuse the evolution of gas commences at a temperature of about 145 degrees Centigrade and at 500 degrees Centigrade the process is almost completed.

The important characteristic about this gasification process is that it can and must—for economical reasons—be carried out without the use of any fuel other than that which is derived from the waste materials themselves. Hence the degasified residues recovered from the principal gasification process, mixed with a little tar which is also obtained from the destructive distillation of the waste materials, is used for the production of producer gas, which is then used in heating the retorts in which the main gasification process takes place. The commercial applicability of the process depends on this fact.

SUMMER SCHOOL

is quite a wonderful perormance, at times classical and at others just a little like rag-time," and on the reading of the announcements, with "their coaxing and pleading, and hustling and hustling."

Church is Fiddling

"I have attended many church meetings in the last two or three years, and I do not know that there were half a dozen where I really felt that I was in the presence of God and that the people who were there were sincerely concerned with the worship of the Almighty. The church to-day is fiddling and playing with God's work. There is little of the dignity and impressiveness that should be a prominent part of the services dedicated to the worship of the Lord."

Church programmes and those of the young people's societies should not be planned in Toronto or Ottawa, said Mr. Campbell. They should be planned in relation to the particuar locality they are designed to serve. In the services, the musical programmes were in need of revision also. "If some of those hymns had been rag-time, they would have been off the map a thousand years ago, and yet we sing them over and over again without a particle of interest in the words or meaning."

The Scripture reading also should set the pitch for the whole meeting. "My soul is overwhelmed sometimes with the things we are trying to put over. Ask fifty per cent. of the Epworth Leaguers in our church what they are trying to put over, and they don't know. The sooner you close them up and give the spiders a chance the better. We should come to realize the value of the come-back-in church work as in everything else. The minister who is not getting a result for his work would do better to go on the road as a drummer immediately. If some of the preachers that we have were drummers, they would starve to death, and if some of our Sunday school teachers were depending on the results of their system of teaching to live, they wouldn't even get a drink of water out of it."

Social Service.

Besides the programme of local, missionary and educational work, there should also be a department for social service in each particular locality. "You can't do a great deal for the people needing help in cities far away from you, like Ottawa or Montreal, except pray for them, but you can do much for your own locality. Our missionary work is of prime importance, but we should remember that we are living in Canada, and it has its own problems which are worthy of our consideration."

An interlude for games was led by Rev. Roy Rickard, of Bowmanville, and was followed by an interesting address delivered by Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, of Bethany, conference secretary of religious education, on "The Programme of Religious Education in the Local Church."

Mental Training.

Rev. Mr. Beckel spoke of education as matter of the head, the hand and the heart. Much importance was attached to mental training. Mr. Beckel said that a period of thirty-two years would be required to study in its entirety the University of Toronto's curriculum of many courses, and that manual training, that of the hand, in which boys and girls were taught to do things by doing them, was also considered of prime necessity. The education of the heart, or the religious education of the youth of our country, was neglected, and yet the percentage of youthful criminals was daily on the increase, an eminent authority having declared that 95 per cent. of these juvenile offenders were without religious training of any sort.

The home was the greatest factor in religious education. "If parents did their duty to their children, there would be no need of churches or of ministers." The school and the church with its many organizations did much. "We are not in need of more church societies," said Mr. Beckel, who instanced the case of one church whose congregation numbered 125, and whose societies were ten in number.

The teaching of the Bible should be done from the Old and New Testaments alike, in the light of what had preceded the coming of Christ, and of that which had come after Him.

For juniors, Mr. Beckel recommended the consecration to God of their "wiggles," the answering of their questions on religious subjects; for 'teen age children the acceptance of Christ as a Leader and a Friend, and as a refuge from the religious doubts which assailed the youth of the age.

"I have found that destructive criticism is valueless and useless when directed toward the youth of the day," said Mr. Beckel, who averred that often the young people were right in their contentions, and could teach their elders much.

Work For Women.

For adults, the church had emphasized religious work for women, and was coming to pay more importance to the inclusion of men in its life, and for the old also, it offered many avenues of self-help and knowledge. The problem was one of leadership, not so much a movement of reformation as of information.

The conference, in its last morning session, divided into two groups: one for the discussion of Canadian Girls-in-Training work, led by Miss Lina R. Moyer, B.A., of St. Catharines, the other for Teachers of Sunday Schools, addressed by Rev. W. H. Clarke of Tamworth.

Miss Moyer's talk was an interesting description of the aims and methods of the programme for C.G.I.T. work among 'teen age girls, with its fourfold object; the development of the physical, intellectual, spiritual and social life of the individual. Girls were criticized, said Miss Moyer, for some of the things they did in their desire for a full life, but a sane direction of this desire would make of their life a well-rounded thing.

The goal of the physical development was health, of the intellectual an all-round education, with the motto, "to seek truth," of the spiritual, with its aim "to know God," a personal and intense communion with God by means of Bible study daily prayer, public and family worship, personal dedication and missionary study, and of the social, with its motto "to serve others," not so much seeking after the frivolous and the good things of life, as a real attention to the needs of others, the general attitude of service in daily intercourse with one's kind.

In the matter of choosing a vocation, a girl should consider not so much what she would get out of it in financial gain, but the chance it would give her to put into practice the aims and ideals of the C.G.I.T. training.

Rev. Mr. Clarke had an attentive audience in his teacher training group, to whom he explained many of the methods used in imparting information in Sunday school classes. "The teacher's work is to try to bring the Book and the pupil into a living, vital plan of life. Apperception, the looking toward the past for matter on which to build, adaptation looking toward the future; adaptation of these things to the life of the pupil; self-activity, in getting a response on the part of the one taught; organization, fitting all into one plan, were emphasized.

The teacher must know the material she works with; she must lay out a plan, and have an aim toward which she tends, and a definite goal towards which her teaching works out into practical expression in the life of the individual taught. A point of contact, the idea of bringing the teaching down to terms of the pupils own life so as to enable him or her to grasp its essence more fully, was recommended, and the child should be taught to love God, as well as to fear Him, and to hold the attitude of the small child who said he wanted to shake hands with Jesus when he got to heaven.

This evening's address will be given by Rev. Roy Richard, B.A., M.R.E., graduate of the Boston University in the Department of Religious Education. The Twilight Service will be led by Rev G. E. Ross, M. A.

Would Have Given $100 For One Night's Sleep

"Before I got Tanlac I often said I would give a hundred dollars to get a good night's sleep, but now I sleep like a child every night and feel so well it doesn't seem like I am same person," said Mrs Annie Stillson, highly esteemed resident of 263 Simcoe street, London, Ont.

"I suffered for years from nervousness and stomach trouble. My appetite had all but left me and what I ate hurt me so bad I actually dreaded to sit down to the table. My nerves were so unstrung I could hardly sleep any at all, and I was so weak and tired many days I couldn't do my housework.

"But it's a pleasure to sit down to a meal now, for I enjoy my food like a child does candy and nothing I eat hurts me a particle. My nerves are perfectly calm and my sleep rests me so I feel refreshed throughout the day. Tanlac has no equal."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

HEARD A GOOD SERMON SUNDAY

Patriotism and Its Relation to Christianity Was the Subject.

(Contributed.)

Rev. W. H. Young of the George Street church, preached a most excellent sermon in St. Paul's church on Sunday morning on Patriotism and its relation to Christianity. He spoke of the immense territory of Canada, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, its great wealth in lands, forests and mines, and the increasing national pride that is being taken by her people in patriotic endeavours.

But our patriotism is different from that of the Scotsman and the Swiss, where many generations have lived in the same place and cherish the memories of the past.

He spoke of the intense patriotism of the ancient Jews and drew a striking illustration of it, when he referred to them living in captivity in Babylon, where they sat down by its rivers and wept when they remembered Zion. It was then the ancient Jew exclaimed: "If I forget thee, O Jeruaslem, let my right hand forget her cunning." "If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy."

The ancient Jews regarded all foreigners with contempt and called them Gentiles; so did the ancient Greeks, who called foreigners, Barbarians.

This was long before Christianity was introduced, but even now many regard foreigners with contempt, because on George street in this city they have been spoken of as Dagos and Wops.

The application of Christian principles should restrain us from speaking of foreigners with contempt.

The vices and sins of ancient Empires have brought them to their ruin. It was luxury and vice, wickedness and corruption, poverty and crime, and national sin, that caused great and ancient Rome to fall an easy prey to the vandals of the north. We should apply the spirit of Christianity to our patriotic zeal and learn the lesson, that it is righteousnes that exalts a nation.

The preacher then referred to the duty every Canadian owed to himself, to his family, to the state and to foreign nations, and to the application of Christianity to the faithful discharge of our patriotic duties.

The sermon was scholarly, was well arranged and showed deep study and thought, but it would have been more impressive had the learned preached spoken slower and more deliberately. His moving descriptions and apt quotations would have been more impressive, had they been slowly and deliberately uttered.

The Great Commandment, which was the underlying theme of his discourse, can not be hurriedly uttered to leave a deep and lasting impression on the minds and the hearts of men. It has come down to us through the ages in slow, clear and solemn tones:

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all they mind, and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

FRANCE JEERS ROYALISTS WHO SUPPORT PHILIPPE VIII

Camelots Will Not Be Taken Seriously Until They Stir Fierce Republican Spirit. Sorry Day For Philippe of Orleans

PARIS, July 3.— The row between Royalists and Radicals is keen. To the bystander it is amusing; but Paris is full of good Republicans who take it seriously, and one of these days the Royalist faction, which gets bolder daily, may find itself in serious trouble.

A scene of battle lately was the sedate French Academy, Charles Maurras, "Lord" Maurras, as some of the Republicans call him, was a candidate for the Academy seat left vacant by the death of former President Paul Deschanel. M. Maurras is one of the editors of the Action Francaise, the Royalist daily paper, and is a writer of considerable ability despite anything the Republicans may say about him.

M. Maurras' principal opponent was Charles Jonnart, long in the public service , former governor-general of Algeria, then president of the Reparations Commission, then ambassador to the Vatican.

Rooters Spoil Voting

While the voting was going on, a crew of "Camelots of the King" gathered in the ante-chamber of the Academy, and shouted "Disgrace Jonnart." Never before had the Academy been visited by "rooters" for a particular candidate. The Camelots yelled and whistled in the sacred precincts until M. Poincare himself appeared and quieted them. There was another demonstration, this time of disgust, outside the building, when it was announced that, on the fourth ballot, M. Jonnart had obtained a majority, and M. Maurras was beaten.

M. Maurras accepted defeat with what grace he could. "The evil which, for long years, I have applied myself to describe and to correct," he wrote in his paper, "assembled all its remaining forces to exclude its critic and its physician." Another writer, whose work may have passed under M. Maurras' eye, since it appeared in the next column of the Action Francaise, said:

"We pity the Academy, a new Titania, amorous of an ass's head. We pity M. Jonnart also, who will have to sustain in history the difficult figure of the conqueror of Maurras. But the last word, the true word, was said by a student coming out of the Institute: 'Don't you care These Immortals, Maurras will bury them all.'"

One paper declared that M. Poincare had voted for Maurras. Perhaps he did, perhaps he didn't. If he did, it probably was because he knew M. Jonnart would win.

Just One Incident

The Academy election is merely one incident in a long series. Last January a prominent Royalist was assassinated by a girl who declared that she was an Anarchist The Royalists jumped to the conclusion that she had been incited by the Radical press. A mob of "Camelots of the King" proceeded to wreck the office of L'Oeuvre, and to break the windows of the Ere Nouvelle. Six of the crowd were arrested.

A few days ago they were tried, found guilty, and sentenced to prison terms varying from one to six months, and to damages amounting to 50,000 francs. Considerable laughter was created by the fact that the six men proudly acknowledged their guilt; but claimed at the same time that the court was without jurisdiction. A similar claim already had been made by the attorneys for L'Oeuvre, on the ground that the offense was so serious that it should be tried before a higher tribunal. But the court held it was competent and found the men guilty.

At about the same time, another case came up. A man named Gaucher had posted in various parts of Paris certain hand bills criticizing Leon Daudet, one of the Royalist leaders. One evening he discovered a band of Camelots defacing his signs. He protested.

The Camelots attacked him with fists and clubs; Gaucher drew a revolver and fired in the air. The police arrested everybody concerned. The leader of the band of Camelots was sentenced to two months in prison; Gaucher was sentenced to eight days' imprisonment for carrying a prohibited weapon.

Nobody Pleased

The sentence displeased everyone. The enemies of the Royalists insisted that Gaucher had a right to defend himself, even with a prohibited revolver. As for the Action Francaise, it said that the judge was "a creature of Aristide Briand," and hinted gently that he was an absinthe fiend until that drink was prohibited, and that nowadays he comforts himself with an excess of other aperitifs.

While these cases were being tried, a reporter for the Ere Nouvelle, who also is a lawyer, was assaulted in the corridor of the Palais de Justice by a Camelot who was displeased by something the man had written, and who hit him in the face with a whip. The Camelot was arrested, but next day he was released —according to the Radical press, by order of M. Poincare.

These incidents are doing neither the Royalists nor the government any good. The growing boldness of the Royalists is resented by the great majority of the people, who are staunch Republicans and who believe that the Royalist movement ought to be put down severely.

Quite Amusing

It is amusing to hear solid, serious Frenchmen who admit that there is not the slightest danger of a Royalist reaction in France, declaim passionately against Daudet and Maurras, and declare that they ought to be jailed, and their work ended. And the fact that the government not only takes no action against the Royalists, but seems glad of their support for certain of its policies, is doing the Poincare regime considerable damage. The Radical Party is particular in making a large amount of capital out of the situation, and is doing all it can to identify that sterling Republican, Raymond Poincare, with the notorious followers of King Phillippe VIII.

Word has come back to Paris that, in many countries, particularly the United States, the Royalist movement in France is taken seriously. It should not be. It is a joke. It has not the remotest chance of success. But it can cause considerable trouble. It can create, and has created, a deal of disorder. The Camelots are mostly young men who have been struck with the success of the Fascist movement in Italy, and who are quite unable to see that the conditions which made Fascism possible in that country are quite different from those in France. The chief danger is that the Royalists some day may lose their heads sufficiently to stir up the fierce Republican sentiment with which France is saturated. That day will be a sorry one for the supporters of Philippe of Orleans.

100,000 YEARS AGO IN EUROPE'S LIFE

A human settlement estimated to be at least 7,000 years old has been unearthed at Holmegaardsmose, according to despatches from Denmark. This may sound old when you recollect that Tutankhamen lived some 3,000 years ago, but the archaeologist knows of pre-historic towns that make the discovery at Hollmegaardsmose look almost like Golders Green.

Most remarkable of them all is the Quarternary town, of the Mammoth Age, that exists a couple of miles east of Prerov, in Moravia This town is so extensive that it may well have been the world's "London" about 75,000 or 100,000 years ago. More than 25,000 flint implements and hundreds of objects, many of them very artistic, of reindeer bone and horn and mammoth ivory have been excavated already, with Quarternary human skulls and bones, writes Bassett-Digby F.R.G.S., in the London Daily Express.

There were no glue factories and other mysterious industrial destinations for butcher bones in those days, with the result that bones, of animals slaughtered for food accumulated to such an extent that they must have been an unmitigated nuisance—bones of bison and stag, woolly rhinoceros and mammoth, and the rest of a prehistoric city's "daily bread," year in, year out, for centuries. Here, in Predmost (as the village above it is now called), the bones of more than 800 great hairy mammoths have been turned up.

In this extraordinary Quarternary city, which has not yet been thoroughly explored, Maska found a sepulchral chamber containing fourteen complete human skeletons of the Mammoth Age, and parts of six others. That they were a tall folk was shown by the length of the femurs. Round the neck of one of these skeletons—that of a child—was a necklace of fourteen small mammoth ivory beads.

One hundred thousand years ago woman combed her hair with ivory combs cut from the dreaded monster mammoth's tusks. So she does today up in the Siberian Arctic. And very good combs, too. I do my hair with one every day

SUNDAY SERVICE AT ST. PETER'S

St. Peter's Cathedral was filled on Sunday morning for the first solemn High Mass, celebrated at half past ten o'clock, of Rev. J. Raymond Clancy, C.S.C., whose ordination to the priesthood took place on June 24th in the Church of the Sacred Heart at Notre Dame University, Indiana. Father Clancy, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clancy, 281 Rubidge street, received his early education in the Separate schools of Peterborough, and is a graduate of Notre Dame University, and a member of the congregation of the Holy Cross.

Rev. Father Clancy celebrated the mass, assisted by his cousin, Rev. V. McFadden, of Parry Sound, Rev. Michael O'Brien, deacon, and Rev. J. Finn, sub-deacon. Rev. P. Costello also attended in the sanctuary, and Mr Edward Welsh, of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, also a cousin, acted as master of ceremonies. The high altar was beautifully decorated with a profusion of red and pink roses.

A sermon of impressive force, with a depth of spiritual insight evidenced in its smoothly-flowing eloquence, was preached by Rev. Dr. Thomas Irving, C.S.C., vice-president of Notre Dame University, who took his text from St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews, fifth chapter, first verse: "For every high priest taken from among men is ordained in the things that pertain to God, that he may offer sacrifice and gifts for sin."

Harking back to the first steps in a priest's career, to the day when he stood at the parting of the ways and renounced the life of the world, with its legitimate pleasures, for the service of God in the priesthood, leaving home and friends to enter on the long course of preparatory training, Father Irving explained Catholic reverence for the priesthood in the fact that Christ had ordained that His love should be brought to men through the channel of the priesthood.

"He might have chosen angels for this purpose. Instead, he chose men. They were set aside to do His work; to take care of His children upon earth; to be His ambassadors and helpers; to reach down and lift up the souls of men."

"A priest's work is concerned with the most precious thing in God's creation, with the immortal soul of man, to draw it more closely to God and remove from it the stain of sin. St. Augustine said: "Thou hast made us for Thyself O Lord and we shall not rest until we find our goal in Thee." The priesthood is the bridge across the chasm between heaven and earth, the right arm of God in the world. His is the highest form of self-consecration, working as he does, not only for the glory of God, but for the greatest happiness to mankind, in helping to free man's soul from its burden of sin."

From the cradle to the grave, the priest, the representative of God on earth, acts toward his people as guide, comforter and friend. At the moment of death, the thought of the Catholic turns to the priest. "When the time has come that your memory is erased from the memory of man, when men shall plow and reap the soil above your graves, even then there will be priests praying for your souls.

It is true that it requires a sacrifice, but our Lord has said: "He that loseth his life shall save it." The young priest gave up much when he left home and friends to dedicate himself to the service of God. Perhaps his family gave up more. There were no distractions of new scenes and friends and occupations to turn their thoughts from that vacant chair, but they did it all in the true Catholic spirit, realizing that their child was given them but for a keepsake, to be returned to God if he so desired it."

For the young priest ,commencing a life filled with responsibility, the reverend speaker asked the prayers of his friends, "that there may be long, fruitful years ahead of him, that the superabundant love of God and of the Sacred Heart may guide and guard him on his way, so that, when he comes at last to the sunset of life, the souls of those whom he has helped in this life may usher him into the beatific vision of that God whom he has loved and labored for through life."

The music rendered by the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral was splendid and worthy of special commendation. Led by Mr. Joseph Minicolo, with Miss L. Hurley at the organ, the choir sang in splendid fashion Roeswig's Mass in G.

A particular feature was the singing in beautiful voice of the "Salve Regina," by a cousin of Rev. Father Clancy, Mrs. (Dr.) H. H. Ward of New York, formerly Miss Lavina Hallihan of this city. Another cousin to take part in the ceremony was Miss Gertrude Clancy of Toronto, who sang a portion of the Mass music. Vocal solos were also given by Mrs. J. Dwyer, the Misses Annie Simons, Ernestine McManus, and Frances Murray, and Messrs. J. Minicolo and J. Fitzpatrick.

At dinner on Sunday evening, between forty and fifty guests were entertained by the parents of the young priest, Mr. and Mrs. John Clancy, at their home, when brief addresses were made by Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, Rev. Father Irving, D.D., Rev. Father McFadden, Rev. Father Costello and the newly-ordained priest, Rev. J Raymond Clancy. In the evening a reception was held, attended by nearly four hundred of the relatives and friends of the family.

Among those relatives who came from out of town for the occasion were: Mrs. M. J. Tierney, Harold Tierney, Mrs. W. Predmore, Mrs. D. McCarthy, Miss T .O'Connor, Sister Prudentia, and Sister Marcellina of Rochester, New York; Mr. and Mrs. S. Clancy, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCormack, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clancy, Mrs Frank Dwyer, Mr. and Mrs Artkins, Miss Gertrude Clancy, Miss A. Hanlon, Miss Nellie Riley, Messrs. Clare Clancy and Joseph Clancy of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Hector O'Halleron and J. Leo Clancy of Detroit, Michigan; Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Ward of New York; Mrs. Bert Beach of Hamilton; Mrs. O'Boyle and Miss Lottie O'Boyle, of Ottawa

Relatives who attended Rev. Father Clancy's ordination at Notre Dame, Indiana on June 24th, were Mrs. M. J. Tierney, Harold Tierney and Mrs. Herbert Airy of Rochester, New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Miss Gertrude McFadden and Mr. Irvine of Chicago, Ill., and Mr. Clare Clancy of Toronto.

On next Sunday, July 8th, in Rochester, New York, Rev. Father Clancy will celebrate solemn High mass. Five cousins in the priesthood will take part in this mass: Rev .Father Clancy, high priest; Rev. F Connors, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, in Rochester assistant high priest; Rev. Walter McCarthy, deacon; Rev. Geo. Predmore, sub deacon; and Rev. Cornelius Hogan, master of ceremonies.

Another cousin, Rev. V. McFadden, of Parry Sound, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McFadden, of Peterborough, will also be present in the sanctuary.

The sermon will be preached by the Superior of the Seminary in Rochester, and chancellor of the diocese, Rev. Dr. Nolan. On Sunday evening, a reception will be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Tierney.

FIFTEEN RIDERS IN A BAD SPILL

Sensational Mix-up Features C. W. A. Meet at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 3. — (Canadian Press).—The Canadian championship bicycling honors were very evenly divided among the famous bicycle stars of the Dominion in the Canadian Wheelman Association meeting which was held yesterday under the auspices of St. Brigids Association. The big sensation of the event was the hair-line victory by Fred. McCarthy, of Weston, in the five-mile feature. Fifteen of the twenty-seven cyclists participated in a bad spill in this event, Bounsall, Webster and Brown going down.

Norman Webster, of Toronto, captured the quarter-mile championship from Bounsall and Mackay in 31 2.5 seconds, which, officials declared, was a new Canadian record for the distance on half-mile tracks.

Bounsall also broke the mile record, covering the distance in 2 minutes 11.5 seconds.

Frank Brown, of Toronto, held his Canadian half-mile title by repeating his win of a year ago.

WINE NOT TAKEN AS PRESCRIBED—$26 FINE

Being drunk on Wolfe Street on Saturday night brought a Peterboro young man into Police Court this morning, where he was fined $20 and costs, $26.50 in all.

The young man, who is 21, said a man who claimed he came from Havelock, pulled up beside him in a car at the corner of Stewart and Townsend Street and offered him the wine. He bought a bottle for $2.

Under examination by Chief Newhall, the accused admitted having purchased similar bottles in a grocery store in the city on previous occasions, but said he did not buy this particular bottle there. The bottle produced in court bore a label which read: "Wine of Red Cinchona Bark—Official. Vin St. Michel." The label was also marked "Dose, wineglassful before or after meals."

A TIMELY WARNING FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Parents Urged to Keep a Restraining Hand on Children Between School Periods.

At the nine o'clock Mass on Sunday at St. Peter's Cathedral His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who prefaced his remarks with a reference to the fifty-sixth birthday anniversary of the Dominion of Canada, and the duty of everyone of its citizens in praying for the welfare of their country and its people; gave some very timely advice with regard to vacation time, emphasizing the necessity of parental supervision over the summer activities of children, and the necessity of preventing summer relaxation from interfering with the spiritual welfare of the individual.

Speaking of parental responsibility at this season, His Lordship affirmed that men and women who would hesitate to leave gold or gems unguarded would jeopardize without thought the precious treasure of their children's souls, in allowing them too much license and freedom during the period of vacation, when the daily school supervision of their time and activities was relaxed.

CONTRACT LET FOR FACTORY ADDITION

Work Will Start in Oshawa at Once—Policy of Expansion.

A contract has just been let by General Motors of Oshawa for the erection immediately north of their present factories on Division Street of an assembling plant 600 feet long by 100 feet wide—the construction to be of steel concrete and brick. A second building on Richmond street, immediately west of the present office building is also planned. This building will be equipped as an up-to-date maintenance station and driveway building. It will be one and a half stories high, 200 feet by 100 feet wide.

For months past the Oshawa plants of General Motors have been working on maximum capacity. In many departments it has been necessary to work overtime. The demand in Canada for their cars has been unprecedented and foreign markets are showing a healthy and ever-increasing demand.

It is but two years since the corporation officials of General Motors decided to export from Oshawa and the venture has proven a decided success. Regular shipments are made from Oshawa to forty-two countries, and the Canadian-built product has met with great favor wherever General Motors cars have been marketed

The contractor to whom the contract for the large assembling plant has been awarded is under heavy bond to have the building completed by November 1st. Although the contract was only let on Friday June 29th, work is to commence on Tuesday July 3rd.

This new assembling plant will relieve congestion in some other departments and will facilitate the more economical assembly of the Cadillac, the Oldsmobile and the Oakland, all of which makes of cars are having a splendid sale in Canada and abroad.

The second building is planned as a model maintenance station —a sort of a demonstration depot where General Motors dealers all over Canada may profit by the Company's accumulated experience as to the proper maintenance of cars from the standpoint of efficiency economy and satisfation to the car owner.

General Motors officials realize that the manufacturers' responsibility does not cease with the purchase by the customer of a new car. They are erecting this new maintenance station to instruct dealers as to the most up-to-date methods of making repairs and keeping their customers' cars in good condition.

It is significant that while some writers on business topic have expressed pessimism as to the future business outlook, General Motors are launching out on a policy of expansion showing their faith in the future of one of Canada's greatest industries.

For You and Yours

The prettier teeth that millions now enjoy

FREE
At Stores Named See Coupon

There is a way to prettier teeth, and millions of people have found it. To their homes has come a new dental era.

Not only whiter teeth, but cleaner, safer teeth—new protection, life-long benefits to many. Results which all desire.

The way is at your call. Your dealer will give you a ten-day test. This is to urge that you accept it and learn what this method means.

Film makes teeth dingy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So, under old methods, much film remained; and 49 in 50 people suffered its effects.

Food stains, etc., discolor film. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That is why teeth grow dingy.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why tooth troubles come.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And that is alarmingly common.

Now easy to combat

Dental science has sought ways to meet this situation. Two methods have been found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. For years leading dentists all the world over have been urging its adoption. Now it is used by careful people of some 50 nations.

Old mistakes corrected

Research also proved that old-time tooth pastes did two things detrimental. They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

They reduced the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Pepsodent corrects those errors and does more. It multiplies that alkalinity, multiplies that starch digestant. Thus every use gives manifold power to those great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

These results have brought to millions a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

For careful people

Pepsodent is for dainty people who want whiter, cleaner teeth. It is for careful people who want better tooth protection.

You meet them everywhere. You see glistening teeth wherever you look. Now we urge you to learn how folks get them.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Do this now. The test is delightful. Its results will be a revelation to you.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

STATE WENT WET BY CLOSE SHAVE.

Interesting Story in Which An Ex-Bartender Figures Prominently.

NEW YORK, July 3.— National events many times hinge on small things. Here's a story of an insignificant shave that figured in an event that has turned the country inside out—politically.

The bill repealing New York's state enforcement act was introduced by Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier of this city. He put it in early during the last session at Albany. And it was pigeonholed.

In the State Senate the Donegan bill was introduced. It also called for a repeal of the Mullin-Gage law, the legislative name of the state enforcement act. On the final day of the session the Donegan bill was resurreected.

Ex-Barkeeper Missing

The Senate O K'd it. But because a former bartender was absent from his seat in the lower house the bill failed.

Wet leaders were panic-stricken, and it was then that someone thought of the Cuvillier bill. A searching party determinedly set out to look for the missing ex-bartender. Luckily as the party hove in sight of the barbershop, the assemblyman was being powdered. He was rushed to the voting chamber, and his vote made the Cuvillier repealer possible—a vote that has started the nation talking, and has changed the aspect of the pending presidential campaign.

Cuvillier is confident the Volstead law is doomed.

Wants Temperance

"We will always have and we should have temperance. But we eventually will not have prohibition as it is today," he says.

"Our repeal has made it certain that prohibition will be the dominant issue of the next national campaign. I introduced my bill because I felt the time had come to modify the Volstead law, which is fanatacism, pure and simple.

"I am a Virginian and I have always been opposed to man-made laws eradicating nature's laws. That is what was done in putting over prohibition during the hysteria of war.

"Each state has a right to say what is intoxicating and what is not. The constitution is not a law but a chart to guide government."

PARIS, July 3 (Canadian Press).— Captain Duellin, a French "Ace," met death at Villa Coublay when his machine dived out of control. Everything in the machine had been sacrificed to speed, and the suggestion has been made that the unfortunate airman was suffocated by the rush of air. The machine was undergoing tests for the first time and had climbed to 500 feet. Captain Duellin had a splendid war record, having brought down twenty-one German planes.

A few days before his death he is reported to have remarked: "In trick flying one says to oneself, 'I am a marvel,' but the thought is always present, 'when I break my neck it will be well broken.'"

SWINDLING COMBINES FLEECED IMMIGRANTS INTO UNITED STATES

Plans to Protect Aliens Launched At Hearing Before Assembly—Many Fraudulent Agencies.

SWINDLES REVEALED

Radicalism and hatred are bred in the hearts of many immigrants arriving here because they are permitted by the State and National Governments to fall victims to all kinds of swindlers and grafters who prey upon their ignorance, according to representatives of scores of organizations who attended a hearing yesterday by the joint legislative Committee to Investigate Exploitation of Immigrants. The hearing was held in the Aldermanic Chamber of New York City. Senators Salvatore A. Cotillo, Chairman of the committee, described recent cases of immigrant exploitation that had come to his attention.

Swindling steamship ticket agencies, employment bureaus, lodging houses, pseudo-banking institutions and various other groups of grafters who victimize unsuspecting immigrants from the time they leave Ellis Island until they begin to remit funds to needy relatives in their native lands were denounced by the spokesmen of the different organizations. Curbs of one kind or another were proposed.

Senator Cotillo's committee includes Senator Henry G. Shackno and Assemblymen John J. O'Connor, Russell B. Live more and Nelson W. Cheney. As a result of the hearing, Senator Cotillo will appoint a general advisory council of representatives of social agencies and immigration experts to assist in gathering first-hand evidence regarding exploitation and to advise regarding remedial legislation. The legislative committee adjourned its first hearing with a request to the organizations to submit all available data bearing on the question by Sept. 1.

Urges a Guide Service

The committee heard, amont others, Miss Virginia Murray, Secretary of the New York Travelers' Aid Society. She said there were so many swindlers awaiting an opportunity to exploit newly arrived immigrants that a guide service was necessary to aid the immigrants in running the gauntlet. She proposed that guides be furnished to take care of the immigrant as soon as he started from Ellis Island, through the Barge Office, and until he was placed under the protection of some recognized agency.

Mary Frasca, director of the Mulberry Community House, told of the suffering and bitterness caused by the recent failure of the ticket agency operated by the Tisbo brothers, Vincenzo, Francesco and Vito, who disappeared with about $60,000 of the funds of depositors who understood that the steamship agency run by the Tisbos was a sound banking house.

Hugh Grayne of the State Federation of Labor said that nowhere was the immigrant worker preyed upon with less conscience than in some of the fake employment agencies, demanding exorbitant fees and failing to provide remunerative employment.

"In my long and intimate experience with the foreign people who are coming to our shores," said Senator Cotillo in opening the hearing, "I have known literally hundreds who became embittered toward this country because some unscrupulous citizen had taken advantage of their ignorance of our language and customs and robbed them of what small savings they had. I heard just yesterday of an intelligent Italian peasant, just released from Ellis Island, who was charged $10 for staying one night in an east side lodging house room with four other men. I know an Italian who signed away property worth $1,000 when he thought he was buying a steamship ticket.

Swamp Land Sales

"I know scores of people who have deposited money with alleged bankers, only to discover some morning that the banker has disappeared. I know of real estate agents who had sold swamp lands in Florida and notaries public whose fees have ranged from $5 to $25 to newly arrived members of their own race. Experiences of this sort make these people bitter toward America and foster a feeling of resentment, which lays them open to all sorts of radical propaganda and propositions. I have for a long time been trying to get legislation which would give even the minimum protection which is necessary, and I am confident that the appointment of this committee opens the way for sound and constructive measures."

Edwin C. Rybicki, representing the Polish Democratic League, said that an investigation by that organization had disclosed that the swindling agents of concerns whose business is to victimize out around the railroad terminals and the waterfront.

"They talk the language of the immigrant and quickly win the confidence of those they intend to victimize," said Mr. Rybicki. "Life savings are stolen from trusting immigrants by these swindlers, and we have known whole families that were practically wiped out as the result of swindles which caused insanity and suicide.

"We offer to the State of New York and to your committee every assistance in framing legislation that will provide for the curbing of these unscrupulous agencies."

Morris Bernstein of the People's Immigrant Society said that one of the greatest businesses of exploitation was in the remittance of money by immigrants to their relatives in the old country. "We became interested in this phase of immigrant exploitation three or four years ago, when our attention was called to the case of an immigrant who had sent $60 to relatives in a foreign country," he said. "A check-up of the remittance disclosed that only $4 of the $60 was paid to the remittee."

Mr. Bernstein said that the State would do a wise thing to create a permanent agency to handle matters of immigrant exploitation and that the agency should be invested with power to interpret the right way of Americanization to immigrants.

Grafting by Hackmen

Nathaniel Phillips of the League of Foreign-Born Citizens told how he had found that grafting and exploitation was carried on even by hackmen who picked up immigrants at the Barge Office and elsewhere. Regarding steamship ticket agency swindles, he said:

"A failure of one of those agencies or so-called banks destroys thousands of good acts done by courageous citizens to make those immigrants good Americans. One act of graft will undo all that is done by a dozen Fourth of July celebrations to make good citizens of the foreign born."

The support of the National Catholic Welfare Council, the National Council of the Episcopal Church, the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., and about forty other organizations was pledged by their respective representatives.

Headquarters of the advisory council to be appointed by Senator Cotillo will be in the offices of the New York City Council on Immigrant Education, 244 Madison Avenue, which represents the social agencies working among foreigners. Senator Cotillo requested that communications regarding the investigation be sent to J. B. Buell, Executive Secretary of the organization, at that address.

REMOVING SCALE AND DUST

On every metal surface exposed to hot water, as in a steam boiler or a steam condenser, there is a gradual formation of "scale" which greatly impedes the flow of heat and may even endanger the safety of the apparatus. Similarly, on iron or steel structures there is a layer of dirt, old paint and rust which must be removed before the surface can be re-painted. In both cases it is wearisome and costly to remove the encrustations by hand, and there is always the risk that the job will be scamped or that the metal will be damaged. A series of power driven tools developed by a British firm permits any metal surface to be cleaned without injury in a very short space of time. For very heavy deposits of scale a minature chisel, giving from 5000 to 6000 blows per minute, is mounted on a ball socket and driven by compressed air. For ordinary work any one of a number of different patterns of rotating hammers and brushes is driven through a flexible shaft, or special cylindrical tools with a number of small radial pistons can be used. In the latter case, the outer end of each piston is formed as a chipping tool. As many as 12,000 blows a minute can be obtained, yet the tool can be used safely on such soft material as the copper pipes employed in breweries. Perhaps the most interesting equipment is the petrol-driven set designed for use when there is neither compressed air nor electricity supply available. A 2¼ horse power petrol engine is mounted, with its fuel tank and all accessories, on a steel framework, and the engine drives the scaling tools through a flexible shaft. This self-contained set can be clamped to a bridge-girder in mid-span and makes available the economy of machine working in the most inaccessible places.

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secertions from the skin, and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of peroxine powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off, and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

LAUNDRIES AT SEA

The washing of soiled linen, which involves such turmoil and fatigue in the ordinary household, is performed so unobtrusively on board a modern steamship as to escape all notice. Few ocean travellers would be prepared to say whether laundry work is done on board, yet every day is "wash day" on a liner at sea, and, both in capacity and equipment, a steamship's laundry often excells that serving a provincial town. Space and quiet operation being important factors, it is not surprising to find that electricity is pressed into service. An electric laundry recently installed by a British firm on board a well-known liner contains an electric motor driving a washing machine with water-saving tank, and hydro-extractor for removing water by centrifugal action. In addition to soap and soda dissolving tanks, hand washtubs for special articles, and a full equipment of clothes bins and accessories, there are a number of electric irons, and a collar and cuff machine with electrically heated roller. The arrangement of the various machines, ironing boards, and so forth, takes into the consideration the value of space and the fact that the equipment has to be kept working however rough at sea. There is no outward evidence of the existence of the laundry. Soiled linen is taken in at one door and clean linen emerges from the drying room 50 feet away. The process is just one of those unseen but essential services which helps to form the luxury of modern travel.

HOUSING SHORTAGE COMES BEFORE REAL ESTATE MEN

CLEVELAND, July 3 (Associated Press).—Problems relating to the housing shortage, labor and construction material costs and the general financial situation of the country will be subjects for discussion at the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards meeting here tomorrow. Sessions will be held in public auditorium, where the national exposition of building ideas will be held in connection with them.

Seventy-five hundred representatives of every branch of real estate interests throughout the United States and Canada, will attend to find a working answer to these and other questions, which more or less affect the general expansion of national business life.

A huge questionnaire, covering concrete facts on present real estate conditions, will be made public at the convention. This questionnaire not only deals with housing shortage, labor costs, and financial conditions, but with rental tendencies, mortgage supply money, interest rates, pronounced tendencies in suburban growth and market conditions for residential and business property throughout the country.

TORONTO MAN SPEAKS HIGHLY OF DRECO

Mr. Harry Hipkiss finds relief in Dreco when other medicines fail. Now has splendid appetite.

Mr. Hipkiss, of 2090 Dundas St., West, Toronto, One., had suffered for a long time from a run-down digestive system It simply would not function properly until toned and regulated by the corrective properties of Dreco, the famous herbal remedy.

"My stomach caused all sorts of trouble," says Mr. Hipkiss. "My food wouldn't digest and everything seemed to sour. My liver was sluggish and I would get bilious and have dizzy spells. My joints ached with pain from rheumatism. My bowels never acted regular, and I didn't sleep well at night. My appetite was very poor, but now I can eat almost anything without suffering afterwards. I am certainly glad I heard of Dreco, for it has done away with my troubles. It seemed to hit the spot when everything else failed."

Sluggish action of the organs can be charged with causing suffering such as Mr. Hipkiss describes. Poor digestion causes a weakening of the other organs and speedily takes a toll on the general health. Dreco is made from roots, herbs, bark and leaves which tone up these vital organs. It keeps them strong and healthy and acting as Nature intended.

Dreco is especially valuable at this season of the year to tone up a system run-down by the rigors of winter. It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE WONDER-WORKING PRINCE

During the early part of 1820 much interest was excited throughout Germany and, finally, throughout the length and breadth of Europe, by the report that miracles of healing were being performed by Prince Leopold Alexander of Hohenlohe-Waldenburg-Schillingfurst at Wurzburg, Hamburg and elsewhere—miracles which ranged all the way from the curing of those troubled by some recurrent minor disease to the healing of persons who had been pronounced on the point of death.

The first, and possibly the most remarkable of these, was in connection with the cure effected in the case of the Princess Mathilde of Schwartzenberg, a young girl of 17, who was a cripple and who had spent many years under the treatment of the foremost surgeons of Vienna and Paris. None of them, however, could do anything for her, and her knees were drawn up so tightly to her body that she could neither stand nor walk.

Prince Hohenlohe, who had previously effected some minor cures, became interested in the girl and asked that he be permitted to do what he could for her. What followed may be best told in the words of Prof. Heine, the eminent surgeon who had been attending the Princess for some months past.

"She was afflicted with several abnormalities of the thorax, a twisted spine and a number of other complications. She could not rise to her feet from a sitting posture, nor could she endure to be raised, a condition which had maintained since she was three years of age. * * *

"While I was at work upon an apparatus which, I hoped, would possibly enable her to walk without the risk of hurting herself by a fall, I called upon her on the evening of June 22, 1820, with the news that the apparatus was nearly completed. When I opened her door she rose from a chair in which she was seated and come toward me with short, somewhat uncertain steps, much like those of a child who is learning to walk. I was puzzled. I was amazed. I was astounded. It was only after I had asked the Princess to walk again—which she did in the same manner as before—that I noted the presence of a stranger, the Prince of Hohenlohe, to whom she gave all the credit ofr what she termed the 'miracle' of her cure."

During the year which followed the Prince performed a number of other remarkable cures, but always in private and under oath that his methods were not to be revealed. Then, about the middle of the following year, the wonders came to an end and no more was heard of his extraordinary powers—nor was any explanation of them ever forthcoming.

HUMANE SOCIETY TELLS HOW TO CARE FOR DOGS

CHICAGO, July 3 (Associated Press—Meals twice daily, with not too much meat, plenty of exercise without muzzles, cold baths, a dip in creolin to combat fleas, a cool, shady place to sleep, and a body clip in extreme southern portions, makes up the formula for summer treatment of dogs as suggested by the Illinois Humane Society.

"If every one will take care of his pets dhring the warm months, there will be no fear of hydrophobia or rabies in any American city," according to the society. "It should be remembered that a dog does not perspire like a human being, and that the only way he can relieve himself of the excessive heat is by opening his mouth and panting. Frequently a person sees a dog lolling its tongue trying to expel heat and exertion and a cry of 'mad dog' goes up. The original cause of the trouble, with very few exceptions, was that the dog was making himself comfortable.

"Regulations requiring a dog to be muzzled, so he cannot pant, is enough to drive a dog mad and goes to make any animal peevish and ready to snap. In hot weather all dogs should be allowed to run where they can open their mouths and pant as freely as possible.

"A dog enjoys a cold bath. Always permit them to swim wherever possible, or wash them at least once a week. He likes a cool, shady place to sleep, and a kennel that is dry and well ventilated.

"Fleas are the worst pest of dogs in summer. A tablespoonful of creolin or similar disinfestant dissolved in a quart of warm water makes a good washing solution against this pest. This operation should be repeated as often as necessary because the solution does not kill the eggs. Never apply kerosene or gasoline to the skin of a dog.

"Feed your dog twice daily, and not too much meat. Under no conditions should dogs be fed haslets, liver, veal, chicken, raw fish, oatmeal, cornmeal, rice, potatoes, cooked eggs, cakes and candy."

TORONTO, July 3.— Colored ballots for the use of women voters are urged by A. C. Fitzgerald, President of the Central Council of Ratepayers, in order that the part played by women in politics may be accurately ascertained. Mr. Fitzgerald thinks that if the comparative number of votes cast by men and women were made known, it would result in a sort of rivalry between the sexes to exercise their equal privileges as citizens.

BIG FIGHT IS NOW ASSURED

Manager Kearns Agrees to Take a Chance on the Last $100,000 Due Dempsey,

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 3.—(Canadian Press). — The Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship fight, suddenly called off at midnight last night, was put back on its feet again to-day and will be decided in the pine bowl at Shelby to-morrow.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, at a conference which broke up about three o'clock this morning, agreed to send Dempsey into the ring against Gibbons and gamble for the final hundred thousand dollars due on a three hundred thousand dollars guarantee. The promoters guaranteed the preliminary expenses of the show and incidental expenses, amounting to thirty thousand dollars.

Kearns will have jurisdiction over all the gate receipts until the champion's hundred thousand is obtained. The receipts will then revert to the promoters. Loy Molumby, Great Falls, who signed articles assuring the bout for Shelby, is back in control as promoter.

The fight was actually called off shortly before one o'clock this morning, after an angry argument between Kearns and George Stanton, local bank president, but finally a compromise was arranged.

CAMPBELLFORD DROPPED GAME

Warkworth Pulled Out With Close Margin of One Run to the Good.

WARKWORTH, July 3.—After holding a comfortable lead up to the end of the eight innings when their opponents scored two runs, making the honors even, Campbellford's league team lost the game with Warkworth on the latter's own grounds Monday afternoon. In the early stages of the contest the Campbellfords put up a classy brand of ball and Brady who pitched the first six innings, again distinguished himself in the box, allowing only one hit and holding Warkworth scoreless up to the fourth frame. He received excellent support from infielders and outfielders alike.

Weston, the heavy biller of the team and Holmes the catcher were not in the line-up or the result would have been different. The position of the players had to be shifted but Shillinglaw at first and Hume at second accepted all their chances without an error. Eagleson played short up to the seventh when he relieved Brady in the box and both showed up well as infielder Cowell played his usual good game at third.

The first run made by Warkworth was scored on a fluke. Back of right field there is a heavy growth of timothy almost waist high. Mulhall placed the ball in this meadow and Johnston was unable to find it in the grass. What at the most was a two bagger was called by the Warkworth enthusiasts a home run as Mulhall made the circuit. The search for the lost ball as given up so as not to delay the game, one of the spectators volunteering to look for it as he has had agrarian experience. That was one of the causes that contributed to Warkworth's defeat. Another was two or three raw decisions by the umpire on base and balls. It must be admitted, however, that the Veterans—every man in the line-up of the Warkworths, with perhaps one exception was overseas, put up a gallant fight and won fairly. A. Zufelt, who took Beatty's place in the mound, is a left hander and with plenty of steam and deceptive curves and his team mates can thank him for getting them out of a close corner.

The most sensational play was made in the second inning when a foul fly dropped into the crowd and one of spectators, who had probably never played a game of baseball in his life caught it in the crook of his elbow.

Shillinglaw who was playing out of his regular position at first, took good care of his corner. Nothing got away from him and he had nine put outs to his credit. Hume, shifted from right field to second, had four put out and as many assists without an error. Hume had two singles and a double in five times up and Shilling law had two doubles in three turns, at the bat being hit by the pitcher twice. Eagleson also made a double in the seventh. All of these hits for extra bases were clean drives and the ball did not drop into the waving timothy to help out the runners. The lineup:—

Campbellford—Cowell, 3b; Hume 2b; Brady, p and ss; Eagleson, ss and p; Shillinglaw, 1 b; Blakley, lf; Nesbitt, c; Johnston, rf; West cf.

Warkworth—McGregor cf; Poole 2b; Mulhall, ss; K. Zufelt, 1b; A. Zufelt rf; Beaty p; Dawson lf; Weson c; Dick 3b.

By innings:—

Campbellford ....41000011—7

Warkworth ....000201121—8

Umpire—Wood of Campbellford, on balls and strikes. White on Warkworth on bases.

Boy Scouts Win.

Warkworth celebrated the national holiday with an orgy, no less than three games being on the programme, but only two of these were played. Before the league game started, the Boy Scouts of the village and the team from the Cobourg Road gave a splendid exhibition of juvenile baseball, the Scouts winning in a contest that lasted out seven innings, by a score of 4 to 3.

The line-up was as follows:

Boy Scouts — Henry, 3b; Duncan, ss; Booth, lf; Bound, p; Dick, c; Frost, 2b; H. Nelson, rf; L. Nelson, cf; Boyce, 1b.

Cobourg Road — Collins, p; Vincent Keogan, c; Vester Keogan, 1b; Houghtailing, 3b; Lamey, ss; J. Coveney, lf; John Coveney, cf; W. Coveney, rf.

The four Coveney boys are brothers. Bound, the Boy Scout pitcher, is a master of the art, and would make a good twirler for any team in the Northumberland League.

Neil Thompson was umpire behind the bat, and Nesbitt Olliver on the field. Hugh Leonard is manager of the Boy Scouts, and his boys show that they have been carefully trained and handled.

Campbellford Girls on Hand.

Manager C. H. Davidson, of the Campbellford League team, is also manager of a team of girl players from his town, and these were slated for a game with a Warkworth nine. There were only seven of the Campbellford girls on hand, and the game was postponed for this reason and because of the lateness of the hour. Those on hand were:

Grace Blue, p; Eva Brady, c; Irene Tripp, 1b; Loretta Sarginson, 2b; Bertha Blue, 3b; Alice Reid, r; Clyta Sarginson, lf.

The girls did some snappy practice-play, and the pitching of Grace Blue, hockey star of last winter, attracted general admiration, as she has all the moves and curves of a league professional.

GOLF NEWS

KANAWAKI, Que., July 3.—(Canadian Press).—The first round of the Canadian amateur golf championship was played here to-day. Thirty-two players who emerged from the qualifying round yesterday were drawn into a series of interesting matches. None of the four United States players were drawn together. Toronto, which has nine representatives, was not so lucky, but fine matches should be provided by Stanley Thompson, who led in the qualifying round, who is drawn against his brother, Frank, former amateur champion, and George Lyon, Sr., who meets G. F. Shaw, of Scarboro. Another battle which attracted attention was that of J. Mickle, Halifax, and C. C. Fraser, Kanawaki, the present amateur champion.

The playing of Stanley Thompson of Mississauga Club, Toronto, in first half of first round of Canadian Amateur Championship here to-day, was of sensational character. He was matched against his brother, Frank an ex-Canadian champion, at thirteenth green he was five under par and nine up. His playing was all the more remarkable seeing that he went the round in a deluge of rain.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices —

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Special.)—Stocks opened higher to-day on a fair amount of trading. All classes showed improvement from the previous closing levels and it was notable that the Rails took up a substantial part of the trading.

Pan American showed a better tone, and after opening up 5-8 at 53 1-4, the 5 stock sold up another half point. The A stock was up 3-8 at 57 5-8 and soon after sold at 58. Trading turned dull shortly after the opening and prices receded fractionally in the leading issues. Over night political news of agitation for lower rates apparently had some effect on the Rail.

The Rails showed no disposition to follow through on their strength of Monday. None showed any weakness aside from New Haven, which sold under 12. This, however, is regarded as a situation separate from that of the leading Rails like Atchison and New York Central, which are looked upon as low in price because of earnings and dividends.

Foreign news of difficulty between England and the other allies on the reparation question brought to a head by diplomatic interchanges between London and Paris looked up on by the Street as a development which caused some of the liquidation of stocks in the last ten days.

Opening prices: United States' Steel 91 3-8; Studebaker, 101 7-8, up 3-8; United States' Rubber, 42 1-2, up 1-2; Pan American B 53 1-4, up 5-8; Pan American A 52 5-8, up 3-8; Corn Products ex dividend- 120 1-8, off 1-2; New York C. 97 1-4, off 1-4; Sinclair 22 7-8, off 3-8; Baldwin 119 1-4, up 1-4; American Can 87 5-8, up 1-4; B. and O. 44 3-4, up 1-2; Republic Iron and Steel 43, up 1-2; New Haven 13, off 7-8; Bethlehem Steel 45, up 1; Utah 57, up 1-4; American Tel. 120 7-8, up 3-8.

FAMOUS LOVE BOAT OF CHINA GIVES SCREEN THRILLS

Ming Toy is placed on the auction block of the "LoveBoat,' where Chinese Girls are sold into slavery, in a dramatic situation in "East is West,' the First National attraction with Constance Talmadge as star, which holds the screen this week at the Royal Theatre.

It is indeed a sorry time for Ming Toy. The richest of the prospective purchasers has just about concluded his bargaining when Billy Benson, a young American, recognizes her.

Billy rushes Ming Toy through the throng in a way that would do credit to any football star, and after the narrowest of escapes, lands the dainty celestial beauty safe in the hands of the Kindly Lo Sang Kee. Later the scene of action shifts to America, but the exciting conflict for the affections of Ming Toy is never settled till the story ends.

Constance Talmadge brings her gifts both as a comedienne and dramatic exponent to the part of Ming Toy. Billy Benson is played by Edward Burns while Warner Oland is the villainous Charley Yong. Other well known players in the cast are Nigel Barrie, E. A. Warren, Frank Lanning, Nick De Ruiz, Winter Hall and Lillian Lawrence Sidney Franklin directed the production.

Capitol Entertainment

"Only 38" is the very interesting feature picture at the Capitol Theatre which drew good holiday crowds yesterday afternoon and evening. A tale of the new home life; of the dominant daughter and the mild mother it is an entertaining story of life in a college town, played by Lois Wilson, as the mother who has been kept down in her natural impulses through a long married life with a Puritanical husband; by May McAvoy, the daughter who reproves her mother for frivolous desires and cretonne-clad furniture; by Elliott Dexter as the masterful man who loves the mother and addresses the daughter as "a selfish little brat," and by George Fawcett as the exceedingly nice boy. There is a pleasant ending to this picture, which delineates the trials of a woman seeking a little of the sweetness of life at the age of thirty-eight and the domestic upheaval resulting.

There is a particularly good short reel, a reminder of the last war and a warning against the next, in the trenchant cartoon sketches of the horrors of German domination during the days of 1914-1918, and the comedy is enjoyable throughout; a fantastical travesity on Robin Hood with the main characters from King Richard down, "taken off" by ridiculous characters and in foolish ways that provide many laughs for its audience.

COOLEST SPOT IN THE CITY

We suggest the Dempsey-Gibbons winner fight this Pennsylvania man who has 22 wives.

E. Flores Magnon is a man held in Mexico for sedition instead of a new nickel cigar.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray comes to Dallas and rents the most expensive hotel suite in the city. He is the enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker. Gray falls in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for Nelson, and he suggests that she also purchase land for him. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Ma Briskow and Allegheny, the daughter, to the mountains. Gray visits them there. A message comes saying that Bud Briskow, the son, has run away from school and Gray offers to follow him and bring him home. Gray returns to Dallas to see Barbara Parker.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

During the early dusk Gray returned to the lease, only to find even the greasy caretaker gone. By this time he was decidedly uncomfortable, and, to add to his discomfort, he conceived the notion that he was being followed. On second thought he dismissed this idea, nevertheless he took a roundabout course back toward the main street.

Before long Gray found himself in a superheated, overcrowded back room with a stack of silver dollars which he scattered carelessly upon the numbers of a roulette table. Roulette was much like the oil game. This was a good way in which to kill an hour.

Absorbed in his own thoughts, Gray paid little heed to those about him, until a large hand picked up one of his bets. Then he raised his eyes. The hand was attached to a muscular arm, which in turn was attached to a burly stranger of unpleasant mien. Gray voiced a good-natured protest, but the fellow scowled and refused to acknowledge his mistake. Noting that the man was flushed, Gray shrugged and allowed the incident to pass. This bootleg whisky from across Red River was of a quality to scatter a person's eyesight.

For some time the game continued before Gray won again, and the dealer deposited thirty-five silver dollars beside his bet. Again that sun-browned hand reached forth, but this time Gray seized it by the wrist.

With a wrench the man undertook to free his hand; he uttered a threatening oath. The next instant he was treated to a surprise, for Gray jerked him forward and simultaneously his empty palm struck the fellow a blinding, a resounding smack. Again he cuffed the fellow's face, this time from the other side. When he finally desisted the stranger rocked in his tracks; he shook his head; he blinked and he cursed; it was a moment before he could focus his whirling sight upon his assailant. When he succeeded it was to behold the latter staring at him with a mocking, threatening smile.

The drunken man hesitated, he cast a slow glance around the room, then muttering, hoarsely, he turned and made for the door. He was followed by a burst of derisive laughter that grew louder as he went.

Gray was in a better mood now than for several hours; he had vented his irritation; the air had cleared. After a while he discovered that he was hungry; no longer was he too resentful to heed the healthy warning of his stomach, so he left the place.

CHAPTER XIX
A Bold, Bad Man

NEWTOWN'S eating places were not appetizing at best, but a meal could be endured with less discomfort by night than by day, for at such times most of the flies were on the ceilings. The restaurant Gray entered was about what he had expected; along one side ran a quick-order counter at which were seated several customers; across from it was an oilcloth-covered table, perfectly bare except for a revolving centerpiece—one of those silver-plated whirligigs fitted with a glass salt-and-pepper shaker, a toothpick holder, an unpleasant oil bottle, and a cruet intended for vinegar. Here, facing an elderly man in a kide gray felt hat, Gray seated himself.

When a departing customer left the door open, the elderly diner grumbled bitterly at the draught and draped his overcoat over his bent shoulders.

Most of the counter customers had drifted out when, without warning, the screen door banged loudly open and Gray looked up from his plate to see his recent acquaintance of the gambling table approaching. He lurched directly up to the table and stared across at Gray.

"Slapped my face, didn't you?" he cried, after a menacing moment.

"I did, indeed," the speaker nodded, pleasantly.

"You ain't going to slap it again. You ain't going to slap anybody's—"

"What makes you think I won't?"

"HANDS OFF, STRANGER! I WON'T HAVE YOU BUTTIN' IN."

Gray became aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

That which occurred next came unexpectedly. The stranger whipped out from under his coat a revolver, at the same time voicing a profane answer to the challenge.

As Calvin Gray rose to his feet it was with a flash of mingled anger and impatience. This quarrel was so utterly senseless, it served so little purpose.

"My friend," he cried, sharply, "if you don't put up that gun, one of us will go to a hospital."

By way of rousing his savagery, the fellow uttered a bellow, then, like a warrior smiting his shield with his spear before the charge, he swung his heavy weapon, smashing at one blow that silver-plated merry-go-round with its cluster of bottles.

A shower of toothpicks, fragments of glass, a spatter of oil and vinegar covered the old man in the end chair, and he rose with a cry that drew a swift glance from the desperado.

Gray was upon the point of launching himself over the table when he witnessed a peculiar transformation in his assailant. The man's expression altered with almost comic suddenness, he lowered his weapon and took a backward step. Gray, too, had cause for astonishment, for the elderly man was moving slowly toward the disturber, his overcoat, meanwhile, hanging loosely from his left shoulder, like a mantle.

That he had been recognized was plain, for the armed man cried, agitatedly: "Look out, Tom! I don't want any truck with you."

The deliberate advance continued; in a harsh voice Tom answered: "I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating!" For every step he shuffled forward the man before him fell back a corresponding distance.

Again the newcomer rasped out a warning, and Gray, too, added his voice, saying: "Leave him to me, old man. This is my quarrel." As he spoke he moved around the end of the table, but the mantled figure halted him with an imperious jerk of the head. Without in the slightest diverting his steady gaze, Tom snapped:

"Hands off, stranger! I won't have you buttin' in, either. I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating."

Brief as had been the whole episode, already passersby had halted, staring faces were glued to the front windows of the cafe. Well they might stare at those two tense figures, one advancing, the other retreating, as if to the measures of some slow dance.

But the tempo changed abruptly. The desperado's back brought up against the swinging kitchen door; it gave to his weight and decision was born of that instant. With a cry he flung himself backward, the spring door snapped to and swallowed him up with the speed of a camera shutter; then followed the sound of his heavy rushing footsteps.

"Hell!" exclaimed the old man. "I had his buttons counted!" With the words he let fall his overcoat, and there, beneath it, Gray beheld what he had more than half suspected, what indeed was ample cause for the quarrelsome stranger's apprehension. Held close to the owner's body was what in the inelegant jargon of the west is known as a "dog leg." The weapon, a frontier Colt's of heavy caliber, was full cocked under the old man's thumb; the hand holding it was as steady as the blazing eyes above.

The street door burst open, a noisy crowd poured into the room, a volley of excited questions was raised. Amid the confusion Gray heard his own name shouted, and found himself set upon by two agitated friends, Mallow and Stoner.

Mallow dragged him toward the door.

"Gee, Governor! You gave us a run. We've been coming since noon."

"It was only by the grace of God," Stoner declared, "that we heard you were out here and why you'd come. We managed to get a phone call through to Jackson, but it was—"

"Jackson didn't get to you, did he?" Mellow inquired, anxiously.

"Get to me? No. Nor I to him." Gray spoke impatiently. "What is this all about?"

"Simply this, Governor: Jackson's well is a 'set-up'! For Nelson! We nearly dropped dead when we found out that Parker kid had laid you against it. Why didn't you tell us—?"

"What are you saying? I don't—"

"The well's phony. Dry as a pretzel."

"In what way? I saw the oil—"

"I'll say you did." Mallow chuckled. "Live oil, too; right out of old Mamma Earth. Cheap lease at seventy-five thousand, eh? It's like this: the pipe line of the Atlantic runs across Jackson's lease, and one dark and stormy night he tapped it. It wasn't a hard thing to do; just took a little care and some digging. Now he runs the oil in, pumps it out and sells it back to them. He's a regular subsidiary of the great and only Atlantic Petroleum Company. It can't last long, of course, but—oh, what a well to hand Nelson. What a laugh it would have been!"

Gray clamped a heavy hand upon the speaker's shoulder; harshly he inquired, "Do you mean to say that Miss Parker deliberately—"

"She don't know anything about it."

"You said she 'laid me' against it."

"No, no! I merely tipped her to it because she's one of Nelson's brokers."

"I told you my fight with Nelson was to be fair and square."

Petes Won Two Games Yesterday--Lost To Belleville Saturday

RECRUIT HEAVER WINS THE INITIAL GAME FOR PETES

Hutchinson Pitches Steady Ball Against Cobourg and Homesters Win Out in Tenth.

THE MORNING GAME.

Although there was nothing at stake in the holiday morning fixture at Riverside Park, the game which was won by the Petes 6 to 5 in ten innings was one of the best of the season. Cobourg took the lead in the first half of the tenth, but the Solomon crew came back with two runs in their end of the frame and won out neatly, the victory giving them second place in the first half of the Big Four race.

Scott Hutchinson, the Petes recruit hurler from the East Peterborough League, made his Central League debut and the big left-handed youngster turned in an excellent performance against the hard-hitting lakeshore crew. Hutchinson had speed and control and worked steadily all the way, holding the visitors to nine hits, of which only two came in the last five innings.

Manager Solomon had a new line-up in action—Hap Harrison covering first, while Comolli went to second. Harrison looked after the initial sack in great style and Comolli accepted nine chances without a skip. Ansaldo had a busy morning at short, turning in a fine performance, and "Red" Legon had a field day in left, gathering in seven flies.

J. Kenny pitched steady ball for the losers and was given great support by Turpin at third and Skitch at second, while Higginbottom made a fine catch of Collins' smash to deep centre.

Helson, the Petes third baseman, had a finger badly jammed by T. Kenny's terrific drive in the third inning, the batter getting a double. Collins finished the game at the difficult corner.

Cobourg scored one in the first. Skitch, first up, flied to Legon, but Turpin singled to left, and after T. Kenny had popped to Harrison, J. Kenny's slashing double to centre, which Wolfe nearly grabbed, scored Turpin. Higginbottom fanned.

It took three errors to score the visitors next counter in the second. Boundy got a life on Lowe's muff and went to second on a passed ball. Derry struck out. Boundy scored on Swanston's low throw to second, which got away from Wolfe, after Jackson had flied to Legon. Campbell drew a walk. Skitch gave the left fielder his second put-out of the inning.

The Petes went ahead in the fourth. Harrison singled to right and went to second on Hutchinson's grounder to first. Legon bunted safely, and Harrison scored on Jackson's low throw to third, Legon reaching second. Wolfe singled to left, scoring Legon, but was out at second trying to stretch his hit into a double. Swanston singled to centre and Ansaldo doubled to left, Swanston pulling up at third. Boundy's low throw on Collins' roller allowed Swanston and Ansaldo to score. Comolli fanned.

Cobourg evened up the count in the fifth. Skitch opened with a single over short and Turpin's swinging bunt was over-run by Hutchinson, going for a hit. The runners advanced on T. Kenny's roller to the box, and both scored on J. Kenny's slashing single to centre, the batter going to second on the throw to the plate Higginbottom struck out and Comolli tossed out Boundy.

Both teams were blanked from then on until the tenth Turpin, first up for Cobourg, got a life on Ansaldo's fumble, but was forced at second on T. Kenny's roller to Comolli. J. Kenny singled to centre, Higginbottom's single past Collins scored T. Kenny, Swanston picked Higginbottom off first and Boundy popped to Harrison.

The Petes, facing a one-run deficit, went to work briskly in their half. Wolfe whistled a single past third, and was sacrificed to second by Swanston. Ansaldo's slashing double to left sent the tieing run in. Collins walked, and Comolli's infield out moved the runners up a peg. It was up to Johnston, and he made good by cutting a fast one past third, scoring Ansaldo with the winning counter.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 3.—(Canadian Press)—The Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship fight was near collapse yesterday when Major J. E. HELD LEASIDE IN EXHIBITION GAME

The Lacrosse Squad Made Good Showing at Port Hope.

Peterboro's junior lacrosse team strengthened by a few intermediates succeeded in holding Leaside's intermediates to the score of seven goals to four in an exhibition game at Port Hope yesterday. Although expecting to be overwhelmed by the motor factory crew who had a decided advantage in weight and experience, the local squad had the bigger share of the first period which ended in their favor by three to two. Leaside opened up stronger in the second and at half time had the margin of one goal with the score five to four.

In the third quarter Johnnie Sutherland sent in several of his younger players resting a few of the faster men for the final session, but the game was called at three-quarter time after Leaside had run up their count by two more goals.

The local team was as follows: Goal, Jack LeBarr; point, Fred Goodfellow; cover point, Taylor; 1st defence, Bob Miller; 2nd defence, Lou LeBarr; centre, Lionel Brown; 2nd home, Ranger; 1st home, Johnston; outside home, O'Toole; inside home, Killoran. Spares, Gene Donovan, Curtis, Simms, Foy, Curtin and Ira Dundas.

Vic Hamilton, George Mein and Johnnie Sutherland accompanied the team and were delighted with their showing considering the difficulties they have been up against this season. O'Toole and Killoran each got two goals, and are credited with exceptionally good work. Goodfellow on the defense and Ranger on the home steadied the team, and did a big share of the work. Lionel Brown at centre got most of the draws and Alf Johnston was going as fast as last season. Miller and Taylor on the defense handled themselves in fine style, and Lou LeBarr looked better than ever around centre field. Jack LeBarr in goal made quite a number of clever stops and the team as a whole demonstrated their possibilities when working together and in their best form.

Corbett Dennenay the Leaside coach was referee and Johnnie Sutherland judge of play.

CAMPBELLFORD BEAT ORLAND

A Snappy Game Gave Davidson's Team a Score of 17 to 7.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3.—Charles H. Davidson took his Northumberland League team to Orland on Saturday afternoon and the boys had the best end of the argument, putting up the snappiest game that they have played this season. Brady, the clever centre fielder, proved himself a genral utility man by going into the box and pitching the first five innings, holding the Orland sluggers hitless. For the first four innings only one Orland player got to first. The score shows that in the fifth innings the Orlands made five runs, and every one of these was due to a fielding error which enabled the batters to reach first. Egleson finished the game for Campbellford and was very effective.

Shillinglaw, running into first, collided with Houlihan, who guards that sack for Orland, and for a time both men were unconscious. They were brought to by their comrades and finished the game.

Way was evidently afraid to risk Weston, the Babe Ruth of the Campbellfords hitting the ball, and tried to pass him every time he came to bat. Weston, however, was not looking for walks and managed to lan don the sphere no matter how wide it went. Houlihan relieved Way in the ninth but he was too late to save the game. The line up:

Campbellford — Coxwell, 3b; Holmes, c; Hume, rf; Weston, 1b; Shillinglaw, 2b; Blakely, lf; Nancarrow, ss; Brady, cf, p; Egleson p, cf.

Orland—V. Moran, lf; Houlihan, 1b; Samis, ss; Plumpton, 2b; W. Moran, cf; Way, p; Belford, 3b; Ames, rf; L. Moran, c.

PETES WIN FIRST GAME IN SECOND HALF OF THE RACE

With Only Three Hits Off Jahren, Solomon Crew Beat Cobourg 5 to 1 in Afternoon Fixture.

"HECK" EFFECTIVE.

The Petes got away to a good start in the second section of the Big Four race and made a clean sweep of the Dominion Day series with Cobourg by grabbing the afternoon game at Riverside Park yesterday from Dick Turpin's lively crew. The final count was 5 to 1 and the Petes were in front from the fourth inning on, taking the lead in that session after Cobourg had broken away from the barrier and set up a one-run margin in the first frame.

It was a battle of right handers, Heckman opposing Jahren, Cobourg's Swedish hurler from Gull Lake, Saskatchewan. Heck had considerably the better of the argument, although he allowed seven hits to three because he gave nothing away, kept the Cobourg safeties scattered and extinguished ten by the strike out rout. Jahren was found for only three safeties and but one of these figured in the run-making but his lack of control was costly, four of the Petes getting bases on balls while two others were hit and two of these charities blossomed into runs while several others indirectly were a factor in the scoring. The three misplays marked up against the Petes did no harm while two out of the three Cobourg errors were costly and in addition the Petes used five sacrifice hits and pulled two double steals, demonstrating that runs can be scored and ball games won by heads up baseball with a minimum of hits.

There was a lot of snappy fielding on both sides and the game provided lively entertainment for the big holiday crowd.

Cobourg got their only run in the first inning. Skitch singled past second to open the frame. Turpin bunted a fly to Harrison. T. Kenny was thrown out by Heckman, Skitch going to second. J. Kenny's solid smash to centre scored Skitch. Wolfe gathered in Drennan's high fly after a run.

The visitors were only really dangerous twice afterward. In the fifth T. Kenny was safe on Comolli's fumble, J. Kenny singled viciously through short, T. Kenny going to third. J. Kenny stole second. Drennan and Higginbottom fanned and Jackson lined to Collins for the third out.

In the eight T. Kenny singled to third and stole second as J. Kenny fanned, but the next two were easy.

The Petes broke into the scoring column in the third. With two down, Wolfe walked and stole second and Swanston's slashing double to left sent the run in.

In the fourth they added two more without a hit. Heckman got a life on Drennan's fumble and went to second on a passed ball. Comolli bunted for a sacrifice but Jahren threw to third too late to get Heckman and everybody was safe. Comolli stole second. Johnston flied out to J Kenny, Heckman holding third. Collin's sacrifice fly to centre scored the Petes' pitcher. On a double steal Comolli scored and Harrison reached second. Legon was thrown out by Jahren.

There were two more easy runs in the fifth. Wolfe first up got two bases when Boundy dropped his high fly to left. Swanston sacrificed him to third. Ansaldo walked and stole second. Heckman hit to Drennan and Wolfe beat the throw home, Ansaldo going to third. On a double steal Heckman was safe at second and Ansaldo scored. Comolli's screaming grounder hit Drennan on the leg and bounced over to Skitch who threw the batter out at first. Skitch also got Johnston's roller retiring the side. There was no further scoring.

VETS TOO MUCH FOR WOOLLENS

The Latter Played Short-Handed and Were Defeated By a Score of 6 to 1 on Saturday.

A fair crowd of spectators witnessed the football game between the Vets and Woollens on Saturday afternoon at the Oval. The Vets won by the score of 5 to 1, and although a big score against the Woollens, they deserve great credit for playing the game with ten men.

The Woollens started the game with only ten men and were the first to make a raid on goal, where Bishop blocked the shot of J. Shaw. He drove hard down the field to Wade, centre-forward, who tackled the full-backs, obtained possession and shot hard at Chambers and Cridland to clear. Peel went down the field with the ball, crossed over to the Vets centre-forward, who lifted the ball back over Derry's head, and just as it was touching the ground, let drive with his left foot, to score a beautiful goal. Even with ten men the Woollens made many raids on Crowe and Bishop, who were very safe. A wind blew up which assisted the Vets for a short period. Chambers made a clever clearance to Monkman, who transferred the play to Vets' goal. J. Shaw accepted the chance, to test Griffin. Midfield play was now in order, with neither team showing to advantage at goal. A miskick by Warman let Sharman cross over in front of the Woollens' goal, to let Wade lift the ball through the goal. An individual effort by Mitchell left Burrows behind, and a nicely placed ball by the Woollens centre allowed Reid, right in front of goal, to score, but he kicked with the wrong foot and missed just as half-time arrived. Vets 2, Woollens 0.

With only five minutes gone in second half, the Vets centre-forward shot from 10-yard range, to deceive Chambers with a twirlling ball he only touched as it went through for the third goal. A few minutes later the Vets made it four. Rain made the ball heavy and spoiled the play. Twice in succession the Woollens got fruitless covers and Reid missed a sure goal, being in too big a hurry. Monkman was conspicuous on the field by his aggressive work in the half-back line, and from a timely pass to Sayers the latter scored for the Woollens. Both teams missed great chances to score from nice combination by the players. A miskick by Derry in the 18-yard area allowed J. Peel to go straight ahead and score with a low fast drive. Raid after raid was made on the respective goals. On one occasion Mitchell outwitted the Vets defence, then passed out to Gaskill, who returned the ball to the centre-forward, who gave Griffin a fast shot to handle. Quick as a flash Sharman beat three men in succession, giving Chambers no chance to save. The final whistle went a few minutes afterwards. Vets 6, Woollens 1.

Goal scores—Jas. Wade 3, Sharman 1 and Peel 2. Woollens, Sayers.

PETES LOSE IN CRUCIAL GAME OF FIRST HALF

Bad Decision By Umpire Dell the Break That Gives Belleville the Victory.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 4.

A raw decision by Base Umpire Si Dell of Oshawa in calling Weir safe at first base in the seventh when everybody else in the park saw the Belleville shortstop was out by a yard, was the break in Saturday's Big Four game at Riverside Park that eliminated the Petes from the running in the first section and allowed Belleville to win by 5 runs to 4, the first loss on the home grounds for the Solomon crew since the year before last. The play on Weir should have retired the side, but instead Belleville scored a run afterward, and the counter was enough to give them the decision.

It was the most exciting game of the season, and a tough one for Heckman to lose, his teammates faltering behind him at moments when misplays hurt the most. A misjudged fly by Collins in the fifth was responsible for several Belleville runs, and slow fielding and a poor throw to third by the same player cost another in the seventh, following Dell's bad decision. The winning run in the eighth was the result of a fumble by Johnston. Heckman fanned eleven of the visitors and was decidedly unlucky to lose the decision.

Williams started for Belleville, but after he had walked two men to start the fifth retired in favour of Oulette. Good bunting by the Petes enabled them to score three runs in that frame, but Oulette held them hitless and runless in the last four innings. He was materially aided in the eighth by Brownscombe, who with the tieing run tearing for the plate and two out, went back into deep left and made a great catch of Ansaldo's hard smash that was labelled a triple.

There was no scoring until the fourth, although both teams had an opening, and the Petes lost a run when Ansaldo failed to score from second on Swanston's rap past third.

The Petes broke in front in the fourth. Heckman singled past second to start with and was sacrificed to second by Helson. A passed ball put him on third. Meagher knocked down Wolfe's hard smash and made a try for Heckman at third, but the Petes pitcher played it safe and did not attempt to score. Wolfe stole second. Legon's sacrifice fly to Ross sent Heckman in, and Wolfe reached third. Collins flied to Ross.

Belleville got that one back and a couple in the fifth. Ross singled to left to open the frame and Meagher beat out a bunt to Johnston. Collins misjudged Brownscombe's fly to right, and it went for a double, scoring Ross, instead of being an easy out and a double killing, for the base runners were in motion as soon as the ball was hit. Weir struck out, but Mills' hard smash to deep right centre, which Wolfe reached but could not hold, scored Meagher and Brownscombe, while the batter reached second. He went to third on a wild pitch. J. K. Williams fanned and Casey flied to Collins.

The Petes regained the lead in their half. Ansaldo and Johnston walked, and Oulette replaced Williams on the rubber for Belleville. Swanston sacrificed the pair along a peg. Comolli bunted down the first base line and Ansaldo slid around Hagerman at the plate. Comolli stole second. A wild pitch scored Johnston and sent Comolli to third. Heckman stole second. Helson's sacrifice fly to Casey scored Comolli. Wolfe fanned.

Dell's bad decision enabled Belleville to tie up the game in the seventh. Meagher singled to right to start with. Brownscombe fanned. Weir hit to Ansaldo, who stepped on second, retiring Meagher, and then shot the ball to Comolli, apparently doubling Weir by a yard. Umpire Dell, however, called the runner safe. Mills singled to right, and Collins after holding the ball threw badly to third and Weir registered. Mills reaching second. J. K. Williams singled through short, Wolfe's throw home preventing a score. Casey rolled to Johnston.

The winning run came with two out in the eighth. After Hagerman had fanned and Oulette flied to Collins, Johnston fumbled Ross' roller. Ross stole second and scored on Meagher's single over Ansaldo's head. Meagher went to second on the throw to the plate. Brownscombe hit to Ansaldo, and Meagher was called out for interference when he ran into the shortstop.

The Petes had a chance to tie it in the eighth when with two out Collins got a life on Weir's throw which pulled Mills off the bag. He went to second on a passed ball, but Brownscombe's great catch saved the day for Belleville.

KINGSTON PONIES HERE ON SATURDAY

Batstone and Company Meet Petes in Second Round Fixture.

Saturday's defeat put the Petes out of the running in the first half of the Big Four race and yesterday morning's win over Cobourg did nothing but give the homesters second place, the final standing in the first half being:

	Won	Lost
Belleville	7	4
Peterboro	6	6
Kingston	5	6
Cobourg	5	7

The win in the afternoon was an auspicious start for the second half. There will be no mid-week game this week and the Petes next battle will be at Riverside Park on Saturday with the Kingston Ponies. The two home games with Kingston in the first half were among the best of the season, the local crew beating the Ponies 4 to 2 in the first engagement and 1 to 0 in the second and there is every reason to expect a similar struggle when the two teams tear into each other Saturday. The rest will do the Solomon outfit good and they should be fit and ready Saturday for the Kingston clash. A win over Batstone's crew would give the Petes a nice start in the second round.

Team Standings of No. 2 Lacrosse Group.

The standing of No. 2 group in the Juvenile O.A.L.A. series:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play.
Havelock	3	1	0
Hastings	1	1	3
Marmora	0	2	2

Cowell of Hastings is classed as one of the fastest home men in the juvenile game.

Havelock made a find when they landed Stacey of Peterborough for their defence.

Deseronto has won their group for their district in the juvenile series.

Trenton and Hastings are billed for a league game here on Wednesday. This is the game worth seeing, as Trenton stands first in the league and Hastings third.

The Hastings juvenile lacrosse team will cross sticks with Marmora on Friday afternoon in Marmora in an O.A.L.A. game.

ANDREW WILSON & CO. TORONTO MONTREAL

LACROSSE

The junior squad should not miss any of the practices for the game in Marmora on July 11th. The first work out is on Wednesday evening, and while it was expected to be held on the Sacred Heart church grounds that field will probably be occupied for the next week or more by the preparations for the annual lawn social. The practice will likely be held at King Edward Park.

It may not be amiss to refere to one or two of the essentials of lacrosse simply as a reminder to the junior candidates. It is probably not necessary to point out that every player especially those from centre through the home field should get away from their checks as soon as their team gets possession of the ball. On the other hand there should be a general move to cover up their checks as soon as the opposing ball passes into the hands of the opposing team.

This is a fundamental of the game, and its advantages are obvious. When the home uncovers it is for the purpose both of drawing out the other team's defense and also leaving the home players in a position to take a pass. When the defense follows out, even though only part way, the home players have got to be in action. There is no such thing in that play as the home men standing still waiting for a pass from centre. If they are glued to some position their checks are sure to be right on top of them.

This general policy of covering-up when your opponents have the ball usually helps to prevent an odd man getting away. On the other hand when your side has the ball and the men are uncovering, getting away from their checks, they themselves may have a chance to work the odd man down the field.

Juniors can try this co-ordination of effort out for themselves. It should be generally practiced that it is part of their instinctive team play. Naturally it means that the players must be in good physical condition. It requires action, but the wise lacrosse squad can find moments for rest without breaking up the style of play.

The running passes are the groundwork of nearly all that is spectacular in lacrosse. The best home division often asks only for the advantage of being inside their checks when they are attacking. They play so fast, their movements are so swift, that the ball flies from one stick to another before the opposing defense can interfere. That degree of skill should be the ambition of the Peterboro boys who have taken up the game. It calls for practice and still more practice plus use of wits and intelligence at outguessing the other side. And of course condition is a prime requisite.

Working for the advantage of the odd man and then making immediate and quick advantage of him should be the thought of the whole team. It makes the attack easier on the whole, and with the present permission of changing men at each quarter the team should be able to keep fresh without materially diminishing its strength.

FOOTBALL NOTES

All members and directors of the P. and D.F.A. are requested to attend the meeting tonight in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, after the game.

The Woollens are the most unfortunate team in the Football League through several players receiving injuries and in the last two games they have only been able to place ten men on the field.

With all the players returned from the artillery camp, the C.P.C. will be able to place a good team on the field tonight for the Phelan Charity Cup.

A special meeting of the Thistle F.C. will be held tomorrow (Wednesday) evening, at the Exhibition Grounds at 6.15 prompt. Executive and players attend Business "Ways and Means."

All those who stand on the touch line and criticize the referee, give their unnecessary advice, also question various decisions, can do the game a lot of good if they would become a referee. The Association is still crying out for more referees.

The Canadian Woollens will place the following team on the field at King Edward Park this evening: Chambers, Reid, Cridland, Warman, Monkman, Sayers, Leach, Mitchell, Downes, Shaw and Roberts.

Lenglen Will Not Meet Mrs. Mallory.

WIMBLEDON, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Somehow or other the tennis lovers of this world are going to have to get along all summer without either seeing or reading about a match between Suzanne Lenglen of France and Mrs. Molla Mallory of the United States. For this Mrs. A. E. Beamish, one of Great Britain's best tennis players, is to blame. It was she who stopped Mrs. Mallory yesterday afternoon, just when the United States champion was rushing toward another collision with Suzanne. Now it will be Mrs. Beamish instead of Mrs. Mallory, who meets the incomparable champion, when the French girl steps upon the centre court for the semi-final match in a campaign for her fifth world's championship.

CONTROLLER OF FINANCE WOULD SAVE MILLIONS

Ferguson Has Decided on Appointment of Expert Financial Advisor--Half Dozen to Choose From.

CABINET THIS WEEK.

TORONTO, July 3.—"Ontario is to have an expert financial advisor under new government. All doubts upon that score were put at rest last night, when Howard Ferguson, said over long distance telephone from his home in Kemptville that that was one settled item of policy of new government. "I have not the slightest doubt" said Mr. Ferguson, "that if Ontario had such a man in the last four years, he would have saved tax payers of the Province, at least four million. To measure up he must be a big man in every way, and man who does measure up will be entitled to a good salary." While Provincial treasurer in Ferguson Government is still to direct the financial policies of the department, Ontario's controller of finance—for such he will be designated—will have the task of working out the Province's own financial problems. "I haven't decided upon the man yet," Premier-designate said "I have half a dozen in my mind." When will Ontario know names of her new cabinet ministers?" he was asked. "I hope before the end of this week. I am going to pick an organization that will give the best government, regardless of every other consideration. I think I have got it."

"Texas Jack" Sullivan Paddles Across Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, July 3.—A new record in paddling a canoe was established here late Sunday, when "Texas Jack" Sullivan arrived at the Cleveland Yacht Club after paddling across Lake Erie. He made the sixty-mile trip in four minutes less than 24 hours.

As far as known Sullivan is the only white man who ever paddled across the lake in a canoe alone. Clothed only in the trunks of a track suit and a pair of shoes, Sullivan departed in an 18-foot open canoe from Rondeau, Canada, opposite here at 5.14 p.m. Saturday, arriving in Rocky River Sundky evening at 5.". A heavy sea was encountered during the last twenty miles, but up to this time the lake had been smooth.

Sullivan felt no ill-effects from his experience. His equipment consisted of two quarts of oatmeal broth, some water, a battery which operated an automobile light, and a sweater, which he donned during the chilly hours of the late night.

Fossilized Skeleton Discovered in River Bed — Ten-Foot Tail.

PEKING, July 3.—(Associated Press).—Practically a complete fossilized skeleton of a dinosaur has been discovered by members of the third Asiatic expedition sent out by the American Museum of Natural History under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews.

The expedition left Peking early in April for a point near Ehrlin, 270 miles beyond Kalgan on the Urga route, where last year's excavations gave promise of further valuable finds.

Working in what appears to have been a bend in a river-bed, the searchers found the skeleton at a depth of three feet.

In spite of the presence of numerous bones of other animals it has been possible to distinguish those of the huge creature. The ribs on the upper side are nearly all in place and a fossilized tail about ten feet in length is entirely complete. The work of excavating and covering the bones with preservatives has been going on for two weeks.

Word reaches Peking that the locality is rich in prospects and promises an entire summer's occupation.

VOL. LIII., No. 2 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1923 PRICE THREE CENTS

JAMES LARKIN MAY BE CHIEF DOCKER STRIKE

Present Strike in London Docks is Similar to One Started in Ireland Two Weeks Ago.

MEN RESENT CUT

LONDON, July 4.—(Special.) — Is Jim Larkin behind the great dockers' strike now spreading in London and threatening England's food supply? This daring Bolshevist Irish leader called a similar strike in the ports of the Irish Free State two weeks ago, which was not wholly successful, but is still continuing. Many of Larkin's followers after his departure for America, found employment in English ports where they have been preaching Larkin's doctrines.

They have been closely co-operating with him since his return to Ireland. Union officials have condemned the strike, which is organized by a few wild radicals demanding that under the present agreement, wages were to be reduced by one shilling if the cost of living fell by ten points.

This fall has been recorded but the dockers refuse to accept the shilling cut. It is expected that the strike will spread to many other London docks. To-day many thousands of pounds' worth of perishable foodstuffs are held up in the ships. It is expected that the crisis will increase the price of commodities affected.

POLICE RECRUITED FOR ADVERTISING

Will Distribute Cards Bidding Visitors Welcome to City.

Fruits of the advertising policy of the City expressed through Trent Waterway circulars, magazines and newspapers are now appearing in the form of motor boat cruisers and auto mobiles bearing United States tags which appear daily on the waters and in the streets of the city. Many enquiries are answered daily at the Chamber of Commerce by Secretary Leon Frazer, who has taken an active part in the development of this traffic.

Still further enlargement of the advertising scheme is projected. An artistic card is to be issued for distribution by the police. The card will bear on its face a reproduction of the city seal and a welcome signed by Mayor W. H. Taylor. On the reverse will be a map of the city showing how to reach the Motor League headquarters where maps, charts and information may be obtained. The motorists' chagrin on being halted by a policeman will doubt less be assuaged when they are handed this friendly token of welcome and promise of assistance in making their tour successful.

Request from Detroit

Senator W. H. Bennett, Honorary President the Trent Waterway Development Association, has received a request from the Detroit Yacht Club for a presentation of the films and first hand information which was so successful in Rochester a few weeks ago. The Detroit Yacht Club has recently built a million dollar club house, and is conceded the biggest Yacht Club in the world.

Ontario Booklet

An artistic booklet has been issued in the interests of the Province under the direction of James Hales, K.C., who was allowed an initial appropriation of $10,000 by the late Provincial Government for this work The little volume of 70 odd pages, well illustrated with a variety of pictures of scenes in Ontario's forests, on her farm in her parks and playground and in her towns and cities, has the added advantage of a provincial road map and smaller maps of some of the cities. Ontario is described as "the lakeland playground."

FURTHER DETAILS OF WARSAW BLAZE

Quantity of Lumber and Tools Destroyed — A Total Loss.

WARSAW, July 4.—(Special).—At 4 o'clock this morning the sawmill owned by William Selkirk, of Warsaw, 14 miles from Peterborough, was burned to the ground after being struck by lightning.

The building had been built only 15 years, and it contained at the time of the fire several hundred dollars worth of valuable carpenters' tools. A new engine and a canoe were also destroyed. Some of the lumber near the building was saved, but a large quantity was lost.

The fire was not noticed until nearly 5 o'clock, and it was then too far advanced to be checked. A thunderstorm was raging at the time. No insurance was carried on the building or contents.

Action by States Is French Appeal

PARIS, July 4.—(Special).—A tribute to the American troops who came to France's aid in war time and caustic criticism of American aloofness since the war was voiced by Premier Raymond Poincare in a speech at the unveiling of a monument to American volunteers here to-day.

"After contributing to the saving of France from the claws of Germany, will America now stand aside and watch with indulgence while Germany tries to revise the victory and prepare to ruin the people whose territory she ravaged", the Premier demanded, will the United States watch with cold serenity this iniquitious scandalous spectacle? "France has need of peace time volunteers to defend her— as much need as she had of arms in war time."

RECORD CHEESE AT HIGH PRICE

Today's Board Took 1308 Boxes at 17 Cents or a Total of $20,000.

The record for both number of cheese boarded and the price set two weeks ago were broken this morning when 1308 boxes sold at 17 cents. This is an increase in the number of cheese of 296 and an advance in price of half a cent.

Bidding was brisk at this morning's session, rising quickly from Mr. Gillespie's starting bid of 16 cents to the close at 17 cents. The price in Belleville on Saturday was 16 11-16 cents. There were four buyers present, G. Thompson for A. A. Ayers Co., Montreal, took 591 boxes W. Cook bought 537 boxes; G. A. Gillespie accepted the balance and F. Matthews had a watching brief for the Canadian Packing Co. The Cheese boarded totalled in value about $20,000. Thompson Braden of Lakefield presided.

JAZZ CLOTHING CRAZE IS BAD FOR MERCHANTS

TORONTO, July 4. —(Canadian Press.)—Demand for "jazz" clothing is on the wane because this style has made merchandizing for retail clothier and travelling representatives of wholesale clothing firms a positve hardship. So declared F. A. Keiff of Chicago, in his annual address yesterday at the opening session of convention of International Association of Clothing designers. He urged concerted effort to settle upon standard design with a view to checking the "jazz evil."

LATEST PAPAL LETTER RELIEVED THE TENSION

ROME, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—Pope Pius' letter to Monsignor Pacelli, Paper Nuncio in Berlin, charging him to make vigorous representations to the German Government that it condemns the crimes in the occupied regions under the guise of passive resistance, has had a marvellous effect in relieving the tension caused by the Pontiff's reparations letter to Cardinal Gasparri, according to indications in political and diplomatic quarters here.

BYNG DECLARES THAT CO-OPERATION NEEDED

FREDERICTON N.B., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—"East is as necessary to west as west is to east. They are just a interdependent as city and country as manufacturer and agriculture. And if they do need each other in this way, it is essential that they should know each other and so yet themselves, with mutual understanding and sympathy, to solve some difficult problems which confront world to-day," declared Lord Byng of Vimy, replying to address presented to him upon his arrival here on his first visit to Maritime Provinces as Governor General of Canada.

GERMANS WILL FIGHT FRENCH WITH "PUTSCH"

Plan a Revolution if Cuno's Government Fails — All Plans Are Said to Be Ready.

FRENCH ON MOVE

BERLIN, July 4.—(Special.)— In the event of Chancellor Cuno's resignation or the Government's capitulation on the Ruhr the Prussian Government has all plans ready to proclaim a state of siege .This would give the police and military all Governmental powers on the assumption that such contingency would be the signal for a "putsch" or revolution.

Police officials confirm dispatches admitting extreme radicals are plotting with conservative extremists for a serious attack. Necessity has made strange bed fellows in the plot. Communists, Reds and Radicals, backed by Moscow are lined up with old line Conservative Monarchists, who desire to see Germany freed from French measures—for different reasons. French troops Tuesday moved up to the very edge of the city of Frankfort-on-Main, posting six sentries in their former flying field there. It is not known whether they intend to re-occupy the city, but their present position is a highly strategic one ,commanding the gates of one of the largest and most beautiful of the upper Rhineland. With the French threatening Frankfort and occupying all the lower Rhineland, the situation is comparable to an invading army having seized New York, Jersey City, Newark, Yonkers, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie and now extending its line to Albank and Troy.

NOT ENCOURAGING SUNDAY BATHING

Ald. Turner Explained Position of Parks Committee in Providing Accomodation.

Opening the dressing-rooms at the bathing beaches on Sundays was not placing the stamp of the Council's approval on Sunday bathing, Ald. Turner declared last night in reply to Ald. Crowe's objection to the recommendation included in the report of the Parks Committee.

"Last Sunday the dressing quarters were open for the first time at Lake Street," said the chairman of that committee. "On the preceding Sunday the caretaker was not required to be there, but he went there in the regular hours, and his presence probably meant the saving of a boy's life. People go there on Sundays during the warm weather, and while Mr. Raymond was at the Lake Street beach a week ago he rescued a boy who had got out into deep water."

Ald. Turner stated that the committee had no desire to encourage swimming on Sunday, but the members realized that since many persons went to the beaches they might as well be properly supervised and the ordinary service provided.

"It seems to me it's not the right thing," Ald. Crowe asserted. "I know when I was a boy we were not allowed to do it. It looks to me as if we were going to the extreme a little, and I don't think we should encourage it. There is plenty of time during the week for that kind of thing. It means you have to keep a man at each place, and I don't think it is in the interests of the city to keep those bathing places open.

Ald. McIntyre—That was my position a year ago. We might not be able to stop them from going in swimming, but at least we shouldn't encourage it.

Ald. Phelan—Any person who has a car can motor to Chemong or South Beach for Sunday bathing, but the public bathing beaches for many persons who have to remain in the city. Besides there are many persons who have to work all week. Everybody hasn't a car to shoot off to the resorts, and opening the local dressing quarters is only a matter of providing decent accommodation for the people who would go there anyway. I don't think it does anybody any harm. When they go there we might as well give them the accommodation so that they may dress in the building and have their valuables taken care of.

Ald. Crowe—I'd call it breaking the Sabbath. I won't stand for that.

Ald. Maher said he had been informed that before the dressing-room at Lake Street was opened, bathers used the McDonald property and were a public nuisance. He didn't regard it as a desecration of the Sabbath to provide proper accommodation for persons who would go to the beaches anyway.

Mayor Taylor cut short the discussion and voted with the majority of the eight aldermen present for the adoption of the committee's report.

JIMMY ODETTE LOST HIS LIFE THIS MORNING

Took a Weak Spell While Fishing and Was Dead When Taken From the Water.

PULMOTOR CALLED

Jimmy Odette, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Odette, 39 Crescent Street, was drowned this forenoon when he was overcome by a weak spell while fishing in Little Lake, and fell into the water.

The accident occurred about 150 yards south of the Lake Street bathing beach at 10.50.

The little boy was fishing from the top of the logs which build up the bank at this spot, and was hidden from the roadway by a dip in the ground and from the bathing beach by a boat moored between the two places.

A boy who was with young Odette tried to pull him out, and when he found he was unable to do this he shouted for help.

David Raymond, son of the caretaker at the beach, called out to his father, who was in the building, that Jimmy Odette "had a weak spell in the lake."

Mr. Raymond ran out, and in a hasty glance around could see no sign of an accident in his vicinity. He saw a crowd gathered around a launch on Crescent Street, and ran towards it.

He was called back, and on arrival at the scene of the fatality found that Jimmy Odette had been taken from the water.

Restoratives Failed.

David Raymond, 14 years of age, succeeded in bringing the unfortunate boy to shore, and immediately telephoned to the Fire Department for the pulmotor.

Young Odette was floating on his face. Raymond said, when he reached him.

Mr. Thomas Raymond applied artificial respiration, and succeeded in releasing the boy's lungs of a considerable quantity of water, but without success. On the arrival of the pulmotor it also failed to restore respiration.

Charles Martin assisted in the attempts to restore the unfortunate child.

It was thought by the caretaker that the boy may have succumbed to the shock resulting from the faintness and striking the water.

Mr. Raymond felt keenly the tragedy, although it did not occur within his domain, and eye-witnesses say that he had no opportunity to do more than he did in his efforts to save the boy's life.

TEN THOUSAND ARE ON STRIKE

Night in Cape Breton Industrial Area Passed Without Disturbance.

SYDNEY, N. S., July 4—Canadian Press. — With over ten thousand men on strike in Cape Breton industrial area night passed without any serious disturbance, so far as the police and the municipal officials have been able to ascertain this morning.

In the coal fields relays of pickets organized on military basis are closely guarding the 22 colleries of the British Empire Steel Corporation, but no attempt is being made to work the mines, and the company officials are bringing out the horses and trying to keep the pits pumped. They have so far not been interfered with.

Semi-official information from Besco sources indicate that the company regards the trouble as between the men and the Federal and Provincial governments, rather than between the men and the company; inasmuch as their avowed demand is for the removal of the military and provincial police who were sent here by the two governments respectively. The strikers have also abandoned the fight to save the big coal bank at New Aberdeen where a huge heap of over 250,000 tons of coal have been on fire for the past ten days. No disturbances have occurred at the Steel plant or the coal mines and no move toward a settlement has been made by either side since the informal conference between Hon. D. A. Cameron and the strike leaders here yesterday.

VIOLATED ACT.

OTTAWA, July 4. Canadian Press —That the eight thousand coal miners of Cape Breton Island, who went on strike at 12 o'clock last night because troops and provincial police in the Sydney strike area were not withdrawn, have violated the Industrial Disputes Act, was the opinion of Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, to-day.

"The provincial authorities of Nova Scotia are responsible for the preservation of order and the enforcement of Federal laws. They must deal with the situation," he declared.

CURZON THINKS FRANCE MAY NEVER LEAVE RUHR

LONDON, July 4. — (Canadian Press.) — Discussion by Cabinet Council to-day of reparations and kindred problems is expected to go forward toward solving the situation. Lord Curzon will make a report on his conversations yesterday with French and Belgium ambassadors. All accounts of what transpired yesterday agree that the discussions were inconclusive. Diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail dwells on the vagueness of Count De Saint Aulaire's statements and on small expectation of an early settlement.

"Count De Saint-Aulaire's statement," he said, "prompted Lord Curzon to remark that it seemed as if France, by insisting she cannot leave the Ruhr until her claims are fully paid, will never leave, since by remaining there she is impairing Germany's capacity for payment."

Leo Tobin of Lisburn Street Caught Fish Measuring Four Feet Four Inches.

LOOKS LIKE RECORD

A lunge measuring 52 inches in length was caught just above the waterworks dam yesterday by Leo Tobin and his brother Tommy, of 49 Lisburn street.

About ten o'clock last night Leo walked down George street to the Examiner office with the huge fish over his shoulder and almost dragging on the ground. The pair looked like the pictures advertising a popular brand of cod liver oil.

Stretched out on the office floor, the fish measured exactly 52 inches from tip to tip and 16 inches in girth. Accurate scales were not accessible, but the weight was judged at over 33 pounds. Mr. Tobin used a white chalk line, and said he was glad he didn't hook the big fellow while fishing from a canoe.

Previous Catches.

In 1914 a big maskinonge was taken from Little Lake The fisherman, Harry Donovan, created a sensation when he carried it up George street, and it measured only 40 inches.

Perhaps the nearest to yesterday's record was a lunge caught near Deer Bay in 1921 by Mrs. Darcy. This one was 49 inches long and weighed 34 3-4 pounds. Fishermen who viewed Mrs. Darcy's catch estimated its age at 50 years. It is a smart fish that can evade the batteries of small boys' pins and plutocratic anglers' silver plated shiners for fifty years.

Mr. Tobin took his fish to a photographer last night and expects to have it mounted. He feared it would be too tough to eat.

GERMANS BUILDING ZEPPELIN FOR U.S.

Fear French May Extend Occupation and Interfere With Construction.

CONSTANCE, Germany, July 4. —Uneasiness exists all around Lake Constance lest the French extend their occupation in Germany east to Lake Constance, and interiere with the Zeppelin which is under construction here for the United States Government.

Little has been said about the machine which is to attempt flight to America. It is taking form in the great sheds of the Zeppelin Company, at Frederichshafen, and no definite predictions have been made by the builders as to when it will be ready to make a trial flight to Berlin preparatory to starting across the Atlantic.

Under the Versailles Treaty Germany is prevented from making Zeppelins for her own use, but this prohibition naturally did not extend to the manufacture of giant aircraft for France's Allies and associates in the war. However, the Germans fear France will find some pretext to interfere with the building of the great ship, or to prevent the delivery of materials necessary in the work.

Lake Constance has been so closely identified with the building of Zeppelins that the citizens of all the towns around the picturesque little inland body of water have a keen interest in the mammoth craft which is being fashioned for the United States Navy

Indications now are that the Zeppelin will not be ready for its trans-Atlantic flight before the late autumn and possibly not till next spring

CONSERVATIVE LEADER HELD A CONFERENCE

TORONTO, July 4. Canadian Press. — Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier designate, returned to this city yesterday, and the Queen's Hotel has become temporarily the Conservative headquarters.

Mr. Ferguson was in conference this morning with a number of his supporters. Among them were W. F. Nickle, Kingston, J. R. Cooke, N. Hastings, W. W. Black, Addington, Charles McCrea, Sudbury, and Col. Currie, Toronto.

It was announced that the personnel of the new Cabinet would not be made public for two or three days.

AUTO TURNED TURTLE IN IRRIGATION DITCH

WINDSOR, July 4 (Canadian Press). — Six persons were saved from drowning near Maidstone, 12 miles from here, yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding turned over in an irrigation ditch containing six feet of water.

The rescues were made by David Girardot, 24, Sandwich.

Those rescued were Miss Cecilia Girardot, Sandwich, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Aust, London, and their three children. Edward, seven, Annette, four, and William, eighteen months.

Praise Scenery on The Trent Waterway

"The hospitality of your Canadian people is wonderful," R. Bender of Buffalo, N.Y. told the Examiner this morning. Mr. Bender is cruising through the Trent Waterway with a party of five, going from Buffalo to Georgian Bay and French River. He was especially struck by the courtesy of the lock keepers, who, he said, might be expected to show annoyance on being compelled to let small boats through.

Mr. Bender's cruiser, the "Swanona," is a 28 foot boat with 6 feet 2 inch beam, and his ultimate destination is Wahnapitae Lodge on Lake Wahnapitae.

The party praised very much the beautiful scenery and the kindness of the people along the route.

ASKED, BEGGED, HOPED, PRAYED

R. C. Braund's Appeals for Sidewalk Finally Answered by Council.

For a sidewalk in front of his property on the west side of Park street, between Albert and Lake streets, Mr. R. C. Braund had "asked, begged, hoped and prayed," he reminded the Council last night in a letter renewing his petition in the fear of future disappointment.

Last year the Board of Works had filled in the ditch between Lake and Chamberlain streets with the intention of laying a sidewalk on that side of Park street this year, but Mr. Braund had also requested that the sidewalk be carried through from Chaberlen to Albert street.

"The request is reasonable and we should do something,' said Ald. Stocker.

Ald. Turner urged that the walk be laid from Albert street to Lake street for the additional reason that it would be a convenience to many of the employees of the Canadain General Electric Company who passed that way.

Ald. Stocker advised that the remaining length of ditch north of Chamberlen street be filled in this year and a sidewalk built on it next year when the filling had settled. Meanwhile a concrete walk should be laid on the west side of Park street between Chamberlen and Lake streets.

Mayor Taylor also suggested this plan, and City Engineer Parsons reminded the Council that he had previously outlined that procedure.

Accordingly, on Ald. Stocker's motion, seconded by Ald. Maher, the lower block will be finally provided with a sidewalk this year, and the ditch between Chamberlen and Albert streets will be filled in preparatory for the construction of the rest of the sidewalk next year.

Mr. Braund's moving plea to the Council last night was as follows:

Gentlemen,— For years I have been promised a sidewalk from my house down the west side of Park street to the end of lot 1, plan 43, or on to meet the sidewalk at Lake street, west side of Park street. In the last ten years we have put in two petitions asking for it. I have been before the Council several times. The sidewalk in front of 27, 29, 31, 33 Park street and right down to Joe Johnston's is broken up and some one may get their leg broken.

I did without a sidewalk (other than second hand boards) in front of my own home for 18 years, and last pear I laid that myself. For three years now I have had promises, but no sidewalk.

I have asked, begged, hoped and prayed, and begins to look as though this year I will be disappointed again. I hear you are thinking of putting a sidewalk on Wolfe street west, a very long piece of it. They need it, but we asked for our sidewalk before their street had a house on it.

Please, surely you will consider a rightly signed petition. No government will ignore such. Why then can't we have this sidewalk.

I once more ask, please build a sidewalk on the west side of Park street from my house south to Lake street, as petitioned for and oblige.

Yours truly,
R. C. Braund.

PLEASE NOTE

That during July and August our office will be closed all day Thursday, our hours for the rest of the week will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Saturday, when we will be open till 10 p.m. —W. H. LACEY, Optometrist, 410 George street, 'Phone 1160.

HUNTER STREET BRIDGE PAVING WITH CONTRACT

John Carroll's Price for Extra Work is Accepted by the Council at Last Night's Meeting.

THIRNBECK ENGAGED

John Carroll's price of $2.34 a square yard for the paving of the Hunter Street Bridge and its approaches was accepted by the Council last night on the recommendation of City Engineer Parsons, and on Ald. Turner's motion, seconded by Ald. Fife. An extra of fifteen per cent. is allowed the contractor for removing the asphalt paving on a short stretch of Hunter Street between Queen and Sheridan Streets.

Mr. Parsons stated that the specifications in the existing contract with Mr. Carroll for the paving of George Street South and Hunter Street East, from Burnham Street to the Westclox Factory, would apply to this additional work, which the Council decided upon as an afterthought to their original programme for the summer. The revised contract for Hunter Street covers the entire stretch from Queen Street to the Westclox grounds east of Armour Road.

Olive Avenue Also.

In his report to the Council, Mr. Parsons said that Mr. Carroll had asked for the use of the road roller to break up Hunter Street East. Included in the extra work is the paving of Olive Avenue, a short narrow street north of Perry Street and west of George Street, for which Mr. Carroll quoted $2.10 a square yard. A concrete slab will be laid in the centre of the street, serving both as roadway and sidewalks. The top surface of concrete will be five inches deep with proper grading.

Mr. Parsons had been instructed to interview Mr. Carroll with respect to these two extras, and the City Engineer recommended the contractor's tender as fair to both parties.

Ald. Crowe's Objection.

Ald. Crowe alone opposed the motion, restating his objection to the proposed lines of sidewalks on Hunter Street from the bridge westerly beyond Sheridan Street. He contended that by curving in the walks in that part of the western approach the street was narrowed, thereby reducing the room for traffic, and at the same time affording a frontage for the store on the north-west corner of Sheridan and Hunter Streets. The city had paid $700 property damages to the owner of those premises, and the property, still belonging to the city, was used by the occupant of the store, who displayed his goods on that strip even on Sundays. Ald. Crowe argued that the sidewalk should be carried in a straight line toward the bridge.

Claim For Louis Street.

Ald. Maher referred to Mr. W. H. Bradburn's offer to pay half the cost of paving Louis Street opposite his property, and suggested that the present might be an opportune time for this work if satisfactory arrangements could be made with Mr. Carroll. It was pointed out, however, that Louis Street could not be paved until all the sewer connections had been put in.

Ald. Crowe asked whether the Council was content to drift into the policy of doing all its street paving by contract. Louis Street, he remarked, could be done by the city just as Chambers Street had been paved. However, the discussion terminated with the information that sewer connections to the properties on that street were prerequisite to paving operations.

Accept Contract Bond.

By a clause in his agreement with the city, twenty per cent. of Mr. Carroll's contract price was withheld as a guarantee. Last night the Council accepted a contract bond for

BRITAIN ASKS IF LAW SAME FOR ALL NATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 4. Canadian Press. — A new technical point regarding ship liquor, which is believed to be of great importance to British shipping, has been called to the attention of Secretary of State Hughes by the British embassy here.

Following the request for information the Secretary has asked the Treasury Department for the facts. The inquiry results from the case of the British liner Tuscania, which plys between New York and the Italian ports carrying a large number of Italian passengers, both in the cabins and in the steerage. The Cunard line by terms of the contract, is bound to furnish liquor rations in accordance with the Italian law. Britain wishes to to know whether the same allowances of medicinal liquor are to be made for the British liners are are made in the case of the Italian liners which have Italian law to comply with.

Bread And Butter For Largest Family Known

Dr. Barnardo's Homes are once again making their Annual Appeal for Half-Crowns in memory of the Founder in connection with their Anniversary, which will be celebrated on Saturday, 23rd June, at the Model Village for Girls, Berkingside, Essex. H.R.H. Princess Beatrice will attend. The Duke of Somerset will preside.

The Barnardo Family is the largest in the world ,7,308 children (of whom 1,328 are helpless babies and toddlers under 5). All these growing youngsters need food to turn them into Ar. citizens.

Since the Homes were founded, 57 years ago, 95,098 children have "passed through," the majority taken from circumstances and surroundings which would have prevented them from growing up healthy, profitable citizens of the Empire.

At this moment 7,308 are undergoing the process of transformation.

It is these 7,308 who look to a generous public for food.

Last year 306,475 Half-Crowns were collected, sent in by 48,476 friends from all over the Empire.

There is no joy equal to the joy of giving, there is no satisfaction equal to the satisfaction of helping those who really need your help.

Cheques and Orders payable "Dr. Barnardo's Homes Founder's Day Fund" and crossed, should be addressed to the Honorary Treasurer, Howard Williams, Esq., at Headquarters, 18-26, Stepney Causeway, London, E. 1, England.

TORONTO, July 4. — (Canadian Press).—Four persons met sudden death through various causes in Toronto yesterday. EXPERTS FOUND PROOF HUMAN BLOOD STAINS IN AUTO OF THE PRIEST

Tests Were Described in Court and Stated to Be Positive Proof—Not the Blood of Animals.

GREASE SPOTS.

MONTREAL, July 4. Canadian Press. — The feature of the afternoon session of the trial of Rev. Father Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother, Raoul, here yesterday was a statement in evidence by Dr. D. D. MacTaggart, medico-legal expert attached to the court in support of his colleague, Dr. Wilfred Derome, that tests of bloodstains on cloth taken in conjunction, and with a quantity of blood sufficient to obtain a solution, constituted a positive proof of the existence of human blood on the cloth. If the stains were of tears, perspiration, spittle or mucous deposits from the organs, the tests would be incomplete.

Dr. MacTaggart also stated that the test necessary to ascertain whether the blood was human or animal, was not extremely difficult to carry out, but it was one that demanded extreme care.

Dr. Derome, whose cross examination by counsel for the defence took up practically the whole afternoon, declared that the stains that were found on three cushions and the leather seat in the back of the priest's automobile had been subjected to chemical, microscopical, biological, spectroscopical and precipitation tests, and that he had found the stains to be human blood and grease spots.

A gruelling cross examination of Dr. Wilfrid Derome, medical autopsist, attached to the court, by C. H. Cahan, K.C., for the defence, featured the resumed hearing here this afternoon in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme.

Mr. Cahan sought to show that the stains on the automobile cushions and quilts which have figured in the evidence might have been due to animal fluids other than human bloods, such as spittle or perspiration, or to human blood to which no suggestion of crime could apply. He further argued and obtained an admission from the witness that the validity of the tests employed by him depended on the length of time within which they had been made. Dr. Derome went at length into the methods employed for ensuring that instruments used in the tests were sterilized and prepared, and full precautions taken against invalidating the tests by coughing during the making of such tests.

Mr. Cahan went into the question of the precipitant test and ascertained that before undertaking this method Dr. Derome had taken a cloth apart from the stains in order to find out whether that piece had in itself an acid or an alkaline reaction. It was neither acid nor alkaline, he said. The witness agree that if any acid or alkaline existed in the dye or fabric of the cloth, and if he were in error in stating there was no trace of either in the cloth, then his whole test would fall to the ground. He added that he had made the same tests and arrived at the same conclusion in regard to the automobile cushion. Mr. Cahan pressed his question as to the possibility of their being fat in the stains upon the cloth which the witness had out for the test, urging that the presence of fat would destroy the validity of the test. To this Dr. Derome replied categorically: "In the first place I said there was none; secondly; secondly if there was any in small quantity that would not modi-

Cheese Exports Show a Decided Increase.

MONTREAL, July 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The exports of cheese from the port of Montreal for the week ending June 30, 1923, were 48,252 boxes, which showed an increase of 29,859 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 9,426 boxes with the same week last year, but the total shipments from May 1, 1923 to June 30, 1923, have been 78,678 boxes smaller than the corresponding period for 1922, and 279,299 boxes less than 1921. There were no exports of butter last week, as against 4,605 packages for the same week last year, while the total shipments for the season to date have only been 10 packages, as compared with 27,723 packages last year, and 6,331 packages for 1921. The exports of eggs for the season 1923 to date have been 2,500 cases, as against nil for 1922, and 9,400 cases for 1921.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMPSON.

OMEMEE, July 4.— News of the death of Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson of Tweed, reached Omemee on Monday morning and widespread is the sympathy for the sorrowing husband and three little daughters, Helen, Maxine and Edith Mrs. Thompson, who was the second daughter of Mr. Charles McCaffrey, died following an illness of over two years from cancer. All that medical skill and loving care could do, was done to alleviate her suffering until God called the loved one to her final reward. The passing of Annie McCaffrey Thompson, to the family forms but "an added link in the mystic chain which binds them from earth to Heaven." In the past eleven years, they have laid to rest, their mother, two brothers, William and James and one sister, Mabel.

The funeral of Mrs. Thompson was very largely attended on Tuesday afternoon from the home of her father, Mr. Charles McCaffrey, Omemee. Rev. Mr. Stillman, of the Methodist church, conducted the service, which was most impressive. The remains were borne to their last resting place in the McCaffrey plot in the Emily cemetery.

Many beautiful floral tributes bore evidence of the love and esteem in which the deceased lady was held.

To the sorrowing husband and three little daughters the sympathy of the community at large is extended as well as to the bereaved father, his son, Mr. Charles McCaffrey, of Windsor, and daughter, Mrs. Falt, the Misses Addie, Ethel and Maye, of Toronto and Mrs. Shearer of Buckhorn.

MRS E. WILLIAMSON

Mrs. Eli Williamson passed peacefully away early on Sunday morning after an illness resulting from a fall some ten weeks ago. Mrs Williamson had reached the good old age of eighty-six years and death was not unexpected. Her aged husband predeceased her one year ago.

The funeral, which was held on Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended, the service being in charge of the Rev. R. F. Stillman of the Methodist church.

In the loss of a devoted mother, the sympathy of the community goes out to the family, Messrs. Clarence, George and Arthur of Omemee, Charles of New York city, Mrs. Sandy of Buffalo and Mrs. Horton, of Cleveland.

Get Sunburned all you wish

Rub Campana's Italian Balm on your face and arms each day. It won't prevent you getting sunburned; in fact, it assists the sun in giving the skin a clear, healthy, bronzed texture, instead of a coarse redness, but it will prevent the roughness and soreness and irritation that comes from sunburn, or excessive perspiration.

Be sure to take a good supply of Campana's Italian Balm away with you on your vacation—because you can't buy it conveniently at many summer resorts.

DON M'MILLAN SET SAIL FOR FROZEN NORTH

Cast Off From Sydney Harbor Last Evening and May Be Gone For Over Two Years.

A PICKED CREW.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 4. Canadian Press. — Captain Donald McMillan and his men cast off from their wharf here at 6.04 last evening and headed the vessel Bowdoin for the far north.

The Bowdoin took provisions, oil and ice here.

"If I am not back in Sydney harbor by September, 1824, then I will remain in the Arctic for one more year," said the intrepid explorer today.

MacMillan's crew on the Bowdoin includes several who have been associated with him in his many trips to the Arctic. One Nova Scotian, besides MacMillan, who is a native Cape Bretoner, will make this trip on the Bowdoin. He is W. A. Lewis of Digby, N.S., the cook.

The other members of the MacMillan party are Thomas McCue of Brigus, Newfoundland, a war hero, who went over the top 36 times with a Newfoundland regiment, and as a result wears several decorations; Ralph Robinson, one of MacMillan's veterans, who is the chief assistant of the Bowdoin master; Richard Godard, who will be in charge of the magnetic work; Abe Bromfield, of Labrador; John Jaynes, engineer, who was a special marine inspector for the United States Government during the war; and Don Mix, the 21-year-old wireless operator. Mix was selected for the trip on the Bowdoin out of 15,000 young men, who are members of the American Relay Association.

The Bowdoin is of 57 tons gross, and carries 12 tons of coal, and 3000 gallons of fuel oil. There are 200 barrels of gasoline on the schooner which has a cruising radius of 4000 miles. The schooner is loaded to the hatches with fuel and provisions.

Captain MacMillan is taking to the Arctic a beautiful bronze tablet which he will place at Cape Sabine where 18 members of the famous Greenley expedition back in 1884, died of starvation and exposure.

"I intend to make Cape Sabine my winter quarters," said Captain MacMillan, "We will build a house there and do most of our magnetic exploring form that quarter."

Farmers' Union May Take Direct Action.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 4. — (Canadian Press.)— The Farmers' Union, in its fight for better conditions, will take direct action if the big interests which control the farmers' commodity, do not change things, according to L. P. McNamee, chairman of the union. At yesterday morning's session of the annual meeting here, Mr. McNamee avowed the union's intention of getting control of the farmers' commodity. Co-operation would be given by the industrial unions, he said, and matters would be as effectively tied up as when the big interests place an embargo upon wheat, or remove money from circulation.

NORTH BAY MEN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE IN CAR

Auto Plunged Over An Embankment Into River But Occupants Escaped With a Few Scratches.

SAVED BY TOP.

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 4.— (Canadian Press).—The most remarkable escape from serious injuries and possibly death that has been recorded this season, was the experience of four occupants of a North Bay automobile while driving to Sturgeon Falls last Sunday evening.

The automobile which was owned and driven by Bernard McDonnell of North Bay, had just left a piece of gravel road at the approach to the bridge that crosses Little Meadowside River, about ten miles west of North Bay, when the machine swerved and the soft ground giving way, suddenly plunged nose downward over the fifteen foot embankment and turned in its fall, settled on its side in the waters of the creek. Only the limbs of a tree that was just below the surface of the water prevented the car from turning over further and pinning its occupants underneath

Besides Mr. McDonnell in the car were Jack Cavanagh, Jack Burney, and E. F. Halpenny, all of North Bay. They were saved from injury only by the fact that the top was up but they had no difficulty in extricating themselves from the car and water. They were taken to Sturgeon Falls by Provincial Constable Robinson who was motoring homeward. The sole injuries reported were a few scratches on the face and body of Mr. McDonnell.

The car itself, weathered the accident in remarkable fashion, only the fender and top suffering to any extent. It was brought to North Bay for repairs.

NEW WORLD DIET IS BLAMED FOR CAUSING CANCER.

The American Osteopathic Association is Told That Natural Food and Rational Exercise Will Combat Dread Malady.

NEW YORK, July 4.—The prevalency of cancer in this country is due to American cooking and dieting, according to Dr. E. M. Emery, who addressed 2,000 osteopaths this morning at the opening session of the convention of the American Osteopathic Association in the Waldorf-Astoria. Citing insurance statistics showing that the liability for cancer was increasing faster than the cancer death rate, he said that this indicated the necessity of not waiting until the middle or old age to look for the symptoms of the malady.

"We know that the native tribes, such as the Indian and the Eskimo, do not have cancer," he said. "Remove these natives from their habitat, accustom them to a diet, lack of exercise and vitiated air, and their vitality is lessened. As a result there is stagnation of blood and corresponding influences. Acidosis develops and irritation of the tissues results. Then follows susceptibility to cancer.

"If we are to eliminate the cancer evil we must get back to natural exercise. The time to attack the cancer problem is in the baby, teaching the growing child the value of correct living. The evils of cancer are cooking, refining and adulteration."

MURPHY A BUSY MAN.

COMPLETE TIE-UP OF CAPE BRETON MINES IS EXPECTED TODAY

Auxiliary Power Plant Total Loss From Fire.

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 4. — (Canadian Press.) — The heaviest loss from fire that has occurred since Milne's Lumber Yards at Trout Lake went up in smoke last summer was the complete destruction of the Hydro-Electric sub-station on Harriet St. Gormanville, North Bay, during the electric storm which passed over North Bay about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The loss is placed by the local Hydro office at approximately $100,000. The building itself which does not figure much in the loss, was two storey frame ,with dimensions of 55 feet by 55 feet, and was covered with iron sheeting. Within the building were the three steam generators, used as an auxiliary to the Nipissing power plant at South River, which are a total loss.

Strike Began Officially at Midnight But Many of the Men Walked Out Yesterday Afternoon.

8,000 AFFECTED.

SYDNEY, N. S., July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Although the strike was not supposed to begin officially until midnight, the miners of Cape Breton south started to walk out at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in support of the Sydney steel workers and to force the withdrawal from the district of provincial police and federal troops.

By midnight the tie-up was expected to be complete in Cape Breton south and the indications were that by midnight it would be joined by the Scotia man in Cape Breton north

Approximately 8,000 miners are affected and indirectly ten thousand workers are involved.

The total population dependent upon the coal and steel industry and indirectly affected by the combined strikes is approximately one hundred thousand.

It is not expected that the miners of the mainland, in Pictou and Cumberland Counties, will poin the Cape Breton men in their strike.

The troops from Halifax numbering about two hundred and fifty which have been stationed at the Sydney steel works since Saturday, were reinforced to-day by the arrival of 350 more from London, Ontario Seventy-four horses also arrived.

The H. M. S. Wistaria arrived in port from St. John's Nfld, yesterday and her commander paid the usual official visit to Mayor Fitzgerald at City Hall. Miners here are afraid the sailors will be used to pump the mines, as was done in Britain at the time of the great coal strike in 1920, when naval ratings manned the pumps of the English collieries.

President J. J. McIntyre, of the Sydney Steel Workers' Union yesterday issued a statement in which he attributed the strike to the refusal of the British Empire Steel Corporation to advance wages, "one cent" and to grant the check-off.

"The men in Sydney working eleven hours by day and thirteen by night, say they cannot live on $3.20 a day, because they refuse to work under such conditions the federal government has sent down trainloads of troops and the provincial government has sent in their police." The statement said.

The statement denied that there was a "dangerous situation," in Sydney and protested against the scenes when provincial police dispersed crowds at the steel plant last Sunday evening.

Says Dr. Evans in the Chicago Tribune: "Put three teaspoons of bran in a cup of boiling water. Spoon it up slowly. The water itself is helpful, the moist bran is palatable. Half a cup of this wet, hot bran twice a day, with a little sugar, between meals will cure the most stubborn case of constipation."

PLOWING MATCH NORTH MONAGHAN

Plowmen's Association Decided to Hold Match in Fall — A Big Time Promised.

On Saturday, June 23, was held a most enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the Peterborough Plowmen's Association, with Mr. C. E. Moore, the President, in the chair.

Arrangements were made to hold this fall one of the largest plowing matches that has ever been held in the county of Peterborough, and the land for the purpose will be selected in the township of North Monaghan, as close to the city as possible.

Unlike other county matches, there will be several classes open to the Province, and many valuable and handsome prizes will be offered for competition.

Another meeting will be held in September to make final arrangements. In the meantime committees have been appointed to look after the details, and the matter of selecting a suitable place for holding the match was left in the hands of President C. E. Moore, Secretary Jos. J. Duffus and Messrs. Bennett, Webber and Lillico.

A Thought

The sluggard will not plow by reason of the cold; therefore shall he beg in harvest and have nothing. —Prov. 20:4.

Most natures are insolvent; cannot satisfy their own want, have an ambition out of all proportion to their practical force, and so do lean and beg day and night continually.—Emerson.

Keep it ready to serve at home

When it is ice-cold, nothing else is so sure to please—at home parties, when unexpected guests drop in and for just the family. And nothing is more convenient to serve—ordered by the case from your dealer like groceries, and a few bottles kept on ice in your refrigerator.

More and more a favorite every year for 22 years—since the first Canadian plant was established in Toronto in 1901.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1923.

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT.

The Auditor's report for the city of Peterborough for 1922, which is a publication which citizens who are genuinely interested in civic finances and civic affairs generally should not lose an opportunity of inspecting, gives a complete statement of the city's financial operations last year.

A notable feature and one that will be marked with approval by those citizens who have been impressed with the necessity for economy is the fact that during 1922 the city fathers were able to effect a reduction in the net debt of $60,163.51, one of the largest reductions in a single year recorded.

The net debt on the 31st of December, 1921, was $1,578,741.19, and at the end of last year the figure had been reduced to $1,519,077.68.

In addition to this, the report indicates that the City Trust has surplus funds on hand amounting to $77,229.32.

Several hundred copies of the Auditor's report are printed for the benefit of the citizens—a number that seems pitifully small and yet has proven adequate to the demand.

Apparently the vast majority of citizens are not sufficiently interested in seeing for themselves how their money is spent by the civic administration to bother about looking over the figures.

Yet the report is full of interesting statistics, complete details of the various departments of the civic government and well worth more than a passing inspection by the people who pay the taxes.

It would be a more healthy sign if it were necessary to have a thousand copies of the report printed.

THE DOLLAR CHAMPION.

Whether or not the Dempsey-Gibbons prize fight takes place today, the whole episode has been a sad travesty enacted in the name of sport and a striking commentary upon the good sense of a people who pride themselves, above all things, upon their business shrewdness.

To promise to pay the mercenary Mr. Dempsey the sum of $310,000 for a few rounds with the gloves was about as senseless a piece of business as could have been devised.

There have been folks unsophiscated enough to buy the Brooklyn Bridge or the New York City Hall from a stranger who offered them on good terms, but such people are financial wizards compared to the callow individuals who were foolish enough to imagine that to force Dempsey to fight was worth $310,000.

If a fight was all they wanted they could have got more real action from a clash between two husky dock labourers or a couple of intoxicated hushmen than they would from a dozen Jack Dempseys or Tommy Gibbons'.

And if real boxing skill, science, foot-work and speed were being sought any good pair of lightweights would have given them an infinitely more worth-while exhibition than they are likely to get at Shelby, Montana.

Mr. Dempsey is the best dollar champion the world has known. Where old-time knights of the squared circle fought because the sheer love of fighting was in their blood, this modern titleholder can see nothing but the dollar sign.

BATHING BEACHES.

Peterborough's two bathing beaches at Inverlea Park and the foot of Lake street, respectively, were operated last summer at a let cost of $649.08, the total expenses involved being $723.98, while the receipts, consisting principally of the rent of lockers, amounted to $74.90.

Now $649.08 is a small sum to pay out for the amount of recreation, exercise and good health that was made possible for hundreds of citizens—it would be good business to spend that amount two or three times over in view of the concrete results achieved.

And yet there does not seem any reason why, if this bathing beach question were taken up as a business proposition and considered from all its angles, it could not be turned into a practically self-sustaining department.

Other cities have found no difficulty in this respect, and it has been proven that not only outdoor baths, but indoor swimming pools can be operated successfully as civic enterprises.

In Peterborough, as yet, the accommodation is only make-shift. The bathing houses afford a certain amount of privacy, but that is the best that can be said about them. They are small and stuffy, the lack of proper ventilation is noticeable, and there is not enough locker accommodation or a sufficient number of private dressing rooms to properly serve the public or to provide an appreciable amount of revenue.

Properly constructed dressing rooms would involve a considerable initial outlay, but the experience of other centres supplies ample proof that such expense is justified by the volume of patronage that adequate accommodation attracts and by the consequent earning power of such institutions.

During recent years swimming has become a very popular pastime for both sexes. The number of expert swimmers has grown to large proportions, and there is a profitable field for an up-to-the-minute civic bathing beach.

HONOR RIGHTFULLY BESTOWED.

Canadians of all classes, irrespective of political affiliations, will rejoice in the appropriateness of the honor bestowed upon the veteran Minister of Finance, who has been made a member of His Majesty's Most Honorable Privy Council, as a result of the King's birthday's honors, and who will henceforth be known as the Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding, says the Brantford Expositor. The honor has been fittingly bestowed upon one who, through a long and faithful life of public service, has proved himself signally worthy of it. Not long ago Mr. Fielding was congratulated in Parliament and in the country on having completed 40 years of service in the public life of Canada.

Mr. Fielding's is a singularly dstinguished record, not only in administrative ability, but also in unblemished integrity of character. For 17 years he has been Finance Minister of Canada, 15 of which were rendered under the illustrious Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the heyday of Canada's progress and prosperity. Mr. Fielding is the type of man whom Canadians delight to honor. Of the great political gladiators who occupied the Federal arena in post-Confederation days, giants in intellect, administrative ability, and forensic skill and debating power, he alone remains.

It is only fitting that, in titular honors, he should rank with the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, both men of a younger generation. Mr. Fielding will wear his honors meekly, and with becoming grace. He has not been spoiled by the pride of power or the lust of office, and, if his own wishes had been consulted, it is probable that he would have preferred to remain the plain Commoner to the end. On its 56th birthday, the Dominion congratulates its veteran Minister of Finance, who is in his 76th year, and who was in his 20th year when Confederation was formed, on the signal honor that has come to him as the crown of a long and distinguished public career.

ADVERTISING ONTARIO.

The booklet issued by the Ontario Government at the advice of the celebrated Special Hotel Committee designed to set forth the manifold attractions of Ontario as the "lake-land playground" of the continent is a handsomely printed and well illustrated survey of the best known beauty spots of the Province. It should do much to attract the attention of tourists to Ontario's charm.

From a general viewpoint, however, the pamphlet suffers from the lack of an index, and from the viewpoint of Peterborough and the surrounding summer resorts it is to be regretted that the description of the Kawartha Lakes is not as definite or as coherent as it might have been.

The two pages devoted to the Kawarthas fails to convey a very tangible idea of the extent or the beauty of the wonderful chain of lakes and rivers, and, in addition, although a number of excellent photographs of scenes in this district is to be noticed throughout the booklet, the majority of these are not located in the letter press, being given a general title that causes all the publicity value there might have been in the publication of these pictures to be lost.

In fact, the only two illustrations with a district label are photographs of the Lift Lock and of Rice Lake as seen from Gore's Landing.

Naturally, of course, every district believes it has a corner in charms and attractions, and it may be a sign of parochialism to complain that the Kawarthas have not been done justice to in the preparation of the Government propaganda—yet it does appear as if more attention could have been given to this district without passing the bounds of fairness, having regard to the space given other sections, notably the lakes of Frontenac County, which call for six pages of eulogy from the writer of the pamphlet.

A LIGHT VOTE.

One feature of the elections on which the people of Ontario are in no position to congratulate themselves was the lightness of the poll in most of the constituencies, says the Hamilton Spectator. Hamilton was no exception, the vote locally for the two ridings being only 46 per cent. of the electorate, a considerably worse showing than that of 1919. This is greatly to be regretted, for in the intervening years much effort has been expended in developing the civic consciousness, and it was hoped that this effort would have had its effect. When less than half the voters visit the polling booths, something is obviously wrong and needs to be righted. Delinquent electors are excusing themselves on the ground that their votes would not have counted anyway; that the majorities for the two successful candidates were so large that the result would have been unaffected by the casting of their ballots. This is, of course, no valid excuse; for it is merely talking after the event, and the outcome of the election might have been very different from what it actually was.

It is true that in an election like Monday's a large number of votes are inevitably wasted; but that does not justify the plea that one's individual vote is not essential. It might be the deciding vote in a close contest and, in any case, it is impossible to judge beforehand. Advocates of electoral reform, however, have a strong argument in the superfluity which exists under present conditions; but, even as things are, big majorities serve a useful purpose as a gage of public opinion. The distribution of the votes is a reliable indication of the popularity of the individual candidate and the policies he stands for. No vote is really wasted in that sense. It is evident that a great deal of educational work is still required before the electorate can be aroused to a proper appreciation of its responsibilities.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ontario is to have a controller of finance. It is to be hoped that he will keep his foot upon the brake.

Mr. Drury is picking strawberries this week, while Mr. Ferguson picks Cabinet Ministers. In this case the former has much the more pleasant job.

There doesn't seem much use of the House of Commons spending months in passing legislation if the Senate can upset it all in the last day or two.

"Pussyfoot" Johnston, going to England for a rest, is a good deal like a fireman trying to have a sleep alongside a burning building.

There were "only" fifteen lynchings in the first six months of this year in the United States, the victims including one woman. There seems to be a lot of work for missionaries in the midst of "civilization."

Canada's 1923 wheat crop may break all records, according to reports from the West. That is the proper kind of birthday message for the Dominion.

Patent medicine ad tells of a man who would have given $100 for a night's sleep. Must have been one of those unlucky individuals with a neighbor who owns a car of night-prowling proclivities.

This position was filled by the late J. N. Telford for a number of years with great satisfaction to the Council, and by his death the township loses an efficient officer.

Mr. Howard Beavis was present and spoke in the interest of the Lakefield Agricultural Society. For the last three years Lakefield has been unfortunate in selecting a wet day for holding their Fair, and in consequence they were in need of all the financial assistance the Council could give. APSLEY MAN AT THE WRONG END

Gun Went Off and Blew Part of His Arm Away—Salmon in Loon Lake.

APSLEY, July 4.—A painful accident occurred to Ed Tanner of Chandos on Saturday which might have resulted far more seriously than it did. He was placing a loaded gun, stock first through the window of an old building on the farm, when the trigger must have touched an obstruction, and the gun went off, blowing away part of his right forearm. A few inches to the left and he would have received the full charge in his body, with very probably fatal results

A Quick Journey.

The many friends of George Couch of Loon Lake will regret to learn that he was taken suddenly ill on Friday night. He was brought to Dr Shepherd after midnight, who decided that the case necessitated an immediate operation and he was at once conveyed by motor to St. Joseph's Hospital, accompanied by the doctor, and by seven o'clock in the morning the operation was successfully performed. It was reported that the patient was progressing favorably later in the morning and hopes are entertained of his speedy recovery.

Catching Salmon.

Great catches of salmon are reported from Loon Lake which will come as a surprise to many who did not know that these game fish existed in this water. About 11,000 fry were placed in the lake seventeen years ago, and have never been fished for till lately. Fish up to six pounds in weight have been caught. This news which is absolutely authentic will boost Loon Lake, and no doubt result in an influx of visitors to this little known but picturesque lake.

An Assistant.

Mr. J. Bonathan, a divinity student from Trinity College, Toronto, is acting as assistant to the Rev. C. A. G. Spence during the summer months.

Wild strawberries are very plentiful in this district, and of fine quality and housewives are busy picking and preserving large quantities.

Eleven pupils wrote at the local school last week for their entrance examination under the supervision of Mrs Jackson of May's school, North Monaghan. They were entertained to a radio concert in the Parish room on Friday evening which they highly enjoyed.

The furnishings of St. George's church have been further embellished by the presentation from Christ Church, Campbellford of three sets of frontals and curtains, a gift which is much appreciated by the rector and congregation. They were used for the first time at the Dominion Day service on Sunday last.

Methodist Picnic.

The Methodist picnic was held at Apsley on July 2, and proved a great success in every way, the proceeds amounting to about $150. Fine weather prevailed though rain threatened once or twice during the day. A big contingent came from Coe Hill and participated in a baseball match which created a great deal of excitement. Several race were run off during the afternoon, some of the results being as follows.

Half mile race—1 Vernal Windsor, 2. George Kilborne.

100 yards—1. Stanley Windsor, 2. Lloyd Young.

Three-legged race — 1. Vernal Windsor and George Kilborne.

Coat race—1 Lloyd Young and Miss Hert.

Thred needle race— 1. Vernal Windsor and Mrs. J. Tucker.

Married women's race—Mrs. Joe Tucker.

Single ladies—1. Myrtle Windsor, 2, Margaret Herr.

Girl's race—1. Vera Young.

Oldest lady on grounds—Mrs. A. Smith.

Oldest gentleman—Mr. Harris.

Messrs. William and John Chadwick of St. Catherines are the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Spence at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tucker of Lindsay attended the Methodist picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson entertained a large number of guests at a dance at their home after the picnic on Monday evening.

The German mark must be about as useless as a birthmark by now.

TORONTO NURSE Speaks in Praise of WINCARNIS

"As a Graduate Trained Nurse, I have for many years attended patients, in both hospitals and private homes, for whom Wincarnis had been prescribed, and I have observed that the preparation always caused an improvement in these cases.

I have repeatedly been astonished at the quickness with which weak and nervous patients responded to the restorative and strengthening action of Wincarnis. I have often personally derived great benefit from the use of Wincarnis myself when in a run-down condition after a particularly hard case.

I learned of Wincarnis while nursing in England, and since coming to Canada I have found physicians just as enthusiastic in praise of the tonic effect of the preparation. I always feel more confident of a happy convalescence when attending a patient for whom Wincarnis has been prescribed."

ADDITION TO SCHOOL DEFEATED BY COUNCIL

Campbellford Ratepayers May Have Another Chance to Vote on Timeworn Issue—Meeting Last Night.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—At a special meeting of the Town Council last night another attempt was made to grant the Board of Education an additional $28,800 to complete the new High School by putting up the assembly room and the gymnasium in accordance with the original plans. A motion to this effect was lost on a tie vote.

Those who voted in the affirmative were: Mayor Meyers, Councillors Allan, Burke and Meiklejohn.

Those opposed were: Reeve Anderson, Deputy Reeve Wilkinson, Councillors Dorie and Carter.

Councillor Cole was absent, and it was announced that he had been called out of town to take a party of tourists from the depot to Crow Bay.

Four members of the Building Committee of the Board of Education were present—Chairman, Douglas, Trustees Lynch, Irwin, Birmingham and Dr. Watson. Trustee Arnold was also present, but none of the members of the Board addressed the Council. They left the room, with the exception of Trustee Arnold, as soon as the vote was announced. Trustee Lynch notified Clerk McGregor that the Board will now send in a formal request that the question of the additional grant be submitted to the taxpayers in the form of a money by-law, so that another special election on this issue is in prospect.

The Discussion.

When the Mayor announced that the High School question would be taken up, Reeve Anderson and Deputy Reeve Wilkinson offered a motion that the matter be deferred until there was a full meeting of the Council. This motion was lost, Councillor Dorie being the only member to vote with the mover and seconder.

Mayor Meyers said that the vote on the plebiscite submitted to the people last week had practically been 50-50, the majority against the proposed grant being only five. He believed that the building should be completed now, as it can be done so much cheaper now than in the future. The Council has it in its power to save the taxpayers thousands of dollars. With the money now available, it will be impossible to complete either the building or the grounds, and the site is large enough to provide a creditable park for the young people of Campbellford.

"I believe," added the Mayor, "that when the majority of those who are opposed to the school now see the building completed they will say that the Council did just right."

"Did not the light vote last week show that the people are indifferent?" asked Councillor Burke.

"It shows at least that public sentiment is changing," replied the Mayor. "The opposition to the new school was not as strong last week as it was at the municipal election."

Mayor Meyers explained that in submitting the questionnaire to the people the Council had acted on its own iniciative. The Council could not offer the taxpayers a money by-law on which to vote without a formal request from the Board of Education and had no power to prevent any person whose name was on the list from voting on the plebiscite.

Reeve Anderson insisted that the Council had nothing to do but abide by the decision of the people as expressed at the polls. Councillor Carter, who fathered the resolution for a reference to the people, declared that he could not consistently support the motion for the additional grant. After the motion had been declared lost on a tie, the matter was dropped for the present.

Hawkers' License.

A by-law was adopted raising the price of a hawkers' or peddlers' license from $35 to $50. That will be the price in future to a man who operates a two-horse team or a motor truck. The man with a one-horse outfit will pay $35 and the one who runs a push cart will be taxed $25. This applies to hawkers or peddlers who live outside the county, but does not affect farmers offering their produce for sale.

Repairing the Bridge.

Reeve Anderson submitted the report of the engineer engaged to inspect the town bridge and explained what action had been taken on this question at the recent meeting of the County Council. The Reeve had induced the members of that body to make an attempt to have the Ontario Government take over the bridge, repairs on which will cost, according to the engineer's estimate, $9,900, as it forms the connecting link of all the provincial highways in the district. A deputation from the County Council will play the request before the Minister of Highways, and Campbellford Council was invited to send a representative.

On motion of Councillors Dorie and Allan, Reeve Anderson was named as the town's member of the delegation.

To Repair Sidewalks.

Councillor Dorie brought up the matter of repairing the wooden sidewalk on the Hastings road and on motion of Councillors Burke and Carter it was decided to have Foreman Fox repair the walks in different parts of the town where they have become worn. The new sidewalk up the Bridge street hill and opposite the two school buildings, will be made 5 1-2 feet wide to take care of the traffic at that point.

New Auto Signs.

Deputy Reeve Wilkinson was authorized to engage the services of a handy man who will help him put up at the town limits on the principal roads, signs warning autoists to slow down to 15 miles an hour.

To Cut Weeds.

Street Foreman Fox was instructed to put on a sufficient number of men to have all the weeds in town cut down within a week.

To Meet on Thursday.

It was decided to hold a special session on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The councillors will take a trp around the town to look over needed sidewalk repairs and to select a parking place on each side of the river for automobiles, as complaints have been received that leaving cars on the streets interferes with business.

Deputy-Reeve Wilkinson again brought up the matter of using the vacant lot at the corner of Bridge and Rear Streets as a parking place.

R. S. Southworth, who owns this property, offers to allow the town the use of it rent free, but some of the councillors held that the place was not suitable for the purpose.

Garry Street Sewer.

Reeve Anderson asked the reason for the delay in beginning work on the Garry Street sewer, tenders for which had been received some time ago.

Mayor Meyers explained that these tenders had been withdrawn. He believes that Foreman Fox is quite competent to do the work, and he will be able to begin it in a short time.

More Houses Needed.

Mayor Meyers stated that President Hayes of the Trent Valley Mills had urged the necessity for 40 or 50 new houses in Campbellford to accommodate the additional working force which the company proposes to put on. A number of expert workmen are being brought from England and trouble is anticipated in finding homes for them. The company does not care to undertake the building of houses and does not obligate itself to find purchasers for them, but will furnish the tenants.

The Mayor has endeavored to interest a number of contractors. The houses that will rent for about $15 a month are likely to be the most in demand.

Deputy Reeve Wilkinson told of how Oshawa had solved the housing problem when a syndicate was organized and over 400 homes erected all of which weer either sold or rented before they were completed.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held Monday night.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Annual Garden Party of Carmel Sunday School —A Baseball Game— Personals.

MILLBROOK, July 4.—The annual garden party in connection with the Carmel Sunday School was held on the church lawn on Friday evening, and was a most successful event from the standpoint of attendance, and as far as the entertainment provided was concerned as well. An excellent supper was served from 5.30 until 8 p.m., the generous supply of strawberries and cream given each guest being one of the most enjoyable features of this part of the evening, while the abundance of other good things, including home-made bread, butter, cakes, tarts, pies, etc., rapidly disappeared as the seats about the tables were repeatedly filled with hungry arrivals. A well-furnished booth on the grounds was constantly patronized, afternoon and evening.

The Millbrook band, under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, played a number of selections which added materially to the pleasure of the gathering. Rev. S. T. Tucker acted as chairman, making a brief address, welcoming the guests on behalf of the Sunday school; vocal solas, "Love's Ship" and "This Pal of Mine," by Mrs. G. W. Miss May Byam was the efficient accompanist.

INTENTIONAL WALKS.

Because of all the rumpus over intentional bases on balls being issued every afternoon in both major leagues, the experts are seeking new remedies.

A suggestion has been made seriously by a competent American League pitcher that a rule be established whereby a penalty be enforced if a batsman is walked more than once in the same game. This pitcher says candidly there is no reason in the world why a batter should be walked more than once, unless the pitcher is attempting to pass him wilfully.

Wonder how many home runs Babe Ruth would make it that rule went into effect.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Nurse your baby if you want a better baby.

Feed it at regular hours—by the clock.

Keep away from medicines unless prescribed by the doctor.

Regard a fever as a danger signal and don't ignore it—saying, "babies run a temperature so easily."

Constipation can be helped by regular bowel habits—by the use of orange juice, prune juice, scraped apple.

Remember that sleeplessness comes from some real cause and not because the baby wants to be bad. Never, never make use of paregoric or other soothing syrups to induce sleep. This is merely blinding yourself to the danger sign.

Do not take your children where theer are other children suffering from colds which may be the first stages of some dangerous disease. Colds are bad enough.

Be just as careful of just one bottle, in cleaning and boiling it, as if the baby were entirely a bottle baby Germs are just as dangerous when they lurk on one indifferently cleaned bottle as if there were a dozen.

Children who sweat copiously at night and breathe with mouth open and with snuffling noises may be the victims of adenoids.

When a baby has many bowel movements daily, is wet almost constantly and gaining prodigiously in weight he is getting too much food.

When the baby's diapers are stained from urine don't be alarmed. He may need more water to drink.

Don't expect the baby to have colic and be indifferent to it. Find out if it is really colic, or merely a cry of hunger.

What To Do for Constipation.

After one has come to some conclusion about the causes of constipation then it is much easier to act wisely in overcoming it. For the very young child that is nursing the mother must eat generously of whole grain breads and cereals, brans every day, fruits and vegetables. The baby of two months of age may be put on a tiny stool with a top which is padded, and held against the mother's breast for support for ten minutes. Use a soap suppository made about the size of a lead pencil at the thick end and tapered off to a narrow point. Put a generous "gob" of vaseline on this and insert for a few seconds Do this at a regular time every morning.

In case these things are failures there is no real harm in giving milk of magnesia. This can help out until such time as more varied diet or a change of diet will work its own cure.

If the child lacks fats in its diet, olive oil may be helpful. If the baby is a bottle baby dextrimaltose will act as a laxative and from two or three months on one can use orange juice daily.

Older children can have two green vegetables daily, two stewed fruits, and raw fruit on an empty stomach, that is before the meal. Also whole wheat bread toasted. Feed sparingly of rice, potatoes, white bread and crackers. These are all constipating.

In cases of extreme constipation it is often helpful to put the baby on some latic acid formula for a while.

The thing to try and avoid whenever possible is the constant use of laxative drugs. These only make the trouble worse.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Successful Mission Ended —St. Paul's Church Redecorated— Sport News

LAKEFIELD, July 4. — Rev. Father McGrath, of the Paulist Order, closed a very successful mission in St. Paul's Church on Sunday evening. Father McGrath was a powerful preacher and every sermon was well worth hearing.

The church has been recently redecorated by the Catholic Women's League, and the soft tones of walls and ceiling harmonise beautifully, and present a handsome appearance. The beautiful white and gold altar (the gift of Mr. P. Sullivan) and the statue of the Virgin (given by Mr. and Mrs. Leahy) are valuable additions to the equipment o the church.

"The Sacrifice o the Mass" was the subject of Father McGrath's sermon on Friday night and his dealing with the subject was clear and comprehensive, and very interesting. from the Catholic and non-Catholic point of view.

Father John O'Brien of Peterborough, Father J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, and Father Peter McGuire of Peterborough were present in the sanctuary. On Saturday evening Father McGrath gave a masterly address on the subject of "Prayer." On Sunday evening the Lord Bishop of Peterborough was present.

All these services were largely attended, and there is no doubt that great benefit will be felt in the parish as a result of the mission.

EXPERTS FOUND

fy the test; thirdly, if there was much it would destroy the test, and there would be no reaction, it would modify it."

Again referring to the possible presence of fat in the stains, Mr. Cahan asked if, assuming there was fat in the soap with which the cushion had been washed, would not that fat in the soap destroy the validity of the test.

Dr. Derome replied that he knew of no soap with fat. Soap was not fat and the basic element of fat (glycerine) was eliminated in the making of soap.

"Then there is no glycerine in glycerine soap?" asked Mr. Cahan.

The witness was ordered not to reply.

After a quarter of an hour's adjournment, Dr. Derome, witness, was recalled to the stand and described a couple of other tests used on the alleged blood stains. In the case of the haemin crystal test, he had carried out the experiment without assistance.

Cross-examination was then devoted to the question of the kind of cotton of which the outer covering of the bed pads and quilts found wrapped about the head of the victim and on the beds of Rosa and Florence Delorme was made, and witness stated that while he would not swear that the same person made the various articles of this description put in as evidence, he would say that they were identical.

The matter of the feathers found on the quilt was then discussed.

Dr. Derome said that plenty of them could be found in any hen yard.

Re-examined by R. L. Calder, the Crown Prosecutor, as to the nature of the alleged blood stains found on the cushions and quilts, witness stated that had they been of such a nature as to preclude the possibility of crime or had they been a result of splitting the Haemin crystal test would have shown no crystals.

Dr. MacTaggart, colleague of Dr. Derome, as medical autopsist attached to the court ,was then called and examined by Mr. Calder, stated that Haemin crystals when found were a certain indication of blood, while the precipitant test was used to distinguish the variety, whether huma nor animal blood. If there was a sufficient quantity of blood to get the solution from it, the test was positive. Blood stains on cloth were an easier investigation than blood stains on weapons since rust affects the latter.

WHY GIRLS FAIL IN MOVIE WORLD

They Think of Screen As Beauty Market Instead of Workshop.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, July 4.—"The reason so many girls fail in the movies is because they think of the screen as a beauty market instead of a workshop," says Mae Marsh, film star.

"So many girls tell me of their stage ambitions, and always feel their claim to success is that they have what their friends call a 'movie face'," she goes on.

"They never tell you how hard they can work, or how good their health is, or how much study or preparation they are willing to give. They don't realize that it is much easier to create the impression of beauty than it is to have personality or brains.

"Almost any girl who has ordinarily good features and an average figure, who is able to go to a good dressmaker and hairdresser, can learn to improve her appearance enough so she can be called a beauty by the average, uncritical person.

"But it is the hardest thing in the world to find that combination of charm, personality, looks and brains which is really what counts."

Beauty, she says, sometimes becomes a liability.

"It makes for limitations," she explains. "The beautiful woman frequently doesn't want to be shown as anything but beautiful. Often the public doesn't want to see her in any character role. Sooner or later she is in an artistic rut and people tire of her just because of her lack of variety.

"You know you don't care for a woman just because she is beautiful. She has to hold you by other qualities of mind and heart. The same thing holds true on the stage.

"I could name, and probably you could too, a dozen well-known actresses who are far from beautiful, who are not even pretty, but you don't think about it because they have so many other qualities you admire.

"I don't mean beauty is not desirable, it is an asset anywhere, in acting, teaching salesmanship, homemaking, or in any line of feminine endeavor. But I believe the day is over when one's face alone, is one's fortune."

When we see "Dempsey-Gibbons" we think it is a wedding. It is a different kind of a fight.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF KENT LOOMIS

Due probably to the fact that American diplomacy has been of the open, rather than the concealed, type, the history of the diplomatic corps of the United States is singularly free from these mysterious occurrences which are so frequently to be found in connection with European intrigue. But there is one mystery which remains today as baffling and as inexplicable as when it occurred nearly 20 years ago—the disappearance of Kent Loomis bearer of a treaty between the United States Government and King Menelik of Abyssinia.

The paper itself was not of great importance and its provisions were well known in all the foreign capitals which were interested in the matter, circumstances which made the matter even more difficult to understand.

Loomis, editor of a newspaper in Parkersburg, W. Va., sailed for Cherbourg on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., and shortly after midnight on June 19, 1904, he was seen on deck. When the vessel docked at Plymouth the next morning, several of the passengers maintained that they had seen the diplomatic messenger, brother to the Assistant Secretary of State, move ashore with the crowd as if he were in a dazed condition, incapable of knowing what he was doing. But the purser of the Kaiser Wilhelm and the chief steward, both of whom had been at the head of the gangway when the passengers got off at Plymouth, were equally certain that Loomis had not left the ship. Finally, when the vessel reached Cherbourg, the port for which the American envoy was booked, a thorough search of the ship was made, without the slightest trace of Loomis being discovered.

During the months that followed there were constant reports that Loomis had been seen in Paris, that his body had been found at Cherbourg, that he was in a sanitarium at Plymouth, and that he had resumed his journey to Abyssinia. But all of these were disproved when, on July 16—four weeks after he had last been seen on the Kaiser Wilhelm II—a body, identified as his was washed ashore at Warren Point, not far from Plymouth, England. Under the right ear was a circular wound which appeared to have been inflicted before death and the autopsy showed that Loomis had been killed by a blow from behind and had not been drowned. In addition, the testimony of the physicians was unanimous that the body had been in the water not more than ten days—instead of four weeks

Where he had been in the meantime, and how and why he had been murdered are questions that will probably never be answered.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL SESSIONS

Last evening's session of the Summer School of the Bay of Quinte Conference was attended by about two hundred people. The twilight service was held indoors on account of damp weather, and was led by Rev. G. E. Ross, M.A., pastor of Mark Street Methodist Church. A praise service followed, and some excellent musical selections rendered by Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., A.T.C.M., of Camborne. The president, Rev. R. T. Richards, of Castleton, acted as chairman.

The speaker of the evening, in the absence of Mr. E. C. Drury, ex-Premier of Ontario, who was scheduled to give an address, and was unable to attend, was Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., master of religious education, of Bowmanville. Mr. Rickard, whose address, aided by a blackboard diagram, took the form of an interesting chat with his audience, spoke on the work of leaders in religious education work. He spoke of the slipshod, haphazard manner of teaching religious subjects, which make their application ineffective, and of the erroneous idea of educationists of all sorts that education is simply a process of opening up the minds of the boys and girls and pouring knowledge in. Mr. Rickard contended that, on the contrary, the proper idea of education was that which conformed to the Latin derivation of the word, "to lead out."

"Religious education," he quoted, "is the injection of control into experience, in terms of religion," or, "to lead out in people the Christian instincts that we find in them, to make them like unto Jesus."

The purpose of the church was to train effective Christians, and to train leaders, for the one great need of the day was for efficient leadership, in the Church's life as elsewhere. The boy or girl should be considered in the light of what the child brought to church with him; his body, his mind, his emotions and his social characteristics. From the "Nursery," for children up to three years of age, on through the kindergarten, the sections devoted to primary pupils, to juniors and intermediates and seniors, on to the young people's classes in the Sunday school, and the adults, on the "Fathers in Israel," the same methods applied. For children, the speaker recommended the use of pictures "by the dozens," illustrating incidents in the life of Christ.

From the ages of eighteen to twenty-four was the 'age of dreams,' the time when dreams might be turned to wonderful account if directed wisely into the right channels, to bring the life of God into relationship with the people. In conclusion, Mr. Rickard said, "I feel that the Church is not only a lifeboat to save, but it is a lighthouse to guide."

The secretary, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, of Little Britain, in his announcements, recommended the attention of the audience to the goodly supply of literature of all sorts on sale, in charge of the book steward, Rev. S. A. Kemp, of Warkworth, and asked the support and co-operation of Peterboro people in the excursion to Gore's Landing, which will take place on Friday afternoon. "We would like some of you people to come along and show us your far-famed beauty spots, so that we may be able to talk about your town when we return home," said Mr. McCutcheon, who also extended a cordial invitation to attend the evening sessions of the Summer School to all who are interested in the work.

NEW CARETAKER FOR CITY HALL

Appointment of George Grange Confirmed by the Council.

George Grange assumes the duties of caretaker of the city hall on Monday, July 9th, at a salary of $1,250.

His appointment as recommended by the Property committee, was confirmed by the Council last night with the adoption of the committee's report.

Mr. Grange succeeds Robert Wilson, to whom the Council is forwarding the following resolution of sympathy:

"That the Council express to Mr. Robert Wilson its sincere sympathy with him in his sickness, and its regret that he has been compelled to resign his position with the Council after a long and faithful service of nearly sixteen years, and the hope that he may recover his health and enjoy many years with his family."

A Dangerous Crossing.

Mr. F. D. Kerr's letter calling attention to the need of gates at the C.N.R. crossing at Reid street was referred to the Railway committee.

Mr. A. E. Micks requested that a cinder path be laid on the west side of Gilchrist street from McDonnel street to the creek as a substitute for a sidewalk, and also that the street be graded and levelled.

It was explained that when local authorities of the C.N.R. consented to opening up this street the divisional management stepped in and prevented the removal of the obstructing fence.

Ald. Turner moved last night, seconded by Ald. Stocker, that the City Solicitor write the Ontario Railway Board for permission to open Gilchrist across the railway south of McDonnel street.

A sewer and cinder walk on Knox street, from Carlisle avenue to a point 140 feet south of it, were authorized on Ald. Stocker's motion, seconded by Ald. Myers.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—Am pleased to read Mr. J. C. Smith's letters as appeared in your paper now and then. He is right about Manitoba. He says, when he was a boy, he looked at the sea ebbing and flooding, and that no matter how far she goes out the old dame always comes back, and he is right. The stumbling block to using force to compel "decent citizens," as they call themselves, to do as we believe they ought to do has been what they call rights, such as the right to liberty, the right to property, the right to have when others have not. All that hunk has gone by. If the prohibitionists never did another thing, they have shown that the way to get a reform is to get it. They are go-getters, and I tell you that that is just what the people called reds believe. They say never mind these rights—what about our rights. The only rights is what we know to be just. It is them old rights of liberty and property that is making capitalists and free men, and it is all bunk. Now I know that Mr. J. C. Smith has some money and property, and I believe in making him toe the mark and cough un just like the rest. What right has he to rights? The new era is drawing. I see the sunset in the morning sky. The only way to progress is by going at it with an axe. Look at the Saviour. He was all wrong, poor man. If He had just used His power to prohibit everything there would be no sin and no occasion for it. That's where He was short. Mr. J. C. Smith knows better and will do better, and I welcome him. Levy on capital is the equivalent of prohibition here. It is what the cry in England is now. Private rights is buried.

REDDY.

P.S.—I apologize for not writing -20 .

John Thirnbeck Engaged.

Employed for years as a temporary foreman on sewer construction and sidewalks, Mr. John Thirnbeck was engaged by the Council last night on a permanent basis at a salary of $125 a month as a foreman under the Board of Works department. On the strength of his long experience and proven ability, Mr. Thirnbeck had been recently discussed by the Board of Works as too valuable a supervisor to be engaged simply by the season and as the work was required to be done. It was felt that his services were worth more than mere temporary employment, and that if he were engaged by some private contractor his knowledge and his ability to handle men would be a loss to the city.

Mr. Parsons was accordingly authorized to interview Mr. Thirnbeck and ascertain what salary he would accept under a permanent appointment. The City Engineer reported last night that he had seen Mr. Thirnbeck, who agreed to join the permanent staff at a salary of $125 a month. It was stated that he had earned $1,800 last year in the city's employ, and on that information the Council promptly adopted Ald. Stocker's motion, seconded by Ald. Fife, appointing Mr. Thirnbeck as a permanent foreman from July 1st.

To, Ald. Crowe's enquiry as to whether there was sufficient work in tthe winter time for Mr. Thirnbeck to attend to, City Engineer Parsons briefly outlined the advantages of having an additional foreman to look after snow plowing, sanding the walks and keeping the water courses clear. He would divide the city into sections and place Mr. Thirnbeck in charge of one and Mr. Evans in charge of the other.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent applies the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Go Get Your Test

Then watch its effect on film. See prettier teeth

If you don't know this new way of teeth cleaning, go accept this offer. Make this delightful test. Learn how much this method means to you and yours.

Millions now employ it. You see the results in glistening teeth wherever you look today. All the world over it is bringing to people a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Go compare this new way with the old and watch the changes which come in a week.

You must fight film

Brushing teeth does not protect them if you leave a film. Film is the teeth's great enemy—the cause of most tooth troubles. And very few escaped those troubles under former brushing methods.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

Food stains, etc., discolor film. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That is why teeth lose luster. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And that is alarmingly common.

Easy, effective ways

Dental science has now found ways to combat that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was perfected to apply those methods daily.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Its use has spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Other unique effects

Dental research also found two other things essential, because of deficiencies often found in modern diet. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

A MARKET FOR USED AND OFF-GRADE GOODS.

Between perfect condition and a state of no utility whatever, there is a wide gap. Think of nearly any article. Most stores sell it only in Number One shape, yet it has value all along the line, as it deteriorates under use, until it is junked. And the junkman gets value out of it, even then.

If there is value in a thing, the fact that it is not new, not Number One, does not necessarily militate against its sale. This newspaper has hosts of readers of the Want Ad section who are in the market for such bargains. That is the right word—bargains. Keen buyers know that the purchaser of many new articles, from automobiles and washing machines to dwelling housese, pays a substantial premium for the new condition. The moment the article passes into the buyer's possession, there is an immediate and heavy drop in sales value.

And when the same thing is sold, used condition, it is possible in most cases to get it at a bargain, value considered.

The forgoing points the way to successful Want Ad methods with used and off-grade goods. Don't describe the goods in your Want Ad as better than they are—that will only mean disappointment when successful Want Ad. methods with over-hopeful inquirers call. Describe the goods accurately.

Then indicate their usefulness. And, finally, suggest the big opportunity to save.

An orchardist who has many windfall apples every year works along these lines, bringing in many an extra dollar for apples there is no market for in regular trade channels. He advertises, "Fine big windfall apples, just the thing for apple jelly, butter, cider. Pick them up yourself. 25c a bushel."

The well-worded Want Ad quickly sells used or off-grade articles.

PONTYPOOL FIELD DAY WAS SUCCESS

Several Baseball Games Played Off in the East Durham League — Personals.

CAVAN, July 4.—Pontypool held its usual sports day on Monday, 2nd July, when Pontypool and Yelverton played a postponed game in the East Durham League, Pontypool winning 5 to 4. Yelverton held their opponents scoreless for four innings. Then the score was tied 4 to 4 until the last half of the last inning, when Pontypool scraped through with the winning run.

The Millbrook baseball team, 1922 champions of the C. M. E. League, were expected to play their old rivals Bethany. The Millbrook players, however, disappointed Pontypool by going to Port Hope celebration.

Bethany easily won another League game on 2nd July, when they defeated Pontypool 11 to 0.

Bethany has to play the Mackey ball team of Peterborough at Bethany on 4th July, and is scheduled for another League game with Pontypool at Bethany on 5th July. After this game Bethany has but one more game to play to finish her share of the League.

So far, Bethany and Janetville are tied as the League leaders, and if both win ther remaining games a play-off will be necessary to decide the lead of the A section.

Kendal is at present the leader of B section, having trimmed Millbrook twice.

JEWELS ADD THE FINISHING TOUCH.

What You Should Wear If You Are Short, Stout or Lean.

NEW YORK, July 4.—A costumer in jewels is Helen Foss, who has opened a smart shop here, where she outfits women with appropriate jewelry for their different frocks.

"Jewels in themselves mean nothing to me," she explains, "but they are everything when it comes to adding the finishing touch to the modern costume.

"I got the idea of specializing in stones when I was a buyer for a large store. I noticed how women buy elegant gowns and then proceed to ruin them by wearing the wrong jewelry and I decided I would rather select their stones than their costumes, for I believe they are more important.

"Take earrings, for instance," she went on. "With them woman can do a great deal to correct facial defects.

"The woman whose features are large and whose chin is heavy should wear long earrings with the large part low so it does not add width to her face, but rather detracts from it, while the woman whose face is very thin can build out her hollows with a wide type of earring.

"A heavy woman with tiny, floppy earrings is all out of key and so is the delicate woman loaded down with heavy, elaborate earrings. Fancy earrings peeping out from beneath the sport hat are inharmonious. Long spike earrings are effective only on the most extreme vamp type. But how few women pay any attention to their types when buying jewels! They buy what they like on someone else."

With a necklace, a woman can almost remold her face, Mrs. Foss thinks.

"The smart new chokers of large beads are suitable only for very slender throats," she maintains. "A long necklace of small beads, or those graduated in size so that the small beads come about the neck, is the most flattering type for the short neck."

Fashionable jewelry now comes in two or three-piece sets, usually in semi-precious stones, Mrs. Foss says. Necklaces, earrings and sometimes bracelets match. Italian filigree work in gold or silver and carved ivory are very fashionable.

Of the stones of the moment, the carnelian leads, she says, with amber, jade, turquoise, matrix and coral following. Long and short strands are equally fashionable, and carved pendants on fancy cords are most effective with certain costumes.

"Use jewelry as you do embroidery or lace," she concludes, "for a definite decoration. If you can get a beautiful effect with blue glass, why pine for diamonds?"

HUNDREDS DEAD FISH RESULT LOW WATER

Fish Inspector at Campbellford Points Out the Uselessness of Trying to Protect Fish.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4. — One of the local fish inspectors took the Examiner representative out to Healey Falls, Tuesday afternoon to show him the destruction that has been wrought among the fish by the diverting of the water from the main channel of the river in order to increase the supply in the Trent Canal.

The scene presented was certainly one of desolation. The river below the dam is so dry that it can easily be crossed on foot. The carcasses of hundreds of fish, that had been marooned when the stop logs were lowered in the dam, lay rotting in the sun and crows were feasting or carrying off the carrion.

The water was diverted into the canal last Friday. The part of the river drained was always regarded as the best fishing grounds in the district and a large number of residents from Campbellford and district were hauling out pickerel, bass and 'lunge when the water began to fall. It seems that all the stop logs were lowered at once so that he fish had no chance to escape. Farmers came from miles around and without any outfit except a stout club caught fish by the hundreds and carried them away in bagfulls.

It was pointed out by the fish in spector that if the water had been lowered gradually the fish would have had a chance to get back into Crow Bay but that the change was so sudden they were left stranded on the rocks by the hundreds. These included a large number of pickerel the spawn of which was place in the river only last year. The inspector added that it is useless to attempt to keep up the supply either by securing spawn or strictly enforcing the regulations during the closed season as long as the Government officials by this means slaughter the fish by wholesale. It is said that the same condition form a grievance year after year in this district.

When the stop logs are dropped in the dam at the municipal power plant this is done gradually and the fish are not caught and destroyed as they are up at Healey Falls.

"O MOTHER, I'M SO HOT."

Thousands of little Canadians will run to mother this summer and whimper "O mother, I'm so hot. A natural condition? Yes, to be hot in hot weather, but not to whimper about it, if the blood condition is right. A child so fed that its blood is acid instead of alkaline, like the adult with acid blood, feels devitalized, "all in" on a sultry day. There is but one way to make the blood acid—by improper feeding. "Excess Acid" foods, like white flour, refined cereals, meats, fats, sweets, make acid blood or "heat the blood." If the blood is alkaline there is no devitalizing sense of heat, no depression of bodily or mental vigor, however hot the day. Natural, unrefined foods keep the blood alkaline—whole grain cereals, milk, eggs, nuts, beans, greens and fruits. These are rich in alkalis and keep the blood "cool" and the mind and body fit, regardless of the heat.

Roman Meal is the only richly alkaline cereal, 400 parts in each 1,000 "Excess Alkali," alkaline enough to correct the acids of white flour, other cereals, fats, meats and sweets. It makes delightful porridge pancakes puddings, cakes. Even hot Roman Meal porridge is more "cooling" than any cold, refined, acid-forming cereal. But you can now serve Roman Meal delightfully icy-cold, as BROSE-O, CHOCOL-O, JELLE-E. See "Summer Recipes" on package. With milk, cream, whipped cream, honey, preserved or fresh fruits, a hot-day treat, a child's delight which can be prepared in ten minutes. At grocers.

LOCAL SCOTS HELD ANNUAL EXCURSION

Caledonian Club Had a Big Day at Wallace's Point on Monday.

The annual excursion of the Peterborough Caledonian Club was held on Monday to Wallace's Point.

About two hundred members of the organisation and their friends left the George Street Wharf at 8.15 by the steamer Islinda, sailing down the river to Rice Lake, and returning as far as Wallace's Point about noon.

After lunch sports were carried out, under the direction of R. French and A Clark. Races of all kinds were provided for women and children, while a five-a-side football tournament was in progress, organised by B. Rae and G. Low. There were eight teams competing in the tournament, which brought out many of the old-timers to show the youngsters how the game should be played. The winning team was composed of J. B. Rae, T. McArthur, P. Ross, R. Gilmour, and A. Anderson. Prizes were provided for the winners and runners-up.

After the football tournament, the men's races were run, also the thread and needle race and the wheelbarrow race.

Two teams of ladies provided a diversion by playing a well contested game of softball.

When the sports were over, the company dispersed for refreshment, after which R. Gilmour provided music for dancing, which was enjoyed by many.

An interesting ceremony was performed by Alex. Dick in presenting Mr. Gilmour with a handsome clock from the Caledonian Club as a token of esteem for the services he has rendered durng the season as chief musician to the club.

Mr. Gilmour replied suitably, after which he was given three hearty cheers, followed by the company singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

After dancing, the trippers left for Peterborough at 6.45, arriving about 8.15, everybody agreeing that it was the "end of a perfect day," and all, including the crew of the Islinda, with whom it is also an annual event, looking forward to the next "Caley" excursion.

The Caledonian Club wish to publicly thank G. N. Gordon, M.P., for his substantial subscription towards the prize money, P. R. Castle for his donation of milk for the benefit of the children on the trip, and the proprietor at Wallace's Point for the use of his grounds for the occasion.

Hilton Belyea Will Row at Henley To-Day.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 4. —(Canadian Press.)— With Hilton A. Belyea, of St. John, N.B., veteran Canadian champion oarsman, conceded to be a strong contender for the Diamond Sculls trophy, typifying world supremacy as an oarsman, the eighteenth annual Henley Regatta will begin on the Thames River at noon to-day.

To get into the finals for the trophy Belyea would have to beat the world's best amateur oarsmen, including Walter Hoover, of Duluth, Minnesota, present holder of the trophy. Other oarsmen of international repute, who are in the lower half of the draw with Belyea, include D. H. Gollan, of the Leander Club, and Russell Codman, Jr., Boston.

Anyone who beats this trio likely will be worn out by the gruelling test and might prove an easy victim to S. Beresford, Jr., the Englishman who won the Diamond Sculls in 1920 and who is expected to be the other finalist, as in his half of the draw he meets only young Englishmen who have entered the event just to get their oars wet and test their nerve and stamina for future regattas.

FIRMS MUST JOIN THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

PHILADELPHIA, July 4. — (United Press).—Membership in the various chambers of commerce in Japan is not a matter of choice, but is compulsory if a firm pays an income tax of more than $50, according to Shintar Yoda, an executive of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, who is touring the United States. The due in Japan, according to Yoda, instead of being on a set stable basis, are predicted alson on the income tax, each individual firm paying a membership fee of two and one-half per cent of the amount he or his firm pays in income tax.

Martyr to science

NEARLY LOST HIS ONLY EYE.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 4—"One-Eyed" Connolly nearly lost his other eye on the way out here.

The most famous gate-crasher of all times, hailed as world champion in the art of breaking into prize-fights without a ticket—either paid for or free—is waiting to add forcing his way into the Gibbons-Dempsey fight to his list of achievements.

He arrived in Great Falls via the bumper route. On the way, a cinder got imbedded in his sole good eye. For a time, it was feared he would lose his sight entirely. But a local oculist performed an operation gratis and extracted the chunk of burned coal.

Law Suits are expensive

When—after an automobile accident the other party insists that he will bring suit to recover damages, you fully realize the value of automobile indemnity insurance. If you carry such a policy you will not only be entirely relieved of expense in the defence of the suit, but will be assured the personal service of this agency.

Hillcrests and Lock Works play in the Juvenile series at King Edward school grounds this evening at six o'clock.

Rotary and Belmont Bantams play at the Prince of Wales grounds this evening.

Jupiter Pluv. put a stop to the Maple Leafs-Sacred Heart juvenile contest last night. This game will be played on Friday evening.

The youngsters are doing some tall speculating on the outcome of the Maple Leafs-Curlers' Midget fixture on Thursday night.

Alex. Kay's Curlers are a well-balanced aggregation and on paper look to be the logical winners of the Midget series. But the Leafs have some good cards. They are going to trot out a first baseman who in stature alone has a bit on "Hap" Horrison.

Joe Batten's Belmonts will make Rotary travel fast for the honors of to-night's game. Guiry and Conners will do the pitching, and it should be a tidy battle.

Mackey's and Cognawaga are scheduled for an East Peterborough League contest at King Edward school grounds on Saturday afternoon.

Another effort will be made to provide a suitable diamond on the east section of the Exhibition Park. With Peterborough having a representation in every series of the O. B.A.A. the grounds problem is a mighty big one.

A bat slipped from the hands of a player at the King Edward grounds last evening, and Jerry McGill standing near by, was struck on the head and sustained a painful scalp wound.

Jeffries to Referee Firpo-Willard Bout.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Jim Jeffries, of Los Angeles, former heavyweight boxing champion, will referee the match between Jess Willard and Luis Firpo at Boyle's Thirty Acres, July 12. Promoter Tex Rickard announced yesterday, after the New Jersey Boxing Commission approved his selection. Jeffries will arrive here next Tuesday.

CAMPBELLFORD WON LACROSSE NORWOOD

Played Hastings Exciting Game and Came Out Three in Lead.

NORWOOD, July 4.—On Monday at the celebration held in Norwood Campbellford defeated Hastings by a score of 10 to 7.

A large crowd was present, and although the lacrosse played was not always of the best, excitement at times ran high, especially in the early part of the game when the Hastings boys were holding their own fairly well.

The Campbellford team played its usual strong game. Its defence, although at sea for a few minutes at the start of the game, soon settled down and kept the attackers well out, while the home was at all times dangerous and used some nice combination plays.

On the attack Jack Archer stood out as star of the game.

The Hastings boys had plenty of speed, but where they fell down badly was in their passing. Time after time the ball was passed right into the opposing players' sticks.

The line-up:

Campbellford — Goal, Garrson; point, White; cover-point, Sanders; 1st defence, Horkins; 2nd defence, Waye; centre, Sofett; 1st home, Archer; 2nd home, Bush; outside, Labrash; inside, White. Subs.—Fraser, McArthur, White.

Hastings—Goal, Lambert; point, Whitred; cover-point, Cruickshanks; 1st defence, Weir; 2nd defence, Blake; centre, Scriver; 1st home, King; 2nd home, Sriver; outside Walsh; inside, Ross. Subs.—Scriver, Overland.

Referee—W. H. Chapman.

Havelock Defeated Keene.

Havelock defeated Keene in an exhibition game of baseball at Norwood on Monday by a score of 8 to 4.

Hastings Trimmed Orland.

Hastings and Orland played a league game of baseball at Orland on Monday, Hastings winning by the score of 13 to 1.

Sport a Business of Huge Magnitude.

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 4.—(United Press).—An analysis of the gate receipts of football, baseball, boxing, tennis, racing and minor sport events show that they are outdrawing the United States Steel Corporation or the Standard Oil.

Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, went into horse racing for sport. But he has made more money out of it than he will get out of Teapot Dome—more money than anyone else during the season.

A tabulated result recently showed earnings of $194.000 for the Rancocas stable, of which he is owner. The amount is being swelled by new winnings every day.

Zev, the king of the 3-year-olds, contributed the largest amount, winning five first places—up to the time of this tabulation—for a total of $144,966. Grey Lag won four first places and one second for $26,900. Mad Hatter contributed $8,200, Little Chief $7,700 and Tester, Flying Cloud, Outline, Rigel, Whirlwind, Knobbie, Alladin, Bud Lerner and Sheriden turned in purses from $5.000 down to $1,500. Total $194,000.

Add to this the winnings of the other stable owners, the gate receipts at the various parks, the amount taken in at the hundred or more professional baseball games every afternoon of the season, the paid admissions at the Yale, Harvard, Princeton and other football games, the big fight crowds and the amount paid to witness other athletic events and you have a figure that reaches hundreds of millions for the year.

No More Big Prices For Pugilistic Bouts.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Canadian Press)— Deciding the day for the big purses for championship pugilistic matches is past, Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker, of the Polo Athletic Club, last night announced that hereafter the top price for a seat at a title bout would be $10, plus tax. The club was reported to have lost heavily through large guarantees in staging the recent Kilbane-Criqui and Villa-Wilde championship bouts.

O'Rourke said he had reached agreements with the managers of Eugene Criqui, featehrweight champion; Johnny Dundee, former junior lightweight champion; Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion; Pancho Villa, flyweight title holder, and other leading boxers of all divisions whereby they had consented to appear at the Polo Grounds at the new maximum price.

"It has been decided that the public has been milked and will not stand for it," O'Rourke said, "and that no two fighters are worth the prices the public has been charged to see them perform in the past."

The top price at the Kilbane-Criqui bout was $25, less tax, and $16.50, including tax at the Villa-Wilde contest.

WALTER HOOVER LOST IN TRIAL

World's Champion Sculler Was Defeated in Preliminary.

HENLEY ON THAMES, England, July 4. — Walter M. Hoover, of Duluth, world's sculling champion was eliminated by D. R. L. Goolan of Leander Club, in preliminary heat of diamond sculls competition on the Thames to-day. Gollan won by three quarters of length in eight minutes and twenty-four seconds The American won the diamond sculls event last year.

MAJOR JIM HAILS FROM MONTREAL

Moving Spirit of Dempsey-Gibbons Fight is Canadian Born and Biggest Man in Montana.

SHELBY, Mont., July 4. — There are 549,999 people in Montana and Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby.

Right now Mayor Jim stands out like a rainbow in a clouded sky above them all.

The weight of the Dempsey-Gibbons championship fight was shifted on to him. But his back was broad. His smile was just as broad under the financial storm as when the big Montana dream started.

When everyone else was ready to desert the sinking ship Mayor Jim did a Mary Roberts Reinhart and kept smiling through.

He's a born fighter.

The word No is not in his vocabulary.

Before the delay in putting up the second $100,000 a gate of three-quarters of a million was in sight.

Had it been paid promptly the third $100,000 would have come in from the advance ticket sale.

When Great Falls put up $14,000 to make up the second payment, Johnson raked up the rest of it.

The Great Falls interests suggested that Dan Tracy be installed to direct the Shelby enterprise.

Tracy came on the job, but quit when he felt the fire.

Again Mayor Jim jumped back of the wheel for the third payment with his collateral of real estate, his cattle ranch, his sheep, his Shelby bonds, and his smile.

Newspaper men followed Jim everywhere he went. They asked him questions of his personal affairs, embarrassing things, that would have driven a less broad-minded person to desperation.

But Jim never wavered for a moment.

"I'm going through," he told them.

That's exactly the type you find in Mayor Jim, treasurer of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight.

Mayor Jim was born in Montreal, Canada, sixty years ago.

At the age of 20 he floated down the Missouri River from Fort Benton to Great Falls on a flatboat.

He got a job on the Marias cattle ranch. Then he bought it.

There was no Shelby then. That was before the railroad. Shelby consisted of a saloon and a general merchandise store.

He hadn't been in Shelby long before he bought most of it, too.

Mayor Jim has been Shelby's mayor for 12 years. Excepting for a short time he is the only mayor Shelby ever had.

Most everyone has his own story on how Shelby got the Demosey-Gibbons fight, but here's how Mayor Jim tells it:

"It was early last spring. I was in Helena on business. A snowstorm and blizzard held the little town of Shelby in its grip.

"The oil boom boomed in good weather, but not much was doing just then.

"I have a little gas stove in my real estate office.

"Mel McCutcheon and Body Johnson, my son, were snowed in for the night.

"They turned up the gas to keep warm. They were kinda blue.

"Body suggested to Mel that something ought to be done to wake up the town.

"The inspiration to stage a world's championship fight got mixed up in the conversation.

"They decided to wire Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, the largest purse he would refuse.

"To make it look bona-fide, they had Sam Sampson, local boxing promoter, send the wire. He fired the first shot that later was heard round the world.

"Kearns wired back that he would consider the offer.

"Body and Mel and Sam didn't know what to do next.

"They called me up at Helena.

"The idea sounded good. I told the boys we could get the money if we could get the fight. We did."

How the money was raised by the towns to make the first instalment and how an airplane was used in making the match reads like fiction. Later the plane was smashed at Livingston in the distribuion of tickets.

Body Johnson, Gene Lane, Lov Molumby, and Pilot Earl Vance miraculously escaped death in the smash-up. The airplane accident was the first tragedy of the big fight.

The delay in putting up the second payment to Dempsey was the second tragedy.

It took some of the edge off the fight, but not the Johnson family.

They are all back of Mayor Jim.

That's why there are 549,999 people in Montana and Mayor Jim Johnson.

FOOTBALL NOTES

There will be no soccer game tomorrow evening, but a game has been scheduled for Saturday afternoon, when the Vets and Thistles will meet in the elimination game for the Ontario Cup. The winners will represent Peterborough in the Ontario Cup proper.

The Thistles will hold a practice game this evening at the Exhibition grounds.

The first of the annual inter-city games between Montreal and Toronto, for the Carls-Rite trophy, resulted in a 3 to 1 victory for Toronto. The return game will be played in Toronto, goals to count.

Mercantile League Game This Evening.

Bankers and C.P.C. will clash this evening at Riverside Park for their first meeting in the second half of the Mercantile League schedule. The game is scheduled for 6 o'clock and should be a good one. All the teams in this circuit have been considerably strengthened since the finish of the first round, and there will probably be some shake-ups in the team standings before many more games are played.

The Examiner and Lock Works have the only other Mercantile League game scheduled for this week. They meet at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon immediately after the Central League fixture.

McTigue May Not Hold His Title Long.

Mike McTigue, holder of the world's light-heavyweight championship, as a result of a decision victory over Battling Siki, evidently isn't destined to retain the title very long.

Recently Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia decisively outpointed McTigue in an 8-round affair in that city. Prior to that Loughran had been outclassed in an eight-round affair with Jeff Smith.

Smith is a second Packy McFarland, a wonderful fighter who has never held a title. If McTigue ever gets into the same ring with Smith he can kiss good-bye to his light-heavyweight honors, in fact he will be fortunate if he averts a knock-out.

It is a rather interesting fact that the record of McTigue shows that the only defeat he has suffered on points, was a 15-round affair in which Jeff Smith was returned the winner.

PONIES EXPECT A VICTORY HERE

Saturday's Winners Will Be Out in Front in Central League Race.

Like Peterborough, the Kingston Ponies got away on the right foot in the second half of the Central Ontario League race, and their win over Belleville on Monday means that the winner of Saturday's game at Riverside Park, when the Ponies and Petes clash, will be out in front with a clear lead of one game over the rest of the Big Four. Kingston have lost both previous fixtures here, but by very small scores, and Batstone and his outfit figure on upsetting the dope here Saturday and getting a big edge over the opposition by repeating Belleville's feat and beating the Petes at Riverside Park.

It is not the easiest task in the world, however, to win over the Solomon outfit at home, for Saturday's loss was the only defeat in twenty-five consecutive league games at Riverside Park, starting Labour Day, 1921. The home crew won seventeen straight victories on their own grounds last season, not counting exhibition fixtures, and had run the record to twenty-one in the two seasons when Belleville stopped the winning streak Saturday.

The Petes, with a rest until Saturday, expect to be in good form to tackle the invaders from the Limestone City, and the fans who saw the last Heckman-Gallagher duel, which the Petes won 1 to 0, are looking forward to the game as likely to be one of the best of the season.

16-YEAR-OLD BOY SIGNED THE MAJORS

Eddie Montague is Said to Be the Youngest Player Who Ever Signed a Contract.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—(United Press).—The San Francisco Seals, bidders for pennant honors in the Pacific Coast League, believe they have helped their chances for next year by signing Eddie Montague, young high school baseball star, said to be the youngest player on contract in organized baseball.

Montague is only 16 years old. He got his training on the sand lots of Golden Gate Park and with the Polytechnic high school team. Experts who have watched him work claim he is the sweetest third baseman they have ever seen for his years, and promises to be a greater player than Willie Kamm, his discoverer.

The young Seal has been under cover for some time and his signing was kept a dark secret until the school season had been played out. Eddie is a right-handed hitter and, according to George Alfred Putnam, Seal secretary, "has everything—the old arm, the old punch with the bat, the speed and grace of Kamm and the eye of O'Connell. Tell you, he's a marvel."

Kamm claims to have discovered Montague, and told Charley Graham, who has the say-so in such things for the Seals, that Montague will make a better ball player than Kamm ever hopes to make. Which was modest of Willie, so to speak. Kamm was responsible for Montague signing with the Seals. As a part of the present big leaguer's recommendation, he declared that Montague could make good in the Coast league right now. Several big clubs are understood to have been after Montague, but the kid followed Kamm's advice and signed with the Seals, "for," said Kamm, "they made me what I am today."

In exchange for his being a good boy and going in with the old gang, Kamm sent Eddie one of his old gloves, which the youth intends to put to official use when he reports to the Seals' training camp at Boyes Spring next season.

According to local health records, Montague was born in San Francisco July 24, 1906. He joined the Sunset Federals, a city league team, when only 12 years old. There he got acquainted with Kamm and imitated that rising star so well that Kamm taught him all he knew, until today Montague needs but big-time experience to be one of the game's best cyclone sackers, according to Kamm.

The Sunset Federals is the team which has started off such major league stars at Pinelli, Caveney, Bohne, Fonesca, George Kelly and Billy Cunningham. Anson Orr, manager of the Federals, is credited with dividing honors with Kamm in bringing out the youth's fielding and hitting qualities.

Last season Montague played with Cliff Ireland's Independents, of which Bert Ellison, Joe Kelly and Harry Courtney were members. The Independents class with the Federals in being baseball kindergartens of fame in these parts.

In appearance Montague is a little over medium height with a framework of bone that should fill out enough to render him shock-proof of the sizzlers that come down the left hand line. He whips them over to first with the easy swing that Kamm taught him.

Kamm wants Montague to succeed him at third, but just now Eddie Mulligan is holding down the corner.

The leading figure is usually the leading figurer.

WOOLLENS WON CHARITY CUP TIE

Defeated the Packers 3 to 0 Last Evening in a Game That Was Marred By Rain.

The Woollens defeated the Packers in the first of the Phelan Charity Cup ties last evening by a score of 3 to 0. Though the rain made playing conditions difficult, the Woollens played nice combination throughout, while the Packers were unable to settle down.

Both teams at full strength. Mitchell kicked off for Woollens, who were the first to make progress for Packers goal, but Hotston cleared at an opportune time. Dangerous raids were made by both teams, but the Woollens were erratic in front of the goal. Curtis saved nicely from Roberts and was stopping them from all angles. James Shaw outwitted the whole defence and placed to Mitchell, who missed the upright. The Woollens confined the play to the Packers' area for a long period, but ultimately Underwood gave away a penalty for handling. James Shaw was trusted with the kick and scored for the Woollens. Curtis made a brilliant effort to save, but the force behind the ball compelled him to let it roll through. Encouraged by their success the Woollens played havoc around Curtis until Shaw scored the second goal, giving Curtis no chance to save. A few minutes later Mitchell rattled the cross-bar. Just before the whistle sounded for half time, Downes and Roberts went right in on the goal, but the latter to lift over the bar. Half time, Woollens 2, Packers 0.

Both teams set a fast pace on resuming for the second half. Downes centred to Monkman in below the bar, but the centre-half man missed an open goal. Time and again the Packers would open up the play, to be held in check by the Cridland-Reid defence. A solo run down the wing by Harry Hotston ended in a hard drive which Chambers let drop in the goal, but Reid came to the rescue to punt up the field. Hotston and Curtis repeatedly saved their goal from Woollens' forwards. Occasional raids were made by the Packers on Chambers, who responded well between the sticks. A back-heel by Roberts to Downes on the outside left, allowed him to centre to Mitchell, who lifted the ball in below the bar to increase the Woollens' score. It was now a matter of all the Woollens' forwards peppering the Packers' goal from this period until the finish. Full time, Woollens 3, Packers 0.

Goal scorers—James Shaw 2 (one penalty); and Mitchell.

Woollens — Chambers, Cridland and Reid, backs; Warman, Monkman and Sayers, half-backs; Gaskill, Shaw, Mitchell, Roberts and Downes forwards.

C.P.C.—Curtis, goal; Underwood and W. Hotston, full-backs; Batley, Jack Shaw and Bradbury, half-backs; H. Hotston, Lazenby, Anson, Ted Hotston and Fenton, forwards.

PRUETT LACKING ONLY FAST BALL

His Specialty is a Fade-away That is Hard to Hit For Any Distance — Seldom Finishes a Game.

Lack of a fast ball may keep "Lefty" Pruett of the St. Louis Browns from developing into a star pitcher. Pruett is the young man who makes a speciality of striking out Babe Ruth and beating the New York Yankees. He already has something like 14 strikeouts to his credit over Ruth.

Pruett unquestionably has one of the most deceptive balls in the country in his southpaw fadeaway. This is a delivery that ranks with the famous Mathewson fadeaway for being unusual, a hard ball to time. Incidentally it is almost impossible to get distance to a drive even if the contact with the ball is perfect.

Pruett unfortunately lacks a fast ball that he could mix in his fade-away specialty. As a result, when he is pitching, the batters know they need look for nothing but the fade-away or curve. This enables them to conform their stance at the plate to that style of pitching. If he had a good fast ball it would be impossible, yes, even dangerous, to assume such a style at the plate.

The lack of the fast ball enables the opposition after a time to fathom Pruett's stuff. As a result he is seldom able to finish a game. As a relief pitcher he continues to shine since his style is so different that it baffles for a time.

PILLETT'S FAST BALL IS TOO LOW

Deceptive Ball Breaks Below the Knee and Results in Many Bases on Balls.

Herman Pillette, sensational recruit pitcher of the Detroit Tigers last season, is having his troubles winning this year.

Pillette's main stock in trade last year was a fast ball that broke down as it neared the batsman much after the manner of a spitball. The ball was started for the knee and just as it reached the plate would dip. This made for topping the ball, and in most games pitched by Pillette many weak grounders would be hit to the infield.

Opposing players noted that in a great many cases the delivery would have been low and ruled a ball by the umpire, if the let it go by. It was also noticeable that when Pillette was forced to keep his fast ball well above the knee it lost much of its deceptiveness.

The gossip relative to Pillette, coupled with his well known inability to field bunts, has made the going rather tough for him this season. He is being waited out, which results in many bases on balls. When forced to get them over, the opposing batters mix things up by taking a healthy cut or laying down a tantalizing bunt.

JIMMY WILDE RETIRES.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Jimmy Wilde, former world's flyweight boxing king, has quit the ring for good. The little Welshman, who lost his title by a knockout, to Pancho Villa, of the Philippines, at the Polo Grounds, on June 18, announced his definite retirement from the ring yesterday before embarking on the Aquitania for England. He will devote his time to his business and private estate, he said.

MEUSEL'S HOMERS WON FOR NEW YORK

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Two home runs by "Irish" Meusel were enough to give New York a victory over Philadelphia yesterday 4 to 2. Meusel hit his first homer in the sixth with two on base and duplicated the blow in the eighth with no one on. Score:

Thistles to Enter a Team For Ontario Cup.

In spite of the fact that their application was made a week too late, it was decided at the meeting of the P. & D.F.A. last evening to allow the Thistles to enter for the Ontario Cup competition. When the entries were closed on the final date fixed by the association, the Vets were the only team entered. Last evening, however, the Thistles asked the organization to rescind their former motion and allow their entry. After considerable discussion it was unanimously decided to let them enter, the G.W.V.A. members being willing to take the sporting chance that their team could win out in the local cup tie game. The Thistles were, however, strongly censured for their dilatory methods.

The date for the local cup tie to decide on the Peterborough representative was set for Saturday and the Phelan Charity Cup tie between the Thistles and Vets has been set for July 12.

The elimination game on Saturday will be played at the Oval with the kick-off at 3:30. Jack Clark will be the referee.

W. Nicholls was appointed official representative from Peterborough to the Ontario Football Association.

GAME POSTPONED.

The Intermediate City League game scheduled for last evening between the C.G.E. and the Mercantile All-Stars was postponed on account of rain. Both teams were on hand at Riverside Park for the contest, but Jupiter Pluvius horned in at the last minute and made play impossible.

FIGHT FANS ON THE JOB EARLY

It Will Be Six or Seven O'clock This Evening Before Results Are Received Here.

GREAT FALLS, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, left her at seven o'clock this morning, for Shelby in his private car, accompanied by Mike Trant, Chicago Detective Sergeant, Jerry Lavattas his trainer, Joe Benjamin lightweight, and staff of sparring partners.

Dempsey is champion in the most perfect condition of his ring career and he feels he can retain his title against Gibbons. He does not promise knock-out and considers Gibbons one of the hardest men he has been asked to fight. Champion regards Gibbons as first rate boxer and as possessing wallop almost equal if not equal of any man in world to-day. Therefore he does not intend to take any chance, with the St. Paul pummeller and will try for knockout from first going.

Lvattas who trained freckled Bob Fitzsimmons in heydey of his career declares Dempsey is in better condition than when he knocked out Carpentier and expects him to win in three rounds.

Two Desires

On edge as heavyweight championship bout between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons near its climax Shelby is torn by two ardent desires to-day, one is to see Tommy Gibbons world's champion and the other is to see a record breaking crowd at the fight. While streets are crowded liberal estimates placed figures for attendance at ten thousand. Gibbons is in tip top form at 178 pounds and is confident of victory. He declares that he is in best condition of his career and his bronzed body and store of energy testify to his perfect condition.

After his breakfast this morning of eggs and toast he declared his aiblity to "put Dempsey away" and added that he would have no alibis if defeated.

Long before the gates of Shelby's big fight arena swung open to-day the streets of the town were crowded with fans, concessionaries were doing a rushing business and restaurants were packed.

Despite the fact that it was the Fourth of July, not a single firecracker was fired. Their use had been prohibited as a fire prevention measure.

At eight o'clock, the pile of tickets remaining unsold in fight headquarters was bundled into a government truck ,amply guarded, and carried to the box offices at the arena. Trains arriving here early to-day continued to be crowded with fight fans.

Gibbons did not arise until shortly before nine o'clock. He went through a few minutes of calisthenics in the brisk mountain air.

"Tom Gibbons will be the heavyweight champion of the world when this day is over," declared Eddie Kane, the challengers' manager, in his final statement before the title bout. "There is nothing more to say. Tom is trained to the minute. He has punch and more skill than his adversary."

It will be six or seven o'clock this evening before the fight results are received in Peterboro. The bout starts about five o'clock standard time.

BOWLING

Three rinks from the Peterboro Lawn Bowling Club took part in the lawn bowling tournament held in Oshawa on Monday. Fifty three rinks were entered, including a number from Toronto, and some high-class bowling resulted. The Peterboro rinks were in charge of George Cairns, R. M. Waddell and J. W. Mayneord. The Mayneord rink went right through to the finals in the McLaughlin trophy, and lost to Duncan of the Withrow Park Club by a 12-8 score. Prior to this the Mayneord rink had disposed of the following rinks: Stanley of Bowmanville, 17-9; Gardiner, of Belleville, 11-9; Kaiser of Howard Park, 13-6, and Entricknap of Withrow Park ,Toronto, 17-6. The next game was the finals and the Peterboro rink lost out. The rink was composed of R. Eliott, M. B. Chenhall, R. Cottrell and J. W. Mayneord. The Cairns rink made a good showing, and was a dangerous factor in the Consolation series.

DISTINCTIVE WORK OF THE S. S. OUTLINED

Splendid Address by J. M. Greene Features This Morning's Session of the Summer School.

The Summer School meeting at the George street church had an interesting session this morning. The Bible Study classes conducted by the secretary, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, B. A., B. D., of Little Britain, are extremely interesting, thoughtful and clear expositions of situations in the life of our Lord; the physical drills and games are thoroughly enjoyed, under the direction of Rev. Roy Richard, B.A., M.R.E., of Bowmanville, and the Teacher Training Groups are sessions where Sunday school problems are handled in a particularly interesting manner by the two leaders, Miss L. R. Moyer, B.A., of St. Catharines, having charge of of the C.G.I.T. group, and Rev. W. H. Clarke, of Tamworth taking the teachers. The method of imparting instruction in these classes is carried on in the real classroom manner, by way of question and answer, the class becoming responsive and interested in a system which brings to the surface their own impressions, the teacher carrying out their thoughts to a logical conclusion. Miss Moyer's class finished their session this morning with a happy rendition of the C.G. I.T. song, to the tune of "Peggy O'Neil."

The Keynote.

The keynote of the school so far seems to be a-harping on the necessity of cooperation on the part of the teacher and pupil, with the widest range possible given, and opportunity afforded to the utmost for the participation of the pupil in his or her own teaching. This idea was stressed in all this morning's sessions also in the outstanding address given by J. M. Greene of Peterboro on "The Distinctive Work of the Sunday School."

Mr. Greene, whose address was heard with the closest of attention, and proved to be a mine of information and interest to his audience, opened his talk with a reference to the basis of Christian teaching, as found in the Sunday school, "Which has its own particular work apart from the life of the church. The church's appeal is principally one of preaching, but in the Sunday school teaching is the main endeavor to bring to the pupils a consciousness of the measure of the stature of Christ. Theodore Roosevelt said, "We must spend and be spent," and Lincoln said "I a (not bound to win, but I am bound to be true."

To enable the coming generations to develop the highest and finest type of Christianity, Sunday schools must recognize the challenge to effort, not to-morrow, but to-day.

Roger Babson said that the Sunday school is one of the most important existing institutions, and that its possibilities are unlimited. In the junior age, that great age of interrogation, the molding age, children must be taught how to become real Christians and how to lead a Christian life. The teacher must neglect no attribute of physical and mental preparation for the task.

From the ages of 14 to 20 was the age of high tension, "the crowded years," but the Sunday school can do a great deal to stem the tide of this made world, and to crystallize in this critical period the religious awakenings which represent the church's crowning opportunity and responsibility.

"To secure the intelligent interest of the pupil, there is no use in talking generalities. Your talk must be explicit and directed towards the activities of their everyday lives," to bring home to them a practical application of the truths of religion."

The craving of the adolescent boy or girl towards accomplishment, towards a goal for the scattered energies which make them seemingly irresponsible and nerve-wracking, should be capitalized by giving them a job to do, "and intelligently led it will be done."

Sunday School Survey.

In a Sunday school survey it was discovered that in 22 schools containing an aggregate of 1595 boys and 1984 girls, that only 40 per cent. of boys between the ages of 14 and 19 were in attendance, as there were of boys between the ages of 8 and 13, or in other words, between the ages of 14 and 19, 60 out of every 100 former boy pupils of the Sunday school had dropped out. In the case of the girls who also dropped out of attendance during this same period of from between 14 to 19 years, as compared to the period between 8 and 13 years, the percentage was 45 out of every hundred.

The answer to this falling off was the adoption of organised departments, with a definite programme in which the pupils could take a major part, so as to develop interest through participation. "The best way to transform an indifferent person into a booster is to give him something to do."

Mr. Greene referred to the great provision made for secular education as compared with the equipment provided for religious instruction. "Here in Peterborough," he said, "it costs us approximately $130.00 per year per pupil in our Collegiate Institute. In Trinity Church Sunday School, with a membership of about 500 pupils, the cost per pupil is $1.50 per year. If religion is as necessary as our best leaders say it is, why should we not have as good a place in which to teach religion as the State has in which to teach reading, writing, and arithmetic?"

"Since the war, the adolescents of the age are more alert than ever. A larger responsibility devolves on the church to capitalise this greater energy, alertness, and hunger. Future leaders are trained in the mind and the hand, but what about the heart? Christianity demands that the heart should be tuned in perfect accord with the great realities and tasks which are ours. Where must all this start? It must begin with the cradle." The importance of home training was emphasised by the speaker, who said that one of the defects, to his mind, of the great National Campaign, was its failure to insist on the importance of family worship. "Reconstruction of the family altar is necessary. It is appalling that a great evangelistic Crucifixion, teaching God's word. cate the heathen in foreign lands should have only 5 per cent of its home members as family worshippers."

Mr. Greene spoke of the questionnaire recently submitted to junior pupils of public schools to determine their knowledge of the Bible. There were 324 replies, of which number 256 of the children attended Sunday School, and 68 did not indicate whether they were members or not.

The first question was to name five Old Testament books. These were named by 77 children, but only 7 answers were spelled correctly. Genesis and Deuteronomy were spelled in 40 different ways. Twenty-two out of the 27 books of the New Testament were named as Old Testament books, in addition to many Bible characters for which no books are named, and such answers as "Bible Dictionary," "Luther," and "Robinson Crusoe." Seventy-five named books of the New Testament. Twenty-five were spelled correctly. Nine Old Testament characters were given as names for New Testament books in the second question, including "John Baptist," "St. Paul," and "Philip," and 20 Old Testament books appeared as books of the New Testament.

A question which asked that something be said regarding Abraham, Moses, Samuel, David and Elijah, there appeared "a very lamentable lack of knowledge of these characters." Eighty-four told something of Moses, but the great majority told nothing about him, or confused him with Joseph, Samuel, Jesus, or the Three Wise Men from the East.

Several said he had been born in a basket on the Jordan, one conflicted him with King Herod, and one suggested that he was the first white man on earth.

Ninety-three knew something about David, but several confused him with Isaac, Joseph, Moses, Herod or Jesus. Forty-eight knew about Elijah, but several said he had taken his brother's birthright, or brought the Gospel, or was a disciple or a blind man, or, in one instance, a prophet who went about after the Crucifixion, tecahing God's word.

Only fifty eight knew anything about John the Baptist, some said he was a priest or a fisherman, or a Christian in Luther's time, and among those whom he baptised they included Elijah and King Saul.

Out of a total of 324, only 141, or less than 44 per cent., gave intelligent answers to the question that dealt with an interesting item in the life of Jesus, and only 41 gave any information about St. Paul. One said that he had built a great cathedral, which was still standing in Europe.

The question which asked them to name an event taking place at Sinai, Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth, or the Sea of Galilee, showed a greater degree of interest in places than in people. But only 3 out of the total knew anything about Mount Sinai; 103 knew something about Jerusalem and 206 about Bethlehem. Few knew anything about Nazareth, and confused it with Bethlehem and Jerusalem. One said it was the city where Paul was buried, another that it was the place where Jesus raised Lazarus from the dead, and another that Jesus was king there.

The Challenge.

Mr. Greene said: "Is our teaching simply a matter of story-telling or of taking up the time?" To Sunday school superintendents, he recommended that they discover what was actually being taught and done in their Sunday schools, and to teachers he recommended a thorough preparation for their work. "Can we set aside such an important question with a light heart. No! The challenge has been made, and we must go forward, instead of backward. Webster said: "If we work upon marble, it will perish; if upon brass, time will efface it. If we rear temples, they will crumble into dust, but if we work upon immortal minds, if we imbue them with principles that inspire a fear and love of God and a love of our fellow man, we engrave upon these tablets something that will brighten all eternity."

Rev. A. J. Langford, who was present at this morning's session, although he agreed with Mr. Greene in his statements regarding the lack of knowledge in some children about Biblical matters, thought that an examination of Public school pupils in Canadian history, for example, if they devoted only a half hour a week to its study, would result in even a more lamentable display of ignorance ,and this view was concurred in by Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, from his experience as a Collegiate Institute teacher .He cited an instance of second-form pupils who, on examination, failed to exhibit any knowledge whatever as to the history or exploits of Cabot, Jacques Cartier or Columbus.

Mr. Greene's address met with applause and was the subject of various congratulatory remarks by the president, Rev. Mr Richards, in the chair.

Teacher Training.

The session then divided into two sections.

Miss Moyer's class this morning was occupied with attention to, and discussion of, the proper carrying on of a Sunday school period. The purpose of the Sunday school session is to learn about God through Christ, and also to develop effective Christians .The worship period was the first portion, in which all met on a common ground. The prayers should be short, sincere and plainly worded, with special attention to a spirit of reverence which, said the young teacher, would bring to those present a consciousness of the presence of God in their midst. The spirit of this period, rather than its length of eloquence, was the necessary attribute to success. The president took charge for this period.

The study period, in charge of the teacher, should be about 35 minutes in length ,with prayer and short business session. The teacher shouldn't do all the talking, but allow expression of ideas from the pupils. Emphasis in all Bible studies should be laid on the fundamental theories underlying their message; the Fatherhood of God, the Brotherhood of Christ to all men, and the idea of service in all relations of life. Also the relation of the story of the Old Testament to the New, the gradual unfolding of the expectation of the people ,and their theory with regard to their coming Saviour, and its working out in the real coming of Christ and His work on earth, being one of the most interesting phases of the Bible stories.

The closing should be brief, with report of attendance and finances, and prayer.

Miss Moyer also took up the important question of the part played by worship in the life of the young girl, and its value only as it was sincere and real and reverent.

Enlist Activity

Rev. Mr. Clarke, speaking to the teachers, gave them an idea of a good working plan for a Sunday school session. First the preparation of the lesson. then the method used which should be planned for greatest effectiveness, the facts presented in the most attractive form and then the conclusion, with its intellectual appeal, to satisfy both the conscience and the will.

To enlist the activity of the pupil and his or her co-operation in the teaching of the lesson, was the main idea. There could be no proper learning without mental activitiy and co-operation on the part of the pupil. The child was a living, alert, listening mind, and an impression was made only as the childs activity was enlisted in the reception of the lesson and its meaning.

"Get them interested and they will teach themselves unconsciously. We are not just so many blocks of wood We are all of different personalities and we should strive to enlist the various personalities in the class in active co-operation with our teaching."

Mr. Clarke quoted, "There is no valuable expression without a social motive." The things that we learn should constantly apply to the things around us. The simple doing of a task is not really valuable unless it carries a social interest with it and that interest is a contribution to the work of the class."

"It is said that "if a child under six years of age is still, it is either sick or aleep." We must enlist this activity of the child, which may not be either restlessness or inattention, but an expression of its interest."

"Teachers in public schools realize the value of the play-life." These play impulses, Mr. Clarke, said, might be utilized in the imitations of the child of Old Testament scenes as characters. He also recommended the use of hand-work, of picture work, maps drawings, sand tables, and plastic materials, also written work, maps. drawings, and tables, cussion, object and museum work.

The whole plan hinged on the principle that what is really done and learned by work of any sort was the measure of the activity enlisted by the teacher from the child, in the plan of transferring from the mind of the teacher to the mind of the child the knowledge necessary to bring God into relation with that child's life.

Bible Study

Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, in his interesting session this morning, devoted to Bible study spoke on the Temptations to which Jesus was subjected. In His efforts to face the future of His ministry, and to discover whether the spiritual was the most real of all things. In the triple temptation to which He was subjected by Satan, there was instanced His method of bringing in His kingdom. whether the way of the zealot, the way of the sword, was preferable to the way of the spirit. The programme of the Kingdom as spiritual rather than compulsory.

Following the morning session, with the interlude for games, a picture of the assembled School was taken on the church ground by Mr. F. L. Roy.

This evening, a special treat is promised all who wish to attend in the address to be delivered by the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference; Rev. R. A. Whattam of Colborne, who was a former pastor in this town, occupying the pulpit of Mark Street Methodist church during the term from 1915 to 1919. prior to Rev. Mr. Ross' pastorate.

The Twilight Service will be led thih evening by Rev. H. W. Young M.A. B.D., pastor of George street Methodist church.

ROBE AND COAT WERE EVIDENCE

Sister Marie Madeline Gave Information at Delorme Trial.

MONTREAL, July 4.—(Canadian Press).—That Adelarde Delorme had on February 11, 1922, made application for the refund of the return half of a Montreal-Ottawa railway ticket issued to Raoul Delorme on December 21, 1921, was the evidence of C. P. Duranceau, C.P.R. agent, presented when the trial of the priest, indicted for the murder of his half-brother, was continued to-day.

Application for refund was signed "Adelarde Delorme, priest, 190 Hubert Street, Montreal, Que."

The first witness this morning was Sister Marie Madeline, of Little Sisters of St. Joseph, who testified that during February, 1922, accused had deposited with her a robe and racoon coat. This was on the day before his arrest. The coat and robe were to be repaired and reclaimed in the month of June following. The work to be done on the robe and coat was work which she had been in the habit of doing.

JOHNNY HINES BOOKED IN NEW COMEDY.

Johnny Hines, the popular juvenile screen comedian, is booked for an engagement at the Capitol Theatre, for three days beginning Thursday evening. This time Johnny comes with a new feature comedy under the title of "Sure Fire Flint," taken from a story by Gerald C. Duffy, known for his stories filled with pep and dash. Those who remember Johnny in "Burn 'Em Up Barnes" will certainly welcome him in his latest photo play. In "Sure Fire Flint" Johnny will keep everyone in high spirits; he is always doing things that will bring a thousand laughs. The picture is filled with many a thrill, especially the one where he races his automobile across a railway crossing only to have it demolished by the dashing express train. Also the scene taken from the trenches, where he holds up a card and has it punctured by a rifle ball from an alert Heinie sharp-shooter, not omitting the big cabaret shots, where Johnny proves himself a regular Vernon Castle. There are many other scenes that will bring forth true hearty laughter.

Mr. Hines is surrounded by a cast of well known people, including the beautiful Doris Kenyon, Effie Shannon, Robert Edeson, Edmund Breese J. Barney Sherry, Charles Gerrad and others. The piece was directed by Dell Henderson and Billy Bitzer, Cameraman for Griffiths, took the scenes. All the sets were designed by Charles O. Sessel

British Women Are Leading Tennis Players.

The prestige of United States women in international tennis competition is rapidly being swamped.

Molla Mallory, the American champion, has bowed to the superiority of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French star, who specializes in poodle dogs and flashy photographic poses when she is not proving she is the best women's tennis player in the world.

Miss Bancroft, second ranking player, was recently beaten in France by an unknown native.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Ryan, while proving herself among the best in Britain, can longer be considered an American, because her residence is established in London even though she came originally from California.

The experts who are getting quite worried over the failure of American women to measure up to the international tennis standard, believe too few women are playing in this country today. In England almost every woman, rich and poor, plays the game. More tournaments are held in England and on the continent, arousing greater interest.

Then, during the winter months, the best players find ideal indoor courts in London, something of which the United States cannot brag.

FLOWING GOLD

COPYRIGHT 1922 BY REX BEACH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray, enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, arrives in Dallas, the home of Nelson. Gray is in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for the colonel. Gray goes to look at an oil prospect and meets Barbara's father, Tom Parker, investigating the same land. Gray hires Mallow and two associates to keep track of the activites of Nelson in the oil fields. Gray becomes friendly with the Briskow family and Allie, the daughter, falls in love with him. Bud Briskow, the son, runs away from school and Gray promises the family that he will follow and bring Bud home.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

There followed a moment of silence. Mallow and Stoner exchanged glances. "What percentage of that goes?" the former finally inquired.

"One hundred."

"So? Then it's lucky Nelson didn't fall. But there's no harm done—nobody's hurt."

"It is lucky, indeed—for me. I'd have felt bound to make good his loss, if you had hooked him. I presume I ought to expose this swindle."

"Expose Jackson?" Stoner inquired, quickly. When Gray nodded, there was another brief silence before the speaker ventured to say: "I know this bird Nelson, and, take it from me, you're giving him the best of it. If I hadn't known him as well as I do, I wouldn't of put in with you to break him. Now about this Jackson; you can land him, I s'pose, if you try, but it would be lower than a frog's foot, after him playing square with you."

"What do you mean by that?"

"He could have stung you, easy, couldn't he? You surged out here on purpose to buy the lease, but he hid out all afternoon to avoid you."

"Um-m! Suppose we leave it for the present."

Mallow, who had remained silent during his friend's argument, greeted this suggestion with relief. He was glad to change the subject. "Good!" he cried, heartily. "I'd about as soon face Old Tom Parker, like that fellow in the restaurant did, as to face Jackson. He'd sink a stilleon in my head, sure, if—"

"Parker? Was that old man Miss Parker's father?"

"Certainly! What d'you think ailed that gunman? D'you think he got the flu or something, all of a sudden? There ain't anybody left tough enough to hanker for Tom's scalp. He's pinned a rose on all of those old-timers, and he's deadly poison to the new crop."

For the first time Calvin Gray understood clearly the reason for the unexpected outcome of that encounter in the cafe. No wonder the stranger's trigger finger had been paralyzed. Barbara's father, indeed! How stupid of him not to guess.

"I must find him, quickly," Gray declared. "Perhaps he'll ride back to town with us."

It was not a difficult task to locate the veteran officer, and Tom was delighted at the chance to ride home with his new acquaintance.

A unique and an engaging person Parker proved to be; an odd compound of gentleness and acerbity, of kindliness and rancor; a quiet, guileless, stubborn, violent old man-at-arms, who would not be interrupted while he was eating. He was both scornful and contemptuous of evil-doers. All needed killing.

"Hard luck, I call it, for a budding desperado to wreck a career of promise the way that wretched fellow did," Gray told him with a laugh. "Out of all the men in Texas, to pick you—"

"Is he ain't a bud! He's quite a killer."

"Indeed?"

"He kills Mexicans and niggers and folks without guns, mostly. Low-down stuff! He's got three or four, I believe. I never could see why the Nelsons kep' him."

There was a brief silence. "I beg pardon?" said Gray.

"He's been on the Nelson pay roll for years—doing odd jobs that wasn't fit to be done. But I guess they got tired of him, anyhow he's been hanging around Wichita for the last two or three weeks. He's been in an out of our office quite a bit."

Later, when the journey was over and Tom Parker had been dropped at his gate, Gray spoke to his two companions.

"Did you hear what he said?"

"We did."

"IT'S A REGULAR STORY, LIKE IN A BOOK."

"Do you believe I was framed?" Both Mallow and Stoner nodded.

CHAPTER XX
Arline Meets Her Match

OZARK BRISKOW, like his sister Allegheny, was studying hard and learning rapidly, but he had adopted an educational plan, a curriculum, so to speak, far different from hers.

His education was progressing apace, for love is the greatest of educators, and Buddy was in love—madly, extravagantly in love. Love it was that accounted for his presence in Dallas, and his occupancy of the Governor's suite at the Ajax.

In spite of the fact that the train from Wichita Falls was behind time, one morning shortly after Buddy's arrival, he was still abed when Calvin Gray arrived at the hotel. Instead of disturbing the slumbers of youth, Gray went directly to the detective who had telegraphed him, and for half an hour or more the two talked.

Later, during the course of a leisurely bath and shave, the new arrival pondered the information he had received. Here was a problem. Having dressed himself, he strolled around to Coverly's place of business and interviewed the jeweler.

"Sure! He has bought quite a bit of stuff in the last few days," Coverly told him. "He was in only yesterday and ordered a fine piece made up. He wanted a ruby heart pierced with a diamond arrow, but I got him off that and onto a blue Brazilian solitaire. We're mounting it in a platinum lady's ring."

"What is the price?"

"Forty-five hundred, and the value is there."

"Hold the ring. He may change his mind."

"I say!" Coverly was in dismay. "Are you going to spoil the best sale I've made in two weeks?"

"Oh, I'll take it off your hands if he doesn't. Make some excuse not to deliver it until I say the word."

Gray knocked several times at the Governor's suite before a sleepy response, a succession of yawns and mutterings, told him that he had been heard. The door opened finally and the pride of the Briskow family, his eyes all but swelled shut, his muscular figure splendidly arrayed in futuristic silken pajamas, mumbled:

"What's eatin' you, any—?" The eyes opened wider, Buddy's face broke into a slow smile. "Why, Mr. Gray!" He extended a palm, a bit dry and feverish, and drew his caller inside. "Dawg-gone! I'm glad to see you."

Buddy led the way into his bedroom, piled his pillows together and gingerly lowered himself upon them. He showed his strong white teeth in a wide grin and winked meaningly. "I'll be all right directly. It's this here sim-sympathetic boose they talk about. Have a drink, Mr. Gray? There's a coupla bottles of real liquor in the closet—not this tiger's milk you get—"

The caller declined the invitation. "Where the devil have you been, Buddy? We were getting worried."

Buddy's face reddened, he dropped his eyes. "I don't mind tellin' you—I— It's like this—I kinda got a girl!"

"No!" The speaker was surprised, incredulous.

"Sure have. She's—wonderful. She's right here in this hotel!"

"Buddy, you're developing!" Gray exclaimed, with apparent admiration.

"I been showin' her the sights—that's what ails me this morning. She lets me take her around to places—trusts me, you understand? She thinks I'm aces."

"Splendid! I wish you'd ask her to dig up a friend."

"How d'you mean?"

"Why, ask her to find another good-looking girl for me—I dasume she is good looking—then we can make it a foursome. I'm a great entertainer and, while I don't drink, I haven't the slightest objection to ladies who do. Dallas, I believe, is a pretty lively—"

"She's a stranger here," Buddy broke in, stiffly. His enthusiasm had cooled; he regarded Gray with veiled displeasure. "An' besides, she ain't that kind of a girl."

"Oh! Sorry! I thought from what you said—that headache—bottles in your closet, too! My mistake, Buddy."

"I'm—" Buddy gulped. "I'm goin' to marry her."

"Oh, fine!" Gray's enthusiasm was positively electric. He seized Buddy's hand and crushed it. "Education, indeed! No use for that now, is there?"

"I mean I'm goin' to, if I can; if she'll let me."

"Let you? With your money? Why, she'll jump at the chance. No doubt you have already asked her—or she suspects—"

The lad shook his head. "She don't have to marry nobody. She's got money—an ee-tate."

"She's young, eh?"

"She's—older 'n I am. I reckon she's mebbe twenty-five. I never ast her."

"Naturally. How did you meet her? When? Where? I'm a terribly romantic old fool." Gray hitched his chair closer and leaned forward, his face keen with interest.

"Well, sir, it's a regular story, like in a book. I was in a restaurant with a coupla fellers an' a feller she was with struck her—"

"Struck her?"

"Yep. He was her brother, so she told me. Anyhow, I bounced him. I sure spoiled him up a lot. She was cryin' an' she ast me to take her home. That's how I got to know her. I s'pose she cottoned to me for takin' her part that-a-way. She didn't know the sort of place it was her brother had took her. Poor kid! She's had a hard time, an' every man she ever knew, but me, done her dirt. Dress her husband." Buddy scowled.

After a moment Gray said, quietly, "So, she's married?"

LABOR LEADER DEFENDS TRUST

Condemned Private Houses Which Compete With Existing Combine

LONDON, July 4.—(Special).—The novel spectable of a Labor leader hotly defending London's largest trust was seen today at the conference of National Railway men when the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas bitterly condemned the private omnibuses which are endeavoring to compete with the existing combine between the regular buses and the underground railway.

Mr. Thomas declared that London faces the most serious transportation problem of its history and was threatened with absolute traffic chaos through disorganization by means of irresponsible private companies and individuals which blocked the roads and streets of the city and district under the guise of so-called free competition. The underground combine to-day carries a daily average of seven million passengers but independent buses are largely patronized by the ublic on the ground of freedom of chaos.

This means that the independent companies are taking the cream of the business leaving the skim milk to a highly efficient combine.

What will the public say when the combine decides that if it only gets the lean traffic which does not pay it will go out of business, said Mr. Thomas. This problem must be tackled immediately not on lines of absurd competition but of benefit to the entire community.

NATIONS SUGGEST U. S. CO-OPERATE

America Has Monopoly of Munitions Trade—Serious Cause of War.

GENEVA, July 4 (United Press). — The League of Nations secretary on Tuesday published a letter which the League Council addressed to American Secretary of States Hughes on 3rd May, asking to what extent the United States was willing to co-operate with the rest of the world in controlling the private manufacture of war materials.

Hughes has not replied. The letter was intended to demonstrate that the other nations cannot be induced to cease the manufacture of arms until America does so.

America is said practically to monopolise the munitions trade, and the League letter suggests a conference on the subject, as the traffic in munitions is considered one of the most serious causes of war.

WILLIAMS WOULD GIVE REWARD TO JOHNSTON

TORONTO, July 4. — (Canadian Press). — General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, stated to-day that he had recommended the payment of the $1,000 reward for the capture of Leo Rogers to Allan Johnston. The recommendation had gone to the Attorney-General's department, but will probably not be acted upon until the new Ministry takes office.

WEDDING BELLS

HARDILL—MANIECE.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart Maniece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maniece, 84 James street, and Milford Grant Hardill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hardill, 343 McDonnel street, were married on Saturday morning in St. Luke's Church. Rev. George Bousefield performed the ceremony. The young couple left on a trip to Toronto and Montreal, and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

DiNOBLE—THOMASINA

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday, July 2nd, at eight o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart ,when Carmella, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Thomasina, of Peterborough, became the bride of Nicholas DiNoble, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. DiNoble, of this city. Rev. J. J. O'Brien performed the ceremony.

The charming bride, who was given away by her father, was beautifully gowned in a dress of white canton crepe, trimmed with satin. She wore a white tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms, silver shoes and stockings, and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses. She wore also the gift of the bridegroom, a sunburst of pearls.

The bridesmaid, Miss Madeline Aste, wore a lovely dress of blue canton crepe, with grey hat and plume, and carried columbia roses. Mr. Fred DiNoble, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was an onyx ring, and to the best man a gold tie pin.

After the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DiNoble. The day was spent in traditional fashion, with a merry company celebrating the health of the bridegroom in song and dance, and feasting, until a late hour. Several hundred guests were present, including out of town visitors from New York, Montreal and Toronto.

Mr and Mrs. DiNoble left yesterday for a honeymoon in New York, the bride travelling in a handsome costume of French blue crepe, with grey plumed hat and grey shoes and stockings. On their return, they will reside on Chamberlain street. The many beautiful and costly presents received by the young people testified to the high esteem in which they are held by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

NO QUORUM FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Last evening the Board of Education was unable to get a quorum, and as a result the regular monthly meeting did not materialise.

Mrs. W. R. Morris was absent owing to the serious illness of a relative, and earlier in the day Messrs. E. B. Fowler and J. A. McKone notified the chairman that they could not attend.

Those present were Messrs. A. A. Fowler, chairman, Dr. F. C. Neal, Roland Denne, and J. M. Greene. A quorum of five members is necessary to transact business of the Board, and in this case the only available fifth member was Mr J Wearing. The latter was attending a meeting of the City Council in his capacity of City Solicitor, and sent word that he could not be present.

THE GATES OF ENGLAND ARE CLOSED BY STRIKES AMONG THE DOCKERS

Food Supply Threatened by Dockers' Walk-out—Only 10 Days Supply of Wheat.

SETTLEMENT FAILS

LONDON, July 5. — (United Press).—The food supply of England is threatened by the strike of more than thirty-five thousand dock workers and sympathizers. The dock workers walked out after their demands for a wage increase had been refused. Each hour brings news of additional walk-outs in the major ports, and the situation is approaching a general tie-up at the gates of England. The grain porters quit this morning in sympathy with the London dock workers, leaving the millers with only a week or ten days' supply of wheat.

Seven thousand dock men in Manchester are joining the movement. In Birkenhead six vessels were to sail, but were delayed when eleven hundred men walked out.

Warehouse and lighter men went out in sympathy at Hull, and in Liverpool a small group of dock workers left their work.

Cold Storage Supplies.

In spite of the fact that many hundreds of thousands of pounds of perishable food is being held up in transhipment owing to the dockers' strike, Londoners have no need to be alarmed over the possibility of a food shortage, as the authorities declare there is sufficient in the cold storage warehouses to last at least a fortnight, and measures are contemplated to prevent both profiteering and the boosting of prices. The strike is spreading rapidly and the road transport group is considering the possibility of sympathetic action.

The strikers are endeavoring to induce porters from handling perishable goods in the great food markets and are trying to get them to join the strikers.

The efforts of the officials to settle the strike seem to be merely annoying the men. There were scenes of enthusiasm when the dockers of Manchester and Salford refused to work.

EDITOR CALLED BY PROSECUTOR

Delorme Trial Continued Today—Newspaper Man Told of Abbe's Letter.

MONTREAL, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The trial of Rev. Adelard Delorme, indicted for the murder of Raoul Delorme, his half-brother, on 7th January, 1922, was continued here before Sir Francois Lemieux, Chief Justice of Quebec, this morning.

The chief witness was a newspaper man, Fernard Roby, city editor of the French language daily, La Patrie. He was interrogated by the Crown prosecutor, R. L. Calder, regarding an article written by Abbe Delorme which had appeared in his paper following the murder.

He had sent a reporter, said the witness, to Abbe Delorme on 18th January, 1922, to ask him if he would send the paper an autographed letter asking the population of Montreal to aid him in avenging his brother and to clear up the rumours regarding himself. Abbe Delorme had telegraphed Mr. Roby, saying: "I do not understand exactly what you want. Come and see me."

Roby did so, and in consequence the priest had asked him to write it, to which witness objected. Abbe Delorme thereupon wrote the letter requested, which was reproduced in La Patrie.

Witness also testified regarding a telephone conversation he had with the accused regarding a watch which, according to current information at the time, might have been taken from Raoul Delorme by the murderer.

Abbe had said, according to the witness, that an English-speaking Sunday paper had called him up to know where the watch was, and he had requested the individual speaking to refer himself to Chief of Police Belanger or to Chief Lepage.

Most Amazing Crop Outlook in History.

CALGARY, Alta., July 5. — The wheat is averaging 32 inches through out the Prairies, with the most amazing prospects of a heavy yield in the west's history. Much rye has been cut with the best average, but the wheat acreage is absorbing the chief attention, even in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, where in other years the drouth has been the chief obstacle. There is more moisture today than is good for the growing wheat.

Medicine Hat, where things got so bad a year ago that Hatfield, the rain-maker, was employed to increase the moisture, is having all the rain required. The harvest will be two weeks earlier than usual, and if the yield is on the basis now estimated, it will, experts assert, approximate half a billion bushels with a chance to test every marketing facility that Canada can supply.

ASSOCIATION CREDITED FOR THE GOOD FISHING

Visitors from Oak Orchard who are in the city to-day report that fishing in that district is better than for many years past. They attribute this to the energies of the Fish and Game Protective Association.

The Association, they say, has not only been instrumental in restocking the waters, but has protected the fish during spawning season.

DECORATION DAY

The members of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, and Peterboro Lodge No. 111 I.O.O.F., will hold Decoration Day, Sunday, July 8th, at Little Lake cemetery. Members will leave the I.O.O.F. Hall at 2.30. WISH SABOTAGE CEASE IN RUHR SAY OFFICIALS German Government Sharply Condemns Disturbances and Disclaims Responsibility.

COMPLETE REVERSAL

BERLIN, July 5. — (United Press).—The German Government on Wednesday prepared a statement sharply condemning sabotage in the Ruhr, and making it plain that the Government wishes such acts to cease. This reduces the policy of passive resistance in the Ruhr to the mere non-compliance with the invaders' demands.

The reversal of the position followed an all-day conference between party leaders and Chancellor Cuno. The Government took its stand on individual cases, including the recent Duisberg disturbances, disavowing them entirely and denying the accusations that it is supporting such acts of sabotage or at least winking at them.

Behind the action lay two significant facts — first, the Socialists have been attacking the Government's passive resistance policy and its failure to deal with those committing acts of sabotage.

Second, the Government has been disheartening the statements issued by Pope Pius in the past few days.

When the Pope addressed his letter to Cardinal Gasparri, urging for French lenience toward Germany, Berlin was enthusiastic. England seemed about to split with France. Belgium was apparently vacilliating, and Italy stood behind England. In addition to this, the Pope had seemed to oppose France.

The visit of French Ambassador Jonnart to the Vatican altered the entire situation. Jonnart placed proofs of German sabotage before Pope Pius. Immediately the Pope instructed the Papal Nuncio in Berlin to condemn German sabotage, and the Vatican issued a semi-official communication of condemnation.

Passive resistance will naturally continue.

Individual cases of sabotage will occur, but the Government can flatly declare its non-responsibility.

COMMITTEE GETS PAVING PROGRAM

City Engineer's Report Will Be Digested by Board of Works.

City Engineer Parsons' special report to the Council outlining a moderate programe of street paving to be spread over a number of years was referred to the Board of Works as follows:

"In my opinion a paving programme should be laid out to extend over the next 5 to 7 years laying each year about 20.000 yards of so-called permanent pavement each year, these pavements to be laid on the main heavy traffic streets.

On the residential streets, I think it would be advisable, considering the nature of the foundations to lay a penetration type of surface on the old macadam. I would advise narrow ing up the width of most of these streets to about 27 feet and laying a permanent concrete curb and gutter but over the rest of the surface a penetration top 2 1-2 to 3 inches thick would, I think, give great satisfaction. This top would be constructed of Tarvia or of asphalt which is sprayed on to the top of the stone and penetrates into the voids between them and binds them together.

Finer stone is then put on the top and rolled in and then another coat of Tarvia or asphalt is applied, after five screenings are sprinkled over the top and well rolled in.

This gives a pavement which is comparatively easily repaired, gives a good grip for horses or automobiles and what is mort imporetant of all comparatively cheap. I figure that the construction cost of such a type of pavement would be about $1.25 per square yard as against $2.25 for concrete and $3.10 for asphalt on concrete. If it is possible to make arrangements with any of the companies selling this material I would advise that the city construct a small amount as an experiment.

Second Telephone For Fire Station

At the end of this month the Fire Hall will be equipped with a second telephone, to be used only in case of fire alarms.

This 'phone will be number 100, an almost universally recognized fire number. The old number, 24, will be retained for business and all other calls than fire alarms.

SCORES OF DEATHS RESULT FROM 4th JULY FIREWORKS

United States Records the Usual Long List of Deaths Incidental to Observance of Independence Day

CHICAGO, July 5. — (Canadian Press).—A score of deaths and more than a hundred injured resulted from fireworks explosions and other accidents incidental to the nation's observance of Independence Day. Although efforts to prevent the usual casualties were virtually universal, fatalities occurred in all the principal cities of the country.

Most of those killed were children. Pittsburgh led in the number of deaths, tetanus resulting from preholiday celebrations, causing four deaths of children. Anton Beilts was shot and killed there by his wife, who claimed it was an accident.

St. Louis, with sixty-one reported injured, had a greater number hurt than any other city, although Chicago, with three dead and 28 injured, was a close second.

FRANCE CANNOT AGREE BRITISH VIEWS ON RUHR

Delicate Situation Exists in Entente Relations—No Progress Towards Reconciliation.

DISCUSSION FAILS

LONDON, July 5 (United Press) —"The situation is very delicate, was the official phrase used to describe the position of France and Great Britain in the Ruhr, and it is significant that every effort is being made to prevent disclosures regarding the nature of the conversations between Lord Curzon and the French and Belgian Ambassadors.

It is definitely known, however, that no progress was made at these meetings towards a reconciliation between France and Great Britain, but the Ambassadors furnished answers to some points of the British questionnaire.

Britain, however, is still compelled to await precise information on several points.

A prolonged Cabinet meeting held late yesterday afternoon discussed the situation thoroughly without reaching a satisfactory settlement or determining upon any formula which France would accept as the basis of new negotiations.

The Cabinet fully realises that there is a rising tide of public opinion throughout Britain which is demanding that the Government take the lead in effecting some sort of settlement so that an opportunity may be given for trade revival.

Until a full answer has been received from France to the British questionnaire, it is impossible for the Government to take any further action.

MORE TROOPS FOR EAST STRIKE AREA

Coal Miners and Steel Workers Unite — Mine Flooded.

LONDON, Ont., July 5 (Canadian Press). — In response to a rush order received to-night from Ottawa at the District Military Headquarters, a further draft of the London members of the permanent Army units was prepared for service in the strike zone in Cape Breton, and, if arrangements are carried out, a special train will leave for the East soon.

The order calls for the despatch of certain permanent details, including groups from the Army Medical Corps, the Army Service Corps, the Ordinance Stores, and other such departments.

The final tightening of the union lines has marked the completion of the first 24 hours of the general strike of the Cape Breton coal miners and steel workers.

Both company and union headquarter sagreed last night that the walkout was 100 per cent. strong.

The only place where the union workers remained on the job was at Newaterford Power House, and they were there only because that station supplies light, power, and water to their own houses in town.

The first interference with company property occurred this afternoon at No. 2 Colliery, where the pickets refused to allow the switch engines to shunt fuel coal into the boiler plant, where the officials were endeavouring to keep up steam for the fans and pumps.

As a result, the largest coal mine in Canada was flooded.

NEW FOX RANCH NOW UNDER WAY

Operations have begun on the ranch of the Patte and Wolff Foxes Limited, and the plant will be constructed along the most modern lines. Mr. E. Gallant, of Summerside, who has built many ranches in Prince Edward Isalnd, has arrived to take charge of the work, and after looking over the site—the McManus farm, near Bridgenorth—declared it an ideal one for the purpose, having a sufficient number of small hardwood trees, and the necessary soil conditions. Operations will be pushed ahead rapidly.

Rotarians, Ho!

Guy Gundaker, of Philadelphia, restaurateur, has been elected president of the International Rotary Club. The 14th annual convention was held in St. Louis. Gundaker succeeds Raymond Havens, of Kansas City.

BERRY BUSINESS HAS BEEN HEAVY

Price Lower Than Last Year and Production Reached Its Peak This Week—Other Prices.

Heavy purchasing of strawberries has absorbed the local supply during the last three days at prices ranging from 13c to 17c. This quantity includes not only the home-grown berries, but also heavy shipments from Oakville and from growers nearer Peterborough.

According to reports from Toronto, 150,000 boxes were distributed by the wholesale dealers on the Toronto market on Tuesday. Toronto quotations which were as high as 16c. at this time last year were 8 and 10c. a box wholesale this week with the retailers charging from 11c. to 13c.

Tomatoes are selling in the local stores at 40c. and 50c. a pound. The hot house products are at last running into real competition from field grown stock from the Niagara district. Big black cherries, generally considered the finest of this fruit, are being snapped up at $1.85 for six ouart baskets and white cherries are $1.25 a basket.

Asparagus has reached the tag end of its season and in dwindling supply is quoted at two bunches for 35c. New peas in the pod are 15c. a quart, beets are 5 and 10c. a bunch, and carrots at 10 and 15c. a bunch are begining to fill out from the spindly, half-grown stuff that was passed out to the public last Saturday. However, the retailers were not to blame, for this was the only stock available.

California importations include peaches at 40 and 60c. a dozen, plums at 15 and 30c. a dozen, apricots at 20 and 30c., and cantaloupes at 20 and 30c. each.

MARCIL SUGGESTED TO FILL VACANCY

Liberal Member For Bonaventure Mentioned For Clerk of Privy Council.

OTTAWA, July 5.— (Canadian Press).—The name of Hon. Charles Marcil Liberal member for Bonaventure is mentioned, in official circles in connection with the vacant post as clerk of the Privy Council. It is expected that this position will be filled in the near future and Mr. Marcil is understood to be a candidate. Should he be selected for the post and accept it his appointment would necessitate a by-election in Bonaventure county.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—W. A. Coker, chairman of New Orleans Young Men's Gymnastic Club, today announced an offer of "up to half a million dollars" for a return match between Dempsey and Gibbons for New Orleans.

HYDRO OBJECTS TO OPPOSITION FROM AUTO BUS

Takes Traffic From Sections of the City in Which the Street Railway Operates.

NO ACTION

A mild protest from the Hydro-Electric Commission against the operation of the local motor bus in parts of the city served by the street cars elicited from City Council an expression of appreciation of the enterprise of Mr. Gordon Mein in providing this supplementary transportation.

W. W. Pope, secretary of the Hydro-Electric Commission, pointed out in his letter that the operation of the Peterboro street railway is carried on by the Commission solely for the benefit of the city of Peterboro as it is purely a local property, having no direct connection with other parts of the Central Ontario system.

"Where the city receives all the benefit and the owners of the property bear any loss that may result from operation the owners of the property should be protected against competition in sections served by the railway," he wrote.

The Council refused to fall in with the request of the Commission, and the opinion was expressed that Mr. Mein should be encouraged in his motorbus business. One of the Alder men remarked that he should get a bonus and others said that the Hydro electric Commission had declined to act upon the Council's representation for a bus line to Ashburnham, for a reduction in the fares and also upon other suggestions that had been made from time to them. They refused to interfere with the routing of the motorbus in any sections of the city.

FIRST AGREEMENT REACHED IN RUHR

Krupp Works Signed Over Railway Line to French

ESSEN, July 5. — (Canadian Press).—The announcement that the management of Krupp Works had signed an agreement with the engineers of the commission of occupation for the use of a branch railway line connecting two branches of the Krupp plants was made yesterday by the French authorities. This is said to be the first agreement of any kind by representatives of German industrialists with representatives of the forces of occupation, and it is looked upon by the French as an indication of the weakening of the passive resistance by the Germans.

The agreement is the outcome of occupation by the French on Monday of foundries and coal yards of the Krupp locomotive branch at Segeroth, near Essen. The French found seventy thousand tons of coal and coke in the plant, together with twelve locomotives and several thousand tons of tires for locomotives and railway cars. The commissioners also announced that negotiations are under way to use military lines for the export of certain goods.

SAYS CHURCH POORLY ORGANIZED FROM THE BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

Two Stirring Addresses at To-day's Session of the Bay of Quinte Summer School.

WHAT CHURCH NEEDS

This morning's session of the Summer School, held in George Street Methodist Church Sunday School Rooms, was marked by two extremely interesting addresses.

Rev. G. I. Campbell, of the Evangelism and Social Service Department, Toronto, spoke on "The Church's Unfinished Task," and an address on "Evangelism in the Sunday School," was given by Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, B.A., B.D., of Little Britain. Both experts in their own particular lines, and both evidently marked with perfervid belief in the strength and vitality of their message, their addresses were vigorous and eloquent.

Rev. Mr. Campbell prefaced his main subject with the remark that the church has only one programme. There are a multiplicity of organisations to "put over" the work of the church, and it has been said that the church is over-organised, but, in the speaker's opinion, from a purely business point of view, "the church is under-organised and poorly organised."

Considering the church's organisation from a business point of view, and placing the responsibility for the working of it at the top, where it belongs, the speaker referred to the charges of failure which were laid at various doors of the church. Some blamed the preaching, some the staff, some the equipment, and some the goods. Mr. Campbell spoke of three men in Montreal recently, two of whom informed him that they were about to leave the church, because it "wasn't delivering the goods."

"The salvation of the world to-day lies in the small group who will fling everything to the wind and get down on their knees and go to work. It is the small group that will put this thing over. In my opinion, we never had better preaching, or more intellect or culture, in fact, a better staff, than we have in the church of to-day. But in every case, membership reflects the leadership. We must get the idea that we are all, every department, just one part of a big plant. Each department needs the backing of the whole church, for each department exists only for the one great purpose—to bring the world to God."

Unfinished Task.

Speaking of "The Church's Unfinished Task," Mr. Campbell said that every church member must accept responsibility in some way for world-wide evangelism.

"I am afraid that the church to-day is in danger of failing to appreciate her own children, in failing to recognise them and know them." The speaker harked back to the days when a young Methodist divine in London, England, saw the vision, and went out to minister to the slum people of his city. Because he failed to do certain things in certain prescribed ways, he was censured by his church, and "Bramwell Booth walked out and down to the masses and the church lost one of her greatest sons."

"Others have been lost in the same way. The thing that the Methodist Church needs to-day is a Canadian mission, and I fear we have not altogether got that."

"We know China well, through our preaching and our literature and our missionary endeavour. We know Japan and India. This work is important, but do we know our own country? It is stupid and unpardonable for a man to start to do anything in the Methodist Church who does not know his own country and her needs. Canada has set her standard in the markets of the world, and she must live up to it. The day of the shoddy manufacturer is past. She must make and send out 'No. 1 hard, Canadian.' Nothing else will do. But what about the church? Is the church putting out 'No. 1 hard, Canadian.'

"I am an admirer of my fellow-Christians, of whatever creed, but I stand here this morning, proud to be a member of this great Methodist Church, and I want to go into this union that is coming with my head up, able to say 'here we are,' with no apologies to make. To say, 'We are prepared to fit in with you, but we want to stand for efficiency, and culture, for evangelism and social service, we want to stand for Canada, to make Canada one complete unit in the kingdom of Jesus Christ.' I am proud of what we are, but I tell you, we have a long way yet to go before we reach perfection."

"The Church does not altogether know her children, and we are perhaps failing to adopt methods which are best fitted for present-day conditions."

Deserted Section.

Mr. Campbell spoke of a certain area in the city of Montreal, "which contains 187,000 people, about 40 liquor stores and saloons, and some 25 slot machines, with their suggestive pictures." In this area, there was not a Protestant church, and only one Roman Catholic church. "They had deserted that section to

W. M. Hays Attains His 98th Birthday

Peterboro's oldest resident, Mr. Wm. Hays, celebrated his ninety-eighth birthday to-day, at the home of Mrs. G. Carpenter, 553 Armour Road. Mr. Hays was so elated over the event that he was up and dressed before 8 o'clock, decorated himself with a bouquet of Beauty roses, and was on the look out for visitors, for whose benefit he sang in good voice and tune several verses of "The Old English Gentleman." Mr. Hays came to this city over forty years ago

RUSHING TROOPS TO STRIKE AREA

Special Trains Carry Detachments to Sydney—Police Recruiting.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 5.— (Canadian Press.)— With special trains carrying trained detachments from at least two military centres in the west and reinforcements for special Provincial Foot and Mounted Police being recruited as rapidly as possible, the strike situation in Cape Breton is thought to be approaching a crisis. No outstanding event marked the past twelve hours. General Thacker, commanding No. six military district, is in the city today and he may take personal command of the troops. It is known that soldiers are to occupy strategic points in Glace Bay district this afternoon. Glace Bay is in the heart of the mining industry.

ENTRAINED IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 5— (Canadian Press.)—Various details of regular troops gathered together from Niagara Camp, London and other points, and including cavalry, infantry and auxiliary units, entrained here to-day and left for Sydney, N.S. under command of Captain G. Beresford, to add to the force already at the scene of miners' and steel workers' strikes.

KU KLUX KLAN HELD KONCLAVE IN NIAGARA

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 5. —The strength of the Ku Klux Klan in New York state, was demonstrated in Niagara Falls, New York, last night, when 5,000 Knights held "konclave" and initiated a class of 500 candidates. The great parade of the Klansmen in full regalia, except that masks were not worn, marched through the streets with two bands, and headed by Major Smith, King Kleagle of New York State, and other Kleagles, all on horseback.

The parade was an impressive one and was greeted by cheers in some quarters and hisses in others parts of the route.

The keynote of the oath taken by the candidates, who were the centre of an immense crowd of hooded Klansmen, was patriotism. It was emphasized that none but Gentile Protestants were eligible for membership.

SAYS CHURCH

move out to the millionaire section." St. James' Methodist Church, "which we all helped to pay for, at a cost of about two and one-half millions," was some distance away, open about three hours in the week altogether, "and you have to be careful when you go there, if you do get inside, that the janitor doesn't lock you in and leave you there. Three hours a week use, approximately, with a two million and one-half equipment." Some young men from McGill University went down there and started a settlement house where now 1,100 'teen age boys and girls are being taught. "McGill University to-day, in its social settlement work on Dorchester Street, is carrying on some of the best work in the city of Montreal."

Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, in his address on "Evangelism in the Sunday School," a stirring message delivered with a degree of fiery eloquence, made a strong appeal for the work which centres on the salvation, not of the individual who has been a backslider and must be reached after, "with one chance in thirty against you," the sort of work which he characterized as the "garage and repair department" of the Church, but which gives the best of its attention to the young, untried soul of the child, striving to inculcate in it the Christian virtues which will make it a constant and undeviating worker in the vineyard of the Lord.

Five Heads.

Mr. McCutcheon's discourse was divided under five heads. The first dealt with the "object and meaning of evangelism." Mr. McCutcheon was rather severe on the idea which regarded a certain type of ecstatic emotional experience as the sign of ultimate salvation. He referred to a woman of mature years whose prayers were marvels of spirituality and whose ecstatic experiences had been numerous, but who refused to speak to a neighbor over a period of twelve years' time. The same neighbor also refused to pass the plate to this woman in church, although they both might sing the hymn, "It is well with my soul." "Are they saved?" asked the speaker. "Perhaps I would not dare to say what I think, but I know what I think. Salvation means the saving of the entire life. It involves, as well as right relationships with God, right relationships with our neighbor. You cannot be right with God and wrong with your neighbor. My conception of saving souls is that it is not merely getting a man to the place where he can give a testimonial in class and say that he has had a wonderful experience, and then, if you go down to that same man's store, he will do you to the extent of giving you eighty cents' worth of sugar for a dollar. It is not a matter of an hour, or of a night's experience. It is a life-job."

Mr. McCutcheon said he agreed with Mr. Campbell that the Church had a splendid staff at the present time, but criticism was for the purpose of putting pep and enthusiasm into the hearers' minds.

Taking his facts from figures compiled one year ago, and speaking of the need for evangelism, Mr. McCutcheon said that out of 385 Sunday schools reporting at that time, only 165 had made any attempt at evangelistic effort. Sixty per cent. of the Sunday schools were not trying to save the lives of their constituents. Of the 36,000 scholars, exclusive of the cradle roll and the Home department, only 10,000 were church members. Over 20,000 scholars in the Sunday schools of the Bay of Quinte Conference were not church members, "and it cost us $57,000 to run those Sunday schools." There was no direct, concerted plan or determined policy on the part of these schools to save the remaining 12,000 scholars. The statement had been made that 80 p.c. of the children passing through the church Sunday schools never came into definite membership with the church, and Bishop MacDowell of the United States had placed this percentage at 60 p.c. "This is sufficiently startling. It means that 60 p.c. of the raw material in our hands are not saved. If a man making boots should let lie unusued between 60 and 80 p.c. of his material, how long would he be in business?"

"These are in the schools, and not outside. The tragedy seems to be that the church is allowing her children to dirft away. There is the real, vital, crying need, and the necessity of recognizing the need of an evangelistic policy in our Sunday schools. I question if there is a Sunday school in our Conference that dare face the last twenty-five years of its work, and tell where are the boys and girls that went through its Sunday school classes. But there will be a day when that army of children is going to face us. What are you going to say? It is a serious thing to fail to save the lost people in this community. There is a lost constituency, so called. But it is a more serious thing to fail to save our children from being lost.

The department of the church that makes its work the saving of the down and outer is only the garage department. It is a serious thing to fail to do that, but it is a more serious thing to allow these children who are in our hands to go out and become wrecks and then to have to go out and try to reclaim them again. The Sunday school is perhaps our largest and most fruitful field. I believe that if our churches would only strive, in some way or other, to make Christ incarnate in the lives of these boys and girls that we could save the world. The child is the strategic point. How did Germany conduct the war? She went back to the primary classes in her schools. She allowed her old people to die off and buried them as fast as she could, but she reared and moulded her children in the form of a military organization. The child is the seed. Japan is doing the same thing to-day."

"The church has a place in the life of the child to-day. Fifteen or twenty years ago, it was a fact that seven-eights of the members of a church became members somewhere between the ages of 17 and 19. To-day the majority of conversions take place around 11 years of age. The parents who say that a child is too young to know how to choose God or religion will not try to stop that same child from attending dances and bridge parties, and going to the devil on the streets. Why ignore this great constituency and focus your attention on those over thirty years of age, where you have one chance in a thousand of doing anything with them?"

Three particular ages were alluded to by the speaker as crucial periods of decision; at 11 or 12, at 16 years, "that chaotic emotional period, when the boy or girl doesn't know what he or she wants to do," and at 18 or 20 years. And if there has been no preparation nor training for these periods of decision, God help you. You will need His help."

"The Lord is giving us the constituency, the war material and it is our job to take the little flower, and train and water it and cultivate it. It is not a question of salvaging an old, water-logged hulk but of launching a brand-new craft to take its precious cargoes to the ports of the world and the heaven of its God."

The factors involved in Evangelism in the Sunday School were the pastor, the superintendent, the teacher the scholar and the home. "Our Sunday schools have not gripped the need of evangelism. We have not revealed it sufficiently, nor made a determined policy to carry it out. We need educative policies in the Sunday school, as well as in the school for secular education."

Mr. McCutcheon added a few words of advice with regard to preparation and proper seasons for evangelistic campaigns and the last evangelistic service which he considered a prime necessity as a climax to the whole.

Rev. Mr. Clark of Tamworth, in his talk to the Teachers this morning emphasized the need of attention, in class, which he defined as continuous mental activity, with its differing phases of voluntary attention, created by an act of the will, and liable to spasmodic variations, and involuntary attention, in which the interest was certered on teacher or his message. Necessities in the carrying on of a lesson were mentioned, such as separate rooms, if possible absence of disturbing objects or distracting noises, and physical conditions, such as fresh air, the speaker quoting the experience of Mr. Moody, who always demanded good air when he spoke within doors.

Miss Moyer, addressing the C.G.I.T. group, gave a brief resume of the way in which the four-fold programme may be carried out in daily life and spoke of the necessity of the teacher taking an interest in the daily lives and activities of her pupils. "The old idea of high-handed discipline, the theory that intercourse with the girls would create a lack of respect for the teacher has broken down" said Miss Moyer who concluded her session this morning with a working out by her class of a model Sunday school lesson with its worship period, lesson and conclusion.

The Bible Study lesson at this morning's session was led, as usual, by Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, who spoke on "The Results of the Galilean Ministry." Jesus, in the beginning, had cherished the idea that the great mass of the people would come to Him, but He found, as a result of His Galilean tour, that He must rely, on the contrary, on a small group of disciples to take His doctrine and disseminate it to the world. This was the idea worked out by the speaker, who referred to the message sent to Jesus by John the Baptist, in prison, enquiring as to the spread of the movement. Jesus had answered, "the blind see, the deaf hear, the lame walk, and the poor have the Gospel preached to them."

The results of this Galilean ministry were well illustrated in the parable of the Sower, some of whose seed fell on rocky and shallow ground, while a little took root in good soil and sprung up to fruition. Jesus said, "No one knoweth the Son except the Father." He had gone about telling the secret of the Kingdom, and yet He was not believed. He decided then to concentrate His efforts on a small patch of good ground, on the gorup of twelve disciples, some of whom were 100 p.c. good men, some not quite so good. But He concentrated on them. It was not thereafter a ministry of publicity, but a ministry of quietness, during which he took these men away with Him to quiet places, and related to them the parables which set forth the ideas He wished to transmit to men.

During the course of his address this morning, Rev. Mr. Campbell, speaking on "The Church's Unfinished Task," recommended to his hearers two written authorities: "Organizing for Work," by H. L. Gantt, and "The New State," by M. P. Follette.

Exclusive of the ministers who are taking part in the Summer School sessions, the membership is confined to young ladies, and three young men; Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., of Bowmanville, Rev. W. J. H. Smyth of Seabright, and Stanley Osborne, of Bowmanville. Games and sports are under the direction of a popular idea, Rev. Roy Rickard, and the afternoons so far have been spent in the enjoyment of ball games. This afternoon, the young people intended to take a hike to view the Lift Locks.

This evening the Twilight Service will be in charge of Rev. A. J. Langford, and the address will be given by Rev. G. I. Campbell, of Toronto, Field Secretary of the Department of Evangelism and Social Service. Mr. Campbell is a speaker of power and enthusiasm.

TRACE ACTIVITIES OF DELORME'S AUTO ON DAY OF THE MURDER

Several Links in Chains Were Repaired — Blood Stains in Snow Were of Animal Origin.

PAPERS QUESTIONED

MONTREAL, July 5 (Canadian Press). — On 7th January, 1922, at 8.30 o'clock in the morning, about the time the body of Raoul Delorme was being carried into the morgue, Father Adelard Delorme, now charged with Raoul's murder, drove up to a Dorchester Street garage and ordered the two chains on the rear wheels of his automobile to be repaired and re-adjusted with some cross-chains, according to the evidence of Rene Pilon, a garage employee, who testified at the trial here yesterday afternoon.

Twelve cross-chains, or cross-links, which the Abbe brought himself, were placed on the chains, six for each, Pilon stated. In some places the cross-links were missing, in others they were only worn.

In cross-examination, the witness stated that he had often carried out repair work for Father Delorme, and that the priest usually called to have them done in the early morning.

Other evidence was by Dr. Derome, court autopsist, to the effect that the red stains in the snow near the place where the victim was found, supposed to be bloodstains, were actually of animal origin, thus disposing of one aspect of the case.

In the morning Detective Brodeur went over the route between 190 Hubert Street, the residence of the priest at the date of the murder, to th place in the north-west suburb of the city where the body of the victim was found, and returned, completing the round trip in 59 minutes. He testified to this effect in the afternoon.

Leaving 190 St. Hubert Street, the residence of Rev. Father Delorme, at the date of the murder of the priest's half-brother, Raoul, Detective Armand Brodeur started in a runabout car at one minute to ten yesterday morning, and reached the corner of Snowdon Avenue and Coibrooke Street, where the body of the victim was found, by 10.14, despite numerous hindrances from traffic. From there he reached Cote St. Michel Road at the end of the cement road, 25 minutes later, or at 10.39, and returned to 190 St. Hubert Street with a slight deviation owing to road repairs, in 19 minutes, bringing the time to 10.58, or 59 minutes for the complete round trip.

Detective Brodeur testified to this effect at yesterday afternoon's session of the trial.

The first witness called yesterday afternoon was Dr. Derome, who testified to having received from the detective some stained snow which he analysed. He did not carry the blood test far, since he found the stains to be of animal origin.

Detective Brodeur was then called and gave the evidence summarised above. In cross-examination, he thought it likely that the roads at this time of the year were better than in mid-winter, and also stated that his car was an open car and was faster than a covered one such as the priest owned in January, 1922.

Joseph Lefebvre, assistant superintendent of hte Road Department, was called to the witness stand and gave evidence from a diary written at the time as to the state of the roads and the weather on 5th, 6th, and 7th January, 1922, about which time the murder was committed. The weather was alternately thawing and freezing on these dates, and the sidewalks were slippery. The temperature varied between 34 above to 8 above zero on those dates There was not much snow on those dates, according to his diary.

Constable William Viau, of the City Force, was then called. He testified to having received at the Municipal Garage a car, a Franklin sedan, with instructions to keep it in his custody. This car, said to belong to Abbe Delorme, was received by him on 15th December, 1922. Detectives later delivered chains belonging to the car to him.

In cross-examination he stated that when he received it, the car was not in running condition, and it had to be towed to the garage.

Detective Lajoie recalled, testified to putting two chains in the car in which there were already two others, and said the chains produced in the Court looked like the same as those he had handled before.

Rene Pilon, repair man, testified to having repaired chains on the car of Abbe Delorme in the morning of 7th January, 1922. He had fixed twelve cross-links, six on each of the chains on the back wheels of the car. In cross-examination he stated that the priest came very often to have repairs to the chains done, and always came early in the morning.

Following the five o'clock recess, C. H. Cahan, K.C., counsel for the defence, complained of the insanitary effect of the dirty, blood-stained clothing lying in the hot Courtroom all day.

Crown Prosecutor Calder saw no objection to the clothing being removed and called for again if required.

Willy Marier, expert accountant, was then called, and gave evidence as to his examination of the books and papers of Father Delorme. Some of the documents bore no auditing mark, and defence counsel asked how the witness knew whether they had not been "shoved in on the Crown counsel from some other source altogether during the last year." Witness persisted in his affirmation that such documents had been included in a parcel of papers handed to him by Abbe Delorme. Continual pressure could not shake witness' affirmations on this point.

Re-examined by Crown Prosecutor Calder he agreed to look at his inventory on adjournment and see whether by checking it he could trace every one of several documents brought in question by the defence.

Mr. Calder remarked this had better be done in the presence of Mr. Ladouceur, Clerk of the Crown.

C. H. Cahan, K.C., counsel for the defence, said he wanted to be present also.

This led to a sharp exchange between Counsel, Mr. Calder agreeing to the suggestion, and adding, "Possibly you thought that these cheques have been forged."

Mr. Cahan: "I have not suggested that."

Mr. Calder: "My own name came into it about having slipped these in."

Mr. Cahan: "I have seen other things slipped in."

Mr. Calder: "In this trial?"

Mr. Cahan: "I am not saying in this trial. I am going to take good care that they are not in such an important matter."

Mr Calder: "You can be sure they are not slipped in by me."

The Court then adjourned until to-day.

Questioner Told That Quality is at Least Equal to English Hay—Preference Given to English Products.

BOUGHT BY TENDER.

LONDON, July 5. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— At question time in the house of commons yesterday a member wanted to know whether Canadian hay was being supplied at Aldershot and other British garrisons and if its quality was equal to the English hay and what was the price paid for it. He also wanted to know whether, when good British hay was for sale locally, the war office would give the preference to the home-grown hay

Rupert Gwynne, financial secretary to the war office, replied that at presment some Canadian hay was being supplied. He said he understood that it was at least equal to the quality of the English hay.

DETERMINING FARES IS A HAZARDOUS JOB

BERLIN, July 5 (Associated Press)—Taxicab fares in Berlin are now seven thousand times the number of marks registered on the taximeters.

Taxicab drivers all carry printed tables showing the totals the multiple produces with various possible registrations on the indicator. Every time the multiple is changed there is endless confusion, and many disputes ensue which the police are often called upon to settle.

Clerks in shops are provided with similar tables. In every trade an agreement is arranged as to the multiple which will be used in computing the price of articles in depreciating paper marks, as against the gold-mark price.

FAMOUS OLD BIBLE IS PURCHASED BY ITALIAN

LONDON, July 5.—(Associated Press)—The famous Bible of the Borso d'Este, valued at $250,000 and belonging at one time to the late Emperor Karl of Austria, has been purchased by a rich Milan manufacturer, who outbid an American banker for it.

The Bible is illuminated by artists of the 15th century and is regarded by antiquarians as the finest speciment of its kind in existence. During his stay in Switzerland Karl, being short of money sold the rare book to a London antiquary, who in turn disposed of it to its present owner in Italy.

War Veterans Censure Government Officials

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 5.—(Canadian Press.)— A resolution censuring officials charged with the administration of the pension act and application of government funds for the relief of orphans and widows of deceased soldiers was passed at yesterday's session of the convention of the Great War Veterans' Association.

The resolution presented by the committee on pensions declared that "the recent proceedings before the royal commission, together with the clear cut finding of the commission has shown that the officials charged with administration of the act and application of government funds for relief of orphans and widows have not only been derelict in their duties, but have shown calculated disregard to the hardships and injustices which their arbitrary actions have caused."

The resolution demanded that the government of Canada take the necessary steps to purge the pensions board and department of D.S.C.R. of elements of which only tend to create national discord and unnecessary suffering."

GREAT EFFORTS TO REDUCE THE GOVT. EXPENSES

Expenditures of the Present Year Modest in Comparison With the Year After the War.

LOWER NEXT YEAR.

LONDON, July 5. (Canadian Press Cable.—Speaking in the House of Commons yesterday on the third reading of the budget, Sir W. Joynson-Hicks, Financial-Secretary to the Treasury, made out a good case for the present and preceding government's efforts to stem the tide of national expenditure. He said that the present year's expenditures of only 875,000,000 pounds was modest in comparison with the expenditures made the year following th. war.

The financial secretary told the members that he was unabl. to report as to whether the staffs of the government departments had reached pre-war levels but added that after allowing 23,000 pounds to those employed in the Pens.o.. Department the figures were only 3,000 pounds above the normal.

Speaking in connection with the debt problem he stated that 49,000,000 pounds had been paid off since 1920. All the foreign debts, he added, were liquidated, with the exception of the United States debt and certain sums due Canada which were approximately balanced by money which Canada owed Great Britain.

For the future the Minister promised to continue along the lines of the most stringent economy. He stated that the reduction in revenue which he anticipated next year would have to be met by a reduction of expenditures, not by taxation.

CAMPS ARE OPEN FOR THE SEASON

Lakefield is Popular in Summer—Big Influx of Tourists.

LAKEFIELD, July 5.— Hague's Point is enjoying its old time popularity as a camping ground for people who do not care to be too far away from the village. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemay have returned to their camp there and a very workmanlike shack has been erected next door, if one may call it so, this season by Rev. C. G. King and J. A. Creasor, who say they are enjoying their camp life tremendously.

The usual inviting looking camp is in full swing on the wooded island between the Point and the dock.

Messrs. W. Hendren and Roy Green have built a pretty shack on Strickland's Point and have a picturesque sign, "Pal O' Mine" over the door which looks hospitable. The situation is ideal and the shack is veritably a camp de luxe.

Further up the shore, nestling among the trees, is the camp of Mrs and Mrs. G. J. Elmsley and family, which possesses all the joys of camp and all the comforts of home.

Union For Summer.

For the months of July and August the Presbyterians and Methodists have church union as in the past years. During July Rev. C. S. Reddick will be in charge of the services and during August Rev. P. L. Jull will officiate.

Strawberry Festival

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church held their annual strawberry festival on the grounds of the Memorial Hall on Saturday evening and as usual did a thriving trade in ice cream and strawberries, cool drinks and sale of home made cakes and candy. The proceeds amounted to a very satisfactory sum.

Many Tourists.

The summer service of boat and train are now fully inaugurated and each day brings its quota of holiday makers from almost every state in the Union and all parts of Canada to the summer playground of the Kawartha Lakes. Motor cars bearing license markers of other provinces of the Dominion and various States of the Union are to be seen passing through the village en route to the happy hunting and fishing grounds beyond.

Bait Dealers Busy.

The bait season is in full swing and the dealers in this commodity haunt the dock during the hours when the boat and train meet there. These young men have a very practical idea of advertising as a strong factor in success and they don't hesitate to use it. There appears to be a friendly feeling among the rivals and there is also very strict business etiquette.

Crop Failure.

It was a matter of deep regret to many citizens that the dandelion crop which is usually all too successful, was rather a failure this year. Dandelion beer has become popular as a harmless cooling drink for the hot days, but this season the demand will far exceed the supply.

Quiet Holiday.

Dominion Day was very quietly celebrated in the village. A goodly number of citizens took advantage of the week end holiday and journeyed to the lakes .The summer season is fully opened now that the schools have closed and the holiday spirit is seen everywhere.

Fire Brigade Praised

The testimony of the Deputy Fire Marshall, R. J. Marsh, of Toronto, regarding the efficiency of the local fire brigade, is appreciated. Undoubtedly, without their work and prompt response to the call of duty, not only would one building have been destroyed ,but probably others as well. The fire brigade has earned for itself a high place in the regard of the ratepayers.

Girls Worker Needed.

A visitor to the village during the spring, who was deeply interested in organized work among girls, which is being taken up as a way to deal with the problems of the 'teen age girl, was told by a young woman that there was no such work in Lakefield This is a matter of regret as the work being done by the Canadian Girls in Training groups is of great benefit to young girls. The programme is four-fold —religious, intellectual, physical and social and is the result of careful study of how to deal with the girl problem. The religious side is given and should be safely left to the church, but an organized work among girls would be of great advantage in the village.

This work provides for all the needs of the young girl and teaches her to be a useful member of society, with more resources than the eternal quest of fun which too many regard as the aim and end of life. A capable woman or girl who would give time to this work would be invaluable in helping to solve the "girl problem."

LARGE GATHERING AT OPENING OF HIGHWAYS

Old-Fashioned Picnic Marked Formal Opening of New Provincial-County Road Between Lindsay and Manvers — Provides a Good Road From Lindsay to Toronto.

LINDSAY, July 5. (Special.) — Several hundred people gathered at the farm of Fergus Porter, Manvers township, yesterday, to take part in the celebration marking the opening of a Provincial-County Road, which the citizens of Lindsay have called the Kawartha Lakes Highway.

This highway, it might be mentioned, has been in use for some time, so that yesterday's function was simply a gathering of Lindsay and Manvers citizens at the home of Mr. Porter, who was primarily responsible for the highway being built, having given a right of way through his property.

The old Manvers road was a hard one to travel, especially in winter, as Shannon's Hill was a difficult one to climb. The new road way is diverted from the hill, a two mile link through Porter's swamp joining it up with the Provincial-County highway in Manvers township, which runs straight through to the Kingston road at Newcastle, some forty miles from Lindsay.

It is a level road running directly south, and provides another route to Toronto. Why it has been termed the Kawartha Lakes Highway, has not been explained.

Yesterday's festivities took the form of an old fashioned basket picnic. The people gathered on the spacious grounds, which are beautifully shaded and enjoyed a musical programme rendered by the Bethany band. A big refreshment booth did a thriving business, and a baseball tournament proved one of the features of the day's programme.

A portion of the afternoon was given over to speechmaking. J. B. Armstrong, Reeve of Manvers, acted as chairman, and addresses were made by William Bowen, Warden of Durham and Northumberland, R. J. Patterson, M.P.P., South Victoria, J. R. McNeillie, County Clerk and Treasurer, Lindsay; County Engineer Greer, Cobourg; County Engineer Miles, Lindsay; District Supt. A. McVicar, of the Ontari. Department of Highways, Toronto; R. Kylie, W. Flavelle and H. Brimmell of Lindsay. Each speaker emphasized the value and importance of good roads, and referred to the new highway as an all important artery from the front.

Two Lindsay teams as well as a team from Mount Horeb were entered in the baseball tournament, a Lindsay team winning the final game

EX-KAISER RELUCTANT TO PAY DUTCH TAXES

AMSTERDAM, July 5 (Associated Press)—William Hohenzollern is quarreling with the Dutch over the payment of taxes. He is now engaged in a dispute with the municipal authorities of Doorn over the question of local assessments. refuses to pay, contending that the municipality is not entitled to its because he came to Holland under compulsion.

The Doorn city fathers maintain that he came there voluntarily, and have decided to enforce the law with retrospective effect.

The municipal council of Amerongen, where the former emperor resided the first year of his exile has not been slow in following up the decision of the Doorn council, and proposes to submit its claim for arrears in taxes.

BETTING TAX IN BRITAIN WOULD BE WELCOMED

Turf Guardian Society Would Favor a Scheme For Licensing the Bookmakers Under Present Conditions.

Bookmakers Insolvent.

LONDON, July 5. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— The turf guardian society which stands for the interests of those engaged in racing, is a review of the evidence given before the select parliamentary committee enquiring into the proposad taxation of betting, repudiates a suggestion that it is an obstructionist to any practicable system of the oversight of race track betting and says it seems to be taken for granted that all the street bookmakers are solvent.

"Some street bookmakers are constantly disappearing from their haunts," the society says, "leaving unpaid debts. If they were put into licensed offices the same thing would arise frequently. A ten per cent. tax on every strike (as has been suggested to the investigating committee by some who have testified at the enquiry), would lead to wholesome evasion On the other hand we would welcome a scheme of licensing bookmakers under their present legal conditions if it were done by one central licensing body appointed by the Jockey Club."

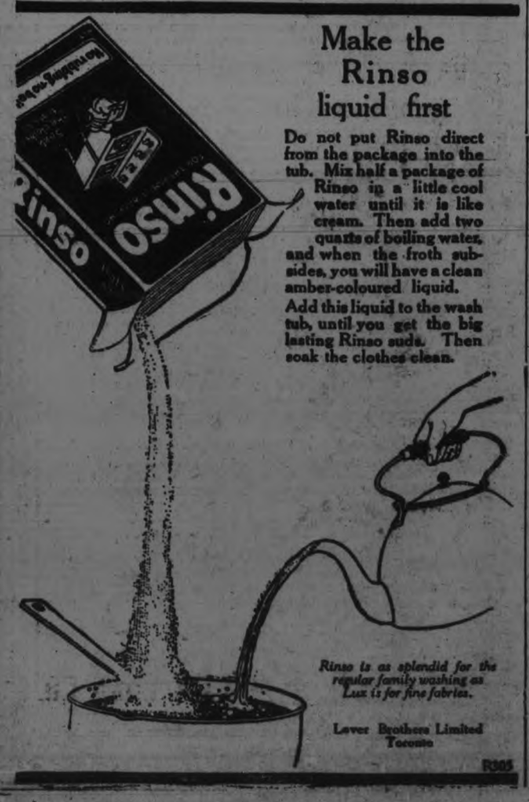
Make the Rinso liquid first



Do not put Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water, and when the froth subsides, you will have a clean amber-coloured liquid.

Add this liquid to the wash tub, until you get the big lasting Rinso suds. Then soak the clothes clean.

Rinso is as splendid for the regular family washing as Lux is for fine fabrics.

THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1923.

SUNDAY BATHING.

The propriety or otherwise of Sunday bathing is not apparently an issue in the council's decision to keep the dressing rooms at the swimming beaches open on Sunday.

The situation simply is that whether the dressing rooms are open or not many people will swim at the beaches on Sunday and the majority of the council have wisely decided that it is better, under the circumstances, to have accomodation available and to have the caretakers in charge as a protection against accidents.

This question of Sunday bathing seems, after all, largely a matter of geography .

People who see no harm in a cooling plunge at their summer cottage on Sunday believe that the person who indulges in a similar dip at the civic bathing beach is without the pale.

There are far more people who have to spend their Sundays at home in the hot weather than there are lucky individuals who can escape to the lake resorts and in providing accomodation for them the council is on sound grounds from a humanitarian viewpoint, at least.

THE ENGINEER'S RECOMMENDATION.

City Engineer Parsons has recommended to the City Council a progressive programme of street paving that calls for the construction of a certain amount of permanent road building each year for the next five or six years.

Without going into the details of his plan at all, it may be pointed out that such a programme has more than once been suggested by The Examiner as the only businesslike and really economical course for the council to follow.

Peterborough is a decade behind most of her rival cities, in the matter of permanent roadways.

We have got along at a lackadaisical haphazard rate, patching here and there, pouring out good money for repair and maintenance of roads, the condition of which has never justified the expenditure made upon them.

In the meanwhile, other cities and towns have realized that macadamized roads are like linen collars; it is not the initial expenditure that hurts so much as the cost of upkeep and they have accordingly carried out a systematic policy of paving that has given them perfect roads and lessened the amount spent annually in repairs.

It is to be hoped that the council will pay some attention to the Engineer's report.

The aldermen have not been very keen to do so on many occasions in the past and it is recalled that a number of most important recommendations made by the Engineer were pigeonholed and forgotten.

It seems strange that an engineer should be engaged, paid a good salary as an expert and then when reports are made by him they are treated with scant courtesy and not acted upon.

SCURVY TREATMENT.

The Examiner expressed in this column a few days ago hearty approval of the action of the Dominion Government in providing for an annuity of $7,500 for Dr Banting, the discoverer of insulin

The young physician deserves well of his native land, and the fact that he has been placed in a position of being, to a degree at least, financially independent is matter for congratulation.

At the same time, however, the Examiner agrees with several contemporaries who have been reminded by the grant to Dr. Banting of the singular neglect on the part of the Government to do justice to the case of Dr. Saunders of the Department of Agriculture, who discovered Marquis wheat and thereby added enormously to the wealth of Canada.

Dr. Saunders gave the best years of his life to the public service at a comparatively low salary, he was responsible for the discovery of a new wheat that revolutionized conditions in the West. and yet when forced by ill-health to retire Canada gives him only an inadequate superannuation allowance.

Agriculture owes an enormous debt to Dr. Saunders—Canada as a whole owes an enormous debt to him.

How is that debt being discharged?

By the providing of a mere pittance as a retiring allowance.

The treatment accorded Dr. Saunders is a disgrace to the Canadian people.

SPEEDING TOURISTS.

The argument is advanced by some people that traffic officers and police officials generally should not interfere with touring motorists who happen to break the speed limit on Ontario's highways for fear of interfering with the tourist traffic and driving visitors away from ths Province.

It is, of course, desirable that our friends from outside Ontario shall not be bothered by over-officious officers.

At the same time, the Examiner fails to see the force of the argument that visiting motorists should be allowed to do what they like on our roads

Some of them with high-powered, expensive cars seem to imagine that they are quite within their rights to speed along at 45 or 50 miles an hour, driving smaller cars into the ditches and making conditions unpleasant for everybody along the highways.

Even at the risk of causing such visitors to choose some other locality for their next tour, they should be disabused of the idea that there is one law for one class of motorists and another and a very different brand for every other class.

If the price to be paid for attracting tourists is to allow them to make speedways out of our most heavily used highways, then Ontario is much better off without such visitors.

Regulations are regulations, and this Province should insist on seeing that they are obeyed by everybody.

The Examiner heartily agrees with the London Advertiser in the following reference to this point:

"Ontario wants and welcomes sane tourists on its roads. For all these it has wonderful scenery, great views of rolling fields, streams and lakes, fine herds and well-kept farms, tourist camps and good treatment.

"Ontario does not want, and will not tolerate. the driver who mistakes the welcome of this Province for a fool license to do as he wishes, and it might as well be demonstrated just as forcibly as possible that this Province is able and prepared to deal with all such quickly and severely."

THE VALUE OF THRIFTINESS.

Do mothers' pensions encourage thriftiness? British Columbia last year paid $950 per one thousand of population in mothers' pension grants, which was much higher than in any other Province. Speakers of social service organizations in Vancouver recently voiced the opinion that mothers' pensions encouraged thriftiness on the part of the husbands.

Luxury is closely related to thriftiness. On this continent we are spending four million dollars daily on the movies, twenty-two billion dollars annually for chewing gum, candy, motor cars, phonographs, organs, pianos, cigars, cigarettes and tobacco. The candy bill alone amounts to one billion dollars a year. Would it not be better for the final advancement of the nation if some of this vast sum were invested in monthly income insurance?

According to the American Bankers' Association, 90 per cent. of all women after the age of sixty are dependent on relations and friends. A man may protect his family after his death by income insurance and at the same time make provision for his own old age. Insurance is one of the strongest forces that can be employed to guarantee an income to self and family. It is every man's duty in the present to provide for the future. Mothers' pensions can never take the place of life insurance. The best that Governments can do in this way must necessarily be but a drop in the bucket.

ALL PRETTY, CHARMING AND INTERESTING.

"In Friday's Advertiser there were 19 weddings reported, and very little difference in any of them. Can't you think of some new phrases to use? In eight cases the wedding was described as 'pretty,' 'very pretty,' 'unusually pretty'; then the other phrases quite common were 'charming,' 'interesting,' 'interesting, but quiet,' and so on. Don't you think it would be possible to get something different?"

Such is the complaint of a woman reader in the city.

Now, then, let us see what can be done about it? Why should there be any difference in the reports of the weddings when the preceding month's have been so much the same? All these young people courted in the same way. They lingered around the church door on Sunday night as a starter; they walked home the longest way, and it was perhaps three weeks or a month before the young man was asked to come in and sit on the veranda or in the parlor on Sunday night. Then a couple of weeks more followed before he was asked to come for supper on Sunday afternoon. These things generally take from six weeks to two months. but they are good and substantial steps. Then came the first Christmas, and she gave him a pair of knitted slippers she had made herself, and he gave her his own photograph or a celluloid work basket. These, mark you, are also good and substantial steps.

Then she went to spend her holidays at his place, perhaps, or he was asked to visit a relative where she was staying.

Then, in due time, some year or two, perhaps, after came the proposal. Of the nineteen grooms referred to in our reader's letter, at least eighteen of them got down on one knee and placed his case before her. She, wondering for weeks if he was ever going to come across with a proposal, said, in eighteen out of nineteen cases, "this is so sudden.," and immediately after followed up with a grand blush and "you bet I will." The next day he had to see the father or mother, after which they used to look in the furniture stores in the evenings and convince each other that two could live as cheaply as one.

Yes, madam, all the way along they had been going step for step, all the same, all leading up to the day when the preacher should tell all and sundry who knew of any good reason why these young folks should not be married to come forth or else for ever after hold their peace.

And yet you expect that despite the sameness of all these courtships, a mere newspaper reporter, without the thrills of months of courtship, shall come forth with a separate and distinct treatment for each report of the wedding. Well, it can't be done. No, madam, the thing is impossible.

When you have said a bride looks "winsome," "charming," "pretty," or with a "very" hitched on in front of each of these adjectives, what more can be said? Would you have a paper go on and say, "The folks all wonder why she is marrying him," or "It's the first chance she ever had and she just jumped at it," or "He's out of work half the time, and she'll have to go to work inside of six months"

Nay, nay, that would never do. It would spoil the whole event and leave a heavy casualty list among the reporters in the otherwise happy month of June.—London Advertiser.

MEXICAN BANDITS PAY WITH LIVES FOR CRIME

MEXICO CITY, July 5 (Associated Press).—Summary vengeance has been exacted by the government for the attack o the Interoceanic Railway passenger train, June 8, between Amzoc and Senoret, near Puebla, in which two lives were lost. TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, July 5. — Trade was quite lively at the cattle market yesterday. Demand was good for anything with quality in the butcher ciass at prices about 25c higher than Tuesday. The run was moderate, and except for the coarsest grass cattle everything wanted fit to kill. Farmers are again advised not to ship their unfinished cattle, but to give ample time for feeding, as prospects never were better for good prices in the late summer and fall.

Export trade has quietened down a little, but prices were holding just about steady at $8.00 to $8.50 for best export steers. Export bulls easier and not many wanted.

Calves a little firmer at $8.00 to $9.00 tops.

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Gannon, Emily S. S. No. 7, Was Recipient of Gift.

On Thursday, June 28, a very pleasing event took place at S. S. No. 7, Emily, when the teacher, Miss Gannon, was presented with a gift by the pupils and ex-pupils of the school, followed by a program prepared secretly by the pupils for the occasion.

The following address was read by Lillian Carroll:

"Dear Miss Gannon,—

"We, the pupils of No. 7, Emily, take this occasion to thank you and show in some small way our appreciation of your earnest endeavours on our behalf during the past three years.

"After the parents, the teacher exercises the greatest influence in moulding the character of the child. The early impressions for good or evil received in the home and school lay the foundation for future manhood and womanhood. Your example, for all that, is most edifying and you have endeared yourself to us as a teacher of sterling worth and integrity. Realizing this, we ask you to accept this little gift, not for its intrinsic value, but in remembrance of the many happy days spent together and as a slight token of our esteem for you."

During the reading of the address the gift was presented by Marion Franks.

Miss Gannon was completely taken by surprise, but made a suitable reply, thanking the pupils and parents for kindness shown her.

Canada Confident of the Future

CANADA is endeavoring to regain her after-the-war stride in the midst of many difficulties, — debt, deflation and depression being some of them.

Quack remedies and academic theories beset her path on every side. Some suggest that our debt worries can best be eased by going further into debt. Others preach blue ruin, decry their own country and indulge in mischievous propaganda generally, while still others look for a new social order or some miraculous sign to indicate a better coming day—all this in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that just as there was no royal road to win the war, there is now no royal road to pay for it or regain our former buoyancy, vigor and confidence.

Some are leaving Canada hoping to escape taxation, only to find there is no escape anywhere. In seeking for easy remedies too many of us overlook the fact that the greatest remedy is honest, hard work faithfully and intelligently performed, accompanied by old-fashioned thrift.

It takes time, it takes patience, it takes grit. But every Canadian knows in his heart that Canada is coming through all right.

Our Experience Proves It

Look back over the path Canada has trod. The French Colonists, cut off from civilization by 3,000 miles of sea, faced a continent—a wilderness—without the aid of even a blazed trail. They had to fight savages, frosts, scurvy, loneliness and starvation.

The United Empire Loyalists subdued an unbroken forest in one generation, growing their first wheat amid the stumps and snags of the new clearing.

The Selkirk settlers came to Manitoba when the prairie was a buffalo pasture, and grew wheat where none had grown before and where those who knew the country best at that time said wheat never would grow. To-day the Canadian prairies grow the finest wheat in the world.

In proportion to population Canada stands to-day among the wealthiest nations in the world, with average savings on deposit per family of $800. Canada's foreign trade per head of population stands amongst the highest of the commercial nations, being $192 per capita in 1922-23, as compared with $135 in 1913-14, the "peak" year before the war.

New Opportunities for Canada

In Canada, although prices in the world markets fell below war level, our farmers reaped last autumn the largest grain crop in Canadian history, and Canada became the world's largest exporter of wheat, thus in large measure making up for lower prices.

Last year, Great Britain, after an agitation extending over thirty years, removed the embargo on Canadian cattle, and a profitable and practically unlimited trade is opening up for Canadian stockers and feeders.

"The 20th Century belongs to Canada"—if Canadians keep faith.

The next article will suggest practical opportunities for profit making on our Canadian farms.

RUHR OCCUPATION HIT SWITZERLAND TRAVEL

BASEL, Switzerland, July 5.—(Associated Press)—Swiss tourist traffic has been hard hit by the French occupation along the Rhine and the consequent upsetting of through travel from Scandinavia, Holland, Poland and France which formerly drained through the Rhine valley.

Trains still run, but they are slow and irregular as compared with the service which formerly connected Ostend, Paris, Brussels, Rotterdam and Copenhagen with the German watering-places along the Rhine and in Switzerland. The public was accustomed to the old route and is slow to start on other line which are not affected by the French occupation,-but cannot offer the old-time de luxe service.

Loafing is a hard job. It takes so long to get enough of it done.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

Officer Who Was Injured in Motor Cycle Collision is Recovering—A Quiet Holiday.

COBOURG, July 5.—There was no special attraction to mark the holiday in Cobourg on Monday, excepting private gatherings and the homecoming of many young people from the cities. A large number attended the celebration in Port Hope, which was fortunate in having fine weather and many attractive features. The Dominion Day celebration at Port Hope is an annual event.

At Centreton, Coldsprings and other places there were lawn socials and other community gatherings, to which added interest was given by local baseball matches.

Cobourg was quiet as far as baseball was concerned as the Central Ontario baseball team was in Peterborough for the day, accompanied by a number of enthusiasts.

Defeated Dye Works.

The Tuxis Boys of Port Hope won from the Cobourg Dye Works team on Friday night by a score of 6 to 5.

May Drop Out.

A letter has been sent into the Central Ontario League asking if other clubs in Section A would be agreeable to Lindsay dropping out at the end of the first part of the schedule.

Large Entrance Class.

Pupils from this part of the county of Northumberland wrote on the entrance to High School examinations on Thursday and Friday. It was one of the largest classes that ever assembled here. There were sixty pupils from the Cobourg Public School alone.

Officer Is Improving.

Traffic Officer Wilson, who was so seriously injured when his motorcycle collided with an automobile on the Provincial highway east of Cobourg, has so far recovered that he has been removed from the Cobourg Hospital to his home. Mr. E. Friend of Toronto is in the meantime taking his duties here.

Trip to Gore's Landing.

St. Andrew's Sunday School held their annual outing to Gore's Landing and had a most enjoyable time at that pretty resort.

Strawberries Scarce.

Although it was thought early in the season that strawberries were going to be a record crop, there were none to be had in Cobourg on Saturday night, all dealers having sold out. During last week they were selling at the rate of two boxes for a quarter, but 15c a box is the usual price, and berries are plentiful today. A Prince Edward County grower has been bringing berries into this district as well as our local fruit men.

Toronto Man Fined.

Because he was using the gas to such an extent that his speed was forty miles an hour, a Toronto citizen was fined $40.00 and $5.00 costs in the Police Court here one day during the week.

Tuxis Camp.

The Tuxis Boys' camp at Richardson's Point, near the lake, five miles east of Cobourg, is an interesting spot these days. The Cobourg Rotary Club has gone to much pains to see that the camp is fully equipped in every particular. Walter Knox, the famous Olympic coach, has charge of athletic events, and on Friday put on some special events that were of much interest to the boys. Those boys who cannot stay at camp all of the time are being urged to come for a part of the outing, and so participate in some of the good things.

A special service was arranged for Sunday afternoon, to which the parents and friends of the boys were invited, and many availed themselves of the invitation to motor down to the camp.

Band in Rochester.

The Cobourg Concert Band (Kilties), Prof. Golding leader, held their annual excursion by steamer Ontario to Rochester yesterday, and the occasion was much enjoyed.

Garden Party.

The Betherda Methodist Church held their lawn social on Tuesday afternoon on the lawn of Mr. Adam Simpson, Hamilton Township. The Cobourg Kilties Band furnished the musical programme.

Canal Officials Cannot Avoid Draining Water From River Into Canal —Personals.

Campbellford, July 5. — Some of the Trent Canal officials say with regard to the article that appeared in the Examiner of Wednesday, dealing with the heavy mortality among the fish at Healey Falls due to draining the water from the river into the canal, that this is something that it is next to impossible to avert. Every year following the usual spring freshet, the water falls as it is held back at so many places above the falls. It is absolutely necessary to keep up the supply in the canal.

One of the officials says that not as many fish died on account of the lowering of the water as were caught or clubbed by parties who waded out in the shallow water and captured the fish that had sought shelter in the holes in the river, fish that would have lived if let alone, until the water was turned into the river again.

One way, said an official, to conserve the supply of fish is to prevent poaching during the closed season.

ROSENEATH LOST TO CAMPBELLFORD

The Score Was 15-13 in Favour of the Visitors—Both Teams Hit Hard

CAMPBELLFORD, July 5. — Manager Charles H. Davidson and his Northumberland League players returned to town last night with the scalps of the Roseneath team hanging at their belts. The score was 15 to 13 in favour of the visitors, and the number of runs made was not due to errors, but to the heavy hitting of both teams, the Campbellford boys having the best end of the batting odds.

Manager Davidson was constrained, owing to the lack of material, to act as umpire behind the bat, and not even the most ardent supporter of the Roseneath team could charge him with favouring his own nine.

Macklin of Warkworth was on the bases, and there was a finality and a fairness about his decisions that discouraged controversy.

A Veteran Comes Back.

Archie Wood, better known to the fans as an umpire than as a player, was pressed into the service, and guarded the right field, demonstrating that it is possible for a veteran to come back. It was Archie who started the team on the road to victory when in the second inning, his first time up, he smashed out a two-bagger to left and scored the first run of the game when Cowell singled to right.

As some of the players on the regular line-up were unable to go to Roseneath, there was a change in the positions again. Hume officiated behind the bat and proved as efficient as a catcher as he has always been either in right field or at second base. Every one of the Campbellford boys made a hit, some of them for extra bases. Roseneath changed pitchers four times, but it was impossible to stop the riot of slugging by the visitors.

The game was won in the seventh inning, when the visitors piled up six runs. Dunk got a base on balls, Wood singled to centre, Cowell sent a beauty over the head of the second baseman, Hume whaled the ball to left for two bases, Brady followed with a double, Weston singled, West went to first with a lame shoulder when the Roseneath pitcher landed on him, and six men in triumphant procession crossed the plate.

In this inning Shearer had replaced Leach in the box, but the change proved so satisfactory that the latter was restored to the place of honour, holding it up to the ninth, when Downs was called in from third, only to allow the visitors to add four more runs to their score.

Roseneath has a creditable ball team, but they were outclassed yesterday, both as to battery work and to fielding. They are loyally and enthusiastically supported by a bunch of fans and if uproarious rooting and 'roasting' the visitors could have won the game, Roseneath would have been the victors. One of the best players on the team is Dr. Armstrong whose professional services were in demand, a number of the players on both sides being spiked during the game by base runners going foremost into second.

Weston at first was one of the stars of the game. No matter whether the throw to him was high or low, where the ball came to him from the bat, scorching the grass or dropped from the clouds, he got them all. His batting record was three singles and a double.

West in centre made two hard catches after a long long run over the rough field.

The Campbellford batters who made doubles at a time when extra base hits were most needed, were: Hume, Brady, Weston, Shillinglaw, West and Wood .The line-up:

Campbellford—Cowell, 3b.; Hume, c.; Brady, p. and s.s.; Eagleson, s.s. and p.; Weston, 1b.; Shillinglaw, l.f.; West, c.f.; Dunk, 2b.; Wood, r.f.

Roseneath — Montgomery, r.f.; Varcoe, l.f.; Downs, 3b.; B. Thackeray, 1b.; Moore, c.f.; R. Thackeray, c.; Shearer, 2b.; Armstrong, s.s.; Leach, p.

By innings:	R.	H.	E.
Campbellford .001 000 644	15	24	3
Roseneath . . .100 150 114	13	17	5

Team Is Improving.

The Campbellford team shows improvement with every game played. The outfielders are often handicapped by the rough grounds on which they are compelled to play on, for it is a difficult matter for a player making a running catch to watch his stepand a high fly at the same time.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

OVERFEEDING.

Wherever there are people, there are always bound to be some who over eat. The habit no doubt is begun in childhood and the stomach stretched to such an abnormal size that it takes more than the unusual amount of food to fill it up.

There are ways in which the mother can prevent herself from bringing about this condition in the child, and that is some elementary knowledge of the size of the child's stomach at certain ages, and about how much food it can be expected to hold.

I read letters which send chills of horror over me. Six weeks old babies being fed four and five ounces of milk every three hours! This is nothing short of cruelty and will bring on if persisted all the ills of indigestion as well as the more serious one of a stretched stomach, which is a permanent affliction and not to be laughed at.

The size of the baby will have something to do with the amount of food it can take at any time, but we will talk always about the average baby and that means one that at birth weighs about seven pounds or a little over.

If the baby is unfortunate and has to be bottle fed from the first week on, this will be in the hands of the physician in charge and his directions will be followed. It is fairly safe to say that for the child fed every three hours up to six months, the amount at each feeding can be one ounce and a little more than his age in months. Thus at one month the child could take between two, and two and one-half ounces, at feeding, or perhaps three ounces. At two months between three and three and one-half. The amounts vary thus for the small child and the large one. After the child is taking eight ounces this rule does not hold good, as eight ounces of milk is usually enough for any child at any one feeding. The strength of the milk increased to make up sufficient nourishment and after six months or seven there are other foods added to the diet, so that eight ounces is always enough for any child at any one feeding.

If the child is fed only every four hours the quantities must be increased, a general rule being two ounces more than the child's age in months. Thus the child of three months can have 5 ounces at each feeding when fed only every four hours.

If the mother keeps even these few rules in mind she will never go very far wrong.

CARE WITH FOOD.

If the baby is gaining right along at a regular rate, if he sleeps well and seems to develop terrific pains a few minutes after eating, pains which make him scream loudly, clench his fists and cause his abdomen to be as hard as a little rock—we may conclude that he has had too much to eat or that what he has had is not agreeing very well.

Sometimes changing from a three to a four hour nursing period will help to conquer the pains A small amount of boiled water before nursing will dilute the milk sufficiently to help, sometimes. Of the mother's diet should be changed radically, more exercise, less fats bringing down the fat quantity in the milk, and a lessened protein intake helping the protein contents if that seems to be the offending element. When the food is at fault the mother should take her trouble to a doctor and let him help her. Experimenting with the milk and the diet is the one way, and most mothers are not capable of doing this without expert advice. Especially if the baby is very young the advice of the neighbors is too often of more harm than good.

Hot water is the best remedy for an attack of colic. Give the baby hot water in a nursing bottle and change his position so that the gas will be belched up.

Give an enema of warm water to relieve the gas in the intestines. One half a soda mint tablet dissolved in a teaspoon of warm water will relieve the indigestion for the time being and the baby's hands and feet should be kept warm by being wrapped in comforts, and a hot water bag over his abdomen will be most grateful to him.

These are merely measures of relief. The real cure must come through some change in the diet.

If the colic come on but once a day and then usually at some set time after a certain nursing, it is more than likely that it is not colic at all but that his particular nursing is to scanty to satisfy the baby.

BOYS ENJOYING ROTARY CAMP

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Went Up to Clear Lake on Monday — Good Meals and Plenty of Sport.

The camping program at the Rotary Camp, Clear Lake, for this year was opened with a bang on Monday last when the Y.M.C.A. juniors invaded it. The youngsters are up for a two weeks' sojourn at this post of pleasure.

The boys were told to be at the "Y" at 7.15 Monday morning. Some of the youthful campers were at the rendezvous at 6.30 carrying or dragging their outfits in kitbags ranging in size for a handbag to a hunting bag, in which the youngsters "loting" it could have been put with plenty of room to spare for about three companions. The boys were taken to South Beach by motor cars. From the beach they were conveyed to the camp in "Freda" the camp motor boat.

A splnedid meal awaited the boys at the camp to which they did more than full justice, leaving only the rind of the bolgona served to them. The boys spent the afternoon in getting accustomed to the camp and —playing ball The ball game was featured with a fast triple play.

The evening was spent in fishing from the dock. The youngsters succeeded in hoisting many members of the finny tribe from their home in the deep among the rocks. Some of the mud cat variety supplied excitement.

The boys left on an exploring trip among the islands Tuesday morning. The rain in the afternoon kept them indoors but didn't dampen their spirits.

The meals provided are of the best. The boys had fresh pie cooked on the premises for dinner. The boys have hopes of catching enough fish to have a meal.

The boys of the "Y" camp issued a challenge to the George Street camp at Sand Point for a ball game. The challenge was eagerly accepted and the ball battle will take place tomorrow at the Point.

The hearts of the divers in the camp were gladdened today when the carpenters put up a new diving tower.

AMERICANS CELEBRATED THE FOURTH IN TORONTO

TORONTO, July 5.—(Canadian Press).—Americans in Toronto did not forget birthday of their native land There was no official celebration in 'American colony.' There was no flag waving or speech making nor did sound of fire crackers disturb peace of Toronto, but here an there in quiet homes and in offices, small groups gathered and 'glorious fourth' was remembered and honored. Little American flags fluttered in several places and thought of more than one person in this great city wandered back to their native "states."

"But there was no jingersm" "or twisting of lions tail, 'Americans who know Canada have come to realize that people on both sides are of the same breed'. Hundred years of peace has had its effect. Canadians and Americans have reached stage when they can look backward without animosity.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

GETTING THE RANGE.
(By John T. Bartlett)

Conditions vary so between different localities, and even sometimes in the same locality from month to month, that certain important factors in classified advertising must be left to the judgment of the moment. Take that question, "How many insertions shall I order?" Depending on loral supply and demand conditions, a single insertion may get in one city what several insertions will be required for in another town. Learning how many insertions to order, the advertiser may be likened to the participant in target practice, "getting the range."

How is the wind? How is the atmosphere? The sharpshooter gets his range with actual trials. Then he hits bullseyes.

One way to get the range in Want advertising is through trials. A quicker way, though, if you have doubt, is to consult one of those courteous folks, the ad-takers.

You are inserting a Want Ad to rent a house. How many times should you order it? The important thing for you is getting the tenant. You wish to order the number of insertions probably needed to find a tenant, whether the number be one or half a dozen.

Instead of hazarding a guess, ask an ad-taker. He is in contact with many Want advertisers every working day in the year. Other local advertisers, with trials, have "got the range" in many classifications, including the one you are interested in. The ad-taker knows what this range is. Ask him. He will give you helpful, impartial advice.

This newspaper wants its readers to derive quickest and most profitable results from Want Ads. To what end, it employs skilled workers at the Want Ad counter and telephone.

They always have time to help you. If you are in doubt about the range, "ask and ad-taker."

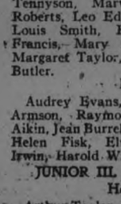
WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case.



I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAHECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

SPLENDID OVATION TO REV. AND MRS. G. E. ROSS

Several Presentations Last Evening to Mark Street Pastor Who is Leaving For a New Charge,

At the close of the Bible Class last evening, the President called Mr. W. Gamble to the chair, and the following very unique program followed:

As the class and visitors joined in singing old familiar hymns, the people continued to come, until the audience equalled the usual congregation.

It was then that Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Ross received the greatest surprise of their present pastorate. Having been called forward, they were presented with a very touching and complimentary address, accompanied by a beautiful rope of pearls with gold clasp to Mrs. Ross and a gold watch engraven with monogram to the pastor. The presentation was made by Mrs. A. Long, while Mr. W. Gamble, superintendent of the Sunday School, read the following address:

"To Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Mark Street Methodist Church.

"We, the Adult Bible Class and friends, have gathered together this evening to pay tribute to your Christian work amongst us during the past four years. We cannot but feel your Christian example and teaching has been an inspiration to us all.

"You have at all times stood by us, whether it was in sorrow or in joy, and, above all, you gave God's message to us, which has been an inspiration to our own souls.

"We shall not say good-bye to you, for in God's work their is no good-bye—it is a continuation of a greater work—but we cannot but help miss you, and would ask you to accept this gift as a token of our appreciation of your work amongst us, and that God will bless you both in your new field of service.

"Signed on behalf of Gold Rule Bible Class and friends—A. W. Gamble, Recording Steward; Chas. A. Stenton, Secretary; Mrs. Alex. Long, Treasurer; Mr. Fred. Agnew, President, and Joseph Grierson."

This beautiful and touching episode was followed by a presentation to Mrs. Ross from the choir of the church of a handsome silver flower vase in the form of a basket, being inscribed with the date of the closing pastorate, and was filled with roses. The presentation was made by the leader of the choir, Mr. V. Boorman, while the following address was read by Miss M. Sucee:

"To Mrs. Ross.

"Dear Mrs. Ross.—It is with mingled feelings that we gather here this evening. In a comparatively short time you and your husband will be severing your connection with this church, and the people on whom you have expended so much devotion and sympathy during the past few years. The organization of our church is such that, after the pastor and his family have completed a few short years of work, they move on to a new field of endeavour, just when their true Christian character and good example and precept have endeared them to the members of their congregation. Both you and we have almost reached this point, and in a short time you will leave us for another field. It is with deep regret that we see you go, and what will be their gain at Janetville will be our loss. We realize that the members of the Mark Street Church and the members of the choir, assembled here together, have come to appreciate your loyalty and devotion, and trust that the same qualities which have endeared you to us will make your life and associations in your new field both pleasant and useful to the people with whom you may come in contact.

"Sometimes on occasions such as this, words cannot quite express the human emotions, and we would, therefore, ask that you accept this flower vase as a token of appreciation from the members of the Mark Street choir to you; so that whenever the flowers of the forest smile therein so may the thoughts of our present friendships remain ever fresh in your memory.

"Signed on behalf of the choir—Victor H. Boorman, choir leader; Margaret A. Sucee.

Mr. Boorman, the organist of the church, was then presented with a purse and the following address:

Our Dear Choir Leader,

It affords us great pleasure to meet with you on this occasion, and we are glad that our coming does not mean farewell to you. We believe that your work in our choir has been appreciated by one and all. You have helped us very much indeed in many ways. We have admired your consistent and godly life, your prompt discharge of every known duty, your kind and cheering words, and your willingness to help us at any and all times. Your influence on the young life of the community is very large, and you are doing much good in many ways.

But words are cheap, and we might use a great many, so we shall express our esteem in a more tangible manner. As a slight token of the loving regard of the choir members and a very simple expression of their goodwill for your generosity, we ask you to accept this small gift of cash.

On behalf of the Choir,
Mrs. W. H. Morton.
Ruby Hamlin,
Margaret A. Sucee.

After this a neat presentation was made by little Catherine Hill, on behalf of the Primary Class, of which Mrs. Ross has been the teacher. It consisted of a choice walnut server.

Appropriate replies were made to all the presentations by Mr. and Mrs. Ross, while a number of the officials made brief and complimentary addresses.

The audience then repaired to the Sunday School Room, where they enjoyed a dainty lunch at tables beautifully decorated with flowers.

Mr and Mrs. Ross leave for their new field on Wednesday, 11th July.

A happy people left the church at eleven o'clock.

BRITISH ARMED FORCES JOIN WITH AMERICANS

PORTLAND, July 5.—(Canadian Press).—Armed forces of Great Britain participated with patriotic Americans here yesterday in the fourth of July celebration and special welcome to the President of the United States.

President Harding, upon his arrival here from his long tour across the country, was saluted by British marines and sailors, and H.M.S. cruiser Curlew joined with the American warships in firing the regulation twenty-one guns prescribed in this country to mark the presence of the chief executive of the United States.

In commenting upon the presence of the British sailors in the celebration, the President, in his address at Multnomah Field, said: "I do not know whether you know it or not, but history was made in Portland to-day when, for the first time, armed forces of Great Britain marched in a fourth of July parade on American soil. It is my hope that in future armed forces of Great Britain and of the United States will march arm in arm in a long procession of peace."

It Has Done Me World's of Good Says Toronto Woman

Dreco proves a true friend to Mrs. Oliver of 695 King Street West, Toronto who cannot praise it too highly

Another Toronto resident has found real merit in Dreco as a corrective for ailments arising from a poorly working digestive system. Here is her story:

"I have suffered for eighteen months from inflammatory rheumatism. My muscles and joints ached so badly that I could not bend or get on my knees. Nothing could be so painful as to suffer as I did. My liver was also out of order and I often had bilious attacks, dizzy spells and spots floating before my eyes. My blood was impure and I always had to be taking laxatives. Was nervous, did not sleep well and always felt tired and weak. I tried almost everything but my case seemed to be getting worse until at last I heard about Dreco and decided to give it a trial.

"Have only used one bottle but the results really are wonderful. My aches and pains from rheumatism have gone and I have no more dizzy spells My bowels are regular and I sleep through the night without disturbing. Have no more tired feeling and am so much stronger that my work is now a pleasure. I'd gladly tell anyone about Dreco as I think that all who suffer should know about this medicine. It has done me world's of good."

Mrs. Oliver's statement is a message of hope to all who are troubled with symptoms by faulty indigestion. Dreco is scientifically prepared from nature's herbs, roots, bark and leaves and acts on the vital organs toning and regulating them in a way that speedily benefits the whole body It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs and is the most reliable spring tonic known.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey and by a good druggist everywhere.

PRESSURE ON LUNGS CAUSED BY GAS

Often a dull, full feeling in chest is caused by gas from undigested food pressing upwards towards lungs. Sometimes gas presses on heart and is mistaken for heart trouble. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, expels gas and stops pressure almost INSTANTLY in many cases. Removes surprising matter from BOTH upper and lower bowel which formed gas and poisoned stomach. Adlerika is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. McDermid & Jury; and E. L. Payne druggists.

BANK OF ENGLAND RATE RAISED FROM 3 TO 4 P.C.

LONDON, July 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Bank of England to-day raised its rate to four per cent. from three per cent, the level which had prevailed for a year.

Although the increase had been awaited with interest, it caused little surprise inasmuch as events recently have been moving rapidly towards such action. At the same time there is considerable opinion against raising the official minimum at a time when trade is so bad and when Great Britain's purchases of food and raw material in the United States and South America must be financed. It was therefore hoped that the authorities would not have recourse to such a step.

TOMMY GIBBONS LOST ON POINTS AFTER GOING FULL FIFTEEN ROUNDS

Dempsey Unable to Knock Challenger Off His Feet in Fistic Battle at Shelby —Very Small Crowd on Hand.

RESULT A SURPRISE.

SHELBY, Mont. July 5.—(Canadian Press). —Whole sporting world was wrong, with the exception of that courteous, smiling individual, Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul. Challenger to astonishment of twenty-five thousand spectators in sun-baked arena on edge of this oil boom town was on his feet still boxing at end of his scheduled 15-round heavyweight championship battle yesterday with Jack Dempsey when almost everybody expected him to be knocked out in six or seven rounds. Gibbons who did not get a cent for fighting champion left ring with moral victory. It was first time that any boxer had managed to face Dempsey and still be on his feet at the finish since he became champion.

Gibbons has reputation made in 86 bouts of never having been knocked off his feet. That reputation is still good. Bout made an entirely different ending than any of spectators expected.

Toward last Gibbons seemed to be fading fast and repeatedly went into clinches with champion. In last round it appeared that his defenses were failing and many expected Dempsey to administer expected knockout? The champion seeing condition of challenger furiously slashed at his head and body. In some rounds he switched his tactics and surprised champion by carrying boxing to him and even outboxing him in spots.

Elbowing his way through cheering spectators Chief Curley Bear of Blackfoot Indians climbed into the ring lifted his eagle tipped war bonnet from his head and placed it on that of Gibbons while crowd yelled itself hoarse. The wife of Mayor Johnson of Shelby threw her arms around challenger.

Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey obtained "almost all" of $100,000 which he took out of first receipts of gate for bout today, he said late this evening.

Defeated by Referee's decision after fifteen rounds was almost as sweet a victory to Tommy Gibbons his manager, Eddie Kane, and hundreds of friends who swarmed after challenger after the contest. "We want return bout with Dempsey," Gibbons said. when he finished rubdown at his home.

Jack Dempsey boarded his private car an hour after bout and started the trip back to his Great Falls training camp, disappointed champion disappointed because he failed to knock out Gibbons. But expressed his admiration for ability of St. Paul challenger.

Tommy Gibbons' showing against Jack Dempsey yesterday was hailed by his fellow townsmen with almost as much enthusiasm as victory would have been. Plans are under discussion to give Gibbons and his family rousing welcome when they return from Shelby.

Dempsey started down the aisle to enter the ring at 3.30.

As the champion parted the ropes he was given an uproarious reception. He was attired in white fighting trunks, and a faded blue sweater coat.

Jack Kearns was in charge of the champion's corner, assisted by Billy Wells, the British welterweight, and Joe Benjamin, the Pacific Coast lightweight; Jack Lurke and Leo Moore, Los Angeles featherweight, Mike Trant and Hughie McCarthy, Chicago detectives, also, were in the champion's corner.

Trant shielded Dempsey from the piercing rays of the sun while a battery of camera men began making pictures of the title holder.

Dempsey chose the corner with the sun at his back. His hands were heavily bandaged with soft surgical bandages covered with a coating of white tape.

In addition to Trant and McCarthy two other Chicago detectives, Willie Bayne and Tap Scott, made their appearance in Dempsey's corner.

Dempsey's face was heavily smeared with vaseline, and he wore a day's growth of beard.

Gibbons came into the ring five minutes later, and was accorded a more deafening reception than the champion. He walked over to Dempsey's corner to shake hands.

The challenger wore a red, brown figured bathrobe. His handlers were Buck Pape, Bud Gorman, Jimmy Delaney and Manager Eddie Kane. Gorman held a protecting umbrella over the challenger. While the gloves were being adjusted Jimmy Dougherty, the referee, stood in a neutral corner.

Before sitting down to have his gloves tied on, Gibbons bounded into the ropes to test the strength of them.

Just before the bout started it was announced that about $25,000 was realized in the last hour as the result of the cut rate price of tickets.

While the gloves were being adjusted Manager Kearns paced nervously in the centre of the ring.

After Dempsey's gloves were tied on he stood up in his corner, and went through a bit of shadow boxing to get warmed up.

They were called to the centre of the ring for instructions at 3.51.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 5.—(United Press)—Jumping Joe Dugan is out after the title of the best third baseman in the history of baseball.

The fuss he is raising up at the Yankee Stadium these hot afternoons approximates a riot. He is snagging blistering drives with a cool, calm glove, running down hunts like a keen-eyed deer, shooting them over to first base as fast as anyone ever did before and socking the ball for a snappy .280.

The New York writers claim he is better than Willie Kamm, who cost the White Sox $100,000; Walter Lutzke, the $35,000 star of the Cleveland Indians; the veteran Kid Foster, or the youthful Haney of the Tigers.

There is no doubt that the old Athletic star is playing the best gall of his career and getting better every day. There is no doubt that he is the best fielder around the hot corner.

His style of covering ground revives visions of Bill Bradley, the old Cleveland Blue star, and Collins of the Boston Bean Eaters. He kills many drives that would be hits if they were sent down to some of the other third basemen of the league.

Carpentier and Siki Will Clash Again.

PARIS, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The Council of the French Boxing Federation has decided to summon Georges Carpentier and Battling Siki to sign for a match on 16th September, when Siki's title as light heavyweight champion of the world and of Europe will be at stake.

The contract must be signed before 16th July.

The proceeds of the match will go for scientific research.

BASEBALL

The Kingston Standard cannot see why the game between Belleville and Kingston on the holiday was called off whereas the Petes and Cobourg played their postponed game. A great big favor to Peterboro he calls it. The tie game was not played off because it could have no effect upon deciding the first half championship. And Kingston having had the benefit of the gate from the tie game did not suffer any financial loss. The Petes on the other hand would have lost the gate from a regularly scheduled home game had not the postponed game been played. That was all there was to it and everybody but the Standard understood the situation perfectly.

GALLAGHER TO PITCH SATURDAY

Kingston Left-Hander Is Being Groomed to Take Scalps of the Petes.

Big Ted Gallagher, the Kingston Ponies left-hander, who held the Petes to one unearned run in his last two starts against the Solomon crew is being carefully groomed to start Saturday's game at Riverside Park and the Kingston crew hope to grab off the verdict and open out an early lead on the rest of the Big Four teams. The Petes have the same idea about the battle and just now it looms up as likely to be a nip and tuck struggle. The Kingston crew broke even with the Petes in the first half each winning their two home games and the two games here were among the snappiest of the season, especially the last meeting when the Petes won by 1 to 0 after a great pitchers' duel between Galiagher and Heckman. Harrison will be back at first base for the Petes and the pep the big fellow puts into th game should improve the homesters chances of pulling out with a victory.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

The Petes are reminded of the practice tomorrow night at 6 o'clock.

BANKERS TOO MUCH FOR THE C.P.C. NINE

Packers Held Short End of 5 to 3 Score at Riverside Park Last Evening.

Two runs in the third after the Packers had tied the score in their half gave the Bankers the necessary margin to win by a score of 5 to 3 last evening. From the third inning on neither team was able to register though both had several men on the runways. The Packers had a great opportunity to win in the second frame when they filled the bases with no one out but they were only able to get one man across the scoring station and he was walked in Hardill then tightened up and fanned the next three. Altogether he fanned five in this frame but two of them landed safely on first when the catcher failed to hold the third strike. The Bankers bunched three of their four hits in the first inning for three runs.

Jeff Hardill did the pitching for the Bankers and Larmar for the packers and both showed streaks of wildness. Hardill fanned eleven and walked five while Larmar struck out six and walked four. The Packers were at their best with men on the bases and made several put outs after their opponents had got on the runways. LeFave picked off two trying to steal second and Larmar caught one asleep off first.

The players were:

Packers—J. Downer, lf; W. Downer, rf; Ranger, 1b; Heard, cf; Cunningham, ss; Fanning, 2b; Larmar, p; Davidson, 3b; LeFave, c.

Bankers—Cairns, cf; H. Hardill, 1b; McClarty, c; Grose, ss; O'Laughlin, 3b; J. Hardill, p; McQueen, 2b; McWilliams, lf; Dinsdale, rf.

SNAPPY GAME BY JUVENILES

Pitcher Vinette Wins For Hillcrests With Homer in the Seventh.

Pitcher Conners hurling for the Lock Works grooved the ball for the opposition twirler in the seventh innings of the Lock Works-Hillcrests Juvenile game at King Edward School grounds last evening and Vinette clouted the ball far into the middle field for a home run, which broke a tie and won the contest for Hillcrests by the score of 6 to 5. Holland who was playing middle field got the range on the ball but slipped and fell, the ball bounding to the fence. Vinette made the plate with something to spare

The teams dished up good and bad baseball, and it was an interesting contest throughout. The hitting was light, but timely and the misplays were not costly. Two double plays unassisted were contributed by O'Brien playing short for the Lock Works, and Guerin at second for Hillcrests. Smith at third base for Hillcrests played a nice fielding game. The pitchers worked well, but Conners' tendency to groove the ball got him into trouble.

Hillcreestst were leading at the end of the fifth getting three runs in this frame which Perdue opened with a double. Vinnette fanned and the pitcher threw out Guerin. Leahy was hit Smith's two bagger scored Perdue and Leahy, and Smith scored on a wild peg.

Hit in Three Runs.

Lock Works came strong in the sixth when Vinette faltered. B Hunt and Scrace were passed and Baker was hit filling the bases. Holland doubled to deep centre clearing the bags, and went out trying to make third. Griffin fanned and Kenneally grounded out.

Hillcrests went out in a row in their half. Lock Works tied the score in the seventh, when Conners scored following his two base clout and a wild peg to third.

Vinette first up in Hillcrests half of the seventh, hit for a homer winning the game for his team.

Hilton Belyea Has Good Chance to Win.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 4.—(Canadian Press)—The most dangerous opponent of Hilton A. Belyea of St. John, N.B., Canada's champion sculler, in the Diamond Sculls competition was eliminated yesterday morning when Walter M. Hoover, of Duluth, defender of the trophy was defeated in a preliminary heat by Gollam of the Leander Club.

Gollam won by three-quarters of a length in eight minutes and 24 seconds.

Belyea, with Hoover eliminated, is now considered to have an excellent chance of winning the competition. He will not row in his preliminary heat until today.

Gollam, through whose victory the United States oarsman loses his title to the Diamond Sculls, which he won in last years' regatta, made his first appearance in sculling races at Cambridge in November, 1919. He was then at First Trinity College, and won his heat in a race on the Cam. In his training, Gollam, a deaf mute, was given directions by a professional from river bank by means of signs.

Hoover hit a boom with one of his oars in making the course soon after the start and split the blade. He lost 1 length by the accident, but despite the handicap recovered most of the distance and finished with no daylight between his shell and Gollam's. Hoover was loudly cheered when he pulled to the Englishman's boat and congratulated him.

CANADIAN WON HEAT DIAMOND SCULLS RACE

HENLEY ON THAMES, July 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Hilton A. Belyea, of St. John, N. B., Canadian champion, won his heat for Diamond Sculls, easily defeating Dr. Rudolph L. Boshard, of Grasshopper Club, Zurich, Switzerland.

American Defeated.

Russell Codman, Jr., Boston oarsman, was eliminated from the competition for the Diamond Sculls today, being defeated by D. H. L. Gollan, Great Britain, victor over Walter Hoover, United States, yesterday. The Englishman won by two lengths in eight minutes 30 seconds.

"BELL BOY 13" STORY SIMILAR TO LIFE OF STAR IN INCE FEATURE.

MacLean Was Bond Man.

The author of the magazine story from which "Bell Boy 13," Thomas H. Ince's latest comedy farce was adapted, had no intention of writing anything autobiographical when he penned his story but by coincidence he wrote in several sequences what might have been drawn from the life of Douglas MacLean, who plays the title role in the picture.

MacLean, whose father was a prominent minister in Philadelphia, and who was destined first to be a civil engineer and then a bond salesman, was perfectly at home in the role of the young bond broker who didn't think much of his job and who was always inventing excuses to escape the watchful eye of the head member of the firm.

For a year before he broke into the movies he sold securities for a Philadelphia bond house and he vouches for it that he saw all of the comedy "gags" pulled in the hilariously funny office scenes in the picture tried many times in his own office.

"Bell Boy 13" tells the story of a young college chap whose bond-broker uncle disinherits him when he tries to elope with an actress and who turns bell hop to prove he can earn a living. Douglas MacLean, in a bell boy's uniform, has put over one of the funnest characterizations of his career.

The picture will be shown at the Royal Theatre to-night.

THREE IN ROW FOR THE ROTARY BANTAMS.

Rotary Bantams hit out an 11 to 3 victory over Belmonts last evening, and are now leading the series with three straight wins. THE SUMMER SCHOOL SESSIONS

"To do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God," was the text from the prophets which formed the subject of an interest-holding and inspirational discourse to a fair-sized audience of people last night in the Sunday school room of the George street Methodist church, delivered by Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Colborne, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and former pastor of the Mark street Methodist church in this city.

Mr. Whattam, whose address was a thoughtful, spiritual exposition of his text, spoke of the credit accruing to our forefathers in the establishment of the present day church.

"Moral forms continue when the moral forces that produced them have ceased," he said, going on to eulogize the work of the Sunday school, as a force which should add a "spiritual" dynamic to the life of our young people."

"Our fathers laid stress on spiritual experiences, on the sanctification of life, the conversion of the soul, the immortal touch of God, the witness of the Spirit. We should not cease to lay emphasis on the things which were considered prime requisites of true religion."

Missions are the crown and capstone of the spiritual structure of the church of Jesus Christ, but evangelism is its foundation and cornerstone. As your school moves on toward that final service of consecration so you will come down from the Mount of Transfiguration to the plain of service laying less stress on the sport and entertainment phases. I depend on the young people who are here from my own charge to become living forces for Jesus Christ, and living personalities among the people to whom I minister. The living touch with Jesus that you find in these services will bring to you a heart call for a puritanical life. If it does not, I shall question whether you have found your Christ—I shall question it very much. Christ makes you love all that is clean, and pure, and true, and good, and I know that you will go home feeling that Jesus requires these of you."

"Our day is crying out for the square deal to do justly. I believe we are coming to an hour when as never before, in your life nor mine, we will realize the demand of the humanity about us for straight living."

Mr. Whattam here alluded to his presence in the House of Parliament in Ottawa, when the Speech from the Throne was read at the beginning of the first session of the present government's regime. The clause relating to an investigation about to be launched in carrying rates on the Upper Great Lakes, was met with a derisive comment from a millionaire Senator sitting near the speaker, "as if the King Government were merely pretending to commence this investigation. But I believe that the King Government felt the modern demand, the requirement in the laws of the day of a Christian democracy which says that no millionaire shall have power to deride such things, the demand which we make that the rank and file of our citizenship should be considered at the seat of government as of primary interest to those in authority; the spirit of democracy and of fair play. The church of to-morrow will bring this to pass, if the young people are true to the vision to which God has called them."

"Make this a part of your life's programme, the workingout of the Golden Rule, a love for others equal to the love which we have for ourselves. Justice seeks fair play for all alike, and equal consideration. We should give those about us a place in our lives. We cannot treat with hasty contempt the lives about us. King Arthur's Round Table went to pieces because of the unkind views of Vivian, whose bitter, cruel tongue flayed all about her, leaving at least even Lancelot brave, nor Galahad pure. Unkind and unjust, her spirit was contrary to the spirit of Jesus. Oh, young people, let us live kindly. Let us be fair."

"I am very glad of the present hour, when the sun shines upon a world that loves mercy as never before in the history of the human race." Mr. Whattam related the instance occurring in England in the year 1833, hen a little child convicted of breaking a window and stealing some small article, was sentenced to death, a sentence which was only with great difficulty finally commuted. In "Crime and its Punishment" and in Victor Hugo's "Hunchback of Notre Dame," the old merciless ideas were well illustrated. "But the torture chamber, the rack and the thumbscrew, the pillories and the whippingpost, the wayside gibbet the loathsome dungeons of those times have vanished in the sunlight of to-day."

The speaker alluded to a debate heard by him, waged between W. F. Nickle of Kingston, and General Hughes, superintendent of penitentiaries, in which the demand made by the one speaker for more merciful treatment of criminals in Ontario was met by the assertion that every thing that was demanded had already been in the heart and the plan of those in charge of these poor creatures."

"The road of venegance leads to hell. The road of hate leads to a world-welter such as we just passed through in the Great War. Christ and His presence is the heart and the life of our day teaches us to know better things, of mercy, and of tenderness and of love. Justice and mercy are the habitat of the throne of God. We thank God that we are realizing that more and more "To walk humbly with our God." Humility involves two things—a consciousness of our own littleness in the presence of Jesus Christ. That puritanical figure, John the Baptist, in the midst of his popularity as a recognized prophet, said, when speaking of his master, "He must increase and I must decrease."

John the Baptist was sacrificed to the whim of a dancing girl, "one whose life, when compared to his, was but as the froth on the surface of the sea, but we must remember when we think of that, that his life in its great good, can never be quenched, that his spirit can come down through the ages to influence the lives of our people to-day."

"Oh, young people, let me tell you this, that in order to accept the things into which Jesus has brought you, you will have to put away empty thoughts. A Christian life that attempts to be an empty life will soon be seven times worse bedevilled than at first. Swept and garnished it may be, but when the evil spirit returns it will have company. It will come back to make life far worse than it had ever been before. Take into your consciousness that last thought of the prophet, the thought of service, "to walk humbly with God," to do the things that Jesus would have you to do, for Him and for His glory. Modern Christianity demands more than mere sacrifices and endless prayers and travellings to Jersusalem or Mecca or Rome, kissing the sacred stones or bathing in sacred waters. It demands the doing of a thousand things in the service life about you; that you may help His children and instruct in His word the world that is dying for the light. May Jesus show you the way."

The Twilight Service last evening was led by Rev. W. H. Young, M. A., pastor, of the George street church, Rev. Mr. McCutcheon, the secretary, presided, and in the announcements, drew attention once more to the boat excursion to be held on Friday to Gore's Landing. Rev. Mr. Horwood, the Summer School's musician, who gives such good service at the piano, accompanied a vocal solo by Rev. Roy Rickard of Bowmanville, whose fine resonant baritone was heard to advantage in a splendid rendition of "My Task."

Calvin Gray arrives in Dallas, home of Colonel Henry Nelson, banker. Gray tells the colonel that because of his hatred for the banker he means to break him financially. Nelson offers Gray, Barbara Parker buys land for the colonel. Gray hires Mallow and two associates to keep watch of the activities of Nelson in the oil fields. Gus Briskow strikes oil and Gray helps the family over the rough spots. Allie, the daughter, falls in love with Gray, Bud, the son, runs away from school and Gray follows to bring him home. He finds Bud in the hands of an adventuress.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"She was. He's dead, or something. I was bashful about callin' around to see her, not havin' anything to talk about but school an' oil wells, but she took an interest right away, 'specially in the wells. You'd ought to hear the story of her life, Mr. Gray. It's as sad as any novel. You see, her folks had lots of money, but her ma died an' her pa was too busy to be bothered, so he sent her off to a convent. Them nuns at the convent was so cruel to her that she run away—"

"And went on the stage."

"How'd you know?"

"I didn't. But—the stage is the usual refuge for convent-bred girls who are abused. I've met several. Did she— Was the old home in Virginia?"

"Sure! Mebbe you know her!" Buddy cried.

"Perhaps. I seem to remember the story. What is her name?"

"Arline Montague."

The elder man shook his head. "You said something about a marriage. I dare say she married some rich John whose family disapproved of the match—so many show girls have been deceived like that. You can't imagine the prejudice of those Fifth Avenue parents—"

"That's what she done. An' he went off an' joined the French Legion of Honor an' was killed."

"What is the estate you mentioned?"

"Oh, that's her own! It's all she had to fall back on. It's bein' settled up now an' she'll have her money before long."

"The old Virginia homested and the slaves—?"

"Good thing she met me when she did, for them lawyers had it all tied up in court and wouldn't let go till she paid their fees."

"A providential meeting, truly. You fixed that up, of course, and got rid of the wretched bloodsuckers. I've done much the same thing, more than once. Now, one other question—how does she happen to be in Dallas? I infer from your account that she is a model of virtue, and that she accepted your aid only upon the condition that your attentions to her should be characterized by the deepest respect. So? Well then, 'how come'?"

"That was just a lucky chance. She's got some interests here; stocks an' things, belongin' to the ex-husband. She dunno, herself, how valuable they are, but me comin' right from Texas an' bein' in oil an' all, she ast me to he'p her out. So I got her to come. All that had kep' her back was the expense. Mind you"—Buddy's tone became one of deeper admiration—"she ain't blue, or anything. No sir-ee! Her life's been sad, but you'd never know it. She's full of pep; allus out for fun, an'—that's what I like about her. Gee! You gotta meet her, Mr. Gray."

"Well, rather! But meanwhile, we must telegraph your parents not only that you have been found, but also the further good news."

"I— We better not say anything about my gettin' married."

"Why not? They'd like to know."

Buddy stirred uneasily. "Why, it's this way: I haven't ast her yet. Mebbe she won't have me. If she says yes—I'll let 'em know."

"Good! We'll make it, for the time being, a mere message of reassurance. Tonight you and Miss Montague shall dine with me and we'll go to a theater."

Gray was prepared to find his young friend's light o' love superficially attractive, and she was all of that. He was not prepared, however, to find her quite as good an actress as she appeared to be. In spite of the fact that she probably took less pleasure in the meeting than did he, she admirably covered her feelings.

Gray's heart sank as he studied Miss Montague. She was blond—to his suspicious eye a trifle too blond—and she wore her hair bobbed. She was petite and, both in appearance and in mannerism, she was girlish; nevertheless, she was self-reliant, and there was a certain maturity to her well-rounded figure, a suggestion of weariness about her eyes, that told a story.

Following his first critical appraisal, Gray was vaguely conscious of something familiar about her; somewhere within him the chords of remembrance were lightly brushed; but try as he would he could not make himself believe that he had ever seen her.

GRAY'S HEART SANK AS HE STUDIED MISS MONTAGUE.

The elder man played host in his best and easiest style, both at dinner and at the theater; then he passed the burden of entertainment over to Buddy, first cheerfully declaring that he would not be sidetracked and that he intended to impose his company upon the young couple whether they wanted him or not. This was precisely to young Briskow's liking, and soon they were speeding out to a road house mentioned earlier in the evening.

The resort was run on rather liberal principles; a number of flushed and noisy couples were dancing to the music of a colored orchestra. It was a "hip-pocket" crowd, and while there was no public drinking, the high-pitched volubility of the merrymakers was plainly of alcoholic origin.

Gray realized that he was in for an ordeal, for he had become too well known to escape notice. Consternation filled him, therefore, at thought of the effect of his presence here might have. But the music went straight to Buddy's feet; syncopation intoxicated him much as the throbbing of midnight drums and the pounding of tom-toms mesmerize a voodoo worshiper, and he whirled Miss Montague away in his arms without so much as an apology to his other guest.

There was nothing conservative about Buddy's dancing. He embellished his steps with capricious flourishes, and when he led his partner back to the table where he had left Gray, like a sailor marooned upon a thirsty atoll, he was red faced and perspiring; his enthusiasm was boiling over.

"Dawg-gone!" he cried. "Now, if we had something wet, eh? These pants is cut purpose for a brace of form-fittin' flasks, but I left 'em in the room on account of you not drinkin', Mr. Gray."

In spite of the fact that Ozark Briskow was compelled to sit out every alternate dance in a distressing condition of sobriety, he enjoyed himself, for he was playing host to the one woman and the one man for whom he cared most.

CHAPTER XXI
Fight to the Finish

"WHY the S. O. S?" Mallow voiced this question as he entered Gray's hotel room early the following evening.

"Sit down and light up while I tell you about it." In a few sentences Gray made known the story of Ozark Briskow's infatuation, and the reason for his own interest therein. "The woman is of the common 'get-rich-quick' variety," he concluded, "and she won't do."

"She didn't pull the family estate and her father's slaves and the orange grove on you, did she?"

"Oh no. She used that on Buddy and he believes it implicitly. We three are dining downstairs in an hour; perhaps you could look in on us?"

"Sure. I'll give her the once over," Mallow agreed. "If she's anybody in our set, I'll know her."

The dinner had scarcely started when Gray heard his name paged and left the table. In the lobby Mallow was waiting with a grin upon his face.

"Is that her?" he inquired.

"That is the girl."

"Girl? 'Arline Montague,' eh? Her name is Margie Fulton and she had her hair up when they built the Union Pacific."

"Nonsense! You're mistaken. She can't be more than twenty-five—thirty at most."

"A woman can be as young as she wants to be if she'll pay the price. Margie had her face tucked up two years ago. Cost her five thousand bucks."

"I—can't believe it."

"Those face surgeons have ironed the wrinkles out of many a withered peach, and you're dining with Margie Fulton, the Suicide Blonde. I know her kid."

"Her what?" Mallow's hearer gasped.

"Sure. She was married to Bennie Fulton, the jockey, and they had a boy. Bennie was ruled off in New Orleans and started a gambling house."

"New Orleans! Wait—I'm beginning to remember." Into Gray's mind came an indistinct memory; the blurred picture of a race track with its shouting thousands, a crowded betting ring; then, more clearly, a garish, over-furnished room in a Southern mansion; clouds of tobacco smoke rising in the cones of bright light above roulette and poker tables; negro servants in white, with traps; mint juleps in tall, frosted glasses; a pretty girl with straw-colored hair— "You're right!" he agreed, finally. "She was a 'come-on.'"

"That's her. She worked the betting ring daytimes and boosted in Bennie's place at night. Whenever she was caught she suicided. That's how she got her name."

"Just what do you mean by that?"

"Why, the usual stuff. A bottle of water with a poison label. If a mullet threatened to call the police, she'd cry, 'You have ruined my life!' Then with shaking hand she'd pull the old skull bottle and drink herself to death. Of course, the poor lisping tuna usually got the acid out of her hand in time to save her. She saw to that."

Gray was laughing silently. "My dear Professor," he confessed, "wisdom, of a sort, is mine; sometimes I grow weary with the weight of my experiences and wonder why the world so seldom shows me something new. But beside you I am as a babe. Tell me, what has become of the ex-jockey husband?"

IRELAND TRANQUIL STATES GOVERNOR

Free State Definitely Established—Prisoners Released at Rate of 300 a Week.

LONDON, July 5. — (Canadian Press.)—"Ireland to-day is as tranquil as Great Britain," said Timothy Healy, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, in an interview with the Daily Express prior to his return to Ireland last evening after conversations with Imperial authorities here regarding Irish affairs.

"The Free State is now established definitely, despite internal assaults that have been made upon it," the Governor-General said. Saorsta government was intently pre-occupied with how to terminate the situation in which, to its sorrow, it found itself holding ten thousand Irishmen. Government purpose, Mr. Healy said, was to release these prisoners as rapidly as possible without exposing the public to recrudescence of disorder ,and they are now being freed at the rate of about 300 weekly.

The Governor-General complained at the continued refusal of the Northern government to appoint boundary commissioner to co-operate with Great Britain and the Free Sttae in settling the boundary between two divisions of the country. He also denounced Belfast authorities for keeping more than 400 Free State sympathizers interned "on nothing but suspicion,' 'Mr. Healy said many of these persons had been arrested merely in order that public offices they held under the Imperial government might be given to nominees of the new government.

WAR VETERANS TO PARADE ON SUNDAY

Annual Decoration Days Will Be Observed on July 8 and 15.

The local branch of the Great War Veterans will observe the annual decoration days on July 8 and 15. This Sunday the members of the organization and other returned men of the city will parade to Little Lake Cemetery. Next Sunday they will go to St. Peter's Cemetery. On both occasions the men will fall in in front of the G.W.V.A. rooms at 2 o'clock and will march off at 2.30. As this is a ceremonial parade uniforms and medals will be worn and a full turnout of all ex-service men is urged. The band will be in attendance.

Flowers will be carried to the graves of former comrades and the general public is invited to take advantage of the opportunity to lay flowers and wreaths on the cenotaph in front of the G.W.V.A. grounds, in memory of friends and loved ones who fell on the field.

It is pointed out that these parades are in honour of all members of the Canadian forces, regardless of their religious creeds or affiliations and every returned man is urged to attend on both occasions. The decoration of the graves of the dead honours not only the dead who lie here but also the sixty thousand Canadian boys who lie buried in France, Flanders and the other battle fronts as well as the millions of other true British subjects who gave up their lives.

Addresses will be given by special speakers who will be announced later.

Fifty Years on Road Without An Accident.

TORONTO, July 5. — Fifty years of railroading without a single serious mishap, is the excellent record of Joseph Dorricott, of Toronto, who yesterday retired on pension.

This pioneer railroader has worked eight years on the Grand Thunk and 42 years on the C.P.R., driving every type of train from the old wood burners up to the mammoth and Pacific engines of to-day. "I have never been on a train when a man was killed," was the unboastful rejoinder of this clear, blue-eyed veteran in response to the query put to him. Born at Smiths Falls 65 years ago, he began his railroad career at the age of 15 years, firing one of the old "wood scuttles."

After rising to the capacity of a full-fledged engineer he migrated to Toronto, where for 29 years he ran between this city and Smith's Falls.

To-day at 65 years, he has settled down to enjoy the remainder of his life after a strenuous 50 years of hard work, but from appearances he would be judged to be a much younger man. His family have evidently inherited the railroad blood, as one son, Edwin, is an engineer on the C.P.R. trains running to Guelph and another son a trainman on the same line.

The above veteran engineer was well known to many in Peterboro, as he was to be seen almost every day on one of the regular express trains passing through here. In recent years he had the honor of having his name in prominent gold lettering, displayed on each side of the cab of the engine that he directed. The "J. Dorricott" for years brought down the noon train from Toronto, and returned later at the head of one of the trains westbound.

New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, July 5. (Special.) — The stock market opened irregular and fairly active. Leading stocks which were under pressure toward the close on Tuesday, Studebaker, Union Pac., N.Y.C. and Steel common fractionally higher. Over holiday news mixed with the London bank rate raise and further crude oil price cuts, while the weekly carloadings on the American railroads were still over the million mark for the fifth consecutive week.

Foreign exchanges opened lower, a reflection of the fact that the Anglo-French discussions as to the reparations questions had not yet reached an agreement.

Selling in the rails and a few industrials brought on a reaction after 10.30, virtually all the leading stocks getting down to or under Tuesday's lows. Delaware and Hudson, Union Pac., Baldwin, Corn Products particularly were the centre of selling. Market observers are of the opinion that the stocks took the selling fairly well. While they gave ground by the end of the first hour many had recovered a substantial part of the reaction.

Studebaker got down to 99½ and Steel common to 89 3-4, both fractionally under Tuesday's low, but by 11 o'clock they had recovered and were at about their opening prices. Some scale buying exists in Coppers and they showed relative firmness compared to the rest of the list.

Opening prices: Beth B., 44 off 1-8; Sinclair 23 1-8 up ¼; Chesapeake and Ohio 58 off 1-4; Baldwin 117 up 5-8; Pan American B 52¼ up ½; New Haven 11 1-4 off 3-8; Southern Railway 32; Pan American A 56 1-4; Studebaker 100 3-8 up 3-8; United States Steel 90 ¼ up 1-4; Union Pac. 127 1-4 up 1-4; New York Central 97 1-4 up ½; Southern Pacific 85 1-2; Amer. Locomotive 131 3-8.

SHELBY COUNTING UP LOSS ON FIGHT

The Prize Pug Did Not Get All He Went After

SHELBY, Mont., July 5. Canadian Press. — Its frenzy of excitement subsiding, Shelby sat down today to count its losses. On the debit side of the ledger, this little Montana cow town must write down a deficit of about one hundred thousand dollars. It brought the world's heavyweight championship battle to which 72020 paid admission. There was an outlay of $210,000 for Dempsey, $20,000 for promotion and $85,000 for the arena. The gate receipts were approximately $201,000, and the salvage on the arena will amount to about $25,000. Out of the receipts $22,000 goes for Federal taxes.

A few minutes before the fight thousands crashed through the fence surrounding the arena and swelled the attendance but their presence did not show in the receipts.

Jack Kearns collected $32,000 of the third $100,000 guaranteed Dempsey after the gate receipts had been turned over to him.

Gibbons is the hero of the fight in Shelby and the town celebrated hilariously last night. He spent the night receiving friends and shooting off firecrackers for his three children. He is unmarked and has no alibis but says that he tired under the strain imposed by wrestling in fighting; those who have been bewailing the fact that he probably would receive nothing were cheered to-day by the belief that the motion picture rights in the fight, 25 per cent. of which are owned by Gibbons, will net the promoters a considerable sum.

Patriarch Who Recanted Anti-Bolshevik Expressions to Save His Life Urges Others to Repent

PROTECT ORTHODOXY

MOSCOW, July 6 (United Press). —The Russian Church must protect its orthodoxy and must interfere no more in politics, Dr. Tikhon, former Patriarch, who also escaped a death sntence by recanting anti-Bolshevik expressions, told his followers in a statement to-day.

Radical groups of Christians, such as Evangelists, Baptists, etc., provoke disorganisation in the Orthodox Church, Tikhon said.

"Henceforth the church must not interfere in politics or co-operate with enemies of the workers, such as Monarchists and 'Whites,'" the former Patriarch, who was summoned for trial by the Russian Church, after his release from a Soviet prison, declared.

"Orthodox priests abroad, by dragging the church into political struggles, have brought many calamities upon it."

Tikhon urged all others who held views such as those for which he was imprisoned, to recant and repent otherwise they would be called, he said, to Moscow to answer before each church court.

ROAD BUILDING IS SPEEDING UP

Ald. Stocker Points to Aylmer St. as a Sample of the Work Planned for This Summer.

With the accelerating progress of the Board of Works' programme of street repair and reconstruction Ald Stocker is no longer dodging home by way of back streets and lanes to avoid impatient and importunate citizens.

The new gravel pit is minting road metal at a rate Ald. Stocker is boasting off not only to his colleagues of the Council but also to other ratepayers who hail him with enquiries about certain other streets that have been booked for early and thorough attention. Aylmer street south of Charlotte street practically throughout its entire length has been rebuilt.

"It's a regular speedway," says the chairman of the Board, who is well satisfied with the accomplishment of the men who were engaged in this work. Aylmer street was broken up, regraded, and the heavy top layer of freshly broken stone was rolled and re-rolled, and the surface was finally finished off with the usual treatment. To-day it is smoother than most of the paved streets and just as solid and firm.

In the meantime King street has been repaired and remetalled and the preliminary work has been started on Park street.

Ald. Stocker has long ago explained probably for the last time that the Board of Works department was delayed in the launching of its operations this year not only by the lateness of the season but also by the opening up of the new gravel pit in Ashburnham which entailed the removal of the stone crusher. Production of road material has been heavy since the plant was set in motion and its output has been much in excess of last year. The result is that the Department is now overtaking its programme for the year, and is getting around to those streets which the officials realized as keenly as did complaining citizens to be in need of immediate repairs.

TUNNEL PLANS PUBLISHED BY THE ENGINEER

Century Old Plan to Link England and Continent Again Matter of Discussion.

WORK WAS BEGUN

ROME, July 6 United Press). — M. Bortine, French engineer and secretary of the French Committee of the construction of a tunnel under the English Channel from Britain to France, published a plan on Thursday for a submarine railroad connecting Britain and the Continent.

The project of a tunnel under the twenty-mile-wide English Channel has been discussed for a century.

Plans were drawn up before the World War, and the tunnel was actually begun, a few thousand feet being constructed on both the French and British sides of the Channel. This section is still in good order, and guarded by troops, but there are indications that the work will recommence in the near future.

Despite the obvious advantage of a railroad under the English Channel making direct London-Constantinople expresses available, a large body of the British public opinion fears that by thus linking up with France Britain would destroy her strategic island position.

KILLED WHILE BOARDING CAR

Charge of Manslaughter Follows Fatality When Auto Was Instrument of Death.

TORONTO, July 6.— (Canadian Press.)—George W. Foster, 68, was killed by an automobile in charge of Leonard Jesshope, when in act of boarding a street car here to-day. Jesshope had stopped his auto about six feet behind the entrance to the street car, but another auto driven by Abraham Brittain crashed into the rear of his motor car, which struck Mr. Foster and killed him almost instantly Brittain was placed under arrest on a charge of manslaughter.

ANY WEAPON TO OBTAIN CONTROL

Farmer Party in the States Still Battling Away.

CHICAGO, July 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Any weapon may be used in obtaining political control of government by new Federated Farmer Labor Party, created here last night, it is indicated in tabling of resolution by convention which would have excluded any group from its platforms which advocated force or violence or which in any way was affiliated with an organization that sought political satisfaction except through ballots.

This radical action was supported twice, first by tabling substitute platform of Farmer-Labor caucus which included such action and later by tabling a resolution recommended by minority of resolution committee. Sentiment of conference on each occasion was expressed in unfailing voice.

Farmer-Labor party will reconvene its convention to decide its fate as a party.

CHILLED BEEF PRICES GOING THIRD HIGHER

One Effect of the Outlaw Dock Strike in England —Workers Are Ordered Back.

THE HEAT WAVE

LONDON, July 6. — (United Press.) — The Torts of the outlaw dock strikers to call out the men on the Canadian Pacific and White Star liners, at Liverpool, has failed entirely, the men refusing to listen to the young agitators and preferring to rely upon the decision of the regular union leaders who have discountenanced the strike, and ordered the Radicals back to work.

It is unlikely that sailings to Canada will be affected in view of the attitude of the regular leadership. It is generally believed that the end of the heat wave will see the strike fizzle out.

The men are apt to seize any excuse to cease work during fine weather but the gloomy days make work more attractive.

As a result of the strike chilled beef prices have gone up one third at retail.

The millers are not yet affected, but there is only one weeks supply of wheat in London. Other foods have not felt the effect so far.

The chief feature of the strike is the absolute lack of organization among the men.

Branch Factories Are Closing Down

DUESSELDORF, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—Two branch factories of the Krupp Works near Witten have been compelled to close down because of the lack of raw materials and as the result of other restrictions ordered by the French as a penalty for the Diusburg train bombing. Thousands of men have been thrown out of work, and nearly one-third of the stores in Dortmund and other cities are closed because the blockade has cut off the shipment of goods. The German authorities say there are no eggs or butter available, and that meat is scarce.

A WHEAT POOL HELP FARMERS

Farmers in West Object to Selling Wheat at Below Cost.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 6. — (Canadian Press.)—"During the past month it has become obvious that unless a voluntary wheat pool is established wheat prices will drop to low levels," declared J. H. Haslam, honorary chairman of the executive and official economic adviser to farmers' union of Canada, which concluded its convention here yesterday.

"We have it on the greatest authority that grain trade expects to buy Canadian wheat this year at one dollar a bushel f.o.b. seaboard, which will net the farmer between fifty and sixty cents a bushel This is below the cost of production and if such conditions prevail it will have a disastrous effect on the whole economic life of Western Canada.

"The world is waiting for Canada to act. We have in prospect enough wheat to fill more than half the requirements in International markets. At least one hundred million bushels will have to be held.

United States is vigorously planning to hold back its wheat off the export market, one of the phases being "Eat another slice of bread" campaign."

POLITICS BANNED BY WAR VETERANS

Speaker at Convention Declared Organization Could Not Exist With Political Action.

VANCOUVER, July 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Discussion on the old proposal of amalgamation of all ex-service men's organizations into one association developed at Dominion convention of G.W.V.A. yesterday.

In morning Dominion Secretary McLeod, of Grand Army of United Veterans, spoke on the necessity of Veterans taking political action to attain their aim on each bonus proposal.

Yesterday's debate showed conclusively that if the Grand Army of United Veterans make this issue the price of amalgamation, as far as the G.W.V.A is concerned, there will never be amalgamation. This was made very clear by the great majority of speakers When Delegate Martinson of Winnipeg said that 'this' organization could not exist for one moment if it considered political action," the Assembly roared its approval.

David Loughan, of Point Grey, suggested federation before amalgamation.

LOCAL TALENT GAVE ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Hamish McIntosh and Hugh Nevin Talk on Two Widely Different Subjects.

MORE COMING

Local talent provided the addresses at to-day's noon luncheon of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club. Kiwanian C. Cook occupied the chair, in the absence of President J. A. McKone, who sent a cheering message from St. Thomas. A letter of appreciation from Miss Forster Parsons, who was injured in a fall from a horse, was brought to the attention of the members. Miss Parsons was the recipient of flowers from the Kiwanis Club, of which City Engineer R. H. Parsons is a member. It was announced that Miss Parsons is progressing favorably and an early return to normal health is anticipated.

Alec Dick and Verne Morphet gave their usual weekly rendition of Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen in which a number of new names were worked in.

The speakers to-day were Hamish McIntosh and Hugh Nevin, both members of the club. Hamish McIntosh, local Hydro engineer, led off with an interesting address touching upon the romantic side of the Hydro and its inception in Central Ontario. The first power was developed in this district a hundred years ago when the same water power and mill was used to grind the grain and make whiskey. The remains of some of the old time methods of river driving and some of the facilities for doing this work are still evident along the river.

Speaking of water fall, the speaker said a wet spell invariably followed a dry season or two The life blood of the Central Ontario power system is water, from which power is obtained. Water is like a coal bin and the power station operator who fails to get the maximum amount of electrical energy from the water was said to be inefficient. Elaborate and accurate methods are employed to keep a check on the water supply from its source down to the sea.

On Paper Boxes

Some new and interesting news was provided in the address of Hugh Nevin, who conducts a paper box industry in Peterboro. The speaker handles what is known to the trade as "set-up" boxes and his market includes Belleville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay and other points in the district. As indication of the growth of this industry, Mr. Nevin referred to the fact that in Toronto in 1910 there were three or four paper box plants manufacturing a total of fifty thousand dollars worth a month. To-day in the same city there are between twenty and twenty-five plants turning out two hundred thousand dollars' worth of boxes a month.

"Think of Christmas without a paper box," said the speaker. Some of the advantages claimed for paper boxes is that they are sanitary and protective. The common fallacy that the use of paper boxes increases the price of commodities to the consummer, did not hold good in view of the modern high speed machinery used in packing goods, which cuts down the cost.

Kiwanian J. W. Worth moved a vote of thanks to the speakers which was seconded by Kiwanian Lloyd Hamilton. The latter commented on the large and satisfactory use of paper packages by the Quaker Oats Company, in the marketing of their cereal products.

Kiwanian Worth who is leaving for California on Sunday next was given a hearty send-off by the members.

The Kiwanians are planning to take the youngsters at Jackson Park out for a motor ride next week and some time later will treat them to a picnic at Chemong in which the ladies will participate.

GERMAN MARKS SELL AT 2,000 FOR CENT

NEW YORK, July 6. — (United Press)—German marks were at the flat rate of two thousand for a cent to-day as compared with a nominal post war value of one mark to 24 cents. The new low reached in early afternoon foreign exchange trading when the German currency touched 0005 cents or 20,000 to the dollar.

Cabinet Held Up by Governor's Absence

TORONTO, July 6.—(Canadian Press). — There will be no announcement of new provincial cabinet to-day although it is understood it is complete with exception of portfolio of provincial secretary with which "guesses" have linked several names. Lieutenant Governor Cockshutt is out of town and official slate cannot be announced till his approval has been obtained.

In new Ferguson Cabinet portfolios of lands and mines will be combined as in former Conservative governments with Charles McCrae of Sudbury, in charge. This eliminates F. H. Keefer of Port Arthur, who had been spoken of for Lands Department.

W. F. Nickle, K.C. of Kingston will after all be Attorney-General with W. H. Price K.C. of Toronto as Provincial Treasurer.

A PROTECTION "MR. CONSUMER"

Next Monday New Legislation Will Demand Sale of Graded Eggs.

OTTAWA, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—"Mr. Consumer" is to be sure that the "fresh" eggs he buys are fresh even though the grocer says they are. Next Monday new legislating providing that eggs be bought from producers according to grade and that they also be sold to the consumer according to grade will become effective.

A pile of protests from the middlemen lies upon the desk of Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, against the proposed law. The commission dealers complain that they have bought large quantities ahead of the market, and an ungraded style, and they demand that they have the opportunity of disposing of them in the same manner.

The attitude of the Department, however, is that Parliament has decreed that grading shall be universally observed in Canada, and no exceptions to the law will be made. So the commission merchants, though they bought ungraded eggs, will have to sell graded eggs.

ANOTHER INDIAN CHARGED ASSAULT

Said to Have Struck Indian Woman in Face.

Another member of the Alderville band of Indians, one of whom assaulted Capt. R. W. Carson about two months ago, appeared in County Court before Magistrate O. A. Langley to answer a charge of assault with bodily harm. William Smoke, it is alleged, struck Mrs. Nellie Taylor, an Indian woman, in the face, causing injuries to her eye and nose, and knocking her down on rocks, where she suffered internal injuries. The cause of the fracas has not been ascertained, but it arose out of a quarrel among the Indians.

William Smoke is 50 years of age, and is a brother of the Levi Smoke, who left jail last week after serving a sentence for assault on Cap. Carson. The offence occurred on Tuesday last, and when Provincial Constable G. Cookman went to arrest Smoke he found that the man had run away. On Wednesday morning, however, he surrendered at the Court House, and will come up for trial on Wednesday next when it is expected he will plead not guilty.

YOUNG PEOPLE SUBJECT TALK QUINTE SCHOOL

Punctuality, Reverent Attitude, and Central Theme Suggested for Young Peoples' League

EXCURSION TODAY

Mr. E. H. Brown, of Port Hope, secretary, Conference Young People's League, was present at this morning's session of the Summer School, and spoke on "The Distinctive Work of the Young People's League." Mr. Brown gave some information regarding the 15th biennial convention of the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's League, which will be held in Belleville on October 31st and November 1st and 2nd of this year. Rev. Mr. Richards, of Castleton, and Mr. Brown are in charge of arrangements for this convention.

Mr. Brown's address, which was brief and to the point, dealt mainly with the devotional period of the League meetings, to which, he said, particular attention should be paid, not only in the local society meetings, but in district organizations, to carry out one of the most important aspects of the League's programme; "to bring young people into conscious fellowship with God, through Christ."

"Water rises only to the level of its source. The standard of our League is set by the relationships we form in the devotional period, and the level on which we place the League will mark the quality of the work it accomplishes. Philip Brooks said, 'You must feel the mountains about you when you work in your little garden.' It is necessary to feel the overpowering presence of God in our League meetings to be able to do what we wish."

A reverent attitude was recommended for the devotional period. The whole meeting should start on time, and variations should be made in the manner of its opening. Silent prayer was recommended. A central theme, such as "love," or "friendship," or "service," was also a splendid thing. The difference between a meeting which ran smoothly from the start and the other session which had a hitch in it was caused by the quantity and quality of prayer in it. More personal work also was needed. "The devil is always on the job. Sometimes we fail to be on the job, but he never does, and then he gets some of our young people."

"Our League work should not be for a night only. It should continue through seven days in the week. The love of God will always find expression in some form of service to our fellow-man."

Mr. Brown recommended two branches of endeavor for League workers; more attention to Sabbath observance, and consideration of the temperance situation in Ontario today. He read part of a letter received from Rev. Ben. Spence, who asked League workers to be on guard, on account of the critical situation in Ontario to-day, when the recent action of Manitoba might be instrumental in causing the "loss of our magnificent Temperance Act, which has already brought in such magnificent results and is still only in its inception."

The official hand-clap of the Summer School attendants, led by Rev. Roy Rickard, was given Mr. Brown's address.

At this morning's session, Rev. Mr. McCutcheon continued his splendid series of dissertations on the life and work of Jesus, taking as a basis to-day, "The Second Crisis in His Ministry." This occurred when Jesus tested Peter, asking him, "Who am I?" and Peter answered, "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God." This was Jesus' vindication, the moment when one man found the secret of the Kingdom, and He could no longer say, "No one knoweth the Son but the Father."

Then He said, "Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jonah," and gave to His disciple that command and legacy, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My assembly," etc. The changing of the name of Simon to Peter was significant, in that to the Oriental every name had its peculiar meaning. Peter or Cephas meant a rock, and to the Hebrew a rock meant a characteristic of God, in its faithfulness and steadfastness. The word "assembly" also had its significance in the Jewish language, meaning the hosts of Israel from a religious standpoint, and in saying to Peter, Christ gave to him the keys of His kingdom, and the administration of its power.

YOUNG PEOPLE

Rev. G. I. Campbell, of Toronto, gave an address on "Rural Evangelism," during the Mission Study period, recommending at its opening another book for reference, "Rural Evangelism," written by Jas. E. Wagner.

Mr. Campbell, who asserted that the system of majority rule was inefficacious for the best good of the community, advocated the adoption of the group system of representation in church work as elsewhere. Speaking of the old-time revival meeting, he said he was not so sure that it did not hold a place in the life, particularly of the rural community, "but we must look also to all the forces that go to make a community sweeter and better, to help in our campaign of evangelism."

"When you see a house and its surroundings that are nicely kept, don't you think that a pretty decent chap must live there? And when you go out to some communities, and see a place where the barn doors are sagging, and the rake is left outside to get snowed in, in the winter, and the cultivator is left up-ended in the barley field, what do you think about that chap? I think he needs religion of a new type. He may be one of the "glory hallejuh" sort, all right; but I think he needs religion. We have reached the stage to-day where we take into account all these facts. Religion is the regulation of the entire life, according to certain standards. You can't be good Methodists (I am not saying anything now about any other church-goer) and be careless about your person or about your relationships with your fellow-man. It is this view of evangelism which is making better citizens, and giving an opportunity to the little ragged boy on the street to get decent clothes, and the poor to have a right to food, and clothes, and education."

"Rural evangelism is only different to urban or suburban evangelism in the fact that, in rural life, there is no separation of creed or race. They all seem to work together. In the Province of Quebec, I have been struck by this sort of community spirit in the rural sections. The rural life is a levelling life, without class or financial barriers of much account."

"We should try to reclaim communities for Jesus Christ, not for our church alone. I don't believe in trying to steal members from another communion, and the dishonesty that tries to increase our own membership at the expense of some other church's membership. That is beneath the dignity of the true Christian. The remedy lies in the organization of our own people."

In the last census of Canada, declared Mr. Campbell, the 1921 census, the Methodist population of the Dominion was recorded as being 1,158,744. The Methodist Year Book for that period gave Canada 212,904 Methodist families, and 406,903 members of the Methodist church, with 16,459 catechumens or junior members. According to the census, and taking the number of Methodist families recorded in the year book into consideration, the average per Methodist family would be 5.4, as large an average as the French families in Quebec. "This is absurd, and we know it is not correct. If you take the number of members in the church, as recorded in the year book, you will find that less than two (1.92) per family are members of the church, including the catechumens, while the number of people who last year reported themselves to the census-taker as Methodists who are not really church members is 751,841. Some might say, well, perhaps some Methodist census-taker put them down as Methodists, but we know that is not so."

Mr Campbell divided the workers in a church ino four groups; The inner groups or the doers, the prospect group, who were good prospects for work and service, and the contact group, who were merely on the fringe of things, and the outer group.

"I wonder if Jesus could look down on this world, would He say there was any hopeless group?"

"Good for you," said Mr. Campbell, to the girls who answered here with a determined "No!"

"What you have to do, and this is the task I would like to set before you, is to move that prospect group up into the inner circle, move the contact section up into the prospects, and the outer group, if there is one, into the contact group. And it is easier to do this work in the rural centres. It is easier to be good out in the country than it is in the congested centres, where there are no playgrounds but the streets."

Referring to an investigation by Professor George A. Cole, in which it was proven that the average age for religious decision in boys was before or at the age of 14, and for girls at 13 and that only 1 per cent. of the church members to-day came in after they were 25 years of age.

Mr. Campbell spoke of "the great wide responsibility resting on young workers to bring in that 751,841 who are outside of the fold of church membership, while nominally Methodist in name. The reply of youth, "I can," when God called, was the spirit of opportunity for service.

In the Teacher Training Groups, Miss Moyer, who has an alert and eager method, very effective in addressing young girls, in speaking to the C.G.I.T. Girls, described the proper conduct of the mid-week session, with its various phases, the business period, the devotional, the practical talk, the activity period, and the closing period, each of which should have a definite value of its own. Outlines were given of group and general sessions.

Rev. Mr. Clarke, to the teachers, outlined the story-telling period for primary classes. Mr. Clarke's teaching is earnest, impressive and kindly, and his class of young girls listen with interest to his careful exposition of proper methods

This morning, the art and value of story-telling were dilated upon, with reference particularly to differing aspects. Juniors required and liked repetition of a particular favourite story, while adults liked a change. The dramatic and descriptive value of the stories was apt to appeal to the older scholars. The art of Jesus in teaching was paramount, and exemplified in the parables, where the story was told directly and simply, with clear, explicit emphasis and simple words. The teacher needed to see truth correctly and illustrate it in a manner that would appeal in the best way to the varying elements in her class.

At an executive meeting held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to leave the executive board of the Summer School as it is at present, without making any changes, this board to act as an interim committee until such time as the whole problem of the Summer School and its encouragement and attendance may be laid before the Religious Education Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference at the fall meeting. The whole question will also be discussed at the coming convention in Belleville of the Young People's League.

The executive feel that the attendance this year is not all it should be, and that the continuance of the Summer School is a matter for thoughtful consideration. Three years ago the attendance numbered over one hundred, with the ratio of young men attending about one in six. This year, there are about 36 in attendance, all young ladies, with the exception of one youth, and two young ministers. The course of studies outlined seems to b thorough and practical, the addresses inspiring, and the general atmosphere one of fellowship and lacking in stiffness or formality. A thoroughly disorganised programme, with many absentees from scheduled places, caused the attending ministers, who are looking after the work with enthusiasm and efficiency, to be compelled to revise their work. Several were obliged to take the places at the last moment of those who had disappointed them.

This afternoon and evening, the Summer School is enjoying a sail down the river in the Stoney Lake to Gore's Landing, arrangements in charge of the busy Mr. Horwood of Camborne.

To-morrow morning, the usual programme, with an address by the president, Rev. Mr. Richards, on "The New Constitution of Y. P. Work," will be given, and to-morrow evening an impromptu concert will be held.

Hot Cheese Sandwich

Cut the bread a little thicker than for the usual sandwich. Trim off outer brown crust. Cut American cheese in thin slices and place between two pieces of bread.

Have ready one cup of milk, to which is added one well beaten egg, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon sugar. Dip each sandwich in this, allowing it to remain long enough to become thoroughly coated, but not softened.

Into a frying pan put some butter and when it is hot, but not browned, place the sandwiches in it and fry to a golden brown.

Serve hot with a spoonful of currant jelly on each sandwich.

NOTE.—Beat the jelly slightly. One cup of milk and one egg will be sufficient for six sandwiches.

CLOTHING MEN IN CONVENTION

Research Bureau Decided Upon—Hints for Stylish Dressers Among Men.

TORONTO, July 6.—A plan for the establishing of a "Consulting Engineering and Research Bureau" for the purpose of bringing about better methods of the clothing industry, was the most notable piece of business introduced in open convention by the Clothing Designers in King Edward Hotel yesterday. Probably to-day and certainly before the end of the sessions, a committee will be appointed to look into this important matter and to bring in a detailed report before the next meeting of the association in New York, six months hence. This progressive step is considered one of the most constructive pieces of work ever attempted in the industry, and it is expected that the new bureau will arouse sufficient interest to merit the support of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. One of its chief functions will be to act as a "clearing house" for ideas. It will be international in scope, and will serve the production and distribution ends of the industry, simplifyng the problems of manufacture and merchandising and devising ways and means to eradicate leaks and wastes in all branches. If this bureau functions as expected, it should serve to reduce the consumer's clothing bill delegates state, and a, the vote in favour of its establishment was practically unanimous, there seems very little doubt of its ultimate success.

Very keen interest was shown in the style show, held in the Crystal Ballroom to which the public was forbidden admission by the Canadian customs regulations. A bond of $5,000 had to be provided by the local committee to ensure the strict adherence to the rule. About two hundred models were shown, of coats and suits of various sorts and admission was by ticket only.

Coming Styles

Following the deliberations of the style forecast committee, a statement was issued of Fall and Winter styles Sports suits are taboo for street wear.

Sack coat lines for young men will be of lower waisted order, with shoulders normal, lapels widening and gorges on moderately higher lines with peaked lapels on one and two-button coats. Backs will have vented effects.

For the conservative man, the tendency remains toward a coat cut along lines that leave body tracing effects.

The double-breasted coat for young men is looked for to be again in favor and will be worn in two, three and four button effects. A popular coat among the younger element will be the single-breasted straight front, rounded corner, with widespread of three buttons, short lapel wider shoulder, with six-inch vent in the back, and cut 30 inches long.

The vest for this coat will have short bottom points with a higher opening and buttoning with five buttons.

The tuxedo or dinner coat for the Fall and Winter season of 1923-24 will be seen largely worn in shawl roll or shawl collar effect.

The golf or sport coat will show a decided lessening of pleat and yoke embellishment.

All lower pockets in sack coats will still remain on a low level.

There will be a radical change in the stye of overcoats for Fall and Winter 1923-24. The demand will be for box back effects set in sleeves with a two-piece belt and where a belt all round effect is used, it is recommended that the three-piece belt be resorted to, which will serve a double purpose. It is further recommended that sleeves and yokes be lined.

An overcoat rapidly gaining favor is a three and four button single breasted button-through.

The Chesterfield overcoat will again revive its former popularity

Another coat that will put in a strong bid for favor is a double-breasted box coat cuat 43 inches long, plain back with moderate width of lapels notched collar, and with liberal bottom sweep.

Trousers for young men will be cut on straight lines with wider knee and bottom.

Vests will be cut singlebreasted with short bottom points, opening slighly lower and buttoning with five buttons.

Papers were presented on a variety of subjects.

HANDWRITING WAS EXAMINED AGAIN

Expert Compared Delorme's Acknowledged Script With Address on Box Containing Watch

MONTREAL, July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Testimony of handwriting expert Charles Hazen, of Milton Hersey Company and witness for crown was resumed this morning when case of Abbe Delorme indicted for murder of his half brother Raoul on night of January 6, 1922, was continued before Chief Justice of Quebec Sir Francois Lemieux and jury. Evidence dealt principally with examination and comparison between acknowledged handwriting of accused on various cheques issued by him and script on wrapper of box which had contained watch mailed to Chief Lorrain, watch, which had been missing from body of Raoul Delorme, when found was sent by post to authorities sometime following the murder.

Witness, under examination from R. L. Calder K.C. Crown Prosecutor detailed technical points of general letter forms and indicated similarities on formation of various characters found on wrapper and also on cheques.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

HANDWRITING EXPERT SAYS DELORME WROTE ADDRESS MATCH BOX

Photographic Enlargements of Writing Were Entered as Evidence in Trial of Rev. Adelarde Delorme.

WRITING DISGUISED.

MONTREAL, July 6 (Canadian Press). — That the handwriting on the parcel and box containing the watch of Raoul Delorme, addressed to the Chief of Provincial Police Lorrain, had been simulated by the same person who had written on documents admitted by the defence as being in the handwriting of Rev. Father Delorme, was the feature of the evidence of Charles Hazen, vice-president of the Milton Hersey Company of this city, and professional handwriting expert given in Court yesterday in the trial of the priest on a charge of having murdered his half-brother.

Using as his standard of comparison, letters and documents written by the abbe, either sworn to in Court as having been written under the eyes of a witness, or admitted by the defence to be specimens of the priest's handwriting, Mr. Hazen compared the writing on these papers with that on the parcel containing the watch and with that on the Pall Mall cigarette box in which the watch was enclosed. For this purpose of comparison photographs enlarged five and seven times the natural size were produced, and after lengthy argument against their validity by counsel for the defence, were admitted by the Court.

From these photographic enlargements, peculiarities of letters were pointed out by witness, who declared that the writing of the accused was of a slanting nature, while that on the parcel and the box was vertical. Minor characteristics, however, indicated that certain letters in the vertical writing were slanting, and from this the witness concluded that the writing on the parcel had been simulated.

Written by Same Person.

In his expert opinion, it was, however, written by the same person who had written the authentic documents agreed as being in the handwriting of Abbe Delorme.

Mr. Hazen stated that he used for the purpose of his investigation a document known as "An Appeal to the People of Montreal," written in the presence of a local newspaper man by Abbe Delorme, and sworn to in yesterday morning's evidence as having been so written; an authorisation and a receipt written by the abbe and admitted by the defence; a letter written by the abbe to Raoul, also admitted by the defence; and some cheques. These were taken as standard specimens of Father Delorme's handwriting. For the purpose of comparison the handwriting on these documents had been checked by witness with the handwriting on the parcel addressed to Chief Lorrain of the Provincial Police which contained the victim's watch. With a view to showing the peculiarities and characteristics of the handwriting on all these documents, except the cheques. Photographic enlargements of all of them had been taken and were produced in Court.

C. H. Cahan, K.C., counsel for the defence, took strong objection to these enlargements, and the case was fully argued by him and Crown Prosecutor Calder.

Further argument on the document called "An Appeal to the People of Montreal" on the ground that it had been re-touched in a newspaper office for the purpose of reproduction, was made by defence counsel and answered by Crown Prosecutor Calder. In both cases, the Court admitted the document and the photographs as evidence.

All By Same Hand.

Mr. Calder then put this question to witness:

"By means of these standards of comparison and the disputed handwriting (on the parcel containing Raoul's watch), have you formed an opinion as to the identity of the writers of all five documents?"

Witness: I am of the opinion that all were written by the same hand.

Mr. Cander: That is to say, the incriminating handwriting, the re-touched handwriting, the authorised and acknowledged standards, were all written by the same hand.

Witness: Yes.

Mr. Hazen then went into details as to how he arrived at this conclusion, and stated his opinion that the handwriting on the parcel was simulated. He picked out individual letters in the address: "Detective Lorrain, 6492 St. Claire, Montreal, P.Q." and of the mis-spelled word "Montree" and the word "A. Delorme." Photographs of this writing had been enlarged five times in the case of the address and seven times in the case of the other words. This writing, he affirmed, had a vertical tendency, but the L in Claire was not vertical, nor was the E following the R in Montreal.

Again the handwriting on the reverse side of the Pall Mall box containing the watch was slanting. He concluded the writer had the habit of writing slantingly, and that the vertical writing was assumed.

"Obviously, the man who wrote this desired to hide his identity." There was further deliberation shown in the formation of the upward connecting strokes and upward strokes generally. He had taken into consideration writing difficulties that might have occurred owing to the size of the box and its position.

After further evidence as to letter formations had been given, the Court adjourned until this morning.

Germany Able to Pay Russia For Grain

BERLIN, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—Approximately $50,000,000 worth of Russian grain will be exported to Germany by the Soviet Government after the coming harvest under the terms of a contract which a German news agency yesterday learned has been virtually concluded. Final negotiations, it is reported, now are proceeding between German economic leaders and representatives of the Soviet.

The contract provides that half of the purchase price is to be paid on signing of the contract; one quarter in goods definitely specified in the contract and the remaining quarter in material the selection of which is to be made by the Soviet Government.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

DOCK STRIKE IN ENGLAND MAY BRING TROUBLE

Fear Is Expressed That Railway Workers May Become Involved in Unofficial Strike.

GREAT UNREST.

LONDON, July 6. — (Canadian Press.) —Trade union leaders took strong measures yesterday to break the unofficial dock strike which was further extended and now involves 40,000 dock workers in London, Manchester, Liverpool and Avonmouth.

If the strike continues to spread it is probable that other ports will be affected and fear exists among the heads of the Unions that unless better counsel prevails the strike before long may spread to other transport workers, particularly the railroad men, who, for some time past, have been in an aggressive mood in fear that the companies may decrease further their wages.

At a meeting of the dock workers' section of the Transport and General Workers' Union held in London yesterday, a resolution was adopted ordering the outlaw strikers to resume work by Monday. It is doubtful, however, if the order will be obeyed.

The union leaders insist that the strikers are weakening their position by violating agreements entered into by the leaders and that continuance of the strike may have deplorable results generally. C. T. Cramp, president of the railway men's union, in an interview yesterday, said:

"We see breakers all around us, and I suppose that ultimately the rail men may become affected if the strike continues."

Southampton still is unaffected by the strike, but the British steamer Caronesa, which recently arrived with a cargo of meat from Montevideo is remaining at anchor in the Solent, and dock officials have decided she must remain there until the dispute is settled.

Up until now the Government has not interfered with the unofficial strike, but the Ministry of Transport is carefully watching the situation.

Fireman Was Blown To Pieces in Sarnia

SARNIA, July 6 (Canadian Press) —James H. Thompson, 246 Queen Street, a fireman employed at the plant of the Imperial Oil Co., Ltd., was literally blown to pieces about 6.45 o'clock last night when a still in the main yard of the refinery exploded with a blast that was heard all over the city.

Fellow - employees said that Thompson was up on the still when the blast occurred.

Although the cause of the explosion is not definitely known, it is believed to have resulted from spontaneous combustion.

The contents of the still blazed for nearly an hour after the blast, but prompt use of steam and fire fighting compounds prevented the spread of the flames to adjoining stills or tanks.

PLATFORM TOO RED FOR MOST RADICAL STATE

Farmer-Labor Conference Split on the Question of Policy--Communists and Socialists in Control.

WOULD KILL PARTY.

CHICAGO, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—The platform of the proposed Federated Farmer-Labor Party described as "too Red, Communistic and Bolshevik," and "too radical for even the radical State of Wisconsin to accept," split the conference yesterday and it recessed for a night session in order to stave off a threatened bolt of some Farmer-Labor delegates, ostensibly in their own convention.

The recess was taken to permit a Farmer-Labor caucus to determine their further action. At that time the Workers' Party of America, which C. E. Ruthenburg, one of the group leaders said was a branch of the Communist Party, was in control Jay G. Brown National Secretary of the Farmer-Labor Party, refused the platform for his organization.

The Organization Committee, composed of delegates representing industrial workers farmers and minority political parties, reported out a platform through Joseph Manley, New York another Workers' Party delegate, which Ruthenburg said was signed by 26 of the 29 members. It was immediately attacked by the Illinois Farmer-Labor unit, but it was John Fitzpatrick, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor who delivered the severe arraignment.

"The Farmer-Labor party called this conference convention in, good faith with a desire for political unity," Fitzpatrick said. "But other groups invited here have taken advantage and injected a platform that if adopted will kill the Farmer-Labor Party and mean death to the ambitions of the working class for 20 years.

If William Z. Foster Ruthenburg, Manley and the others believe they can attract union men and women to this platform, they are mistaken."

Chester C. Platt, of the Non-Partisan Wisconsin delegation said that Wisconsin was "the most radical State in the United States," but platform suggested "drafted by a party which I am told is a branch of the Third Internationals, if put to Wisconsin organizations, would not be touched."

"And if you cannot suit the radical State of Wisconsin, you cannot suit another State in the Union," he added.

Foster was given the biggest ovation of the day when he spoke for the platform.

Brown accepted that part of the program which declared the principles of evil facing the producers, but based his objection on the fact that the platform set up a new party with a new constitution competitive to that of the already organized Farmer-Labor Party and that if put to a vote of te Farmer-Labor Party it would be rejected.

SOLD TWO CAR LOADS

Duffus Motor Sales have recently sold two carloads of Fordson Tractors.

Owing to the shortage of labour and the amount of summer and fall work which farmers have ahead of them they are finding it very advantageous to perform same with a Fordson Tractor.

It seems to be generally admitted that the Fordson Tractor is the one proposition that is putting farming on a business basis and solving the labor and long hour problem and making it possible for farms to be kept reasonably clean and work kept up to date.

The Duffus Motor Sales also report having sold a number of Wood Brothers Threshing Machines, both for custom and individual work and they are expecting a carload of four machines within the next ten days, which will be delivered to threshers and farmers in this district

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS.

The re-opening of the supervised playgrounds is not only a source of joy to hundreds of children, but a boon to scores of worried mothers for whom the playgrounds offer a happy solution of the problem of what to do with the youngsters during the long summer vacation.

Children must play—and it is only a small proportion of them that get away to the summer resorts and the joys of river and lake.

For the thousands of stay-at-homes there is need of something safer than the street as a place in which to play.

Hence the supervised playgrounds, a modern development that not only offers splendid facilities for exercise and recreation, but supplies, at the same time, the control and authority necessary if the child is to obtain the most benefit from such things.

The absence of supervised playgrounds last summer was keenly felt, and the re-opening of the different play areas will be doubly appreciated this summer.

SUNDAY'S CEREMONY.

The local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, following the custom adopted several years ago, is devoting the next two Sundays to decorating the graves of their comrades who are buried in Peterborough, visiting the Little Lake Cemetery on Sunday and St. Peter's Cemetery a week later.

This, keeping green the memory of departed comrades, is a tribute that is to be most highly commended, and while the ceremony is being held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A., it should be participated in by every returned soldier in Peterborough, whether or not he be affiliated with the association.

In decorating the local graves Peterborough's ex-service men are symbolically decorating, at the same time, the last resting place of hundreds of other comrades who sleep beneath the poppies and the wooden crosses in Belgium or France, or in the so-lovingly cared for cemeteries of the Mother Country.

Under the circumstances, therefore, it is the duty of every man who served overseas to honour the memory of the unreturning brave by taking part in the services arranged for the next two Sundays.

Most veterans, of course, have had enough of uniforms and marching, but when it is a case of keeping faith with those who lie in Flanders' Fields the muster should be worthy of the importance and significance of the occasion.

NO OCCASION TO WORRY.

Labour bodies are wasting time in advocating the withdrawal of troops from the Sydney strike area or in passing resolutions describing the soldiers as "militia joy-riders."

The troops are on duty at Sydney, not because they have any particular desire to be there, but because they were ordered to go, and because the local authorities feel that their presence is necessary to protect the property and person of the citizens.

They are not there to force a settlement of the strike or to enace the strikers.

Their presence is simply a safeguard against violence, a guarantee of law and order, a sign that organized society does not propose to turn over the reins of authority to any particular faction or organization.

So long as the strikers are satisfied to adopt legitimate methods and to obey the laws of the land, there is no need for them to come into contact with the soldiers.

Attempts, therefore, to force the withdrawal of the military forces are equivalent to a confession that the strikers are not content with orthodox efforts to win their point, but are prepared to go to lengths that the state cannot permit to secure a decision in their favour.

The Government of Canada is located at Ottawa, not vested in any organization that believes itself strong enough to usurp its functions.

Let the strikers behave themselves and there will be no occasion to worry over the soldiers.

HAVE FAITH IN CANADA.

During the war the Canadian Government learned the value of newspaper advertising and found after a fair test that the daily papers of the Dominon provided a vehicle for the diffusion of propaganda that could not be approached in effectiveness by any other medium.

Newspaper advertising was used to great advantage in recruiting Canada's army, in putting over the various Victory loans, in arousing the country to the need of greater production, in explaining the Military Service Act and in many other war activities.

The lesson taught by the war has not been forgotten in peace, and in this connection the series of articles authorized for publication by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the first of which has just appeared, is worthy of note.

The department, believing that what Canada needs most of all just now is confidence, is using the newspapers to set before the agricultural community practical information that will be of material advantage to them in making the farms of this country profitable.

The first message supplies the keynote for the series.

"Have Faith in Canada"—timely advice and most necessary.

"Every Canadian knows in his heart that Canada is coming through all right," so runs the encouraging, heartening statement.

With so many people preaching blue ruin such wholesome commonsense is exactly the tonic that is needed, and the series launched by the Department of Agriculture should have excellent results in stiffening the backbone of Canadian farmers and in showing them that "the 20th century belongs to Canada"—if Canadians keep faith.

PRESENT WILLIE.

Hope is a wonderful thing—in a Hohenzollern breast. The dreariness of Doorn, the wanderings of William, and the nagging of the Netherlands, have evidently combined to stir within the somewhat constricted bosom of the ex-Crown Prince of Germany, known familiarly now throughout his erstwhile Fatherland as Willie of Verdun, yearnings after power, says the Montreal Star. He came so near to it all through his comic opera career. He would have been an Emperor if his proud father had died. He would have been King of France—it may be—if he had won at Verdun. He would have restored the flaunting eagles to their proper place if the half-baked rising of royalists in Germany had not fizzled out like a wet chinese cracker on a damp night. Always he has been within sight of the Promised Land of power and attainment, and always something has whisked it away from right in front of his somewhat assertive nostrils.

But Willie of Verdun has one quality which we must perforce admire. He has the priceless gift of seeing nothing with his eyes wide open. He cannot read the writing on the wall, or even that in the daily press. He lives in daydreams of regimental parades down the Wilhelmstrasse still, with papa's eagle eyes overlooking all. And to these days he would fain return—even though it would mean assuming—for a little while—the somewhat democratic title of President of Germany. Therefore is Willie of Verdun a candidate for that somewhat uncertain post?

Quem deus vult perdere, prius dementat. But that was never intended to refer to William Hohenzollern, son of the Man Who Made the War. He is exempt. Gaily he enters the lists to tilt against solid brewers of Munich and stolid tanners from the Prussian wastes for the prize of the Presidency of the nation over whom he once strode like a Colossus—in toyland. And it is quite on the cards that Germany will let him run. Your hearty Heinrich loves his joke as well as any man, but he must be primed with foaming lager and he must know that it IS a joke. Willie of Verdun ought to have a rare good time soliciting votes.

CHALLENGING THE STATE.

The coal miners of Cape Breton have hurled defiance at the Government and have challenged constituted authority, says the Montreal Star. At a mass-meeting of the men held yesterday, it was agreed almost unanimously to forward what is pointedly called an ultimatum to the Federal and Provincial authorities, warning them that if the Provincial police and the Federal troops are not withdrawn before midnight, the miners will join the steel workers and lay down their tools.

No Government could afford to submit to such a threat from a single group of workers, however equitable might be their demands. The soldiers and the police have been sent to Sydney by the Federal and Provincial authorities for the protection of life and property and to check that lawlessness that is the corollary of inflamed speeches, the stirring of angry passions and the incitement to rebellion. By taking control of the plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation, the troops have restored quiet after two nights of wild rioting and dangerous unrest; and to withdraw the guardians of the peace would be to invite a recurrence of those scenes that occurred previous to the reading of the Riot Act.

By the demand for the withdrawal of the troops and the police, the miners declare, in effect, that they regard the militia as the weapon which the employers are able to command in their struggle with the men. Such a theory is vicious and harmful. The people of Canada have faith in the officers and men who are the guardians of peace, and only a prejudiced few will accept the clap-trap that they are recruited on the side of Capitalism for the upholding of the tyranny of one side in an industrial dispute. The militia are not at Sydney to take sides, to favor the cause of the employer or the men in their dispute. They are there as the representatives of the people of Canada to maintain that peacefulness which cannot exist if there is defiance of authority.

The citizens of this Dominion will not withdraw the troops because a handful of miners in Sydney, egged on by men of extreme views and dominated by an organization of largely alien control think that they are in the way. There is only one way for the miners and the steel workers to remove the troops and the police, and that is by showing that they have done with this dangerous dynamite of red doctrine, with these experiments in violent agitation, and that they return quietly to their homes.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Well, at least everybody got something out of the Shelby fight. Dempsey got the money. Gibbons the applause and the promoters the experience.

Kingston is celebrating its 250th anniversary, thus suggesting the idea that the Limestone City is very small for its age.

With a score of deaths and injuries to over one hundred reported, the United States celebration of Independence Day is evidently a long way still from the safe and sane age.

The large number of American license numbers to be seen on the streets in Peterborough these days is convincing proof that the publicity given this district by the Trent Waterway Association and other bodies is bearing fruit.

The municipalities are looking to Hon. Mr. Ferguson for direct representation on the Hydro-electric Commission. And justice demands that they should get what they want.

The strawberry season runs true to form. The big berries are as usual at the top of the boxes.

When it is figured that Dempsey received over a quarter of a million dollars for boxing fifteen rounds, the $7,500 annuity granted the discoverer of insulin does not loom up very large.

REPRESENTATIVES TO CONFERENCE

Sir Lomer Gouin, Hon. G. P. Graham and Hon. Charles Stewart to Represent Canada.

OTTAWA, July 6. — (Canadian Press)— Canada's representation at the Imperial Economic Conference, to be held in London next October, was definitely decided upon at a Cabinet meeting last evening.

Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice ,and Hon G. P. Graham, who will Canada's representatives at the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva in September, will return to London to act for Canada at the Imperial Economic Conference.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior and Immigration, will join them in London and make the third. The invitation to the conference has suggested three ministers from each dominion. Mr. Stewart will attend inasmuch as the conservation of natural resources as well as the question of immigration will probably be discussed.

Premier Mackenzie King will attend the Imperial Conference, which will be held in London concurrently with the economci conference. It is probable, furthermore, inasmuch as questions of defence may be taken up, that Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence, will be in London at the same time, to act in an advisory capacity to the Prime Minister.

RESOLUTION ASKS TROOPS WITHDRAW

Trades and Labor Council Asks Government Appoint Royal Commission.

TORONTO, July 6.—(Canadian Press).—With the support of every delegate, a resolution was passed last night at the fortnightly meeting of the District Trades and Labor Council, asking the Federal Government to withdraw the troops now in the mining and steel manufacturing areas of Nova Scotia, and which were sent there on request of the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia. A second resolution was passed, asking the Government to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the conditions which give rise to continual labor trouble in that province. Delegates of all shades of opinion joined in a protest against the sending of troops to Glace Bay.

STRIKE AREA QUIET.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Throughout yesterday and up until a late hour last night, the Cape Breton strike area was so quiet that one might almost hear the proverbial pin drop. Steel-helmeted soldiers guarded the property of the British Empire Steel Corporation, local and mounted policemen roamed about the streets in the immediate vicinity of the plant, but the residents of the affected district kept indoors for the most pa , and no untoward incident developed. The band of H.M.S. Wistaria, anchored off the Royal Cape Breton Yacht Club, played gaily, to the evident enjoyment of hundreds lining the shore.

Glace Bay streets were practically deserted. Only at Dominion No. 2, the heart of the colliery district, was there any evidence of a struggle. Here the plant is being picketed by 250 strikers.

Earlier in the present strike coal cars en route to the boiler plant were dumped on the instructions of pickets, but yesterday there was no interference of this nature.

ETHEL BARRYMORE GRANTED DIVORCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 6. — (Canadian Press.) — Ethel Barrymore, famous actress, was yesterday granted divorce from Russell G. Colt, son of the late Samuel Colt, of Bristol, on the grounds of non-support ,following hearing of testimony taken. She was granted custody of her three children.

She declared that she had supported herself and her three children since shortly after her marriage in 1909. And that Colt had assaulted her on several occasions.

ST. JOHN MAN WON HEAT HENLEY REGATTA TO-DAY

HALIFAX, July 6. — (Canadian Press.) — Private advices reaching Halifax this morning, stated that Hilton Belyea, St. John, N.B., defeated D. H A. Gollan, deaf and dumb British sculler, in their heat to-day.

DRURY LIKELY IN THE HOUSE WITH FARMERS

Will Assume Leadership of the Official Opposition and Divide Salary as Usual.

THE U.F.O. MEETING.

TORONTO, July 6.— (Canadian Press.)— Contrary to advance notices, conclave of U.F.O. and Labor members elect and defeated candidates did not discuss the problem of leadership at Parliament Buildings yesterday. Instead it is said they discussed the general post-election situation and decided amid applause to carry on in the Legislature as a party unit. When the meeting adjourned last evening it was understood that they would meet again probably on July 26 at a place to be designated later.

"The boys are full of optimism," smilingly declare Premier Drury, as he emerged from the gathering at a late hour.

"There is really nothing further to be said," he added in response to a query as to the trend of discussions.

"Will the U.F.O. carry on as a unit?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he responded.

Indications were that the United Farmers will be the official Opposition in the Legislature and that Hon. E. C .Drury will be the leader. It is understood, however, that Mr. Drury's acceptance of leadership of the party is contingent upon his endorsation of convention of farmers and assurance that he will not be subjected to dictation from any quarter.

It was intimated by members of the U.F.O. that while Farmers party will constitute official opposition by reason of being the largest group in the House, it will be willing to continue the practice of the past four years and divide the salary of the Opposition leader between heads of the two parties sitting opposite government benches.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Baseball Game Called Off on Account of Rain — Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, July 6. — Owing to the rain on Tuesday evening the proposed ball game in the East Durham League series between Millbrook and Elizabethville, which was to have been played at the garden party held in the latter village, had to be called off. The Millbrook nine motored over and were served with an excellent supper, but the continued downpour compelled the postponement of the game until a later date.

Several of the older residents will be interested in the recent marriage of Laurence D. McCamus, youngest son of Rev. D. N. and Mrs. McCamus, to Evelyn Elinor, daughter of Mrs. Emily and the late Mr. Richard Bankes of Dorchester, Ont., as the groom was born in Millbrook when his father was pastor on this charge a number of years ago. Rev. Mr. McCamus' present pastorate is at London, Ont.

Mrs. J. C. Kells recently returned to her home after an extended visit at the home of her brother, the late Mr. S. Moore, Elizabeth, N. J., and with her daughter, Mrs. H. Sims, of Barrie.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Doak and son, Albert, are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. B. H. Price, Orillia, going up by motor last Saturday. Mr. R. Doak, Jr., who accompanied his parents, returned on Monday, and is at present in Omemee, taking relief work on the Bank of Toronto staff there, while one of the members is on holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds and family, motored to Port Hope, and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Edmunds, and were guests at the home of Mr. Wiliam Rosevear over the week-end, taking in the sports on Dominion Day in that town.

Mrs. J. Hammond and baby girl, Wanda, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson, for some weeks, returned to their home in the city on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Eakins and daughter, aMry, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fair in Toronto for the week-end, going on to Flesherton on Monday, to visit Mrs. Eakins' father, Mr. J. Ferguson. Mr. Eakins returned on Tuesday but his wife and daughter will remain for a more extended visit.

Mrs. A. Ferguson is the guest of Mrs. H. Argue in Port Hope at present.

St. Thomas is holding service only once on Sunday during the summer months, alternating morning and evening, following the custom begun last summer.

Owing to the death of Mr. W. Lang, Councillor T. J. Lang's brother, the meeting of the town council was postponed from Tuesday until Thursday evening.

The members of the Millbrook baseball club wish to correct the statement appearing in the Examiner of Wednesday, July 4th, to the effect that they had promised to play a game with the Bethany team at Pontypool, on Monday of this week, "but disappointed Pontypool by going to the Port Hope celebration." No promise had been made by the Millbrook nine to be present on that occasion, on the contrary the invitation to attend and take any part in the sports programme had been courteously declined.

HOMES SCARCE CAMPBELLFORD

Campbellford Cloth Company Plans a Large Extension—News of Interest

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6. — At the special meeting of the Town Council on Tuesday night it was announced by Mayor A. J. Meyers that he had been informed by President Hayes of Toronto, who is at the head of the Campbellford Cloth Company, formerly the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, that it was proposed to spend $100,000 in extending the present plant and in putting in new machinery.

The extension work has already been started. A gang of workmen is now employed putting up a new store house, 180 x 60 feet in extent. The building is situated opposite the present factory, and work upon it is proceeding rapidly. It is being put up by day labour instead of by contract.

The new building will mean that the space now occupied for storage in the main factory can be equipped with machinery and used for manufacturing purposes. Additional room will be available when the new office building, the old Gibson Hotel, purchased by the company some time ago, is ready for occupancy.

President Hayes has asked the town to provide housing accommodation to take care of the new workmen and their families who will be brought to work in the factory, which is now running night and day. It is estimated that about 50 new homes will be required to take care of the additional population.

This proposition is now being considered by the Town Council Mayor Meyers is trying to get the local contractors interested in the matter, as it is felt that if the proper class of houses is put up there will be no lack of tenants.

As the company proposes to spend so large an amount on extensions and for machinery, it does not care to take up the work of building houses for its staff.

Real Estate Transfers.

T. L. Diamond has made the following sales of real estate during the past few days:

The 50-acre farm of Russell Emmons ,near Hubble Hill, sold to Ray Williams of Seymour Township, for $3,000. Mr. Williams will not take possession until 1st December. There is a fine brick residence, but no outbuildings, on the farm.

Another sale made by Mr. Diamond was the grocery business of Albert Hammond, of Stirling, to Carlton Wright, of the same place, the latter to take possession at once.

New Garage Opened.

Meyers & Stone, agents for the Durant and Star automobiles, have opened their new garage, 27 feet x 66 feet, which has been erected in the rear of their premises on Front Street. Harry Meiklejohn, who has had eight years' experience in this line of work, and who is a nexpert in all kinds of repair work, has been engaged by the firm, and is now in charge of the new department. Mr. Meiklejohn was formerly in business for himself on Bridge Street.

Death of Mrs. Rutherford.

Margaret Ellen Meiklejohn, wife of H. T. Rutherford, who resides near Stanwood, died on Thursday morning after a short illness due to blood poisoning The deceased was in good health up to Friday last, when she attended the lawn social with her husband at the Burnbrae Presbyterian Church. On Saturday she was taken ill, and on Monday she was brought to Campbellford by her husband for expert medical treatment. She remained in town at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. J. Hay, where she died, her death being hastened by an attack of heart trouble.

The late Mrs. Rutherford, whose untimely death is mourned by a large circle of friends and neighbours, who held her in the highest esteem, was married twenty years ago. She is survived by her husband and two sons, William, aged 17, and Allan, who is 14 years old. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. A. J. Hay of Campbellford, Mrs. D Stewart and Miss Mary Meiklejohn of Weyburn, Sask., and one brother Chester Meiklejohn, of Rawdon Township.

The remains were removed to the late home of the deceased at Stanwood yesterday afternoon.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon to the cemetery at Rylstone.

R. D. Rutherford, father-in-law of the deceased, died at the home of his son on 2nd May last.

Personals.

Instantly Killed in Automobile Accident.

SYDNEY, N.S. July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Councillor Murray Graham of Glace Bay, was instantly killed in an automobile accident on the Sydney-Glace Bay highway early yesterday morning. Mr. Graham and his daughter were driving from Glace Bay to Sydney in an automobile driven by William Langwith. A blow-out in one of the front tires swerved the car for the ditch and when Mr. Langwith applied the brakes the car turned turtle. Mr. Graham ih said to have jumped, striking his head on the running board. His death was instantaneous.

LOST BREATH, HEART FLUTTERED after least exertion

Weak, Nervous Woman Obtains New Health

"Some months ago, I found that after the slightest exertion I suffered from shortness of breath and fluttering of the heart. Frequently I would get a stabbing pain in my left side. I tried various remedies but instead of improving I became worse. My appetite failed and soon even the sight of food became repulsive. Then my nerves became so weak that I would "jump" at any sudden sound.

One day a friend called and, seeing my exhausted condition, told me that what I needed was Wincarnis. I began taking it right away and in all I have taken four bottles and I am amazed at the wonderful result. Today I am strong and well and I owe all my renewed health to Wincarnis."

MONTREAL FILLS AN ACHING VOID

U.S. Senator Pays Tribute to the Anti-Prohibition Attractions to Be Found There.

MONTREAL, July 6. Canadian Press. — Paying tribute to the attractions Montreal holds for tourists, United States Senator John J. Walsh, of Massachusetts, speaking here yesterday, declared himself strenuously opposed to prohibition.

"I do not believe in anything unnatural," he said, and he suggested it would be a great thing for Canada to establish a propaganda in the United States opposing prohibition. In reference to this question, the Senator thought that it would be appropriate for Canada to have a sign marked "Sanity," at the country's entrance for tourists, and that as a contrast a sign should be placed at the American portal marked "Nonsense."

"I like to come to Montreal," Senator Walsh continued, "because it fills every human want adequately."

OIL BUBBLE IN EMILY A FIZZLE

Company Gives Up the Ghost After An Attempt to Locate Oil.

LINDSAY, July 6—There is gloom in Emily Township, and those who had visions of Lindsay becoming another Eldorado have received a rude awakening. The Northern Development Company, which for the past few weeks have been drilling for oil on the Perdue farm, a short distance from here, have ceased operations, their venture having proved a failure. After the drill had gone down a distance of several hundred feet, it suddenly struck grey granite, which indicated, so the members of the company state, that there is no oil in that locality.

The company spent considerable money in the operations. Their disappointment is not so keen as that experienced by some who expected to dispose of their properties at fancy prices when oil commenced to flow. The Northern Development Company is said to be interested in oil properties in Oklahoma.

A FINE RESIDENCE GOES UP IN SMOKE

Property of Dr. Archer in Port Perry Destroyed.

LINDSAY, July 6.—One of the finest residences in Port Perry, the property of Dr. Archer, was destroyed by fire a few days ago. Campers passing through the town saw flames shooting from the windows, and immediately gave the alarm. The fire had gained great headway before the brigade arrived, and was soon beyond control. The house, which was built a couple of years ago, and which was a credit to the town, was totally destroyed. Both Dr. Archer and Mrs. Archer have been away for a couple of weeks, and how the fire started is a mystery.

A CONTRACT AWARDED CAMPBELLFORD PLANT

Toronto Firm Will Construct a Large Power Plant Near Campbellford — Will Employ a Large Number of Men.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6.—The contract for the building of the new power house here has been let by the Hydro Commission to the Sinclair Construction Company, one of the largest firms engaged in this line of business in Canada. Work on the new structure will commence at once. F. H. Dickinson, of Toronto, one of the firm, arrived in town yesterday and made the above announcement to the Examiner.

The tenders for this work, about 14 in all, were received by the Commission about five weeks ago, but the awarding of them was delayed on account of the election. Mr. Dickinson was here at the time to look over the plans and specifications that had been prepared by Engineer A. L. Malcolm of the Hydro, and upon which the estimates for the construction was based. The tender of the successful bidders is for $250,000 and includes the erection of the power house and the tail race. Mr. Dickinson says that when the work is fully under way it is likely that the firm will employ between two and three hundred men. The construction will start at once and work will be rushed as the additional power is needed as soon as possible.

Well Known Firm.

The Sinclair Construction Company, a successor to the late Angus Sinclair, who died about two years ago and who was an extensive railway contractor. The firm has just completed a tunnel on the C.N.R. Railway at Montreal and the equipment used on this work is now being loaded on cars for shipment to Campbellford.

The new power house will be known as number eight. Plans have been completed for another power house ,work on which will be started as soon as the number eight is finished and this will be known as number nine. It will be situated between number eight and number ten, the present plant. Campbellford will become the centre of power production in Eastern Ontario

Preparations for the new building have been well advanced by the Commission. A branch transmission line has been built from Meyersburg to the new plant and a large boarding house has been erected to accommodate the workmen who will be employed.

It is estimated that the building, tail race and the machinery, the price of the latter not being included in the contract, will cost over half a million dollars .As far as possible the men employed will be residents of Campbellford so that the building means a boom in this town during the coming months.

The Sinclair Construction Company has just secured another large contract, the construction of the T. & N.O. extension from Swatiska to Larder Lake, a distance of 30 miles.

Mr. Dickinson spent yesterday afternoon looking over the plans and the location with local Hydro officials with the object of getting in readiness for starting building operations at once.

SEVENTEEN HEAD OF CATTLE LOST

Were Gathered Under a Tree During a Thunderstorm.

LINDSAY, July 6. — During the severe electrical storm on Tuesday last Messrs. Laidlaw and Macdonald who own a ranch near Victoria Road, suffered a serious loss. Seventeen head of cattle had gathered under a tree during the progress of the storm, and all were killed by lightning.

Considerable damage was also done to the residence of Mr. Richard Crarey. The lightning came down a chimney, entered a bedroom, smashed the windows and shattered the casing to kindling wood. The bolt passed to the parlor, badly damaging the walls as well as a new organ. It passed from there into the cellar. Strange to say, none of the occupants of the house were injured.

Open-Air Session.

A number of the councillors took a trip around the town yesterday morning to consider the matter of repairing the sidewalks in different sections. One of the hardest problems to deal with is the walk on Tice Street, in front of the offices of the Campbellford Cloth Company. The sidewalk at this place slopes toward the building, and the water, in case of a heavy rain, runs into the company's premises. Similar conditions prevail in other places, and the Council will endeavor to work out a remedy. It will be necessary to raise the sidewalk opposite some of the buildings on the west side.

The members of the Council who made the inspection were: Reeve Anderson, Councillors Dorie, Cole and Carter.

The matter of selecting parking places for autos was not taken up.
